PREPARE A SLEDGE IN THE SUMMER AND A CART IN THE WINTER, AS THE RUSSIAN SAYING GOES. THE SPONSORS OF THE RE-ESTABLISHMENT OF THE COMMODITY EXCHANGE IN MOSCOW HAVE NOT FORGOTTEN THIS TRUISM, KONSTANTIN BOROVOI, CHAIRMAN OF THE BOARD OF THE BUSINESS AND SOCIAL DEVELOPMENT ASSOCIATION, ONE OF THE SPONSORS, TOLD TASS ON MONDAY.

RUSSIA'S FIRST COMMODITY EXCHANGE OPENED IN ST. PETERSBURG IN 1703. THERE WERE ALREADY 115 COMMODITY AND STOCK EXCHANGES IN RUSSIA BY THE BEGINNING OF THE FIRST WORLD WAR BUT THE ST.PETERSBURG EXCHANGE ACCOUNTED FOR THE BULK OF THEIR TURNOVER.

DEALS INVOLVING SECURITIES WERE BANNED AFTER THE 1917 REVOLUTION, HOWEVER COMMODITY EXCHANGES EXISTED UNTIL 1930 AS AGENCIES FOR THE STATE REGULATION OF THE MARKET UNDER A MULTI-MODE ECONOMY.

NOW THAT RUSSIA "IS RETURNING TO ITS OWN CIRCUITS", THE NEED RESURFACES FOR A COMMODITY EXCHANGE AS AN INDISPENSABLE ELEMENT OF THE MARKET INFRASTRUCTURE.

THIS IS WHY THE ASSOCIATION, THE POLYTECHNICAL MUSEUM, THE "SYSTEM PLUS PROGRAMME" COOPERATIVE AND THE "CENTROCREDIT SKV" COMMERCIAL BANK AND OTHER ORGANISATIONS SIGNED A TREATY IN AUGUST TO ESTABLISH A "MOSKOVSKAYA COMMODITY AND RAW MATERIAL EXCHANGE". ITS FOUNDING MEETING IS SCHEDULED TO BE HELD HERE ON TUESDAY.

AMONG THE FOUNDERS ARE THE USSR STATE COMMITTEE FOR MATERIAL AND TECHNICAL SUPPLY, SUBDIVISIONS OF THE USSR STATE PLANNING COMMITTEE AND THE USSR STATE COMMITTEE FOR PRICES.

THE PRICE OF ONE SHARE IS 100,000 ROUBLES. UPON BUYING SHARES, FOUR PERSONS WISHED TO REMAIN ANONYMOUS AND ONE CALLED HIMSELF A BUSINESSMAN FROM MADRID.

THE JOINT STOCK COMPANY, WITH A CHARTER FUND OF 33.3 MILLION ROUBLES, HAS SO FAR ISSUED 300 ORDINARY INSCRIBED SHARES AND 33 PRIVILEGED BEARER SHARES. AT THE BEGINNING OF OCTOBER, MORE THAN 200 ORDINARY INSCRIBED SHARES AND 20 PRIVILEGED BEARER SHARES WERE SIGNED.

AT FIRST THE SPONSORS OF THE COMMODITY EXCHANGE CONSIDERED IT A RUSSIAN INSTITUTION. HOWEVER, SHARES HAVE BEEN BOUGHT BY ORGANISATIONS AND ENTERPRISES FROM UNION REPUBLICS, SUCH AS, FOR EXAMPLE, THE TADZHIK REPUBLIC'S UNION OF LEASEHOLDERS AND ENTREPRENEURS, LITHUANIA'S KIROV COLLECTIVE FARM, AND THE KOMEL JOINT STOCK COMPANY FROM ESTONIA. THIS UNION APPEAL PROMPTED THE SPONSORS TO NAME THE COMMODITY EXCHANGE "MOSKOVSKAYA", WHICH DOES NOT MEAN THAT IT HAS ONLY LOCAL SIGNIFICANCE, BOROVOI SAID.

THE COMMODITY EXCHANGE WILL BECOME A CENTRAL ONE AND, MOST LIKELY, WILL BE HOUSED IN THE POLYTECHNICAL MUSEUM BUILDING, AS WAS THE CASE IN THE 1920S.

TOKYO (OCT. 16) UPI - Japan took a major step toward committing troops to the multinational forces in the Persian Gulf region Tuesday when the government unveiled its long-awaited United Nations Peace Cooperation bill.

The bill, which would authorize the dispatch of Japanese troops on peacekeeping missions overseas for the first time since World War II, was approved Tuesday morning by the Cabinet of Prime Minister Toshiki Kaifu.

The bill limits the use of troops to non-combat roles in international peacekeeping efforts initiated by the United Nations, according to a digest distributed by the Kyodo News Service.

Members of Japan's Self-Defense Forces, as the armed forces are known, will be authorized by the legislation to carry small arms to protect themselves or the lives of others, Kyodo said.

The bill was to be introduced later in the day in the Japanese Parliament, where the troop proposal is expected to face stiff opposition.

But a confident-looking Kaifu remarked that the parliamentary session was destined to set a new direction for Japan.

The assignment of troops overseas is highly controversial in Japan, where memories of a disastrous military past linger. The nation's post- war constitution, drafted by the United States, renounces war and commits Japan never to use force or the threat of force in settling international disputes.

However, Japanese leaders have come under intense pressure from the United States and other allies to contribute more than money to the multinational effort to oust Iraqi invasion forces from oil-rich Kuwait.

Kaifu has said all along that he wants Japan to contribute ''sweat'' in addition to the $4 billion his nation has pledged. But crafting a bill acceptable to Japanese politicians and bureaucrats as well as allied countries has proven a formidable task.

The bill endorsed by the Cabinet Tuesday represents a victory for those seeking a more active role for Japan, analysts said. Earlier versions had contemplated a civilian corps in which only unarmed soldiers on leave from their units would be allowed to join.

However, leading opposition parties, which control the upper chamber of Parliament, have already declared the idea of sending troops overseas completely unacceptable.

Takako Doi, the leader of the Japan Socialists, largest among the opposition parties, was expected to open the attack on Kaifu's bill when questioning began Tuesday afternoon.

JERUSALEM (OCT. 16) UPI - Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir said the United Nations has no role to play in investigating the killing of at least 20 Palestinians during riots on the Temple Mount because Jerusalem is not occupied territory.

Also Monday, British Foreign Secretary Douglas Hurd arrived for a four-day visit. Hurd, who plans to meet Israeli officials and prominent Palestinians, did not make a statement after his plane landed outside Tel Aviv.

Recently, Hurd has sharply criticized Israeli policy in the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip.

In an address to Parliament as it began its winter session, Shamir described the U.N. Security Council resolution condemning Israel as ''a biased decision.'' The resolution denounced ''acts of violence'' by Israeli security forces and called for a U.N. mission to investigate the disturbances on the Temple Mount.

Shamir said the United Nations has no business conducting an investigation in Jerusalem because it is occupied territory.

''It is the sovereign capital of the state of Israel,'' he said. ''Therefore, there is no place for any involvement of the United Nations in any issue related to Jerusalem.''

The Cabinet voted unanimously Sunday to reject U.N. Resolution 672 and not to cooperate with the three-member U.N. mission, a move likely to strain relations with Israel's main ally, the United States. Israel fears the U.N. mission will undermine its claim to sovereignty over the holy city.

U.S. Secretary of State James Baker wrote to Foreign Minister David Levy, telling him that cooperation with the U.N. delegation would return world attention to the Gulf crisis, the Hebrew newspaper Ha'aretz reported.

In Washington, President Bush refused to comment directly on the Israeli rejection of the U.N. resolution.

''We want to see that U.N. resolution fully implemented. We were a part of it and we think it's the right step. So I'll just leave it there,'' he said.

The State Department said the administration was ''disappointed that the Israeli government has decided not to cooperate with the (U.N.) mission.''

''In fact, we think that a failure to cooperate denies Israel an opportunity to present its case to the secretary-general. We are hopeful that the secretary-general's representative will be able to carry out his mission as requested by the Security Council in Resolution 672,'' department spokeswoman Margaret Tutwiler said.

The U.N. mission, appointed by U.N. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar, was to examine the circumstances of the Oct. 8 riots on the Temple Mount during which at least 20 Palestinians were killed by Israeli police.

Shamir said he regretted the loss of life but charged the casualties were the result of ''an unprecedented criminal act,'' the stoning of Jewish worshipers by Moslem demonstrators during the riots.

''The act should have awakened reactions of denunciation and protest among the entire international community,'' he said.

Palestinians said the disturbances were not planned in advance and the stoning was in response to excessive force employed by the police. Palestinians at the scene as well as two human rights groups have accused police of firing indiscriminately at Moslems on the Temple Mount, the third holiest Islamic site.

It is still not clear what initiated the violence. Israel captured the eastern half of Jerusalem in 1967.

The Israeli rejection of the U.N. mission is not without precedent. In 1979, Israel prevented a three-member U.N. delegation from entering Israel. The Security Council had ordered the delegation to investigate Jewish settlements in the West Bank and Gaza Strip.

Most nations, including the United States, consider Arab East Jerusalem, which comprises the Old City and the Temple Mount, occupied territory.

(OCT. 16) UPI - A senior Iraqi official said war is imminent in the Persian Gulf region and brushed aside a British warning that Iraq's troops would be pushed out of Kuwait at gunpoint if they are not withdrawn voluntarily.

Baghdad Radio on Monday quoted Iraqi Information Minister Latif Nassif Jassim as saying, ''I believe war in the gulf continues to be imminent, but Iraq will not fire the first shot. We expect war at any moment and are ready to fight against the Americans and those who come with them.''

He said Iraqi President Saddam Hussein's government does not fear statements by British Foreign Minister Douglas Hurd, who said in Cairo Sunday that Saddam ''will withdraw ... by his own will or by the point of a gun.''

''We are not afraid of war, and we are not afraid of Hurd's statements,'' Jassim said. ''(Hurd) makes such statements because he is not going to fight personally. ... Other Britons, Americans and other nationals will die in this war.''

Meanwhile, world oil prices plunged nearly $2 a barrel as talk of compromise turned traders' expectations away from war and toward a peaceful solution of the Persian Gulf crisis. On the New York Mercantile Exchange, the benchmark West Texas Intermediate for November delivery dropped $1.74 on the day from Friday's close to $37.95 a barrel, after being down as much as $2.44 a barrel.

Also Monday, Kuwaiti exiles unanimously adopted a communique demanding return of their nation from Iraqi occupiers and declaring expanded democratic freedoms for the post-liberation Kuwait.

The crown prince, Sheikh Saad al-Sabah, declared the three-day session in Saudi Arabia historic in terms of steps it takes toward his land's future.

President Bush, during a political trip to Texas, decried Iraqi atrocities in Kuwait as ''Hitler revisited'' and raised the prospect of holding Saddam accountable for Nuremberg-style war crimes, a legal option under review by the Justice Department.

Bush cited eyewitness accounts of ''the ghastly atrocities perpetrated by Saddam's forces'' and decried ''the systematic assault on the soul of a nation.''

''Hitler revisited,'' he said. ''But remember, when Hitler's war ended, there were the Nuremberg trials. America will not stand aside. The world will not allow the strong to swallow up the weak.''

Deputy White House press secretary Steve Hart said Bush was ''letting Saddam know he's going to be held accountable for Kuwait.'' The war crimes issue is ''under review,'' he said, ''and no decisions have been made.''

Saddam rejected indications he may compromise over his 2-month-old occupation of Kuwait. The Soviet Novosti news agency quoted a senior Kremlin official who visited Baghdad as saying Iraqi leaders are considering a plan to withdraw from the oil-rich emirate.

Palestine Liberation Organization leader Yasser Arafat, who met with Saddam Sunday, was quoted as saying after the meeting that he thought Iraq is in a ''conciliatory mood'' but gave no further details.

U.N. sanctions are hurting Iraq's industry and depriving it of food, Jassim admitted, but the embargo ''will not force Iraqis into submission.''

Iraqi Deputy Premier Sadoun Hammadi said in a weekend interview that sanctions would cause hardship but Baghdad would try to overcome the blockade through ''self-reliance and (an) increase in agricultural production.''

While Iraq officially dismissed reports it is weakening in the face on international opposition, Iraqi envoys tried to muster Arab and Moslem support for Baghdad's lonely cause in Kuwait.

Iraqi envoys held weekend talks in Libya, Tunisia and Jordan in what Arab and Western diplomats said was an attempt by Saddam to gain support by appearing as a champion of the Palestinian cause.

But most Arab leaders, while decrying last week's killing of 20 Palestinians in Jerusalem by Israeli forces, oppose Iraq's occupation of Kuwait.

In other developments Monday:

-Defense Secretary Dick Cheney told the British Broadcasting Corp. in London that there were more than 200,000 allied troops in Saudi Arabia and said he expects an increase in the number of Arab troops in the kingdom. Cheney told Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher that American troops could stay in Saudi Arabia ''for years'' if it was necessary to expel Iraqi troops from Kuwait.

-Japan reversed its stand against assigning troops to peacekeeping forces, perhaps allowing for a non-combat role in the gulf.

-The Washington Post reported Saudi Arabia has discovered vast new deposits of high-quality crude oil in that may boost its reserves by 20 percent.

-The official Iraqi news agency said 15 Spanish hostages left Baghdad Monday for home after the intervention of a Spanish lawmaker.

PHILADELPHIA (OCT. 16) UPI - Turnovers, which were the key to Philadelphia's success last year, may have enabled the Eagles to save their 1990 season.

Trailing Minnesota and in danger of falling to 1-4 for the first time in Coach Buddy Ryan's five-year tenure, the Eagles scored 17 points in the final four minutes Monday and defeated the Vikings 32-24.

Ten of those points came off Minnesota turnovers and the Eagles recorded a total of six takeaways in the game, as many as they had managed in the first four contests of the season.

''We got six turnovers,'' quarterback Randall Cunningham said. ''It was like the defense of old. We've just got to have faith. Sooner or later, you're going to come back. I knew eventually that some luck was going to come our way.''

The Eagles led the NFL with a plus-24 turnover ratio in going to the playoffs for the second straight time last season but entered the Minnesota game with a minus-four mark this year.

''It shows you it's a team game,'' Ryan said. ''It was an exciting game, a great game to win. We were running out of time. It was time to start winning and I'll take anything I can get.''

The game was a sloppily played affair as the two teams were penalized 19 times (13 against the Vikings) and combined for a total of eight turnovers.

Momentum also swung rapidly, as the Eagles, 2-3, jumped out to an early 9-0 lead, fell behind 21-9 and then rallied to hand the Vikings, 1-5, their fourth straight loss.

''We just blew it,'' Minnesota Coach Jerry Burns said.

Minnesota's first turnover, a fumble recovered by Reggie White at the Vikings' 22, led to Roger Ruzek's 38-yard field goal and a 3-0 Philadelphia lead just 2:48 into the game.

The Eagles went ahead 9-0 on Cunningham's 19-yard touchdown pass to Calvin Williams but a bad snap foiled the point-after try.

Vikings quarterback Rich Gannon, a Philadelphia native, seemed to settle down after a shaky start and he brought Minnesota within 9-7 with a 42-yard scoring strike to Cris Carter, a former Eagle.

Rick Fenney ran 1 yard for a 14-9 Minnesota lead with 7:14 to play in the second quarter before Gannon connected again with Carter, this time on a 78-yard scoring play that put the Vikings up 21-9.

The Eagles closed within 21-15 on third-quarter field goals of 30 and 29 yards by Ruzek, the second coming after Herschel Walker fumbled the kickoff.

Minnesota took advantage of a Philadelphia turnover - a muffed punt by Marvin Hargrove - to go ahead 24-15 on a 33-yard field goal by Donald Ingwebuike.

The Eagles were lucky when Cunningham found Fred Barnett for a 40- yard touchdown with four minutes to play that cut the Vikings' lead to 24-22. The ball was tipped by Minnesota's Michael Brim, went off Williams' hands and was grabbed in mid-air by Barnett.

''Randall was trying to hit Calvin between two safeties,'' Barnett said. ''Luckily, I was there to catch the deflection. At that point, everything seemed to go our way. It shows you what can happen if you play as a team and don't give up.''

Two plays later, Gannon was hit by Seth Joyner and fumbled the ball, which was returned to the Minnesota 6 by Clyde Simmons. Anthony Toney scored on the next play and the Eagles led 29-24 with 3:01 to go.

''We're out there working had but the breaks just aren't going our way,'' Gannon said. ''When you get up on somebody you've got to stomp them. It's just the way the season is going.''

Ruzek kicked a 19-yard field goal with 1:53 to play for the final margin after William Frizzell intercepted a Gannon pass and returned it 37 yards to the Vikings' 5.

''We came up with some key turnovers and we got them at the right time,'' Frizzell said.

SEOUL, SOUTH KOREA (OCT. 16) UPI - Prime Minister Kang Young-hoon arrived in the North Korean capital of Pyongyang Tuesday for the seond round of talks with his Northern counterpart, Yon Hyong-muk, on how to improve mutual relations and end the the 45-year-old division of Korea.

Accompanied by six other delegates, 33 support personnel and a 50- member official press corps, Kang arrived in Pyongyang at about 1:20 p.m. on the first-ever trip to North Korea by a South Korean prime minister.

On his arrival, Kang said it is deplorable and frustrating that only South and North Korea are left split while other divided nations of the world are united but the meetings were a positive step toward reunification.

''Differences in ideology and system between the two parts of Korea must no longer form a barrier dividing the people. The first thing to do to demolish the barrier of national division and become one as soon as possible is to restore Korean ethnic community,'' he said.

''Now is the time for us to promote national unity and harmony hand in hand and run along the highway to peace and unification, instead of hanging on to the past and blaming others,'' Kang said.

The Pyongyang talks are the second round of unprecedented meetings between Korean prime ministers that opened in Seoul, Sept. 4, in pursuit of rapprochement of the two Koreas divided at the end of World War II.

''Only the renunciation of hostile attitudes against the other will guarantee peace and lead to early unification (of the two Koreas),'' Kang said in his arrival statement.

In Seoul, Kang had proposed an eight-point basic agreement for improved relations between the South and the North under which both sides will recognize and respect each other's political and social systems pending reunfication.

North Korea, on the other hand, had three specific demands it said must be met to help the high-level talks progress. It asked South Korea to stop annual joint military exercises with the United States, not enter the United Nations alone, and free those jailed for unauthorized visits to North Korea.

Seoul did not accept the demands and officials said there was no change of policy. But Kang may offer some practical ways of realizing economic cooperation and exchanges between people in both countries.

Shortly after Kang's delegation crossed the border at Panmunjom, the North Korean Red Cross Society sent a telephone message to its South Korean counterpart proposing a working-level contact on Nov. 15 to help dispersed family members living in the two Koreas.

The proposal was made by Li Song-ho, acting president of the North Korean Red Cross, to Seoul Red Cross President Kim Sang-hyup, officials said.

Li's offer was in response to an earlier Southern proposal for revival of South-North Korea Red Cross talks to exchange hometown visitors, and help severed family members hear from each other and reunite eventually.

Last November, the two sides were near agreement to have 350 visitors and 150 performing artists from each side cross the border for a four- day visit.

The proposed exchange failed to materialize when North Korea insisted to have its visiting troupe perform a musical eulogizing North Korea's communist revolution and South Korea rejected the plan.

MOSCOW (OCT. 16) UPI - Boris Yeltsin, the Russian republic leader injured in an auto accident last month, was ordered to stay home Tuesday by his doctors after a brief appearance in parliament, Soviet television said.

Yeltsin returned to work Friday after a three-week recuperation from the car accident. He worked for five hours Monday but was obviously tired, and his doctors advised further rest, the television said.

''His condition worsened to a certain extent,'' the ''Vremya'' news program said.

Yeltsin's car was hit on Gorky Street on Sept. 21, fueling the usual Moscow rumor mill about an intentional attempt to hurt the popular Russian leader. An independent commission probing the accident so far has found no truth to the rumors.

Yeltsin's absence is untimely this week because the Soviet Parliament is nearing a decision about a market transition plan based on his 500- day blueprint.

WASHINGTON (OCT. 16) UPI - Farmers, cushioned during the recession of the 1980s by the most expensive farm bill ever, will see a huge cut in federal subsidies under a package approved Tuesday but, in exchange, will get more freedom to try to make a profit on their own.

The package - the final version of the new farm policy bill - also proposes significant steps to prevent farm chemicals from contaminating water supplies. Environmentalists were disappointed by the last-minute loss of the ''circle of poison'' proposal to ban the export of pesticides not allowed for use by U.S. farmers.

Overall, the bill would cut $13.6 billion out of the cost of the farm program for the next five years, cutting the size of program by 25 percent. The cuts were mandated as part of the congressional budget agreement.

''It's one of those that you cross your fingers and (hope) that giving them more flexibility gives them more than they would have gotten'' from the government, said House Agriculture Commmittee Chairman Kika de la Garza, D-Texas.

House and Senate negotiators approved the compromise version of the bill at 3:43 a.m. Tuesday, ending a meeting that started more than 13 hours earlier. In the final session, lawmakers heavily revised the flexibility portions of the bill.

Senate Agriculture Committee Chairman Patrick Leahy called the bill ''the most environmentally progressive farm bill ever,'' despite its origin in two of the most conservative committees in Congress.

The bill calls for immediate adoption of the so-called triple base plan, which would make 15 percent of a farmer's cropland ineligible for subsidies but allows farmers to grow a wide variety of crops on it.

In addition, there would be a voluntary ''planting flexibility'' program, available on 10 percent of the cropland, with a similar goal of letting farmers look for money-making crops without jeopardizing eligibility for subsidies in the future.

The 1985 farm law, which expires this fall, spent about $78 billion on farm subsidies, including a record $25.8 billion in 1986. The new bill was designed to spend about $41 billion in five years.

''On balance, it's a good bill, a signable bill,'' said Agriculture Undersecretary Richard Crowder. ''We got flexibililty. It (the bill) does not take us as far along the road as we wanted, but it's a good start.''

During the summer, the Bush administration threatened to veto the bill unless costs were cut substantially and several policy ideas changed. It won some of its desires on policy - crop loan rates would rise only a few cents and the cost of the dairy program will be trimmed by $2 billion, for instance.

When lawmakers began writing the farm bill last winter, they hoped to raise crop subsidy rates or at least hold on to what they had. In the end, target prices - a key factor in calculating subsidies - were frozen for wheat, feed grains, cotton and rice but less land will be eligible for subsidies.

One of the few initiatives on crop supports in the bill is a proposal for a marketing loan to encourage production of soybeans and other oilseeds.

For many weeks, House leaders made it clear triple base was their top choice for making budget cuts. Senate leaders came out in support of the plan late last week, joining with the House to suggest adoption of triple base in 1992.

However, farm bill negotiators decided to begin triple base in 1991. They said that would save enough money - about $6 billion overall - they could delay until 1994 a distasteful part of the budget package. That would be a switch to a 12-month average price in calculating subsidy payments, rather than the current five-month average, which is a lower price.

The House and Senate endorsed a 25 percent planting flexibility plan last summer. Conferees reduced flexibility to 10 percent, partly due to concern about the impact that would follow the lifting of government rules on a large amount of crop land.

A common assumption was that flexibility would lead to larger soybean crops since farmers will have less chance to collect subsidies on wheat or feed grains.

''The fact is, no one knows (what will happen),'' said Sen. Richard Lugar, R-Ind. ''It probably will be dictated by relative prices.''

Along with adoption of triple base, farm spending would be reduced by 1 percent assessments on peanuts, tobacco, sugar and honey. A hefty assessment - 5 cents per 100 pounds of milk in 1991 and 11 cents in following years - would be charged against dairy producers. All of the budget steps were aimed at spreading the pain of the cuts.

For that reason, negotiators included a 2 percent loan origination fee, which would raise $300 million, while also reducing the proposed soybean marketing loan to $5.02 a bushel to prevent the program from costing anything. The House proposed a $5.25 loan and the Senate $5.50.

The 1985 farm law was the first to link farm program and environmental goals. The farm bill would expand on that by strengthening the ''swampbuster'' program that protects wetlands from conversion to farmland, creating a 1-million acre wetlands reserve and offering a water quality initiative program that would help defray the cost for farmers to alter farming practices on up to 10 million acres of sensitive land.

(OCT. 16) UPI - Senate and House negotiators worked out a compromise on part of the farm bill this morning. Under the deal, farmers would face tighter and lower limits on the amount of money they can collect in crop payments. The deal would limit farmers to receiving a maximum of a quarter-Million dollars in crop subsidies and other forms of farm payments- whether received directly or through affiliated business operations. The current limit is half-a-Million dollars.

Farm-state negotiators also agreed to delay until 1994 using the 12- month average price to calculate deficiency payments. The five-month average is now used for most crops.

A 268-BILLION-dollar defense spending bil passed the Senate. But the defense appropriations bill for this fiscal year is NOT ready to go to President Bush yet. The Senate version passed yesterday and an earlier House-passed version must be reconciled. One difference is over the B-2 Stealth bomber. The Senate bill contains money for it. But the House bill does NOT. A conference committee will have to work it out.

Yet another deficit-reduction measure is in the wings. House Republicans have put together their own plan to reduce the nation's deficit. But they have NOT said whether they will offer it as an alternative to proposals already put on the table by House Democrats and Senate Republicans. NONE of the three proposals appears to have enough votes to pass Congress.

STOCKHOLM, SWEDEN (OCT. 16) UPI - Three American professors - Harry Markowitz of City University of New York, Merton Miller of the University of Chicago and William Sharpe of Stanford University - received the Nobel economics prize Tuesday for pioneering work in the theory of financial economics.

The professors, who received the award jointly, were the 16th, 17th and 18th Americans to win the Nobel Memorial Prize in Economics from the Royal Swedish Academy of Science since the award was created in 1969.

''Markowitz is given the prize for having developed the theory of portfolio choice, Sharpe for his contributions to the theory of price formation of financial assets - the so-called capital asset pricing model - and Miller for his fundamental contributions to the theory of corporate finance,'' said the citation.

The Nobel Memorial Prize in Economics was not one of the original five Nobel Prizes set up by Swedish inventor of dynamite Alfred Nobel. The Swedish National Bank started the economics prize as the Alfred Nobel Memorial Prize. It was first awarded in 1969.

The award, which carries $700,000 in prize money, has been given to 18 Americans, 11 Europeans and one Soviet.

It was the first time the prize has been given jointly to three people.

Asser Lindbeck, chairman of the awarding committee, said it is natural to have three winners in 1990: ''Markowitz made the micro- analysis and Sharpe stood on his shoulders. Miller tied in the importance of corporations. ... They contributed to the theory with one block each, and without one of their number the theory would have been incomplete.''

''The first pioneering contribution in the field of financial economics was made in the 1950s by Harry Markowitz,'' the citation read, saying the economist had developed a theory for households' and firms' allocation of assets during a period of uncertainty.

''This theory analyzes how wealth can be optimally invested in assets which differ in regard to their expected return and risk,'' the citation said.

The Academy said the second significant contribution to the theory of financial economics took place in the 1960s.

''A number of researchers, among whom William Sharpe was the leading figure, used Markowitz's portfolio theory as a basis for developing a theory of price formation for financial assets,'' the citation said.

It added a third pioneering contribution concerned the theory of corporate finance and the evaluations of firms on markets.

''The most important achievements in this field were made by Merton Miller, initially in collaboration with Franco Modigliani,'' the citation said.

Modigliani, also of the United States, received the Nobel economics prize in 1985.

Miller said he was ''just overwhelmed'' on learning he had been awarded the prize and said he was happy to have joined Modigliani in the honor.

He told Cable News Network in a telephone interview he had not directly collaborated with Tuesday's other two winners in his work, which he described as ''basically how the amount of leverage a firm has affects its cost of capital.''

Miller's theory explains the relation, or lack of one, between firms' capital asset structure and dividend policy on the one hand and their market value on the other.

Lindbeck said, ''The prize-takers have clarified the financial markets' role in the market economy for those who think that financial markets are casinos.''

''Companies make decisions about investments and mergers from these theories, and they are used in particular in American courtrooms to calculate the value of expropriated assets,'' Lindbeck said.

Markowitz, who was born in Chicago in 1928, is Marvin Speiser Distinguished Professor of Finance and Economics at Baruch College, City University of New York. Earlier he carried out research at the Cowles Foundation and Yale University and was president of the American Finance Association in 1982.

Sharpe was born in Cambridge, Mass., in 1934 and is Timkin Professor of Finance at Stanford Business School, Stanford University. He was president of the American Finance Association in 1980.

Miller was born in Boston in 1923. He is R. McCormick Distinguished Service Professor at the Graduate School of business, University of Chicago. He was president of the American Finance Association in 1976.

MOSCOW (OCT. 16) UPI - U.S. Secretary of Defense Dick Cheney arrived in Moscow on Tuesday for a four-day visit in which he was to visit Soviet military installations and meet with senior officials.

Defense Minister Dmitri Yazov and other Soviet officials met Cheney at the airport, the official Tass news agency said.

''Meetings of the top military leaders of the two countries are becoming routine,'' Tass said in noting a series of contacts over the past two years.

Gen. Mikhail Moiseyev, Soviet chief of staff, concluded a visit to the United States last week during which he signed an agreement for more military exchanges between the two superpowers.

Cheney and Yazov were to hold a joint news conference Friday on the defense secretary's last day in the Soviet Union.

Foreign Ministry spokesman Gennadi Gerasimov on Monday denied reports the Soviet government might give Cheney secret information about Iraq, its close ally before Baghdad's Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait.

''We do not intend to violate respective agreements in any way if these agreements contain clauses stipulating that the signatories pledge to keep specific information secret,'' Gerasimov said.

NEW YORK (OCT. 16) UPI - A bondholder group rejected Donald Trump's latest offer to exchange $675 million Taj Mahal casino debt for some equity, the Wall Street Journal reported Tuesday.

Bondholder adviser Wilbur Ross of Rothschild Inc. said in an Oct. 12 letter to the bondholder group that a new proposal from Trump was ''significantly worse than the one rejected by the steering committee'' earlier.

As a result, Ross wrote: ''We are deeply concerned about the prospects for a consensual restructuring.''

The letter was obtained by the newspaper from one of dozens of bondholders who received a copy during the weekend.

Although a compromise agreement is still possible, the letter reflects a growing pessimism about Trump's chances of working out a deal on the bonds of the Taj Mahal in Atlantic City, N.J.

Trump recently completed a $65 million bank bailout, and is in negotiations to restructure loans he still owes on his casinos and the Trump Shuttle airline. The bondholder negotiations are not expected to affect Trump's other workout discussions.

Taj Mahal bondholders have been demanding that Trump cede a substantial portion of his equity to them, and have threatened to throw the facility into bankruptcy if he does not do so.

The Trump organization has acknowledged it must restructure the Taj Mahal bonds because the facility is not making enough money to meet a $47 million interest payment due Nov. 15.

The letter also disclosed, and a Trump official confirmed, that Trump had retained Donaldson Lufkin & Jenrette as an investment adviser, his third adviser in as many months.

HOUSTON (OCT. 16) UPI - Two special education aides have been charged with scalding the hand of a 12-year-old mentally retarded student and muffling his cries after he soiled his clothes twice in one day.

A third worker also has been accused of failing to report the Oct. 4 incident, which left the boy hospitalized with second- and third-degree burns to his right hand.

Doctors said the boy, who takes part in a special education program at Reynolds Elementary School, is expected to suffer permanent scarring and disfigurement from the burns.

Virginia Gray Blade, 34, and Anita Marie Brown, 29, are charged with felony injury to a child and were freed Monday on personal recognizance bonds. If convicted, each woman could be sentenced to up to 99 years in prison and fined $10,000.

Willie Faye Nelson, 36, is charged with failing to report child abuse, a misdemeanor.

Blade and Brown have been suspended without pay and the school board will be asked to approve their firings, said Houston Independent School District spokeswoman Ria Griffin.

Nelson has been suspended pending the outcome of a district investigation, Griffin said.

Blade and Brown cleaned the boy up once after he soiled his clothes, hands and mouth, said police Sgt. Ralph Gonzales.

''When it happened a second time, they took him to the bathroom again, and Blade held his right hand under hot water while the other one held him by the right shoulder,'' Gonzales said.

Brown allegedly covered the boy's mouth to muffle his screams while Blade ran 130-degree water over his hand for about 30 seconds, said prosecutor Kelly Siegler.

''He was saying, 'Hot! Hot! Hot!,''' Siegler said.

Brown told police she had done the same thing to the boy following a similar incident two years ago but the punishment apparently did not injure the youth, said police Sgt. Bill Staney.

That punishment reportedly succeeded in correcting the youngster's behavior, so Brown felt she would try it again, Staney said.

But Brown's attorney, Donald DeMoss, said his client is ''in shock'' over the charges and denies she is responsible for the boy's injuries.

The women took the boy to the school nurse after noticing that his hand was blistered and the skin was peeling. They said the boy had burned himself.

HAZMIYEH, LEBANON (OCT. 16) UPI - Pro-Syrian Lebanese troops surrounded the French Embassy Tuesday after France vowed not to surrender deposed rebel Christian Gen. Michel Aoun for trial.

Dozens of regulars loyal to President Elias Hrawi set up checkpoints at intersections around the hilltop embassy on the eastern outskirts of Beirut, effectively cordoning off the building.

French guards, who laid mines along the barbed-wire fence of the embassy and the nearby residence of French Ambassador Rene Ala, were put on maximum alert.

One tank, manned by Hrawi's troops, sat only 100 yards from the French mission's building as a number of Lebanese troops took positions atop nearby apartment buildings Tuesday morning. Later in the day they widrew from the rooftops but remained stationed at the checkpoints.

The soldiers converged on the embassy as the French and Lebanese governments disputed the fate of Aoun and his advisers taking refuge at the mission.

Aoun and his advisers were ousted Saturday when a Lebanese-Syrian military force pushed into Christian east Beirut and captured the presidential palace in Baabda, five miles southeast of the Lebanese capital.

The muscle-flexing maneuvers around the embassy were carried out as the French ambassador spoke with Hrawi and Prime Minister Selim Hoss as part of French efforts to secure a safe exit for Aoun.

Aoun remained stranded at the embassy for the fourth straight day Tuesday.

The ousted military officers had challanged Hrawi, who became president as a result of a peace treaty designed to end the 15-year-old civil war. The accord was worked out by the Lebanese Parliament in Taif, Saudi Arabia, in October 1989.

Lebanese lawmakers, in light of the defeat of Aoun, resumed contitutional activites Tuesday, re-electing Hussein Husseini as house speaker. The session was held at the ancient Parliament building in Beirut's demolished downtown, where Moslem and Christian militiamen have fought each other since 1975.

French President Francoise Mitterrand has vowed not to hand over Aoun and said the matter has become a question of honor for his nation. France, shortly after Aoun hid at the embassy, granted him political asylum, but the Hrawi government warned Paris against smuggling the general out because it intended to try him for ''crimes'' against the nation and the alleged embezzlement of some $70 million in government funds.

Lebanese Agriculture Minister Mohsen Dalloul told the pro-Syrian As- Safir daily newspaper published Tuesday that the government was determined to make Aoun stand trial.

''The judicial authorities will try him,'' Dalloul said, adding ''this question was not a political one, and on this ground we protested France's granting of political asylum.''

In Paris, French conservative politicians supported Mitterrand's pledge not to turn over Aoun to Lebanese authorities, but the politicians accused the French president of ignoring what they consider Syrian intentions of subjugating Lebanon and its Christian Maronite population, long supported by France.

JOHANNESBURG, SOUTH AFRICA (OCT. 16) UPI - A black man testing a right-wing town's compliance with a new law ending racial segregation in public places found subtler forms of racism - including a $195 library membership fee, the Johannesburg Star reported Tuesday.

The newspaper had sent black reporter Stan Hlope to visit the eastern Transvaal province town of Bethal to see if the council was abiding by the scrapping at midnight Sunday of a 37-year-old law which had allowed local authorities to segregate public facilities.

But Bethal, like many other towns controlled by the official opposition Conservative Party, had introduced measures defying the spirit rather than the letter of the legislation which scrapped the segregationist Separate Amenities Act.

The government threatened to take court action against any local authority still enforcing the Act. But a number of towns have taken advantage of loopholes in the law, including closing down their facilities entirely rather than open them to blacks and levying high fees on ''non-residents,'' in the knowledge that blacks may not live in the towns.

When Hlope entered the library, the ''staff and public looked shocked,'' the Star reported.

Librarian Susan Kemp was ''gracious,'' but without enquiring whether Hlope was a resident of Bethal, which would have given him free membership, she said membership of the library would cost him $195.

She also asked, ''Do you have your bank manager with you,'' the Star added.

All of South Africa's major cities integrated their facilities before the Separate Amenities Act was scrapped. But the 102 town councils controlled by the Conservative Party in the northern and eastern Transvaal vowed to resist the abolition of the Act.

President Frederik de Klerk's program of racial reform, launched February, has outraged conservatives. The scrapping of the Separate Amenities Act, the first piece of legislated apartheid to fall in terms of the reforms, prompted Conservative Party leader Andries Treurnicht to say, ''This threatens white rights to self-determination.''

KNOXVILLE, TN (OCT. 16) UPI - Tennessee coach Johnny Majors says three football players accused of allegedly sexually assaulting a coed in the Vols athletic dormitory apparently will not face criminal charges but remain on indefinite suspension from the team.

University officials say the coed has indicated she will not press criminal charges against defensive ends Kacy Rodgers and Dewayne Dotson and freshman running back Keith Jeter. But the players still face possible university action if they are found guilty of violating the student conduct code.

Officials say action against the players could range from dismissal of all charges to expulsion from the university. Majors says the suspensions will remain in place until the university investigation is complete.

CONCORD, NH (OCT. 16) UPI - In a ruling that could derail a plan by a Connecticut utility to take over Public Service Co. of New Hampshire, a judge has overturned a $500 million bond issue that was to have partially financed the deal.

A company spokesman denied that the decision, issued late Monday, will create a major roadblock for the merger.

Northeast Utilities of Berlin, Conn., is taking over PSNH in a $2.3 billion plan to bring the New Hampshire utility out of bankruptcy. The plan is to be partially financed through the sale of pollution control bonds, about half of which are tax-exempt, issued through the state's Industrial Development Authority.

PSNH is the lead owner of the Seabrook nuclear power plant, and the bonds would nominally finance pollution control projects at Seabrook.

But the bond issue was challenged in a lawsuit by Robert Cushing of the Campaign for Ratepayers Rights and other Seabrook opponents, who charged that the IDA was misusing its authority by approving bonds that would actually be used to finance a corporate takeover.

Merrimack County Superior Court Justice Kenneth R. McCue, in a 20- page ruling did not address any of Cushing's charges. But he agreed that the opponents had been denied a chance to express their objections before the IDA.

McCue declared approval of the bond issue by the IDA and the state Executive Council null and void and ordered the IDA to hold a new hearing.

''This will give us the opportunity to put the light on what is going on with the IDA,'' Cushing said Tuesday. ''I don't see the bond sale going through for

NU because if there is a full hearing people will have to give testimony under oath on what those bonds are really going to be used for. I know there are no facilities that meet the definition of 'pollution control' at Seabrook.''

Cushing said a hearing on the bond issues will show that NU is not eligible for IDA financing.

But a spokesman for Northeast Utilities denied that the ruling would affect the takeover. Jeffrey R. Kotkin said it will proceed without the IDA bonds if necessary.

''This was financing that we looked at recently in order help lower the interest cost to PSNH,'' Kotkin said. ''It's not critical to the merger or the bankruptcy.''

Kotkin said IDA funding could eventually save PSNH ratepayers $10 million to $12 million a year in interest charges that would be reflected in electric bills.

In his ruling, McCue was sharply critical of the IDA's handling of the bond issue. He charged that IDA board members approved the utility's 1,000-page application without having read it. He said board members relied on the recommendation of the bond counsel, who had helped prepare the application.

''One could argue that under the facts in this case, the IDA served no useful function,'' McCue wrote. ''The directors did not review the application before voting on it; in essence, all they did was to rubber- stamp the approval of the application by bond council.''

He also criticized Gov. Judd Gregg and the Executive Council for approving the bond issue without ''a great deal of knowledge about the specifics of the bond request.''

There was no immediate word from state officials on whether the ruling would be appealed.

PSNH filed for bankruptcy court protection on Jan. 28, 1988 because of the burden of its $2.2 billion investment in the Seabrook plant.

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (OCT. 16) UPI - State health advocates and officials Tuesday criticized cigarette manufacturer Philip Morris Cos. for trying to buy positive name recognition by sponsoring a national ''Bill of Rights'' tour.

Margaret Kane, director of the Rhode Island Lung Association, said Philip Morris should also publicize its production and sale of 219.5 billion cigarettes each year, making it ''the greatest contributor to the leading cause of death and disease in this country.''

''By wrapping itself in the American flag and parading the Bill of Rights across the country, Philip Morris is attempting to portray itself at the heart of American culture and political freedom,'' said Kane.

''By the time this 17-month tour has ended, more than 520,000 individuals will have died from smoking cigarettes,'' Kane said.

Kane and local representatives of the American Heart Association, American Cancer Society, and state Health Department made their discontent known at a news conference at the state archives building, where there is an original Bill of Rights on display.

Philip Morris Cos.' ''Bill of Rights'' tour will stop Oct. 17-20 at the West Warwick, R.I., Civic Center.

The company referred comment to a community relations official in North Carolina, who was not immediately available.

Richard Carleton, local president of the American Heart Association, said Philip Morris is trying to purchase ''positive name recognition'' by sponsoring the tour.

''Philip Morris claims to be strongly supportive of the American tradition of freedom of speech and free expression, but it has in fact deliberately undermined such freedoms repeatedly to serve its own corporate interests,'' he charged.

''It is well known how this company targets young women, minorities and the nation's youth through its promotional efforts, including sponsoring major sport and cultural events,'' Carleton said.

State health Director H. Denman Scott said Rhode Islanders pay $284 per capita due to smoking related health-care costs, compared to $221 per capita nationally.

''Further, Rhode Island is currently among the states that hold the greatest number of women smokers,'' he said.

JACKSONVILLE, FLA. (OCT. 16) UPI - The bodies of six people, four of them children, were discovered Tuesday in the burned out remains of their home, which authorities said was set on fire by the husband of one of the victims.

The 35-year-old suspect, who had been arrested twice previously for wife abuse was in the Duval County Jail, charged with six counts of murder, said Asa Higgs, a spokesman with the Duval County Sheriff's Office.

Killed in the blaze were the suspect's 29-year-old wife, who had won a pending injunction that ordered her husband to stay away from her, her 23-year-old sister-in-law and four children who had the same last name as the sister-in-law, Higgs said.

The children were a 12-year-old girl, 5-year-old boy, 3-year-old girl and two-year-old girl, Higgs said.

Authorities withheld the name of the suspect until the victims could be positively identified and the next of kin notified.

The bodies were taken to the Duval County medical examiner's office, where autopsies were scheduled Tuesday.

A crime report at the sheriff's office said, ''The fire was started as a result of a petroleum product being poured on the front porch, foyer, living room, stairwell and second floor bedroom.''

Higgs said the suspect and his wife apparently argued Monday and the man set the house on fire.

The suspect was arrested for spouse abuse in 1988 and for battery on a spouse last year while an injunction was in place to protect her from him. He also was arrested for child neglect in 1988, Higgs said.

The fire was reported at 11:35 p.m. Monday by a police officer on routine patrol through the working class neighborhood near the center of town, fire Lt. Lorin Mock said.

When firefighters arrived five minutes later, they found the two- story wood frame house fully aflame.

The bodies were discovered about 12:15 a.m. Tuesday after the blaze was extinguished, Mock said. The house suffered extensive damage.

(OCT. 16) UPI - Kuwait's exiled premier said Tuesday his government will not give Iraqi President Saddam Hussein ''even a single inch'' of territory in any settlement should the emirate be liberated.

Syria also ruled out a compromise with Iraq.

''The people of Kuwait have already taken an unequivocal resolution not to make any concessions on Kuwaiti sovereignty, and these people will not surrender even a single inch of land,'' Crown Prince Sheik Saad al Abdullah al Sabah told reporters in Saudi Arabia.

Saad, also Kuwait's prime minister in exile, apparently referred to unconfirmed reports in Moscow and the Jordanian capital of Amman that Saddam is willing to withdraw from the rest of Kuwait if he can keep an oil field and two strategic islands in the northern Persian Gulf.

Saad made the comments on the day after a conference of 1,200 Kuwaitis in Saudi Arabia, which included members of the exiled royal family and pro-democracy opposition groups.

Conference members said that all Kuwaitis, despite their differences, are opposed to Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of their homeland and are determined to liberate the emirate.

Pro-democracy Kuwaiti activists, led by the speaker of the emirate's dissolved Parliament, were reported to have won concessions from the ruling family for a bigger role in the post-liberation government, conference sources said.

Kuwait's exiled emir, Sheik Jaber al Ahmad al Sabah, dissolved the elected Parliament in July 1986, citing a foreign conspiracy to destroy the country at the height of the 1980-88 Iran-Iraq war.

A new Parliament with limited sovereignty was elected before the Iraqi invasion, but pro-democracy activists appear now to have won pledges of more representation if and when Iraq withdraws from their tiny country.

Syria, which together with Egypt and Morocco sent troops to Saudi Arabia to defend the Arab kingdom against Iraqi aggression, also ruled out compromise with Iraq.

''Any comprehensive solution to the gulf crisis could only be reached through the withdrawal of Iraqi troops (from Kuwait) and the restoration of Kuwait's legitimate government,'' Syrian Information Minister Mohammed Salman told the Al Ittihad newspaper in the United Arab Emirates.

Salman defended his country's decision to send troops to the region, saying Iraq's conquest marked the first time an Arab country had invaded, occupied and annexed a fellow Arab state.

''Syria stands by all Arabs who are keen to end this aggression and consolidate the charter and principles of the Arab League,'' he said.

Salman said Iraq's withdrawal was the precondition for the evacuation of foreign troops from the region.

''Iraq must pull its troops out of Kuwait and then we can all stand together and tell foreign forces to go home and leave the region,'' he said.

In other developments Tuesday:

-Turkish President Turgut Ozal arrived in Cairo from Qatar as part of a Mideast tour to confer with members of the pro-Kuwait alliance.

-An adviser to President Mikhail Gorbachev left for Rome, Paris and Washington Tuesday on a special mission to report on his meetings in Baghdad and discuss possible diplomatic solutions to the crisis.

-Japan moved toward committing troops to the U.S.-led multinational force in the region as the government unveiled its long-awaited United Nations peace cooperation bill.

JAKARTA, Indonesia (OCT. 16) UPI - Indonesian President Suharto Tuesday called on members of the OPEC cartel to pump the most oil possible and urged the industrialized nations to tap their reserves to curb the rise in prices from the Persian Gulf crisis.

''Higher oil prices indeed will raise the earnings of producing countries,'' Suharto said at the opening ceremony of the 19th annual Indonesian Petroleum

Association and the First Jakarta International Energy Conference.

''However, uncontrolled price hikes, too high and too fast, will benefit nobody,'' he added.

''Should the world suffer from economic recession, both the advanced and developing countries, oil producing and importing countries alike will be affected,'' Suharto said.

''I would make an appeal to all OPEC member-states that so long as this crisis continues, they should produce to the maximum to help maintain the balance in the oil markets.''

The meeting was attended by oil ministers from Venezuela, Nigeria, Indonesia and Algeria, members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries that pumps more than a third of the world's oil.

The ministers called on industrialized nations to release up to 1.8 million barrels a day to ease pressure on prices during the upcoming winter heating season in northern countries.

Indonesian OPEC Secretary General Subroto said that based on figures of the International Energy Agency, which is made up of the largest industrialized nations, the winter would produce a supply shortfall of 1.8 million barrels daily.

Subroto told a news conference oil consumption in the fourth quarter of the world's market economies is estimated at 54.5 million barrels daily, while total output by OPEC and non-OPEC countries is currently projected at 52.7 million barrels daily.

Suharto said, however, that the rise in oil prices since Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait triggered the Gulf crisis is due more to speculation than a scarcity of oil.

''This is the reason why I appeal to the industrialized countries to take immediate measure aimed at minimizing these extremely damaging speculative activities, and to help overcome the fear of supply shortages by releasing their stock that is, after all, intended for this purpose,'' Suharto said.

The U.N. embargo of Iraqi and Kuwaiti exports following the invasion cut off 4.3 million barrels a day from world markets, most of which has been made up by increased output from Saudi Arabia and other OPEC producers.

The United States and the other industrialized nations with large strategic reserves such as Japan and Germany have refused to release oil on the grounds no shortages exist.

Indonesian Mines and Energy Minister Ginandjar Kartsasamita said that OPEC and other oil producers simply cannot meet the projected additional demand for oil in the fourth quarter.

''The net effect is a real price push factor,'' he said. ''Only a substantial release of stocks, whether commercial or strategic or both, can alleviate this situation.''

A release of stocks ''will have an immediate effect on the psychology on the market, thereby keeping the oil price from running out of hand,'' he said.

Ginandjar said speculation of a possible war in the Middle East and the disruption it would cause in oil supply ''is basically the reason behind the current high oil prices.''

''We have a problem today, and consumers are facing a price problem,'' said Sadek Boussena, OPEC president and Algerian Minister of Energy and Petrochemical Industries. ''We hope they (the consumers) will not be facing a supply problem in the next few weeks.''

MONCTON, New Brunswick (OCT. 16) UPI - The New Brunswick Chamber of Commerce wants Canadian banks to offer interest-free loans to consumers who promise to spend the money on the Canadian side of the United States border, the organization said Tuesday.

Chamber President Rick Leblanc said he has scheduled meetings with New Brunswick's finance minister and district offices of financial institutions in hope of encouraging banks to offer the loans up to $1, 000.

''It's a very novel concept,'' Leblanc said in a telephone interview, adding it would be a tremendous opportunity for border communities in New Brunswick, especially with Christmas fast approaching.

Cross-border shopping has plagued Canadian retailers since the U.S.- Canada free trade agreement took effect in January, 1989. In the first six months of that year, Canadians spent 13.4 percent more, amounting to several billion dollars, in the U.S. than in the previous year.

The Royal Bank of Canada has attributed the loss of Canadian shoppers to lower duties in the United States and a stronger Canadian dollar. In addition, Canadian retailers have higher markups and prices.

LeBlanc said the British Columbia town of Trail, near the Canada-U.S. border, has already had some success with interest-free loans. He said the idea could be adopted on a province-wide scale in New Brunswick.

MOSCOW (OCT. 16) UPI - Poland and the Russian Federation signed an agreement on friendship and cooperation Tuesday in the first such accord between the Soviet Union's dominant republic and a foreign country.

The Russian Parliament meanwhile passed a law establishing the right to hold referendums in the latest step to implement its June 12 declaration of sovereignty under the aggressive leadership of Boris Yeltsin.

Visiting Polish Foreign Minister Krzysztof Kubiszewski and his Russian counterpart, Andrei Kozyrev, signed the pact agreeing to place consular missions in Warsaw and Moscow, the official Soviet news agency Tass said.

''This document seals the period when Russia had no face of its own in international relations,'' Russian Prime Minister Ivan Silayev said.

Poland and Russia say in the pact that they ''do not lay any territorial claims on each other and will not put forward such claims in the future either.''

The treaty commits the two sides to establishing relations based ''on respect for international law, their sovereignty and integrity, on the principles of equality, non-interference in internal affairs, good- neighborliness and mutually beneficial cooperation.''

The two sides also agreed ''to stimulate and deepen economic cooperation in every way'' and develop large-scale cultural exchanges.

''This is a doubly significant event,'' Silayev said. ''Friendly relations with Poland are being furthered in every respect, and this is the first foreign policy document of its kind to be signed by the Russian Federation.''

Russia takes up three-quarters of the Soviet Union and is home to half its population of 290 million, but the giant federation touches Poland only in its far western extreme along a small stretch of land surrounding the Baltic port of Kaliningrad.

The new referendum bill requires the collection of 1 million signatures of Russian citizens or demands by one-third of the Russian legislature's deputies for a plebiscite. More than half of all eligible voters must participate in the referendum for its results to be binding.

Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev called last month for a national plebiscite on whether individuals should be allowed to own land, but there is no mechanism in Soviet law for such a popular vote.

DES MOINES, IOWA (OCT. 16) UPI - Two minutes into a pep talk to a Republican campaign rally, President Bush was hit Tuesday with a vivid reminder of the challenge he faces in keeping Americans rallied behind a dangerous and uncertain military gamble in the Persian Gulf.

''Mr. President, bring our troops home from Saudi Arabia!'' a heckler shouted from the audience of the Des Moines Civic Center. ''No blood for oil!'' added a companion.

Unfazed by the interruption, Bush responded without hesitation.

''Some never get the word,'' he said, his voice rising. ''The fight isn't about oil. The fight is about naked aggression that will not stand.''

Moments after the two hecklers and a third protester rose from their seats to challenge Bush, they were led away by security officers, their taunts drowned out by cheers from young Republicans.

But the brief exchange, which has taken place in other cities, on other campaign stops in the past several weeks, dramatized a growing public anxiety over the duration and future of Operation Desert Shield and a political need by Bush - acknowledged by his advisers - to continue making the case for his actions in the gulf crisis.

As Bush confronted his handful of critics in Iowa, a new Washington Post-ABC News poll showed a drop in support for the president's handling of the gulf crisis from 78 percent in September to 64 percent in the latest survey.

The president's overall popularity also plummeted in a month, and support for the United States keeping military forces in the gulf dropped to 60 percent from 75 percent five weeks ago.

White House strategists are not unaware of the risk. Bush as well felt compelled to answer criticism rather than merely dismiss it as the rants of a small minority.

Noting how Americans have had to endure three major wars in the last 50 years, he said, those questioning the U.S. commitment in the gulf ''shouldn't be entirely written off, but they've got it wrong.''

''They've got the facts wrong,'' he asserted. ''They're looking at it introspectively, in a bit of an isolationistic way. We can't do that. We have a responsibility to lead, the United States does. If we don't stand up against aggression around the world when it's naked and brutal, who will?''

Added Bush, ''The United States has the responsibility to lead and to put together this coalition that says to Saddam Hussein very simply: 'You cannot bully your neighbor. You cannot wipe out a member of the Arab League.'''

Since the Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait, the United States has poured almost 200,000 troops into the region, ostensibly to defend Saudi Arabia and police a virtual naval quarantine of Iraq, and has sought and won approval of eight major U.N. resolutions condemning the aggression of Saddam.

In recent days, with military force still an option of last resort, Bush has accused Iraq of killing innocent men, women and children in Kuwait as part of what he again described Tuesday as the ''systematic dismantling of a member of the United Nations, a member of the Arab League.''

Laying a foundation for further action through the United Nations, Bush vowed that the United States will achieve its objectives - forcing Iraq from Kuwait, restoring Kuwait's ''legitimate government'' and holding Saddam accountable for the consequences of his aggression - but hastened to add that ''America will remain in the Persian Gulf not one single day longer than necessary.''

The Iowans applauded with enthusiasm. However, White House officials have all but conceded popular support for Operation Desert Shield could be jeopardized by the passage of time, in the event of a prolonged standoff, or bloodshed, or in the event of war.

Bush has seen the problem compounded by a recent rash of accidents that have claimed the lives of 31 Americans - before a single shot has been fired.

NEW YORK (OCT. 16) UPI - A private funeral was held Tuesday for composer-conductor Leonard Bernstein as musical tributes began around the world and recording companies rushed out Bernstein releases.

Only his three children and other family members and a few close friends attended the service, according to the Bernsteins' spokeswoman, Margaret Carson.

Bernstein was then buried in the family plot in Brooklyn next to his wife, actress Felicia Montealegre, who died in 1978.

The world-renowned maestro, whose career was most closely identified with the New York, Israel and Vienna philharmonics, died Sunday at 72 of cardiac arrest caused by emphysema. He had announced his retirement as a conductor only five days before, citing ill health.

Within hours after Bernstein's death, Sony Classical and Deutsche Grammaphon record companies announced they would release nearly 90 compact discs of Bernstein's symphonic recordings ranging from the music of Mozart to that of Ned Rorem.

Musical tributes, which were expected to extend over the next few months, began Monday at Carnegie Hall when a Russian musical group, Moscow Soloists of the U.S.S.R., dedicated part of its program to Bernstein.

Violinist Isaac Stern is dedicating his 70th anniversary concert Tuesday at Carnegie to the memory of his friend and musical associate.

All of the New York Philharmonic's programs from Thursday through next Tuesday at Lincoln Center will be devoted to Bernstein's compositions and will be performed under the baton of Leonard Slatkin, another Bernstein friend.

Flags at Lincoln Center were lowered to half-staff Monday and will remain there the rest of the week as a tribute. Bernstein music was piped into the center's concourse.

The Public Theater on Astor Place replaced its banners with black flags bearing Bernstein's initials and played his music on the street and in its lobbies.

In Vienna, the state opera house and some offices and monuments were draped in black after an official period of mourning was declared by the burgomaster. A memorial concert was being planned in the Austrian capital later in the year, authorities said.

New York's official memorial concert will be held at Carnegie Hall Nov. 14, the 47th anniversary of Bernstein's debut there as a pinch-hit conductor of the New York Philharmonic, which he served until his death as associate conductor, principal conductor and conductor laureate. A delegation of musicians from the Israel Philharmonic will participate.

The Oct. 28 ''Music for Life'' concert at Carnegie to benefit the Gay Men's Health Crisis, which Bernstein was to have conducted, will have a revised program as a tribute. James Levine, artistic director of the Metropolitan Opera, where Bernstein also conducted, will conduct a group of Benstein works.

The adagietto from the Fifth Symphony of Gustav Mahler was added to the symphonic programs of the New York Philarmonic and Boston and Chicago symphonies Tuesday as a salute to Bernstein, the foremost interpreter of Mahler's music and the leader in a so-called Mahler Renaissance.

Sony Classical announced that it will release over the next two years 75 compact discs of Bernstein's classical recordings with the New York Philharmonic and other orchestras, made when the Sony label was CBS Masterworks.

Deutsche Grammophon, for which Bernstein recorded exclusively in recent years, will release his latest Mozart, Schubert and Tchaikovsky recordings next month and hasten the release of 14 compact discs of recent records, including a large group of 20th century works by Rorem, Aaron Copland, Paul Hindemith, and David Del Tredici.

(OCT. 16) UPI - Kuwait's prime minister in exile says Iraqi President Saddam Hussein will NOT get ''even a single inch'' of Kuwaiti territory in any settlement to get Iraqi troops out of the tiny emirate. Crown Prince Sheik Saad al Abdullah al Sabah told reporters in Saudi Arabia that the people of Kuwait are unequivocally opposed to concessions on Kuwaiti sovereighty. Syria also ruled out a compromise with Iraq.

There are unconfirmed reports in Moscow and Amman, Jordan, that Saddam is willing to pull out of most of Kuwait if he can keep an oil field and two strategic islands in the northern Persian Gulf. 12- hundred Kuwaitis ended a conference in Saudi Arabia yesterday. Conference participants... including members of the royal family and pro-democracy opposition groups... say all Kuwaitis are determined to liberate their homeland.

Pioneering work on financial economics, some of it going back to the 1950's, has won the 1990 Nobel prize for economics for three American professors. It's the first time three people have shared the honor since the first economics prize in 1969. The citation notes work in the 1950's by Professor Harry Markowitz of City University of New York. It says his discoveries were later expanded by professors Merton Miller of the University of Chicago and William Sharpe of Stanford University, each contributing work that would be meaningless if any of the three parts was left out.

Troops loyal to Lebanese President Hrawi have set up checkpoints around the French Embassy in east Beirut to prevent rebel Christian General Michel Aoun from fleeing the country for political asylum in France. French Embassy guards have been on maximum alert since Paris refused to turn Aoun over to Lebanon to face trial. Lebanese and Syrian troops forced Aoun and his advisers out of the presidential palace on Saturday, ending his two-year mutiny.

French President Francois Mitterrand says he will NOT hand Aoun over to the Lebanese. He calls the situation a matter of honor for France. Hrawi wants to try Aoun for crimes against the nation and for the alleged embezzlement of 70-Million dollars. Lebanese lawmakers today met at the shell-pocked Parliament building in downtown Beirut and resumed constitutional activities.

U-S-Soviet military exchanges are becoming routine. Defense Secretary Cheney is in Moscow today on a four-day visit that will include talks with senior officials and tours of military installations. On Friday, Cheney will hold a joint news conference with Soviet Defense Minister Dmitri Yazov. The Soviet chief of staff visited the United States last week to sign an agreement for more super-power military exchanges.

Police in Jacksonville, Florida, are holding a 35-year-old suspect on six counts of murder, including that of his 29-year-old wife. Names of the victims and the suspect are being withheld until positive identifications are made. The bodies of the six victims... four of them children... were found in the burned-out rubble of their Jacksonville home. The suspect had been arrested twice before on charges of wife abuse.

The cost of running Britain's royal household will top 106-Million dollars this year. The figures on the latest Civil List released by Royal Trustees include all expenses for Queen Elizabeth and family members- everything from palaces to starch in the laundry. Prince Charles and his wife Diana are NOT included because they use money generated from his estates. The Queen has chosen NOT to live off money generated by crown lands. Instead, she turns the proceeds to the government in exchange for a budget that is drawn up for her.

DALLAS (OCT. 16) UPI - Texas Instruments Inc. Tuesday cut about 450 employees from its defense group, bringing to about 950 the number of workers let go from the group since June when the planned job reductions were announced.

The cuts reflected reduced defense spending by the U.S. government and were necessary to keep operations aligned with market demand, the company said. TI is a major defense contractor and traditionally defense business has accounted for a third of the giant semiconductor company's reveneus and about 40 percent of its profits.

Those laid off Tuesday were mostly from the Dallas area but also included employees in Colorado Springs, Colo., and Ridge Crest Calif., TI spokeswoman Terri West said.

''We had said in June that we would reduce our work force in the defense business by about 1,000,'' West said. ''This is part of that. With today's action, about 950 workers have been affected.''

In the Dallas area, the job action affected employees at TI facilities in McKinney, Plano, Lewisville, Sherman and Denton.

West said employees at all levels in the corporation were affected.

West said they would receive severance pay, extended insurance protection and also would get outplacement assistance for the next two months.

Asked if there would be further cuts, West said, ''Given today's changing defense environment, it would be difficult to speculate.''

In June, TI said its defense and electronics group planned to reduce the work force by about 1,000 over the next 12 months. Counting Tuesday's terminations, it appeared TI had implemented the reductions far ahead of schedule. Prior to the announcement, the group had employed about 22,000 people, primarily in the United States.

In the June announcement, William B. Mitchell, president of the group, said, ''As we told stockholders at our annual meeting in April, we expect defense markets to decline for at least the first half of the 1990s as the U.S. Department of Defense adjusts to the changing world political environment.''

He said the company's strategy would be to ''size'' the defense business to the declining market and drive for increased market share after it stabilized.

MIAMI (OCT. 16) UPI - Burger King Corp., the nation's No. 2 hamburger chain, laid off 300 corporate employees and closed seven regional offices in a restructuring it indicated was aimed at bolstering relations with franchisees, a spokeswoman said Tuesday.

Workers who lost their jobs were notified Monday, said Burger King spokesman Cori Zywotow. About 30 of those workers were based at the company's Miami headquarters. Others worked in offices that were closed.

The reductions leave Burger King with a corporate and regional staff of about 1,000. Overall, Burger King employs about 41,000 people.

The cuts represent the second round of layoffs at Burger King since Grand Metropolitan PLC acquired the fast-food company in January 1989. In April 1989 the company laid off 550 workers.

Also this week, the company closed seven of its 19 regional offices: Columbus, Ohio; Minneapolis, Nashville, Philadelphia, Phoenix, Greensboro, N.C., and Seattle.

Offices that remain open are in Chicago, New York, New Orleans, Atlanta, San Francisco, Richmond, Va., Dallas, Detroit, Boston, Tampa, Fla., Los Angeles and Miami.

Zywotow said the changes are part of a restructuring based in part on recommendations made by an outside consulting company. ''It is a new business strategy and operating philosophy,'' she said.

As part of that strategy, Burger King split its operations into two divisions. The 875 restaurants owned by the company have been grouped into a new retail division, Zywotow said.

Bob Stetson, former chief operating officer, was named to head the division.

''This division will be the company's largest franchisee, and will have to pay royalties, rents, advertising fees, just like the franchisees do,'' she said.

Burger King also formed a franchisee service and sales division, which will be responsible for delivering services to franchisees, who account for about 85 percent of the company's business.

Zwyotow said staff members who previously conducted franchisee audits will be freed of that task so that they can act as consultants to restaurant owners.

The company plans to hire 40 additional auditors to conduct those audits, she said.

South Korean Prime Minister Kang Young-hoon traveled to North Korea today for talks with his northern counterpart. The visit marks the first ever to North Korea by a South Korean prime minister. Kang proposes direct trade with the communist north and a visitor exchange of elderly residents from both sides. The talks are the second part of a series that began on September 4th in South Korea. The discussions are aimed at trying to erase some of the political divisions that separated Korea at the end of World War Two.

Leonard Bernstein spent most of his life as a composer-conductor in the public eye. Today he was laid to rest in Brooklyn in a private ceremony attended by his three children, other family members and a few close friends. WARSAW, Poland (OCT. 16) UPI - The election committee for Prime Minister Tadeusz Mazowiecki filed registration papers backed by 141,000 signatures Tuesday and promised a low-profile campaign because his present duties take absolute precedence.

Henryk Wozniakowski, a former government spokesman who heads the committee, led a group that delivered Mazowiecki's declaration of candidacy, which included a cartful of petitions - some in used Beefeater's Gin cardboard boxes.

''The fact that we managed to gather so many signatures in a short time is significant and is evidence of the large measure of support this candidacy enjoys,'' Wozniakowski told reporters.

The State Election Commission meets Wednesday and is expected to consider the application, which was signed by 141,000 Poles.

Under the law, a candidate must register before raising and spending money on the election campaign. For a candidate to be considered for the presidency, 100,000 valid signatures are required.

The Mazowiecki campaign is expected to contrast sharply with that of Solidarity leader Lech Walesa, who has been barnstorming across the country since announcing his candidacy two weeks ago.

''Our candidate as a responsible politician has to give precedence in his political calendar to tasks related to directing the governments current work '' Wozniakowski said. ''We are planning literally a few meetings with the voters.''

In Gdansk, U.S. Ambassador Thomas Simons met with Walesa for an hour and discussed the present situation in Poland as well as the campaign.

''Poland has a chance to have two good candidates for president,'' he told reporters afterward. ''We are awaiting further development of the election campaign.''

Walesa, who is Mazowiecki's main opponent among the 14 announced presidential candidates, offered to hold a public debate with Mazowiecki before the election Nov. 25.

''We are thinking about it, but it is not certain if such a debate (between the two) is legal when there are so many candidates,'' Wozniakowski said.

Adam Szostkiewicz, a spokesman for the committee, said along with other documents, a letter was filed containing suggestions for access to the state television and radio by various candidates.

State Radio-TV Chairman Andrzej Drawicz has proposed one hour of television time for the entire campaign. The State Election Commission meets to discuss the media rules Oct. 18.

''One hour for the whole campaign is far too little,'' Szostkiewicz said. ''We suggest two hours and we propose to include responses (by the candidates) and corrections into the limit so as not to bore our potential electorate.''

Wozniakowski said the committee will seek a bank loan of $100,000 to start with.

Two recent public opinion polls by private companies showed Walesa ahead at this early stage of the campaign. A national poll showed him edging Mazowiecki by 5 percent, while a survey in Warsaw showed him 14 percent ahead.

Szostkiewicz did not comment on the results but noted the second poll was ordered by the Center Alliance, the main group which backs Walesa. He said his committee plans to order a poll as well.

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (OCT. 16) UPI - The judge hearing the obscenity trial of rap group 2 Live Crew refused Tuesday to allow prosecutors to give jurors a transcript of the band's controversial concert, saying it could unduly influence the jury's perception of the performance.

Courtroom spectators were asked for proof of age at the door and no one under 18 was allowed to hear prosecutors' digitally enhanced recording of the Miami group's June performance at Club Futura in Hollywood.

The 50-minute tape, made by undercover sheriff's deputies, was played while Broward County Judge June Johnson followed along, reading the government's transcript as the music blared from two large speakers.

Prosecutors wanted to distribute the transcript to jurors to help them understand the largely unintelligible tape of the concert, held two days after a federal judge ruled songs from the group's album, ''As Nasty As They Wanna Be,'' were obscene.

In disallowing the transcript, Johnson said it could distort the jury's perception of the concert because it contained added information, including descriptions of what was happening on the stage, and cautioned that graphic language would follow.

''I do believe this would detract from the jury's ability to judge the performance as a whole,'' she said. The judge later swore in the jury and sequestered the panel for the duration of the trial.

The ruling was the first of two victories Tuesday for attorneys representing bandleader Luther Campbell, Mark Ross and Christopher Wongwon, who are charged with a misdemeanor offense of giving an obscene performance. If convicted, each would face a maximum penalty of a year in jail and a $1,000 fine.

Johnson also dealt prosecutors a blow when she refused to allow information about an earlier concert to be presented.

On the night in question, the band gave an earlier concert for fans under 18 that did not contain the graphic language or simulated sex acts of the later performance for people older than 18.

Assistant State Attorney Leslie Robson said that Campbell's caution to the first audience that he could not perform the ''X-rated'' version showed that he intended to perform an obscene concert later.

The defense argued the first concert was irrelevant because the band members were only charged with what was said during the second concert.

Before listening to the tape, Johnson was told a school class and other young people wanted to watch the proceedings, prompting the judge to order bailiffs to ask for identification from anyone who looked younger than 18.

''If they're not (18), they will be turned away,'' the judge said.

Johnson sat expressionless while prosecutors played the tape. A few spectators quietly nodded and tapped their feet to the rhythm.

Some suppressed giggles when the group chanted, ''F-- Navarro. F--, F-- Navarro,'' a reference to Broward County Sheriff Nick Navarro, whose deputies arrested the band.

When prosecutors said they also had another version of the tape, the judge said, ''If we do listen to another tape, I'd like to move the speaker,'' referring to one about three feet from her desk. ''I heard very well.''

NEW YORK (OCT. 16) UPI - ''The Simpsons'' finally went head-to-head with original programming against ''The Cosby Show,'' and ''Cosby'' came out a winner - but just barely, it was reported Tuesday.

''The Cosby Show'' slipped from No. 2 the previous week to seventh place in the Nielsen ratings, with ''The Simpsons'' tied for eighth. The numbers show how close it really was - an 18.5 rating and a 29 share for ''Cosby,'' and an 18.4 rating and a 29 share for ''The Simpsons.''

Preston Beckman, vice president, research, for NBC, pointed out that the big ratings for ''The Simpsons'' on Fox was not at the expense of ''Cosby.'' They meant more people were watching television.

''If you look at the first three weeks of 'Cosby' originals and compare them with the first night of 'Cosby' against an original 'Simpsons,' there's virtually no change in the 'Cosby' numbers,'' Beckman said.

For the first three shows, he said, Cosby averaged a 19.2 rating and a 32 share, which means 'Cosby' was down seven-tenths of a rating point.

''The HUT (homes using television) level was about six percent higher this past Thursday night,'' Beckman said.

NBC's strategy of targeting women during the baseball season paid off - ''Jackie Collins' Lucky/Chances,'' part 3 came in fourth for the week, while part 2 tied for 15th.

CBS expressed satisfaction with the ratings performance of the major league playoff games, despite its third place finish for the week. The network said the six primetime playoff games - three last week, three the previous week - improved the CBS ratings performance by nine percent compared to the regular programming it replaced.

Baseball gave CBS its highest-rated Wednesday night of the season and the Friday game - the most-watched of the playoffs - helped CBS win the night for the first time this season.

In the Sunday movie competition, ABC won with ''In Defense Of A Married Man'' in 31st place, followed by NBC's ''A Quiet Little Neighborhood, A Perfect Little Murder'' tied for 41st and CBS's ''Murder Times Seven'' in 50th.

Among the new shows, the highest-ranked was ''America's Funniest People'' (ABC), in 12th place, followed by ''Fresh Prince of Bel Air'' (NBC), 29th; ''Law & Order'' (NBC) and ''Married People'' (ABC), tied for 38th; ''Ferris Bueller'' (NBC), 45th; ''The Fanelli Boys'' (NBC), 46th; ''Uncle Buck'' (CBS) and ''Going Places'' (ABC), tied for 47th.

''American Dreamer'' (NBC) came in 53rd; ''Babes'' (Fox), 56th; ''Working It Out'' (NBC), 57th; ''Get A Life'' (Fox), 61st; ''Good Grief'' (Fox), tied for 66th; ''Parenthood'' (NBC), 68th.

Down at the bottom are ''The Flash'' (CBS), 71st; ''Cop Rock'' (ABC), 72nd; ''Parker Lewis'' (Fox), 73rd; ''Beverly Hills 90210'' (Fox), 75th; ''Family Man'' (CBS), 77th; ''Lifestories'' (NBC) tied for 78th; ''True Colors'' (Fox), 82nd; ''Hull High'' (NBC), 83rd; ''DEA'' (Fox), 86th; ''American Chronicles'' (Fox), 87th and ''Against the Law'' (Fox), at the bottom in 88th.

In the ratings for the week ending Oct. 14, according to the A.C. Nielsen Co., NBC won with a 13.7 rating and a 23 share. ABC was second with a 13.2 rating and a 22 share, while CBS posted a 12.0 rating and a 20 share.

In the four-week-old season-to-date, NBC leads with a 13.2 rating and 22 share followed by ABC with a 12.7 rating and a 22 share, just ahead of CBS with a 12.5 rating and a 21 share.

Night-by-night competition saw NBC win Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday. ABC took Sunday and Monday and CBS won Friday.

ABC's ''World News Tonight'' was No. 1 for the 40th consecutive week, with an11.0 rating and a 22 share. ''NBC Nightly News'' with Tom Brokaw was second with a 9.9 rating and a 20 share. KHARTOUM, Sudan (OCT. 16) UPI - The govenrment warned Tuesday it would shoot down unauthorized food aid planes in southern Sudan in a bitter intensification of a war of words with famine relief donors.

Col. Mohamed Amin Khalifa, a member of the country's ruling Revolutionary Command Council, said in a newspaper interview that the Sudanese air force retains the right to shoot down any unidentified plane flying over Sudanese airspace or breaching provisions of an agreement concluded with the United Nations for airlifting relief supplies into southern Sudan.

Sudan has complained in recent weeks that U.N. agencies and other relief organizations have sent famine relief supplies only to areas held by rebels fighting a seven-year war in the south against domination by the Islamic north.

It has also complained, as has former President Jimmy Carter, that the United States is playing politics with up to 6 million famine- threatened lives by withholding aid because Sudan supports Iraq in the Persian Gulf conflict.

Khalifa said the United States had ''miscalculated its move in trying to famish and apply the policy of starving Sudan into submission.''

The United States last week diverted a 90,000-ton food ship from Port Sudan on the Red Sea to Djibouti because of reports the Khartoum government had bombed refugee camps in southern Sudan.

Harvest failures, displacement of people and logistical problems caused by the civil war mean that 5 million Sudanese and 1 million Ethiopian refugees are at risk of starvatuib in the next year, Western aid officials have warned.

NEW DELHI, India (OCT. 16) UPI - Black leader Nelson Mandela welcomed the repeal of one of South Africa's main apartheid laws, but said Tuesday anything less than granting full voting rights to all South Africans was ''basically no solution whatsoever.''

The deputy president of the African National Congress made his remarks during a news conference on the second day of a five-day visit to India, where he is being treated as a head of state.

Asked about South Africa's abolition Monday of its Separate Amenities Act, a mainstay of apartheid legislation, Mandela said the ''removal of any measure of apartheid in South Africa is a clear step forward and we welcome all such changes.''

The 37-year-old law segregated public facilities such as toilets and swimming pools. The repeal of the law was the first major reformist measure introduced by President Frederik De Klerk, who has pledged to repeal all racist laws.

''But let us be clear as to the issues in South Africa,'' Mandela added. ''The issue in South Africa is the extension of the vote to all South Africans irrespective of their color and political views, and anything less than that is basically no solution whatsoever.''

Mandela said that the fight in South Africa was ''over the demand of one person, one vote.

''And as long as that demand has not been conceded any other measure, any other change, will remain peripheral and is not going to affect at all the demands that are being made by the people and the strategies that have been adopted to bring about democratic change in South Africa, '' Mandela said.

Earlier in the day, the government presented Mandela with India's highest civilian award, the Bharat Ratna. He is only the second foreigner to receive the honor.

On Wednesday, Mandela is scheduled to fly to Agra to visit the Taj Mahal before traveling on to the Hindu holy city of Varanasi to receive a doctorate degree from the Banaras Hindu University.

Mandela, who is accompanied by a five-member delegation, is then slated to fly to Calcutta Thursday morning to receive the prestigious Jamanlal Bajaj award for his contribution to humanity.

He is scheduled to leave India for Brunei Friday. Also planned are visits to Malaysia, Indonesia, Australia and Japan before he returns to Johannesburg.

BANGKOK, Thailand (OCT. 16) UPI - A ministerial-level conference on the environment in Asia concluded Tuesday with a call for ''sustainable development'' and for the industrial countries to pay most of the costs of cleaning up the environment.

''The major cause of the continuing deterioration of the global environment is the unsustainable pattern of production and consumption, particularly in industrialized countries,'' said a declaration unanimously approved by the 42 nations attending the conference.

The declaration said ''the responsibility for containing, reducing and eliminating environmental damage must be borne by the countries causing such damage.''

It asked for increases in voluntary contributions towards implementing environmental projects from the major industrial countries, who were represented at the conference along with most of the countries of Asia and the Pacific.

However, the conference - organized by the U.N. Economic and Social Commission for Asia and the Pacific - failed to complete a planned regional strategy on evironmentally sound development.

The conference was one of several leading up to the worldwide U.N. Conference on Environment and Development scheduled to take place in Brazil in 1992.

A lengthy regional environmental report said forest destruction, desertification, soil erosion, flooding, destruction of mangroves and corals, air and water pollution, the destruction of the ozone layer and global warming due to emission of ''greenhouse'' gases posed a serious threat to the region.

''Economic growth should be directed towards environmentally sound and sustainable development,'' the declaration said.

It also called for more effective control on population growth, recommended strengthening non-governmental organizations working for environmental protection and affirmed the right of the public to be informed of environmental problems and take part in efforts to solve them.

''This is an historic event for the Asia-Pacific region,'' said S.A.M.S. Kibria, executive secretary of the U.N. economic commission.

''For the first time a multi-disciplinary approach to sustainable development has been adopted,'' he said.

He said the conference's conclusions and reports would have a major impact on the policies of the national governments and international organizations involved.

Kibria warned, however, a downturn in world economic growth from the crisis in the Persian Gulf could reduce the amount of money available to carry out environmental projects

''If the (world economic) growth rate is affected, I don't expect the development and environmental protection efforts will prosper,'' he said. ''I think there will be a very negative impact.''

Kibria said the Asia strategy outline was held up by differences over the roles to be played by countries at different levels of development.

He said, however, that work on the regional strategy would continue and a deadline was set for it to be finished by February, 1991.

AUSTIN, Texas (OCT. 16) UPI - U.S. crude oil reserves could be increased 5.9 billion barrels if Congress provided new incentives to encourage companies to extract hard-to-get oil, a new study said Tuesday.

And the report said the incentives would attract $50 billion in investments in petroleum production while increasing U.S. production by another 130 million barrels annually by the late 1990s.

Other benefits would include the creation of 53,000 new jobs nationwide and an increase in national income of $5.1 billion by the end of the century.

The study by the University of Texas' Bureau of Economic Geology and Southwest Econometrics Inc., said the new incentives should include a 10 percent investment tax credit that would cover expensive ''advanced secondary recovery'' techniques.

Those methods include horizontal drilling, geologically targeted infill drilling, cross-reservoir flooding with water and drilling for ''bypassed oil.''

The study, commissioned by the governor's office, said the Enhanced Oil and Gas Recovery Tax Act of 1989 should be expanded to include a 10 percent investment tax credit and ''advanced secondary recovery'' techniques should qualify for any new incentives.

The 1989 federal law provides incentives to drillers using ''enhanced oil recovery,'' but the report said the incentives should be extended to oil ''contained in reservoirs of such complexity that recovery is inhibited.''

The proposed new incentives would provide ''an effective, low-cost means of encouraging development of U.S. oil reserves that, along with other initiatives, will allow the U.S. to stabilize and perhaps reverse its production decline and to hold rising import levels in check.''

About one-fourth of the 8 million barrels of oil imported daily by the United States comes from the troubled Persian Gulf area, which has been in turmoil since Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait.

The Texas Railroad Commission says it has already identified about 8 billion barrels of oil that could be produced in Texas through enhanced recovery techniques.

The commission said enhanced recovery techniques have been attempted in only about 3,000 of the more than 75,000 oil reservoirs that have been discovered in Texas.

Texas produces nearly 2 million barrels of oil daily.

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (OCT. 16) UPI - At least 14 people were killed in heavy fighting as government troops swept through rebel strongholds in northern El Salvador, military sources said Tuesday.

''The army engaged in heavy fighting with rebel units Monday, killing 12 (rebels) in the rural zone near the town of Jocoaitique, Morazan,'' an armed forces spokesman said.

The spokesman said two soldiers were killed and three others were wounded during the operation.

The clandestine Radio Venceremos of the rebel Farabundo Marti National Liberation Front, or FMLN, confirmed ''fierce combat'' in the area and said the rebels injured or killed eight soldiers. They did not give their casualty figures.

The northern part of Morazan province, about 70 miles northeast of San Salvador, has long been a rebel stronghold. Government troops rarely enter the area, but they do make occasional wide-scale raids.

Area residents reported heavy rocketing by the Salvadoran air force in the Jocoaitique area of Morazan province Sunday night, and the military said it dismantled three guerrilla camps near the town.

Government troops dismantled six other guerrilla camps during recent sweeps in the central provinces of Cabanas and Usulutan, army sources said.

The move against rebel positions cames as Defense Minister Rene Emilio Ponce denounced rebel threats to launch an offensive, saying such a move by the guerrillas would undermine ongoing negotiations to find a political solution to El Salvador's decade-old civil war that has cost more than 72,000 lives, mostly civilians.

RALEIGH, N.C. (OCT. 16) UPI - In probably the most incendiary race of the political season, North Carolina Republican Jesse Helms and Democrat Harvey Gantt can agree on one thing - their battle for the U.S. Senate is a fight for the future.

And with polls showing the arch-conservative Helms and the liberal black Democrat Gantt in a virtual dead heat, there is little indication of what exactly will shift the electorate to the left or right.

That the race is in North Carolina only adds to the confusion. After all, this state has sent Helms to the Senate for 18 years, while also electing Sen. Terry Sanford, one of the more liberal Democrats in the Senate.

''If Gantt does win, it is because he was an acceptable candidate on the ballot in a year when North Carolinians decided Helms represented the past and not the future,'' said Larry Sabato, government professor at the University of Virginia in Charlottesville.

''This is a struggle for the future,'' said Sabato. ''That's the way Gantt is portraying it. Helms, of course, is portraying it the same way. He portrays Gantt as the candidate of the future the people might not want. Gantt attempts to present himself as the future and Helms as the past.''

The most recent poll shows Gantt, a former two-term mayor of Charlotte, with 43.5 percent of the vote to 42.7 percent for Helms and 9 percent undecided. The survey had a margin of error of about 4 percent.

Unlike races in some states, where candidates use moderate positions to fight for the same middle-of-the-road voters, there is little effort by Helms or Gantt to hide their differences.

With three weeks to go to Election Day, North Carolinians have become used to both candidates taking the offensive against each other. But neither has managed to land a truly heavy punch.

Gantt, 47, has hammered away at the need to improve education, better protect the environment and provide more health care for the poor and elderly.

Helms, 68, has taken the conservative high ground, criticizing Gantt's support for abortion, tax increases for Charlotte during his stint as mayor, and calling Gantt ''extremely liberal with the facts.''

Virtually unspoken has been the issue of race.

If he wins, Gantt, who was first black admitted to Clemson University, would be the first black to capture a statewide office in North Carolina since Reconstruction. Only last year, voters in the neighboring state of Virginia elected the nation's only black governor when they sent Democrat Douglas Wilder to Richmond.

But Sabato said the issues will not make or break the election. Instead, he claimed, it will turn on the timeliness of Helms's unwavering conservatism - and whether the state still wants to be identified with his ideology.

''Helms has been the issue since he began his Senate career,'' said Sabato. ''If anything, that fact has become more pronounced over the years. The longer he's in, the more controversial Helms seems.''

That controversy seems to have reached a new height this year with Helms's aggressive positions against federal funding of various arts projects and large increases in AIDS research funding.

Seeing the race as a chance to drive out an enemy, artists and actors in New York and San Francisco, citing Helms's attack on the National Endowment for the Arts, have rallied to Gantt's cause with fund-raisers.

As of the financial reports filed Tuesday, Gantt had raised about $4 million, with about $3.2 million of that coming between July 1 and Sept. 30. Helms's figures were not available Tuesday, but for the first half of the year he had raised nearly $8 million.

Liberal activists also have been vocal about their opposition to Helms, but the incumbent has tried to make the most of that.

Helms last Friday canceled a speech in Georgia after 800 demonstrators gathered outside to protest his opposition to AIDS relief policies. He then told 125 supporters in a weekend rally in Greenville, N.C., that Gantt ''has all my enemies as his supporters.''

''I would rather 10 times over lose with you than win with that crowd. Mr. Gantt can have them,'' said Helms to thunderous applause. ''I think God is giving this country one more chance to save itself. What's going on in this country, what is being condoned ... if something doesn't happen in this country, maybe we ought to apologize to Sodom and Gomorrah.''

For his part, Gantt has tried to sell his candidacy as one for the downtrodden.

''You are going to have to ask yourself this question: 'What did I vote for? Did I vote for my children? Did I vote for poor people? Did I vote for health care? Did I vote for the environment?''' he said.

Still, Sabato said those issues and even the federal budget mess and the Persian Gulf crisis - Helms initially opposed sending U.S. troops without backup from allies - will have little impact in a race with such strong ideological differences.

''Helms presents a stark choice,'' said Sabato. ''I don't see any one issue, cause or interest group being all that critical.

''Jesse Helms is the issue the election is about. It is in essence, a referendum on Jesse Helms. It just may be that North Carolina may have changed to the point that they'll elect someone else.''

BOSTON (OCT. 16) UPI - Changes in the Medicare system aimed at cutting costs led to patients being sent home from hospitals faster and more often in less stable condition, but did not apparently increase deaths, researchers reported Tuesday.

For a $3.9 million, government-funded study, researchers at the RAND Corp. of Santa Monica, Calif., studied 14,012 Medicare patients, comparing those hospitalized in 1981 and 1982 to those hospitalized in 1985 and 1986.

In 1983, the goverment implemented the so-called diagnosis-related group, or DRG system, which involves reimbursing doctors caring for Medicare patients based on a set fee for a type of diagnosis rather than for the actual cost of care.

The average time spent in the hospital in 1985 and 1986 was 3.4 days - a decline of 24 percent from 1981 and 1982, the researchers reported in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Slightly more patients also were sent home in unstable condition after the changes, prompting the researchers to recommend doctors try to avoid discharging patients with problems such as rapid heart beat, fast breathing or confusion or care for such people better after they are sent home.

The study found, however, that the death rate within 30 days of admission for patients hospitalized in 1985 and 1986 was 1.1 percent lower than for those hospitalized in 1981 and 1982, the researchers said.

Despite the shorter stays, patients in 1985 and 1986 tended to be sicker than those in 1981 and 1982, perhaps because of more stringent admission standards, the researchers said.

Although the percentage of patients receiving care the researchers classified as ''poor'' or ''very poor'' declined from 25 percent before the changes to 12 percent afterward, poor care remains a serious concern, the researchers said.

Those receiving very poor care were nearly twice as likely to die within 30 days of hospital admission than those who got very good care.

AMMAN, Jordan (OCT. 16) UPI - Prime Minister Mudar Badran denied Tuesday that trucks moving between Iraq and Jordan were carrying goods in violation of the U.N. trade embargo, saying they were loaded with furniture of Jordanians returning from Kuwait.

In an interview with the English-language daily, the Jordan Times, to be published on Wednesday, Badran reaffirmed that his kingdom was abiding by the U.N.-imposed trade sanctions on Iraq, Jordan's main trading partner.

''Jordan is strictly abiding by the Security Council Resolution 661 imposing trade sanctions on Iraq,'' Badran said. ''If there is any movement of trucks between Jordan and Iraq, it is strictly based on moving the furniture from Kuwait to Jordanian nationals who have returned.''

Badran said that the trucks going from Jordan to Iraq were empty.

He added that out of the 420,000 Jordanian nationals living in Kuwait, mostly of whom were of Palestinian origin, 130,000 have been repatriated since Iraq invaded the small oil-rich Gulf state on Aug. 2.

Badran said that Jordan's economic losses resulting from complying with the trade embargo on Iraq was estimated at $110 million for 1990, and $250 million for 1991.

He added that because of the Persian Gulf crisis, Jordan had already lost $250 million this year in the tourism industry.

Jordan suffers one of the highest per capita national debts with $8.5 billion and has been complaining that the country needed to be compensated for abiding by the sanctions on Iraq.

Although the government said they needed $1.5 billion by the end of this year to cover its losses from the crisis, only a trickle of aid has come in from Japan and Germany.

CAMP MIDWAY, Saudi Arabia (OCT. 16) UPI - Comedian Steve Martin, the ''wild and crazy guy'' whose ''well excuuuuse me'' line entered American lingo, visited U.S. troops in the desert Tuesday but kept it more a social call than a show.

The first entertainer brought to Saudi Arabia by the USO, Martin and his wife, actress Victoria Tennant, signed autographs, cracked a few jokes and walked among about 500 members of the 24th Infantry Division, an M-1 tank unit based at Fort Stewart, Ga.

Climbing aboard one of the huge tanks, Martin joked ''we're going to put a condo here'' next to the tank bearing a sign reading ''Speed and Power Beach Club.''

''The pool is on the other side,'' said Martin, who starred this year in the movie ''My Blue Heaven.''

He explained to the troops that rather than putting on a show - ''they said they didn't want us to do a show'' - that he would just talk with the soldiers.

''What we're going to do is do what they call grip and grin - we grip your hand and grin at you. It's all we can do.''

''We also have a few souveniers for you,'' said Martin, who arrived from an earlier stop on a Blackhawk helicopter in camouflage clothing, sporting a variety of badges and pilot's wings from units he has visited.

He kept the appearance low key, walking through the ranks and handing out cards and fliers bearing his picture. His wife signed hear name to a large banner with a caricature of Martin with his trademark arrow through the head. The banner bore the slogan ''Martin for President.'' Martin later also signed it.

Martin and his wife were the first civilians the troops had seen in some time other than an occasional Bedouin passing through. Morale was bolstered by the visit to soldiers who groused about their chow and the fact that they had just gotten their sleeping cots.

Martin, who made five such stops on Tuesday, will be visiting troops until Sunday.

One soldier asked if he could stay, and Martin joked, ''Oh God, I've got a meeting.''

Although he did not put on a show, be banteared with reporters.

He said he decided to visit the troops because ''I felt guilty. Everybody coming out here, giving up part of their lives for this effort. I had some time off and I felt kind of bad just sitting there, so I came.''

He passed on one opportunity to rip off a one-liner about the gulf crisis, declaring ''It's not too funny,'' but he did say, ''I've got the answer for Saddam Hussein. If the press would just keep talking about his mistress, his wife would kill him.''

He said other personalities, such as boxer Thomas Hearns would be coming to visit the troops.

At the end of his visit Martin walked around the tank where a USO camera crew taped a public service spot in which Martin posed before a tank covered with soldies and said, ''Mr. President, I'm Steve Martin, and the proceeds of your call will go to the USO and all the great people serving here.''

The soldiers shouted in unison, ''Thank you, America.''

WASHINGTON (OCT. 16) UPI - The president of the National Bureau of Economic Research said Tuesday the Federal Reserve should lower short-term interest rates but should not alter its focus on six percent growth in the Gross National Product.

Martin Feldstein, in a speech to a forum sponsored by the American Stock Exchange, said current short-term interest rates could lead to negative GNP growth.

But, he said the Fed's focus should remain on sustaining six percent growth in GNP, even if that leads to a temporary stretch of tough economic sledding. "If the Fed sticks to its strategy we'll see a slowdown for the next two quarters and gradual acceleration in mid-1991," he said.

Feldstein said the economy is now in a slowdown phase, but cautioned that "one month of downturn doesn't make a recession." Feldstein also urged the Fed to increase the stock of money by aiming for a nine percent gain in monetary growth for the next six months and a six percent growth rate for the following 12 months. "(Monetary) growth is too low this year to support six percent GNP growth," he said.

Feldstein said it would be "appropriate" for the Federal Reserve to lower short-term interest rates should an agreement be reached the federal budget. Fed Chairman Alan Greenspan has said he would move toward easing if a "credible" budget solution is hammered out. Greenspan, who also addressed the forum, limited his comments to Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union.

Turning to the dollar, Feldstein said market pressures are likely to continue pushing the value of the dollar down against other major currencies. "It would be wrong to pursue tighter monetary policy to prevent a further decline in the dollar," he said.

WASHINGTON (OCT. 16) UPI - The federal government sued two steel companies and a metal manufacturer Tuesday for polluting Indiana waterways that feed into Lake Michigan.

"Pollution has been a persistent problem in Northwest Indiana and cleanup is an important part in each of these cases," said Valdas Adamkus, regional administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency.

"Companies in Northwest Indiana are expected to be good environmental citizens " he said. "They must not only comply with environmental laws but also accept responsibility for the problems they have created and then ignored."

The manufacturers are charged with violating the federal Clean Water Act, the Safe Drinking Water Act, the Resource Conservation and Recovery Act and the Clean Air Act.

The lawsuits, filed in the Northern District of Indiana and announced in Washington, charge the companies with polluting the Grand Calumet River and Indiana Harbor, waterways that lead to Lake Michigan.

The three manufacturers named in the civil cases operate in Indiana. They include the East Chicago plant of Inland Steel Co., the Burns Harbor plant of Bethlehem Steel Corp. and the Whiting facility of Federated Metals Corp. The Justice Department said the maximum possible penalty under each statute is $25,000 per day per violation.

The lawsuit against Inland Steel seeks to prevent the company from illegally dumping pollutants into the Grand Calumet River and the Indiana Harbor and to meet air pollution control requirements. The lawsuit also seeks an investigation and cleanup of contamination from Inland's facility, located on a 2.5-mile man-made peninsula on Lake Michigan.

The lawsuit against Bethlehem seeks to have the company comply with hazardous waste disposal laws at its Burns Harbor site. The government is seeking to have Federated Metals identify and clean up toxic waste disposed at its old secondary smelter in Whiting.

DHAKA, Bangladesh (OCT. 16) UPI - Coalitions representing various opposition parties announced plans Tuesday for demonstrations and rallies to press their demand for the ouster of President Hussain Mohammad Ershad.

The parties and alliances, meeting at separate rallies, said the protests would culminate Nov. 10 in a full-day general strike.

The planned events were scheduled to begin Friday with a day of mourning in memory of the eight people, including three students, who died in the past week when police fired on anti-government protesters.

Subsequent events will include ''agitation day'' on Sunday, a protest rally Oct. 23 at police headquarters, and protest rallies Nov. 5 at radio and television stations demanding the broadcast of what the parties consider objective news.

The opposition includes an eight-party alliance led by the Awami League, a seven-party alliance led by the Bangladesh Nationalist Party, a five-party left alliance, and the Islamic fundamentalist party Jamaat- e Islami.

The opposition party leaders said they will continue their joint actions until they succeed in ousting Ershad, who took power in a bloodless coup in March 1982.

CHICAGO (OCT. 16) UPI - University of Chicago business professor Merton Miller was a bit put out when his phone rang at 5:45 a.m. Tuesday.

But he got over it. It was the Nobel Prize committee calling.

Miller, 67, became the third current Chicago faculty member to receive the Nobel Memorial Prize in Economic Science. The university faculty now boasts a total of eight winners in the various Nobel disciplines. Sixty faculty members or former students have won the honor.

''I don't think it will change anything in my work or my life,'' Miller said. ''Maybe I will tell my colleagues that now they can't criticize me so much at our seminars. But, knowing my colleagues, they won't pay any attention to that.''

Miller said his first reaction Tuesday was indignation when the phone rang at 5:45 a.m..

''My wife happened to grab the phone,'' Miller said. ''The line went dead. Then it rang again. Figuring it was a wrong number, I said, 'Let me take this one.'

''I picked it up and I barked, 'Hello,' in there and I heard these dulcet Swedish tones. ... Suddenly it dawned on me (and I thought) 'Oh my God.'

''I'm just overwhelmed.''

Miller is one of three U.S. professors to receive this year's Nobel in economics. The others are Harry Markowitz of City University of New York and William Sharpe of Stanford University.

Miller received his prize for a theory explaining the relation, or lack of one between firms' capital asset structure and dividend policy on the one hand and their market value on the other. It was developed along with Franco Modigliani, who won the Nobel Prize in Economics in 1985.

Miller illustrated his theory with a Yogi Berra story:

''After the game, a pizza man came into the dugout and said, 'Yogi, how do you want your pizza cut? You want it cut in quarters or eight pieces?' And Yogi says, 'Cut it into eight pieces. I'm feeling hungry tonight.'

''You can think of the firm out there as a gigantic pizza and it has income and it has risk and underlying assets and all of the securities the firm issues. It's simply different ways of slicing up the pizza. The essence of (my) proposition is that it doesn't matter how you slice up the pizza. It's always going to be the same pizza. It's just going to be cut in different pieces,'' he said.

Miller described dividends as taking money from one pocket and putting it into another, something that does not affect a company's value.

''We feel that the superstructure of financial overlay on a firm is not as important as people think it is. What determines value is underlying assets,'' he said.

University of Chicago President Hanna Gray praised Miller as ''the best of our university and its graduate school of business.''

''He is a great scholar and teacher and also a wonderful citizen of our community,'' she said. ''We are immensely proud of him and greatly honored by his presence on our faculty.''

Miller received a standing ovation from his students when he entered class Tuesday morning.

''I have been telling my students how important it is that they get to class on time. Now I'll have to tell them that they can't expect a day off just because I've won an award,'' he said.

Miller called the award ''very satisfying'' and said he was pleased this year's prize went ''exclusively to people from business schools rather than from economics departments. It's also a recognition that the field of finance has fully arrived.''

LONG BEACH, CA (OCT. 16) UPI - Douglas Aircraft Co. said Tuesday it has sent out 1,000 pink slips this week in the last round of 8,000 layoffs at the aircraft company this year.

"This should be the last time this year that we have a significant amount of layoffs," said Donald Hanson, a Douglas spokesman. Nearly all of the latest layoffs, which give workers 60 days' notice, have hit administrative and support staff, rather than assembly line workers.

The latest round of cuts will reduce Douglas' work force to about 45,000 by the end of the year. The company, a unit of St. Louis-based McDonnell Douglas Corp., operates a huge assembly plant in Long Beach and other factories in Torrance, Calif.; Salt Lake City; Columbus, Ohio, and Macon, Ga. In Long Beach Douglas builds the MD-80 twin-jet, the new MD-11 long-range tri-jet and the new C-17 cargo jet for the Air Force.

Douglas, which hit a peak employment figure in the first quarter of nearly 53,000, first announced in late April that it would lay off up to 4,000 workers.

That figure doubled in July after McDonnell Douglas, hit by a string of poor earnings reports, announced that it would take steps to reduce operating costs by $700 million a year. "We have been going through a continuing process since May of giving layoff notices," Hansen said.

McDonnell Douglas, which is also the nation's largest defense contractor, earned $59 million in the first six months of this year on sales of $7.94 billion. During that period, Douglas lost $117 million. The parent company has taken on a heavy debt load - $5.2 billion as of June 30 - partly to get the MD-11 and C-17 programs operating.

"Douglas is the key to the company's long-term outlook," said aerospace analyst George Podrasky of the Duff & Phelps rating agency in Chicago. "If the company is going to grow over the next five years, it will be from that segment."

The MD-11 is going through final flight testing with government certification due within a month, Hanson said. First deliveries of the plane, which has a price tag of about $100 million each, should start in December, he said.

Douglas' order books are at an all-time high, with 173 firm orders for the MD-11 along with 202 options, as of Sept. 30, and 432 firm orders for the MD-80 along with 498 options. Analysts say each MD-80 has a $30 million price tag.

But the C-17 program, which employs about 8,000 workers, has been beset with problems. The Pentagon disclosed several weeks ago it had withheld $300 million for the work because of disagreements over the cost of developing the military transport jet.

Podrasky said that investors are uncertain about the McDonnell Douglas stock because of Douglas, potentially large losses on the A-12 attack jet and an unclear picture of how much Congress will allocate to the defense budget. "McDonnell Douglas is sort of a hybrid beast and its earnings have been pretty inconsistent," Podrasky said.

ORLANDO, FL (OCT. 16) UPI - The average price of regular gasoline sold at self-service pumps nationwide continued to rise in the past week, but at a slower pace than before, the American Automobile Association said Tuesday.

The average price of unleaded gasoline rose 0.9 cents to $1.379 a gallon, or just 0.9 cents below the highest price ever recorded by the group, the AAA said. The price had been climbing on the average by 2.6 cents a week for the past three weeks, the association said.

The AAA said the average price for regular gasoline peaked at $1.388 in 1981 just prior to Easter weekend. The last increase means gasoline prices currently are 30.4 cents higher than on Aug. 1, the day before Iraq invaded Kuwait, the AAA said.

Prices declined during the past week in the Midwest, while rising in every other region of the country, the AAA said. The organization found the steepest hike in the Mid-Atlantic region.

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (OCT. 16) UPI - The eight-man presidency met national leaders Tuesday to break a deadlock over Yugoslavia's political future only a day before a critical Parliament session at which proposed constitutional reforms were to be announced.

The meeting came amid speculation in major newspapers that failure to agree on whether Yugoslavia should be a federation or confederation could result in both plans being presented to the national Legislature.

President Borisav Jovic, the current holder of the presidency's annually rotating chairmanship, was scheduled to disclose the collective head of state's recommendations to Parliament in a a nationally broadcast address Wednesday.

Major dailies said that if Jovic outlined only a federation plan, Janez Drnovsek, the presidency member from the maverick Slovenian Republic, might insist on the right to present a counter proposal for confederation.

An official statement said the panel was joined in its deliberations by senior national leaders, including Serbia's communist president, Slobodan Milosevic, and his rivals, Milan Kucan of Slovenia and Franjo Tudjman of Croatia.

It said that the results of the meeting would be withheld until the Parliament session.

The meeting considered ''a constitutional way out of the crisis ... and about all of this the public and the Parliament will be informed at the parliamentary session,'' the statement said.

It gave no further details.

The recommendations would be used as the basis for the drafting of a new constitution to replace the Marxist-style document adopted in 1974. The new constitution would be enacted after multi-party parliamentary elections expected before the end of the year.

The dispute over constitutional reforms is linked to longstanding differences between Yugoslavia's major ethnic groups and many people fear it could help ignite a civil war.

The presidency resumed deliberations suspended last week on selecting between two competing plans. One calls for maintaining Yugoslavia as a federation of 23 million people in six republics. But the central government would be made more powerful than the republics, whose governments are currently under no real federal control.

The second plan envisions a confederation of independent states with separate militaries, currencies and foreign policies, but linked through common economic interests, including a single Western-style market.

Federation is favored by communist-ruled Serbia - the nation's largest republic - its provinces of Vojvodina and Kosovo, and the Republic of Montenegro.

Federation is also supported by federal Prime Minister Ante Markovic, but he disagrees with Serbia over economic issues and the question of internal borders.

The confederation proposal was co-authored by Roman Catholic Croatia and Slovenia, which fear that the demise earlier this year of strong national communist rule will lead to domination of a federal system by the nation's 8.5 million-strong Orthodox Serbian majority.

The republics of Bosnia-Hercegovina and Macedonia favor federation, but with a weak federal government.

Participants in last week's meetings of the presidency, comprised of a representative from each republic and province, said the body was deadlocked along partisan lines. Croatian and Slovenian officials expressed fears that Jovic, a Serb, would recommend federation.

The Croatian and Slovenian ruling parties, which ousted communists in April in Yugoslavia's first multi-party elections since 1945, have said they would likely secede if the federation plan is eventually adopted.

Serbia's ruling communists say, however, that they would only agree to confederation if the present borders of Serbia were expanded to include Serbian-inhabited regions of Bosnia-Hercegovina and Croatia, a potentially explosive demand.

The stand appears calculated to appeal to rising Serbian nationalism and win the communists crucial votes in December, when they face their first multi-party polls for the republic's assembly.

TORONTO (OCT. 16) UPI - The Canadian Auto Workers union said Tuesday it set midnight Oct. 25 as its deadline for a settlement with Chrysler Canada Ltd. Union president Bob White said he expected Chrysler to meet the pattern settlement reached earlier at Ford Motor Co. of Canada and later met by General Motors of Canada.

The pattern includes wage increases of three percent in the first year and two percent in each of the second and third years, improved cost-of-living protection, an annual $425 vacation bonus and more time off the job.

Ken Francese, Chrysler Canada's vice-president of human relations, refused to comment on whether the auto maker would meet the pattern, saying the talks would focus on economics, local issues and contract language.

Francese said Chrysler was looking for more "efficient utilization of its employees" and indicated the company would seek to water down contract language on job classifications, seniority and transfers to cut costs.

Chrysler Canada Ltd. employs about 11,300 CAW members in Ontario, principally at four assembly plants in Windsor and Brampton, a trim plant in Ajax and a castings facility in Etobicoke.

One of the Windsor plants produces Chrysler's top-selling mini-vans, the Dodge Caravan and Plymouth Voyager MagicWagons and Dodge Caravan C/V. The plant is the sole source of the standard size mini-vans with 1,024 units being produced each day. A smaller plant in St. Louis produces a stretched version of the minivan. At the second Windsor plant, full-size Dodge Ram vans and wagons are assembled.

In Brampton, the company assembles the Eagle Premier and Dodge Monaco passenger cars at its under-utilized plant in Bramalea. Francese said the plant is currently operating only two weeks a month.

Chrysler Corp. announced in July it will build its new L/H mid-size car platform at the Bramalea plant, beginning in the fall of 1992. The facility is expected to employ about 2,400 people when it reaches full two-shift production in January 1993. The fate of the Eagle Premier and Dodge Monaco has not been announced.

Chrysler has announced that assembly of its Jeep YJ and Wrangler models at a second Brampton plant will be transferred to Toledo, Ohio, starting in June 1992. The move is part of a plan to consolidate Jeep production in Toledo.

In August, Chrysler's production workers voted almost 98 percent and office workers by 92 percent in favor of strike action, if necessary. About 50,000 workers at GM and Ford voted overwhelmingly to accept their settlements. The Ford settlement came after a nine-day strike while the GM deal was reached minutes before a strike deadline.

CHICAGO (OCT. 16) UPI - A federal judge Tuesday acquitted three officials of defense contractor Sundstrand Corp. on charges they conspired to defraud the federal government.

Senior U.S. District Judge Prentice Marshall acquitted the three, saying he found no evidence Joseph J. McCarthy, 54, Rockford, Ray John Chapel, 47, Reston, Va., and Ralph G. Hamann, 64, Rockford, conspired to cheat the government. Marshall earlier had dismissed charges of lying against the executives of the company based in Rockford. "These men did not conspire to cheat the government and did not conspire to steal," Marshall said.

"We're very happy. We're ecstatic," Hamann's attorney Michael Nash said of the verdict. "I think the judge understood the evidence. McCarthy and Hamann said the charges never should have been brought in the first place, adding the counts to which Sundstrand pleaded guilty were unfounded.

Sundstrand pleaded guilty in October 1988 to five counts of a federal indictment for defense fraud and agreed to pay $115 million in penalties and reparations - the biggest recovery in any defense fraud case.

It also agreed to pay the Defense Department another $62.3 million in settlement of administrative matters related to its past contracting practices. The charges against the men stemmed from Sundstrand's guilty plea.

The company was suspended as a government contractor following the plea but was reinstated in January 1989 once it agreed to revise its contracting procedures and make reparations.

"I don't think you can help wonder what in hell we are doing here," Hamann said. "I've been saying that for years." "My view is that Sundstrand paid for nothing," McCarthy added.

Marshall last week found the three innocent of making false statments to the government about fraudulent defense contracting policies, saying prosecutors failed to prove the charge. He also dismissed portions of the remaining conspiracy counts. Marshall, presiding at the bench trial, heard a month of testimony from government witnesses. The defense offered no evidence and called no witnesses.

Sundstrand, a Fortune 500 company, has 15,000 employees worldwide, including 4,000 in Rockford. It manufactures electronic, mechanical and hydraulic systems for the government and diversified aerospace and industrial markets.

NEW YORK (OCT. 16) UPI - A former Drexel Burnham Lambert Inc. attorney Tuesday denied at the "mini-trial" of one-time junk bond king Michael Milken he was asked by a trader of the firm if there was insider trading in Beverly Hills, Calif., office.

Kevin Madigan, 37, in a brief appearance at the presentencing hearing before Judge Kimba Wood in U.S. District Court in Manhattan, refused to waive the lawyer-client privilege yet briefly took the stand at the end of Tuesday's abbreviated session.

Most of the proceeding was taken up by highly technical testimony from Joseph Harch, a former Drexel corporate officer. After a closed conference, the hearing was recessed until 10 a.m. EDT Thursday.

Madigan was questioned by Milken's attorney, Arthur Liman. He held a transcript of Monday's testimony by Peter Gardiner, who linked Milken to stock manipulation involving Wickes Companies Inc. of Santa Monica, Calif.

In an agreement with the government, Milken previously pleaded guilty to conspiracy, filing false securities information, securities fraud, violating securities reporting requirements, mail fraud, and aiding and abetting in the filing of a false income tax return. As the pre-sentencing hearings continue, Judge Wood will use the information to ultimately sentence Milken, 44, who could receive up to 28 years in prison.

Gardiner, a prosecution witness, had worked under Milken. He admitted to previously lying to the government in its investigation of Milken and to lying before a grand jury.

Last May he offered his cooperation after Milken entered his plea. Monday he linked Milken to alleged manipulation of Wickes stock, but Judge Wood called his testimony "ambiguous."

Liman, in an apparent attack on Gardiner's veracity, challenged the Monday testimony that he once went to Madigan on another stock deal after having "an attack of conscience."

"'I told him point-blank that if he didn't think there was material use of non-public information going on on the floor, that he was crazy, or words to that effect,'" Liman read from Gardiner's testimony. "'I was stunned because he looked at me and just said nothing.

"'He might have asked me, do you have any specifics? But I took away from that meeting a kind of feeling that I was supposed to be able to talk to this guy and it doesn't look like I can,'" Liman read from Gardiner's record.

"Did you have a conversation to that effect with him (Gardiner)?" Liman asked Madigan. "Absolutely not," replied the one-time $400,000 a year Drexel lawyer, who said that Gardiner "frequently" had come to him as did other employees "seeking direction."

He said nobody "to the best of my recollection" was fired at Drexel for trading activity, nor were any sanctions sought against Milken. And, Madigan said, he never advised Milken to "break a trade" - to renege on an agreed trade.

The chief government prosecutor, assistant U.S. attorney John Carroll, said last week in his opening statement the Wickes manipulation was part of an illegal pattern involving confessed Wall Street wheeler-dealer Ivan Boesky. Boesky was the key witness against Milken.

ROME (OCT. 16) UPI - A special envoy from Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev met Tuesday with Italian Prime Minister Giulio Andreotti to discuss possible diplomatic solutions to the Persian Gulf crisis.

Envoy Yevgeny Primakov, a member of Gorbachev's presidential council, spent only a few hours in Rome before flying to Paris. He is briefing Italian, French and American leaders after an Oct. 5 meeting with Iraqi President Saddam Hussein in Baghdad.

In a one-hour meeting with Andreotti, Primakov told the Italian leader that during the visit to Iraq he got the impression that Saddam would be prepared to negotiate, provided there is no ultimatum and no threat of a military operation.

Primakov told reporters he is not carrying any message from Gorbachev. But he said the Soviet leader attributes great importance to the gulf situation and is very concerned about it.

''We are optimistic despite everything. Otherwise, I would not be here,'' Primakov said.

He said the Soviet Union is committed to finding a political and peaceful solution to the crisis and in principle ''this approach coincides with the Italian position.''

Italian officials said Primakov started his three-nation tour in Rome partly because Italy currently holds the presidency of the 12-nation European Community.

They said Andreotti and Primakov agreed on the need to exert special pressure on Saddam to convince him to release the foreign hostages held in Iraq.

A spokesman for Andreotti's office said some Arab countries are working in the same direction. He said that Libyan Foreign Minister Ibrahim Ibshary told Andreotti two days ago that Libyan leader Col. Moammar Gadhafi had made a personal approach to the Iraqi leader in favor of freeing the hostages.

Before Primakov left Moscow for Rome, Gorbachev spokesman Vitaly Ignatenko denied a report by the Soviet Novosti press agency that Saddam had softened his position during his meeting with Primakov and may have offered a compromise.

''The Soviet leadership believes if there is the smallest chance to settle the conflict peacefully, we should use that to the ultimate,'' Ignatenko said.

''The instructions that the Soviet president gave to Mr. Primakov are very complicated and it is a very delicate mission,'' Ignatenko told reporters. ''When we find ourselves in a region where a lot of people could be taken as hostages it is very difficult to disclose any details.

''This is the continuation of a very important process aimed at political settlement in the area.''

There are still about 5,000 Soviet citizens in Iraq, including about 100 military advisers, but both sides say they are not considered hostages like Westerners in the country and are simply fulfilling their contracts.

Primakov traveled to Baghdad and the Jordanian capital of Amman two weeks ago on a special mission to seek a diplomatic settlement to the crisis that began with Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait.

Results of Primakov's meetings in Baghdad have been a closely held secret, but the Soviet agency Novosti Sunday quoted an anonymous source saying Saddam had softened his stance and offered to pull out of much of Kuwait.

''This information is false,'' Ignatenko said Tuesday when asked about the Novosti report.

The Soviet Union has joined the international condemnation of the Iraqi invasion and Moscow cut off arms supplies to its former ally and joined U.N. sanctions aimed at forcing Iraq to withdraw from Kuwait.

WASHINGTON (OCT. 16) UPI - Caution has been the watchword for consumers using home equity loans from commercial banks last year, the American Bankers Association said Tuesday. Customers of large banks were granted an average home equity loan of $38,000 last year but used only 52 percent of that amount.

Community bank customers tended to put more of their home equity loans to use, taking out about 67 percent of the total available, the association said. Twenty percent of the banks surveyed said they have been more conservative in their underwriting requirements for home equity loans because of declining property values.

"The buzzword appears to be 'prudence,'" said Donald Grigley, chairman of the association's consumer credit division and senior vice president of Connecticut National Bank. Commercial banks held $50.8 billion worth of home equity loans by the end of 1989, up from $40 billion the year before, the association said.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (OCT. 16) UPI - First lady Barbara Bush told reporters Tuesday that her husband, in effect, would rather be right than president.

Mrs. Bush, at a news conference following a Republican fund-raising luncheon, said she believes President Bush ''wants to do exactly what's right for the country,'' even if it means he does not run for re- election in 1992.

''I really don't worry about that,'' said Mrs. Bush when asked about public opinion surveys that show the president's popularity sliding because of the nation's fiscal crisis. ''I don't believe in polls, ever. You just have to do the best you can.

''I don't care if he runs again or not,'' she continued, ''and I really don't think he does. I really believe George Bush wants to do exactly what's right for the country, and let the chips fall where they may.''

The first lady said Bush never believed the polls when they showed him with a 70 percent or 80 percent approval rating.

In a 15-minute speech to about $1,000 Republicans who paid $125 apiece to eat lemon chicken and chocolate chip cheesecake, Mrs. Bush exhorted them to vote for Republican gubernatorial nominee George Voinovich and to get their friends to do likewise.

''With your help, George Voinovich is going to win,'' she said. ''So please, during the next 21 days volunteer more time, give more money, and please vote yourself. Drag your friends to the polls.

''We've got to elect this good man, this decent man, this hard- working, honest man, this able man. You know, they really don't come around like this very often.''

Mrs. Bush also urged the gathering to write their congressional representatives demanding that they vote for a budget balancing bill.

PEORIA, IL (OCT. 16) UPI - Caterpillar Inc. officials said Tuesday the company has sold more than 200 earthmoving machines to the government of Romania, as part of a major effort to get into Eastern European markets.

Caterpillar would not disclose the terms of the sale but the company said it would receive Romanian goods and services instead of money for the trucks and tractors. This arrangment will avoid the exchange problems other U.S. businesses have had in dealing with Eastern European companies.

The Peoria-based manufacturing company said it has sold 212 earthmoving machines that will be used for coal mining and reclamation of mined lands in Romania. The machines include 200 articulated dump trucks, ten track-type tractors, a motor grader and a wheel loader. All the equipment will be delivered by next year, said company spokesman Jeff Hawkinson.

"Caterpillar sees Eastern Europe as potentially a very significant market," Hawkinson said. "The countries are in great need of upgrading their infrastructure. They have road building, public building and housing needs, all kinds of construction activities that require the use of the equipment like we produce.

"It's accepted that Eastern Europe will be moving in the direction of trying to bring thmeselves up to Western levels with their new-found freedoms and we hope to tap into that market," he said.

Romania's electrical energy comes from coal and the tractors and trucks can be used at strip mines. "They use our dozers and trucks to move all that earth away," Hawkinson said. "They take the seam of coal, move all the earth and reclaim the land."

The sale is the company's first to Romania in ten years and one of its biggest to Eastern Europe in several years. Negotiations for the sale began earlier this year.

HOLLYWOOD (OCT. 16) UPI - The nation's movie theaters have taken in $3.84 billion so far this year, a mere 1 percent behind the $3.89 billion in box office receipts collected by this time last year.

Last year's box office, led by the hit ''Batman,'' reached a record $5.03 billion by year's end, but this year's total could approach that level if the slate of current movies continues to perform strongly. In 1988, the total box-office take at the same juncture had hit $3.46 billion.

The top 10 movies of this past three-day weekend, led by Steven Seagal's martial arts blow-out ''Marked for Death,'' brought in $36.3 million, Daily Variety reported Tuesday. That was off from the $42.5 million grossed by the top 10 during the prior weekend, which covered four days because of the Columbus Day holiday.

The year-ago weekend gross for the top 10 was $36.6 million.

For the week, the domestic gross totaled $79.3 million, up sharply from the year-ago and 1988 totals of $64.6 million and $64.9 million respectively.

Besides a strong second-week performance by ''Marked for Death,'' the box-office was also buoyed by a solid $5 million opening for the World War II flyboy flick ''Memphis Belle'' and good holdover business for ''Ghost,'' ''Fantasia'' and ''Henry & June.''

''Marked for Death'' has now pulled in $21.7 million in 10 days for Twentieth Century Fox.

''Marked for Death'' may continue to lead the box-office next weekend. Major films going into wide release are Barry Levinson's ''Avalon,'' a remake of ''Night of the Living Dead,'' a Tom Selleck movie called ''Quigley Down Under'' and Susan Sarandon's latest, ''White Palace.''

For the following weekend, which precedes Halloween, Paramount will release the latest Stephen King movie, ''Graveyard Shift.''

Disney's ''Pretty Woman'' and Paramount's ''Ghost'' remain the year's biggest hits, at $176.2 million and $167.4 million respectively. New Line's ''Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles'' is third at $113.1 million, followed by Paramount's ''Hunt for Red October,'' with $120.7 million.

Three other releases have topped the $100 million mark. Carolco's ''Total Recall'' has grossed $118.3 million; ''Fox's ''Die Hard 2'' has taken in $113.8 million and Disney's ''Dick Tracy' has pulled in $103.7 million.

CAIRO, Egypt (OCT. 16) UPI - A report that police found a bomb Tuesday in a crowded metro station sent panic through terrorist-conscious Cairo, but the suspicious device turned out to be an empty insect repellent can attached to a battery.

The semi-official Middle East News Agency said a passerby found the cannister inside a trash can, wired to a battery and wrapped in paper. He alerted police who removed the device and determined the can was empty.

State-run Cairo Radio initially reported that a bomb had been discovered at the metro station behind the Nile Hilton hotel and that ''explosive experts removed the bomb to a nearby garden and defused it.''

The device was placed in an oil can and timed to go off at the rush hour to cause maximum casualties, the radio said.

The report prompted thousands of people to demonstrate in downtown Tahrir Square near the metro entrance. MENA said demonstrators chanted anti-Iraqi slogans, including ''down with the traitors'' and ''long live (President Hosni) Mubarak.''

Egyptian police are searching for suspected pro-Iraqi terrorists believed behind the assassination of the Egyptian speaker of Parliament Friday only a few blocks from where the device was found.

The assassins, whom Egyptian newspapers have linked to Iraq, machine- gunned Parliament Speaker Rifaat El Mahgoub and five other people in front of a luxury hotel down the street from the Nile Hilton.

MENA said the suspicious device may have been planted by people wanting to create panic in the already-edgy Egyptian capital.

Iraq has denied it was part of the assassination of Mahgoub, but Iraqi President Saddam Hussein has been a viscious critic of Mubarak's pro-U.S. stance in the Persian Gulf crisis.

Interior Minister Lt. Gen. Mohammed Abdulhalim Mussa told senior security officers Tuesday that authorities now had important clues about the identity and motive of the killers of Mahgoub, the No. 2 man in the administration after Mubarak.

Police have arrested over 300 suspects in connection with Mahgoub's killing, most of them because they resembled composite drawings of the gunmen given by witnesses, reports said.

The opposition weekly Al Ahrar placed the blame for the killing on Iraqi agents, saying the killers originally planned to blow up the Cairo Meridien hotel, where Mahgoub was scheduled to meet his Syrian counterpart, Abdul Kader Kaddoura. Al Ahrar said Iraq intelligence ordered Palestinian extremist Abu Nidal to carry out the killing.

The newspaper said Iraq ordered the killings of both Mahgoub and his Syrian counterpart as a warning to both Egypt and Syria, whose governments have strongly opposed Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait.

Egyptian authorities, however, have not yet ruled out that Mahgoub's killers may be linked to disgruntled Islamic fundamentalists trying to overthrow Egypt's moderate government.

Mussa said Mhagoub's assassination had posed a serious challenge to Egypt's security forces but had not shaken their self-confidence.

TORONTO (OCT. 16) UPI - Algoma Steel Corp. Ltd. said Tuesday it will start shutting down its plant for the winter after several thousand unionized steelworkers rejected the company's latest offer to end an 11-week strike.

Bob Turpin, Algoma's vice-president of employee relations, said in a statement that the company's offer was an honest attempt to meet the steelworkers demands.

"The circumstances of the steel industry and of Algoma Steel do not support a higher offer," Turpin said. "There are no plans to resume negotiations and work will begin to immediately winterize the plant."

More than 4,400 members of the United Steelworkers of America at Algoma's Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario, plant voted Monday to reject an offer the company says would have added about $85 million a year to its employee payroll. Sixty-three percent of the workers in Local 2251 voted against the offer. There are five USWA locals at Algoma respresenting about 5,400 workers.

Andy Lavoie, the USWA area coordinator, said the union would ask a provincial mediator to try to restart talks with the company. Lavoie said although the two sides are still apart on monetary, contracting out and job security, and pension issues, "we're hopeful of getting back to the table as soon as possible."

Meanwhile, a strike by 10,000 other USWA members at Hamilton, Ontario-based Stelco Inc. also continued despite efforts by a mediator to find enough common ground to resume talks which broke off Sept. 27. The Stelco workers set up pickets Aug. 1.

Talks on new contracts between the union's locals and Algoma and Stelco began in May. Adding to the USWA's woes is a five-month old strike by several hundred of its members at a Placer Dome Inc. gold mine in Timmins, Ontario.

The Placer Dome workers have been given until Nov. 16 to accept the company's "final and decisive offer" or face the prospect of not only the work force being cut in half but of the mine closing. The mine's 750 workers went on strike May 1 to press demands for job security and pension benefits. In total, there are close to 17,000 unionized steelworkers currently on strike in Canada.

ALBANY, N.Y. (OCT. 16) UPI - Gov. Mario Cuomo said Tuesday that allegations he committed two election law felonies are part of a Republican campaign of ''attack ... calumny ... slander.''

Former Republican Party attorney Thomas Spargo asked Monday for a state Board of Elections investigation into charges Cuomo illegally registered to vote from his mother's house in Queens and improperly voted by absentee ballot on primary day.

Cuomo termed the charges ''foolish'' and part of ''a whole series of negative shots'' fired by Republicans at Democrats in this fall's state elections.

''What is he, a Liberal (Party member)?'' Cuomo replied sarcastically when asked how Spargo could be working for the GOP when he had resigned as party lawyer.

Spargo resigned that position and the job of counsel to the GOP- controlled Senate Election Committee earlier this year while under investigation from a Cuomo-appointed ethics commission.

Spargo said he acted as an individual in bringing the complaint against Cuomo.Elizabeth DelTorto, executive director of the state GOP, agreed.

''We read about it in the paper this morning,'' DelTorto said Tuesday. ''Certainly, Pat (Barrett, the GOP chairman) does not feel that negative campaigning is profitable.''

At issue is whether Cuomo violated state law by registering to vote from his mother's house in Queens after selling his own home in Queens in 1988.

Cuomo's two youngest children claim the governor's mansion in Albany as their legal address for voting. The Cuomo family car's motor vehicle registration also bears the Eagle Street, Albany, address.

But Cuomo said he was raised in his mother's home, intends to die there and pays New York City income taxes.

''If I am not a resident of the city of New York, then the city of New York owes me a skillion dollars,'' he joked.

''I could have chosen Albany as a residence ... but this is temporary,'' he said, referring to his tenure as governor.

Cuomo said Spargo's charges are part of a Republican effort to discredit all Democrats and blasted ''reprehensible literature'' he claimed the GOP is distributing in a Utica-area state Senate race which implies the Democratic candidate would abandon her constituency and vote to help New York City.

''When the Republicans get into trouble ... they're very good at Willie Horton ads, at attack, at calumny, at slander. That is their strength. And that is what you are beginning to see,'' he said.

Spargo has also charged Cuomo with voting illegally by absentee ballot in the Sept. 11 Democratic primary since Cuomo was in New York City that day, giving a speech on crime.

Cuomo said he did not know at the time he applied for the absentee ballot that he would be in the city that day.

WASHINGTON (OCT. 16) UPI - Labor political action committees have contributed more than $23 million to this year's congressional campaigns with seven individual union PACs topping the $1 million donation mark, a survey of election records showed Tuesday.

Sen. Paul Simon, D-Ill., and Rep. Jill Long, D-Ind., top the lists of recipients in the Senate and House.

Federal Election Commission records from Jan. 1, 1989, through September show that PACs run by labor groups have given $23,107,396 to candidates still running for election to Congress this year. That represents an increase of $3 million in the last two months with the biggest giving month - October - still to be recorded.

The labor figure is the second highest amount of money given by any interest group. Business-related PACS gave slightly over $68 million - almost three times as much as labor groups.

Union PACs generally are reporting getting more money from more members, although there are some signs of general voter discontent.

''We do get slightly more mail from some of our members who are frustrated, but they're probably small minorities,'' said Al Jackson, special assistant for political education at the National Association of Letter Carriers. ''Most respond with a check rather than irate letter.''

Democrats are the major recipients of labor money. The top 15 recipients in both the Senate and the House are Democrats.

Simon, in a tough re-election race against Republican Rep. Lynn Martin, received the top amount of any Senate candidate, $345,947.

He was followed by Sen. Carl Levin, D-Mich., with $337,765 and Sen. Tom Harkin

D-Iowa, with $271,780.

Incumbents regularly top the lists of PAC recipients by any special interest group, but labor organizations seemed more willing to give to challengers, too. Four Democrats among the top 15 Senate candidates were challengers.

Jackson, for example, says the letter carriers' union regularly gives between 25 and 30 percent of its total contributions to non-incumbents, all of them Democrats.

Baron Hill, who is challenging Sen. Dan Coats, R-Ind., was fourth with $259,600; Harvey Sloane, running against Republican Sen. Mitch McConnell in Kentucky, was seventh with $224,700; Theodore Muenster, seeking to upset Sen. Larry Pressler, R-S.D., was 11th with $188,000, and Democrat Hugh Parmer, in his long-shot race against Sen. Phil Gramm in Texas, was 13th with $172,150.

All top 15 recipients in the House were incumbents, led by Long with $304,354. She was followed by Rep. Glen Browder, D-Ala., with $259,941. Both Long and Browder ran in special elections during the period recorded by the FEC and donations to those races were included in the total figures.

Rounding out the top five in the House were Reps. Jolene Unsoeld, in a tight race to keep her Washington seat, with $188,550; David Bonior of Michigan with $178,220, and Richard Gephardt, House Democratic leader from Missouri, with $172,025.

Seven labor PACs have contributed more than a million dollars each, with the Teamsters Union leading the way with $1,656,142.

The Teamsters were followed by the National Education Association with $1,367,155; the letter carriers, $1,337,510; the United Brotherhood of Carpenters & Joiners, $1,248,620; United Auto Workers, $1,150,622; American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, $1,111, 586, and the International Association of Machinists & Aerospace Workers, $1,102,445.

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (OCT. 16) UPI - Search planes have begun night flights over the polar ice cap in hopes that a missing wildlife research team tries to use signal flares or sets a fire to alert rescuers, the Coast Guard said Tuesday.

The search was in its fifth day Tuesday and there was to be a second night of searching Tuesday night, Coast Guard spokesman Mike Milliken said.

No flares or other light was spotted Monday night in the first after- dark search, and no clues in the team's disappearance have turned up.

The two U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service polar bear biologists and their pilot vanished last Thursday during a low altitude aerial bear- tracking mission over the arctic ice northwest of Point Barrow, the northernmost point of land in the United States.

Officials believe the three men could have survived if their plane went down on the polar ice pack, noting that the trio was well-equipped for arctic survival. But about 40 miles of open water separates the coast from the ice edge.

With the failure of the daylight searches, the Coast Guard decided to try looking for lights in the long polar night, reasoning that the men would use flares or flames to get rescuers' attention.

The federal wildlife research mission was part of a long-term polar bear population and productivity study. The biologists, using radio receivers, were tracking female polar bears fitted with radio transmitter collars during earlier research.

The biologists were last seen on Air Force radar, during the coincidental interception of a Soviet aircraft off northwest Alaska, heading out toward the permanent polar ice pack some 200 miles from the northern Alaska coast.

The missing twin-engine Aero Commander aircraft carried two of the federal wildlife agency's five Alaska polar bear biologists, spokesman Bruce Batten said. The men were identified as John Bevins, 35, and George Menkens, 33. Their experience pilot, Clifford Minch, was employed by Alaska Helicopter but was under contract with the wildlife service.

WASHINGTON (OCT. 16) UPI - Partisan warfare raged in the House Tuesday after Democrats barred Republicans from offering a budget plan that fell far short of cutting the deficit by the required $500 billion over five years.

Charges and countercharges flew across the House chamber prior to a showdown vote, expected late Tuesday, on a Democratic-sponsored deficit reduction plan.

The plan, which President Bush threatened to veto, was expected to pass the Democrat-controlled House with few, if any, GOP votes. It was part of a package of specific revenue increases and spending cuts to implement a budget plan passed by both Houses 10 days ago.

The Senate was expected to vote either late Tuesday or Wednesday on its own bipartisan deficit reduction package that Bush had indicated he could support.

After the Senate acts, negotiators from each chamber will try to iron out the differences in what is expected to be the largest deficit reduction package ever considered by Congress. The final plan must pass each house before going to Bush.

A temporary spending bill to keep the government running expires at midnight Friday and Bush has vowed to veto any new stop-gap spending measure unless Congress sends him a budget plan he can accept before Friday's deadline.

Campaigning at the College of DuPage, near Chicago, Bush pronounced the Democrats' plan unacceptable.

''I will veto it because it raises the taxes of the working men and women of this country,'' Bush said of the Democrats' plan.

The Democrats' plan would raise income tax rates on the rich from 28 percent to 33 percent, impose a 10 percent luxury tax on expensive cars, jewlery, yachts and furs and add a 10 percent surtax on those with taxable incomes above $1 million a year.

It would reduce Medicare cuts by $18 billion, from the $60 billion proposed by the bipartisan budget summit, and rejected by the House, to $42 billion over five years.

And it would raise taxes on cigarettes by 4 cents a pack in 1991 and by 4 more cents in 1993. It would double, to 32 cents a six-pack, the tax on beer and increase taxes on wine and distilled spirits.

The Democrats' plan would also freeze for one year the annual inflation adjustment of income tax rates and personal exemptions. That would raise taxes by about $313 on a family of four with a taxable income of $34,000 next year, according to Treasury Department figures.

''This is a major tax increase that's going to put this country into a deep, bottomless recession,'' Rep. Dan Burton, R-Ind., said of the one-year freeze. ''They (Democrats) are going to tax and tax and tax us all to death.''

The proposal eliminates gasoline tax increases and revenue losing proposals, such as tax breaks for small business investments, in the rejected budget summit proposal.

Early Tuesday, the House Rules Committee, an arm of the Democratic leadership, voted along party lines to prevent consideration of an alternative deficit reduction plan drafted by Republicans. That plan contained virtually no new taxes and got its savings from spending cuts and freezes.

It was barred from floor debate because it had only $410 billion in deficit cuts over five years. That fell $90 billion short of the $500 billion deficit reduction goal previously demanded by Bush, congressional leaders and the budget blueprints passed last week by both houses.

The GOP plan also cut the fiscal year 1991 deficit by about $35 billion - about $6 billion less than the required by the budget summit.

After a party caucus Tuesday, Republicans screamed about what Rep. Tom DeLay, R-Texas, termed the ''incredible arrogance'' of House Democrats in preventing consideration of the GOP plan.

''They punished us because we did not raise taxes,'' said Rep. Duncan Hunter, R-Calif. ''The Democrats are only allowing a tax increase package to go to the floor.''

''We have been denied by the tyranny of the (Democratic) majority,'' said Rep. John Kasich, R-Ohio, co-author of the GOP plan.

But Democrats defended their decision and some even poked fun at the GOP.

BOSTON (OCT. 16) UPI - High-level U.S. trade negotiators said Tuesday they urged Japan during two days of talks to tighten its anti-trust laws, while Japanese representatives raised questions about the stalled U.S. federal budget process.

Anti-trust issues emerged as the U.S. delegation's strongest point "in a group of strong positions" by the American side during the talks by the U.S.-Japan Working Group on the Structural Impediments Initiative, said S. Linn Williams, deputy U.S. Trade Representative.

The talks were the first follow-up meeting on an agreement in June between the United States and Japan to try to remove structural problems that impede trade and adjustment of balance of payments.

One delegate, Charles Dallara, assistant secretary of the Treasury for international affairs, said "changes in (Japanese) law will probably be necessary to accomplish" some changes the United States wants.

And an assistant attorney general, James Rill, said the United States was looking into the applicability of American anti-trust laws to "foreign buyer cartels having an effect on overseas trade." Such a study currently "is very active, very much alive" in the Department of Justice, he said.

Rill said he anticipated the Justice Department would have a report within a month and then "will talk with other agencies" about possible extension of the Sherman Anti-trust Act to foreign buyers.

The Americans said they also discussed a range of "shareholders' rights" measures designed to liberalize Japanese corporate governance. These included broadening the scope for derivative law suits and the lowering the ownership minimums that allow stockholders access to corporate financial information, Dallara said.

Also, the Americans repeated their concerns about the close relationships among Japanese companies that sometimes lead to exclusionary business practices.

As for worries about the apparent paralysis in the federal government over the budget, the Japanese "asked the same kind of questions that any intelligent observer would ask," said Williams, head of the U.S. delegation. "We don't have any answers for them."

While it is too early to assess the success of the two sides' efforts, downturn in both countries' economies since the two sides agreed on a joint effort "have not changed at all our expectations of the ... Structural Impediments Initiative." "We believe further progress is necessary," Williams said.

Ironically, the talks were held in Boston in part because the U.S. delegation could not afford to go to Japan. The delegation was "seriously considering going to Japan" but "then the budget crisis came and we concluded the costs were 20 to 25 percent less if we stayed here," Williams said. The next meetings on the SII probably will be in late January or early February in Japan, Williams said.

WASHINGTON (OCT. 16) UPI - The White House and Senate said Tuesday they have agreed to a $15 billion, five-year child-care package providing tax credits for working poor families and grants to states.

The House was not party to the negotiations, but key senators contend the House has all but agreed to the plan. However, not all House members were as optimistic.

Senate Democratic leader George Mitchell of Maine said the Senate will include the child-care plan in its deficit reduction package that must receive final approval by midnight Friday.

However, the House has not included child care in its budget package. An aide to Rep. Thomas Downey, D-N.Y., who is a member of a child-care conference committee, said the House has no plans to do so, preferring to work outside the budget discussions and continue to work on a bill within the child-care conference committees.

''Child care is not a done deal,'' said Downey's press secretary, Larry Spinelli. ''We feel that there are still substantial differences between the House and Senate on child care.''

Republican and Democratic senators were positively effusive at a news conference about the Senate-White House child-care agreement, which has taken nearly two years, gone through several versions and received veto threats from President Bush.

Sen. Christopher Dodd, D-Conn., chief sponsor of the Senate child- care bill, noted the negotiations were difficult but eventually fruitful.

''We and the White House began the 101st Congress very far apart. But what made this agreement possible is our mutual commitment to provide parents with the greatest range of choices for the care of their children,'' Dodd said.

''This is a sensitive, kind, decent and compassionate piece of legislation,'' said Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah.

''Today we are seeing a strong bipartisan commitment to children and to working men and women,'' said Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass. ''Children may call out with the softest voices, but they have the strongest needs.''

The agreement would provide grants to states and an extention of the earned-income tax credit for low-income families. The plan will assist children under 13 whose family income is below 75 percent of the state median income.

Under the package, 75 percent of the funds would be used for activities to increase the availability, affordability and quality of child care. All child-care services provided with this money would be available through grants contracts or certificates with the intention of offering parents the maximum range of choices of child-care providers, including care by relatives and care in neighborhood homes, churches and schools.

Parents receiving certificates could select any licensed, regulated or registered provider that is in compliance with applicable state and local law.

The remaining 25 percent would be reserved for quality improvement activities and early childhood education and before- and after-school child-care services. These services would be provided through grants or contracts.

All funded programs must meet minimum state or local health and safety requirements.

NEW YORK (OCT. 16) UPI - Hotel queen Leona Helmsley's lawyer appealed her income tax evasion conviction Tuesday, arguing prosecutors used her testimony before a state grand jury to convict her in federal court.

Members of the 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals appeared to be receptive at least in part to arguments of her attorney, Harvard Law school professor Alan Dershowitz.

Helmsley, 70, was convicted in U.S. District Court a year ago of 33 criminal charges when a jury found her guilty of evading $1.2 million in taxes between 1983 and 1985.

She was sentenced by Judge John Walker to 4 years in prison and a $7.1 million fine. Helmsley is free on a $25 million bail.

After Dershowitz argued before the court that tax experts who studied Helmsley's situation found she actually had overpaid taxes, a member of the three-judge appeals court, James Oakes, appeared to concur, saying he ''had some problems with the tax issue.''

Much of the evidence presented in the trial dealt with how Helmsley billed hotels for personal items, in effect disguising income to evade taxes.

Dershowitz also argued the case brought against Helmsley was tainted because it was based on her testimony before a state grand jury. He said information from the secret state panel was used to bring the federal indictment.

Dershowitz called the tie between her state testimony and the federal indictment a ''direct chain of causation.''

Cathy Seibel, the assistant U.S. attorney who argued the government's case, denied there was such a connection, claiming instead the federal government developed its case based on reporting in the New York Post.

Said Winter, ''It does seem to me a fairly close matter.''

WASHINGTON (OCT. 16) UPI - Deadly brain tumors are striking elderly Americans at an alarmingly increasing rate, government researchers reported Tuesday.

While at a loss to explain the upsurge, researchers at the National Institutes of Health found the occurrence of malignant brain tumors had increased ''dramatically'' between 1973 and 1985 among the elderly in the United States.

The greatest increase occurred among those age 85 and older, with the incidence apparently jumping fivefold in that group, the researchers said. But the incidence also nearly doubled among those 75 to 79 and nearly quadrupled for those ages 80 to 84, they said.

While the overall cancer rate only increased by 0.9 percent each year during the same period, the increase in brain cancers translates into a jump of more than 23 percent a year for those 85 and older.

Moreover, the most common types of brain tumor were those known as glioblastoma multiforme and astrocytoma, which are ''highly malignant and invariably fatal,'' the researchers said.

Despite the increase, the researchers noted malignant brain tumors remain relatively uncommon. There are only about 15,000 new cases in the United States each year, representing only about 1.5 percent of all cancer cases.

Nevertheless, the apparent increase is ''alarming,'' said Nigel Greig, a neuroscientist at the National Institute on Aging who led the new study, published in the Journal of the National Cancer Institute.

The findings are based on data collected in Connecticut, Iowa, New Mexico, Utah, Hawaii, Atlanta, Detroit, San Francisco, Seattle as part of the National Cancer Institute's Surveillance, Epidemiology, and End Results, or SEER, program, which gathers cancer data from a representative sample of 10 percent of the U.S. population.

The researchers speculated the findings may not be due to a genuine increase in the brain tumors, but simply to improved technology that enables doctors to find tumors that previously went undiagnosed.

They noted, however, that ''it is unlikely ... these factors are solely responsible for the dramatic annual increase in the reported incidence rates.''

Greig indicated the increase could have been caused by something in the environment. But too little is known about brain tumors to even speculate, he said, and much more research is needed to explore the issue.

''There is just too little information to say right now it's because of this particular factor or that particular factor,'' he said.

But ''irrespective of the causes, the dramatic rise in incidence rates indicates that these tumors are a greater concern than hitherto recognized,'' Greig and his colleagues wrote.

In an editorial accompanying the study, Peter Boyle and colleagues at the International Agency for Research on Cancer in Lyon, France, said confirming the increase and explaining the cause could offer new insights into cancer.

But, they added, ''Our current knowledge of the risk factors for brain cancer is so limited that no explanation can be readily put forward to explain why such large increases, if real, should be taking place.''

Meanwhile, heavy gold sales in London drove prices of the metal sharply lower and boosted Britain's pound sterling against the dollar. Analysts said that increased international pressure on the beleagured U.S. currency.

"We think that the currency markets are relatively stable," Brady told world financial executives meeting in Washington, alluding to the dollar's slide in recent months. "They haven't been plunging, they're stable."

Traders took this as a sign that the Treasury was not sufficiently concerned about the dollar's fall to order Federal Reserve intervention - thereby giving them a green light to keep selling it aggressively.

In late New York dealings, the dollar was quoted at 1.5110 German marks, off about 1 1/2 pfennigs from 1.5265 German marks, and at 126.65 Japanese yen, down more than one yen from 127.75 the day before.

Bank of Tokyo senior customer dealer John Lyman said selling was prompted too by a report from a Washington consulting firm, saying the dollar could fall to 122-123 yen before U.S. officials would move to support it.

Other New York dollar rates: 1.2755 Swiss francs, off from 1.2905; 5.0600 French francs, down from 5.1120; and 1,131.50 Italian lire, off from 1,143. The pound climbed to $1.9650 from $1.9490.

In Europe, the dollar closed mixed against the main units, with gold's fall and the pound sterling's rise hurting the U.S. unit.

"The market is mainly sterling oriented. There is large selling of gold into sterling. Nobody knows who is putting in the orders, but rumors are that it is a Middle Eastern bank," said a dealer at Barclays de Zoete Wedd. He said the pound's strength hurt the dollar. Sterling closed at $1.9570 in London, up from Monday's close of $1.9550.

The dollar ended lower in Frankfurt, at 1.5140 German marks against 1.5230 at Monday's close. The dollar was also lower in Zurich, at 1.2815 Swiss francs against 1.2845.

The dollar closed higher in Paris at 5.1155 French francs vs. 5.1055. But in Brussels, the U.S. unit fell to 31.26 Belgian francs vs. 31.36. In Milan, the dollar moved up to 1,143.90 lire vs. 1,142.55.

Earlier in Tokyo, the dollar remained weak against the Japanese yen, closing at 128.05 yen, down 0.10 yen from 128.15 yen Monday. "Bearish sentiment for the dollar remained unchanged basically," one dealer said, but noted some interest by import-export companies.

In Zurich, gold plummeted $15 to $364 an ounce, from $379. In London, it fell to $362.50, off $16.75 from Monday's price of $379.25. "There was a veritable raid on gold with investors and speculators especially selling gold for sterling," a Zurich currency dealer said.

Republic National Bank in New York closed cash gold at $362.75 an ounce, off $13.25 from $376 Monday. The New York Commodity Exchange settled contract gold at $362 an ounce, off $13 from $375.

Precious metals expert Alan Posnick, a vice president of MTB Banking Corp. in New York, said market-watchers believed Saudi Arabian investors unloaded gold in Europe, perhaps to meet Gulf crisis-related expenses.

But, he added, Japanese investors pressured to meet stock market margin calls and Soviet officials fending off an economic collapse have also dumped gold in the past few months, softening prices despite Gulf events.

"There's a need for cash, be it the Saudis, the Russians or the Japanese, and people are looking for what is available to sell," the commodities analyst said. "Precious metals are at the top of the list."

Silver closed unchanged in Zurich at $4.20 an ounce. But it eased in London to $4.21 an ounce against $4.23. Republic closed cash silver at $4.17 an ounce, up from $4.16. Comex silver closed at $4.142 an ounce, up from $4.132.

NEW YORK (OCT. 16) UPI - Stocks tumbled in moderate trading Tuesday, pressured by nervousness about the outcome of budget wrangling in Washington and fading prospects for a peaceful resolution to the Mideast crisis.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which rose 18.32 Monday, slid 35.15 to close at 2381.19.

Among broad market gauges, the New York Stock Exchange composite index fell 2.20 to 163.64 and Standard & Poor's 500-stock index tumbled 4.31 to 298.92. The price of an average share lost 38 cents.

Declines pummeled advances 1,072-475 among the 1,979 issues crossing the NYSE tape. Volume was 149,570,000 shares, down from 164,980,000 traded Monday.

Partisan warfare raged in the House Tuesday after Democrats barred Republicans from offering a budget plan that fell far short of cutting the deficit by the required $500 billion over five years.

Charges and countercharges flew across the House chamber prior to a showdown vote, expected late Tuesday, on a Democratic-sponsored deficit reduction plan.

The plan, which President Bush threatened to veto, would raise income tax rates on the rich from 28 percent to 33 percent. And oil prices closed sharply higher as compromise in the Persian Gulf crisis appeared to be publicly ruled out from all sides Tuesday.

The Soviets denied a report they had engineered a partial Iraqi withdrawal from Kuwait and the emirate's exiled premier said his government would not give up "a single inch" of territory. Oil prices jumped 94 cents a barrel to $38.89.

"What happened in the market today is a function of all the negatives still out there," said Jim Andrews, first vice president in charge of institutional trading at Janney Montgomery Scott Inc. in Philadelphia.

"On the budget, these guys are really throwing stones at each other now and it looks like we're going down to the 12th hour on that one. The market is perceiving it as the number one problem because (Federal Reserve Chairman Alan) Greenspan won't lower rates until a budget is in place.

"And that lunatic in the Mideast, he's not making it any easier on us either," Andrews went on. "The concept is that we still have problems that are nowhere near fruition. That's where the focus is."

On the trading floor, Citicorp was the most active issue, sinking 1 1/8 to 13 after reporting a sharp drop in third-quarter earnings. The results were close to expectations, but some analysts worried that the bank was sacrificing the future to meet expectations today.

Pacificorp followed, up 1/8 to 21 1/8 in dividend-related trading. General Electric was third, plunging 2 7/8 to 51 1/2 after reporting a rise in third-quarter earnings, but the results were at the low end of analysts expectations.

Federal National Mortgage Association was next, down 1 3/4 to 27 after raising its dividend to 22 cents a share from 18 cents.

Among the blue chips, AT&T lost 5/8 to 31 5/8, IBM gained 1/8 to 99 3/8, Eastman Kodak fell 1 1/8 to 36 3/4, Woolworth lost 1 1/2 to 24 1/2, and General Motors tumbled 1 3/8 to 36.

Elsewhere, two thrifts plunged in active trading after disappointing earnings reports. Golden West Financial sank 4 3/8 to 19 3/8 and Great Western Financial tumbled 1 1/2 to 9 1/8 before trading was halted for its profit statement late in the session.

Volume of NYSE-listed issues, including trades in stocks on regional exchanges and in the over-the-counter market, totaled 182,418,430 shares, compared with 194,881,120 shares traded Monday.

Prices were sharply lower in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange. The Amex Market Value index sank 2.95 to 290.32. Declines led advances 365-194 among the 784 issues traded. The price of an average share lost nine cents. Composite volume was 12,903,150 shares vs. 11,942, 700 traded Monday. Chambers Development Class A led the Amex issues, sinking 2 3/4 to 14 3/4.

The National Association of Securities Dealers composite index slid 4.11 to 325.43.

WASHINGTON (OCT. 16) UPI - Democrats compiled a better environmental voting record than Republicans in this congressional session and New Englanders were ''greener'' than lawmakers from other regions, the League of Conservation Voters said Tuesday.

The league, the political umbrella organization for the nation's major environmental groups, said legislators from Rocky Mountain and Southwest states made the worst showing on its 1990 ''environmental scoreboard,'' which examined how lawmakers voted on 20 crucial issues.

Overall, league officials said the scorecard revealed a ''massive greenscam'' on the part of lawmakers who pledged to protect the environment on the 20th anniversary of Earth Day in April.

''Hordes of politicians descended on Earth Day 1990, fishing, hiking, planting trees and posing in front of recycling centers,'' said Brent Blackwelder, chairman of the league.

''But when they returned to the nation's capitol, our lawmakers forgot about Earth Day,'' he said. ''Congress went back to business as usual, ducking the tough choices and the hard decisions in favor of the special interests who flatter them and fund their campaigns.''

Blackwelder said Congress passed little environmental legislation this year, noting in particular that the the clean air bill was still being debated.

''With only a few days remaining in the final session, the league found inaction, avoidance and empty rhetoric,'' Blackwelder said.

The league's scorecard was based on records compiled by lawmakers on 12 environmental floor votes in the Senate and eight in the House.

Eight of the 12 Senate votes involved the clean air bill, including amendments to toughen limits on automobile emissions and weaken enforcement provisions. Other Senate votes focused on bills to raise fuel efficiency requirements for cars and restrict log exports from Northwest forests.

The eight House votes included legislation to limit ''environmentally damaging'' federal water subsidies to western farmers, to cut federal money for production of plutonium for nuclear weapons, and to set national standards for organic fruits and vegetables.

League officials said the votes selected for the scorecard were those which are viewed as critical to the environment, closely contested and heavily lobbied by both environmentalists and industry.

Some of the key findings from the scorecard:

-House Democrats, on average, voted the ''right way'' 68 percent of the time and Senate Democrats 65 percent of the time. In contrast, House Republicans cast ''green'' votes 32 percent of the time and Senate Republicans registered 40 percent.

-House members from New England voted ''green'' 83 percent of the time and the region's senators 76 percent, compiling the best overall record for a region of the country.

-Rocky Mountain House members and senators both voted ''right'' only 35 percent of the time, the worst regional score along with Southwest House members, 38 percent, and senators, 33 percent.

-Scoring 100 percent ''correct'' in the Senate were John Kerry, D- Mass., Richard Bryan, D-Nev., Bill Bradley, D-N.J., Frank Lautenberg, D- N.J., and Claiborne Pell, R-R.I. Twenty-seven House members also scored 100.

-Scoring 0 percent ''correct'' were Sens. Thad Cochran and Trent Lott, both R-Miss., and 23 House members.

MOSCOW (OCT. 16) UPI - A compromise economic reform plan submitted to Parliament committees Tuesday drew immediate criticism from Russian leader Boris Yeltsin, who charged President Mikhail Gorbachev broke his promise to support a more radical program.

The new 70-page presidential proposal is a combination of a conservative plan supported by Premier Nikolai Ryzhkov that maintains much central economic control and a radical plan for a quick move to a market system developed by a committee set up by Gorbachev and Yeltsin.

The Russian republic's Parliament has already approved the more radical plan and many officials and economists have said it would be impossible to form a workable blueprint by combining the two radically different rival plans.

Yeltsin warned if the compromise plan with its slower move away from central control of the economy is adopted by the Soviet government, the huge Russian republic may be forced to ignore the Kremlin plan and implement its own "500-day" program - essentially splitting its economy from the Soviet Union. "This is difficult but we may have to follow this road," Yeltsin said.

Yeltsin told a session of the Russian Parliament that Gorbachev had promised him personally he would support the 500-day plan drafted by the commission headed by economist Stanislav Shatalin.

"During our conversation the president said he would support only that program " Yeltsin said. "It was realistic to begin the program on Oct. 1. We were ready for that. But the sinking union government put pressure on the president and he once more changed his decision. Once more an attempt is made to preserve the system that is hated by the people."

The leader of the Russian republic, who gained power as a populist after being kicked out of his Communist Party posts for criticizing the pace of reforms, said the new Gorbachev plan was an attempt "to preserve the administrative-bureaucratic system."

The compromise proposal was submitted to parliamentary committees for their consideration Tuesday and will be formally presented to the entire Parliament in a speech by Gorbachev Friday, presidential spokesman Vitaly Ignatenko said.

Viktor Kucherenko, chairman of the Parliament's planning, budget and finance commission, told the official news agency Tass the new Gorbachev proposal combined many aspects of the Ryzhkov government plan and the Shatalin plan.

He said the plan did not include the strict schedule of privatization that was part of the 500-day plan and it also maintains central control of many wholesale and retail prices, imposing state-set increases rather than allowing market prices as in the Shatalin plan.

The compromise proposal does envisage eliminating the state monopoly on property and privatizing the economy, but the process will be slow and "it is hardly likely that state property will be sold off within the next few months " Kucherenko said.

(OCT. 16) UPI - Charges and counter-charges flew across the House chamber today, ahead of a showdown vote expected this evening on a Democratic-sponsored deficit-reduction plan. The plan is expected to pass the Democrat- controlled House with few, if any, Republican votes. Campaigning near Chicago today, President Bush pronounced the Democrats' plan unacceptable and said he will veto it because it ''raises the taxes of the working men and women of this country.''

Iraq blasted President Bush today, calling him a ''clown'' waging war at the behest of oil companies. The official Iraqi news agency reported the comments, which were in response to a speech Bush made yesterday likening Iraqi President Saddam Hussein to Hitler. The criticism came as a reported Soviet-engineered compromise to end the Persian Gulf crisis appeared to be publicly ruled out from all sides.

In Moscow, Russian Republic leader Boris Yeltsin today attacked a compromise presidential economic plan submitted to Parliament for a move to a market economy. Yeltsin charged that President Gorbachev broke his promise to support a more radical program. The new proposal is a combination of a conservative plan and a radical one.

Military sources say at least 14 people, including two soldiers, died in heavy fighting as government troops swept through rebel strongholds in northern El Salvador. The sources say government troops dismantled six other guerrilla camps during recent sweeps in two central provinces.

A former Drexel Burnham Lambert attorney denies he was asked by a trader of the firm if there was insider trading in the Beverly Hills, California, office. Kevin Madigan testified in the ''mini-trial'' of one-time Wall Street junk bond king Michael Milken in Manhattan federal court. Madigan refused to waive the lawyer-client privilege but briefly took the stand at the end of today's abbreviated session.

KAIMU, Hawaii (OCT. 16) UPI - Molten rock spewing from the Kilauea volcano destroyed a home and threatened others in three areas of the lava- ravaged southeast coast of the island of Hawaii, authorities said Tuesday.

The molten streams slackened their march along the coastline past several housing areas but remained close to one structure, civil defense spokesman Lanny Nakano said.

Farther upslope, dormant flows awoke and sent streams of glowing lava to imperil the few remaining homes in the already devastated Kalapana Gardens and Royal Gardens housing areas, he said.

The lava erupted just upslope of a street in what remains of the once-prosperous Kalapana Gardens area and crept down to incinerate a home at 11 p.m. Monday, Nakano said.

Two other homes, both long since evacuated, were in danger with lava only 20 yards from one.

''The flow is bypassing the other home, but it could move toward (the home) because it's all in a flat area,'' Nakano said.

Only four homes remain in Kalapana Gardens, which was turned into a ghost town earlier this year by lava that inundated the historic coastal community of Kalapana and then headed for the neighboring settlement of Kaimu.

Another major flow that developed over the past few days in the Royal Gardens area split into two lobes, one of which was moving over the remains of earlier flows down to the 100-foot elevation.

Only 15 homes remain in Royal Gardens, which was invaded repeatedly by lava and largely destroyed in the early years of the eruption, which has lasted for almost eight years.

Two families still live in the rural subdivision, walking one mile over the old lava flow to get in and out of their homes and doing without utilities.

Civil defense observers relied on helicopter overflights and occasional checks by hiking National Park rangers and Hawaiian Volcano Observatory scientists to keep track of the flow in Royal Gardens.

Although there was no immediate threat to three dozen homes in the Kaimu-Makena Homestead, Kalapana Shores, and Kalapana Haven settlements, ''several homes in the area are still in danger as lava is close to the structures,'' officials said.

The eruption, which began in January 1983, is the longest in recorded history and has destroyed 178 homes and other structures as well as destroying many houselots and paving over miles of roadways.

(OCT 16) UPI - Snow fell over the northern Rockies and the mountains of the Pacific Northwest Tuesday and rain fell across parts of the Plains, the Midwest and the Northeast.

Advisories for snow were posted Tuesday night for the mountains of central Wyoming and mountain passes of the Continental Divide in Montana where up to 3 inches of snow fell, the National Weather Service said. Snow also fell over the Idaho Panhandle into the mountains of eastern Washington state.

Rain fell at lower elevations throughout the region and parts of the Dakotas, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, Oklahoma and Arkansas. Showers also extended across parts of Ohio, Pennsylvania, Vermont, New Hampshire and northern Maine.

Tuesday was another unseasonably warm day over the Southeast. Tampa, Fla., warmed to 90 degrees, marking the 11th day in October and 136th day this year the temperature has reached at least 90 degrees. Tampa normally averages 83 days per year with temperatures of 90 degrees or higher.

In the East, the NWS said recreational boaters should exercise caution on the Ohio, Allegheny and Beaver rivers near Pittsburgh due to high water and swift currents.

WASHINGTON (OCT. 16) UPI - Senate Republicans made a last-ditch effort Tuesday to scuttle a Democratic-backed civil rights bill, seeking to substitute a cut down measure that President Bush has agreed to sign.

Senate Republican leader Robert Dole of Kansas announced that he will seek to send the bill back to Senate-House negotiations with orders to return a GOP alternative that Democrats said would not bar discrimination in employment.

In a letter to Dole, Bush said he was convinced the compromise bill under consideration by the Senate ''will have the effect of forcing businesses to adopt quotas in hiring and promotion.''

''It will also foster divisiveness and litigation rather than conciliation and do more to promote legal fees than civil rights,'' Bush said. ''If this bill is presented to me, I will be compelled to veto it.''

Bush said the more narrow Republican alternative ''represents a sound, practical compromise, and I will sign such a bill if it is presented to me.''

The White House and Attorney General Dick Thornburgh have said the bill would be vetoed despite intense negotiations and efforts by sponsors of the measure to meet administration and business fears that it would lead to quotas in hiring and promotions.

Several senators said Bush would like to sign the bill, but is being pressured by Thornburgh and top White House aides to veto the measure.

The legislation would reverse or modify six Supreme Court decisions handed down in 1988-89 and four other decisions that date back to 1985 that involve awards and lawyer fees in job discrimination cases.

The measure also expands the historic 1964 Civil Rights Act by allowing victims of intentional discrimination to recover compensatory damages and in the most severe cases punitive damages.

The original bills were passed by the Senate 65-34 and by the House 272-154, both short of the needed two-thirds majority to override a veto.

But since then Senate-House negotiators have made major changes in the bill in a futile effort to meet administration objections.

The compromise bill expressly provides that nothing in the legislation should be intepreted to even ''encourage'' adoption of quotas; declares that statistical imbalance in the workforce does not by itself constitute discrimination; and limits punitive damages to $150, 000 or the amount of compensatory damages, whichever is greater.

''We have repeatedly modified this legislation in an attempt to meet the concerns of the administration,'' said Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass. ''So far, however, the attorney general continues to recommend a veto.''

Kennedy urged Bush to take an ''independent look'' at the bill and the efforts made to ''go the extra mile and meet every reasonable objection of the White House.''

''If he does, I believe he will sign this legislation, because he will see that it is an anti-discrimination bill, not a quota bill,'' Kennedy said.

Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, another major supporter of the bill, said negotiators failed to reach a consensus because White House officials ''want to kill the bill. The president is being badly advised by some closest to him.''

Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, said he would have been willing to accept the compromise - despite personal misgivings - if the administration backed it.

''We failed. We couldn't put it together,'' Hatch said, adding that Bush has so much concern with the compromise that he will veto the bill.

Hatch charged that the bill would force business to ''make every employment decisions with an eye on the numbers'' and said the legislation is a ''significant and irresistible step toward quotas.''

NEW YORK (OCT. 16) UPI - U.S. inventories of crude oil fell for the fifth straight week to virtually eliminate the nation's excess over last year as imports declined further, the American Petroleum Institute reported Tuesday.

Crude oil inventories fell 6.2 million barrels to 343.3 million barrels last week from 349.5 million barrels in the prior week and were almost equal to year-ago levels of 342.8 million barrels, the API weekly survey found.

The decline brings the drop in U.S. crude inventories over the last five weeks to 30.2 million barrels.

Prior to Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of oil-rich Kuwait, U.S. crude supplies were 56.5 million barrels above a year ago.

They began to fall in mid-September as the impact of the U.S. embargo on Iraqi and Kuwaiti exports began to be felt. It takes tankers 4-5 weeks to reach U.S. shores from the Middle East.

Crude oil imports declined to 5 million barrels a day from 5.5 million barrels a day in the previous week but were substantially less than year ago imports of 6.5 million barrels a day.

Imports of refined products slipped to 1.3 million barrels daily from 1.6 million barrels daily in the preceding week and were lower than year-ago imports of 1.9 million barrels daily.

Inventories of distillate - used for home-heating oil and diesel fuel - edged up to 135.9 million barrels from 133.3 million barrels a week earlier and remained well above year-ago levels of 120.3 million barrels.

Distillate production stayed at 2.9 million barrels daily, the same level as in the preceding week and a year-ago.

Distillate imports plummeted to 47,000 barrels a day from 182,000 barrels a day in the previous week but were much lower than year-ago imports of 590,000 barrels a day.

Gasoline supplies increased slightly to 225.9 million barrels from 225.7 million barrels in the prior week and were ahead of year-ago levels of 225.3 million barrels.

Stocks of unleaded gasoline, which accounts for 90 percent of the domestic market, also increased to 175 million barrels from 174.1 million barrels a week earlier and remained higher than year-ago levels of 164.5 million barrels.

Gasoline production held steady at 7.1 million barrels daily, compared to 7 million barrels in the previous week, the same level as year-ago output.

Gasoline imports plunged substantially to 96,000 barrels daily from 216,000 barrels daily in the previous week and were well below year-ago imports of 156,000 barrels daily.

U.S. refineries operated at 85.8 percent of capacity last week, compared with 87.6 percent a week earlier and 87.4 percent a year ago.

CAIRO (OCT. 16) UPI - Egypt Tuesday slashed its crude oil export prices by $3 a barrel across the board, the Egyptian General Petroleum Corp. said.

The announcement said the premium Zeit Bay-Ras el Behar and Gulf of Suez blends were now priced at $35.30 and 35.00 a barrel respectively.

The medium Balaim and Ras Baran crudes were priced at $34.15 and $33 a barrel respectively, the announcement said, and the heavy Ras Ghareb will sell for $32.70 a barrel.

EGPC Vice Chairman for Foreign Sale Hammad Aiyyoub said that a rumor originating in the Soviet Union of an imminent peaceful solution of the Gulf crisis had in part prompted the decrease.

Another contributing factor was the fact that oil consuming countries have begun to draw from their own strategic reserves, Aiyyoub said.

(OCT. 16) UPI - The growing public anxiety over America's role in the Gulf crisis was dramatized today at a Republican campaign rally Iowa, where dissenters assailed President Bush. Hecklers demanded U-S troops be pulled out of the Middle East, shouting- ''NO blood for oil!'' An UNdaunted president responded by saying the fight is NOT about oil, but the naked aggression of Iraq's Saddam Hussein. Bush then headed for another campaign stop in Illinois... where he again met opponents of his Gulf policy.

Kuwait's exiled premier says the oil-rich emirate is NOT interested in a reported deal that would have Iraq withdrawing its forces in return for territorial concessions. Crown Prince Sheikh Saad al-Sabah told reporters- ''The people of Kuwait have already taken an unequivocal resolution NOT to make any concessions on Kuwaiti sovereignty.'' In addition, he says Kuwait won't surrender ''even a single inch of land'' to Iraq.

The Senate is ready to pass a compromise civil rights bill, despite the threat of a presidential veto. The measure would overturn Supreme Court decisions and restore the full strength of anti-discrimination laws affecting the workplace. Several senators say President Bush would like to sign the bill, but is being pressured by Attorney General Thornburgh and top White House officials to veto the measure.

The Bush adminstration and Senate today agreed to a 15-BILLION- dollar, five-year child-care package. The measure would provide grants to states and tax credits to low income families. Republican and Democratic senators alike were openly ethusiastic while announcing the accord. Child care was NOT included in budget talks in the House, whose members do NOT all share the optimism of their Senate colleagues. Or as one representative said- ''Child care is NOT a done deal.''

(OCT. 16) UPI - Courtroom spectators were asked for proof of age and NO one under 18 was allowed to hear recordings of a concert performance by the rap group 2 Live Crew as its obscenity trial got under way today in Fort Lauderdale, Florida. Broward County Judge June Johnson ruled that jurors in the case will have to judge the band's controversial concert primarily from a tape recording that is largely unintelligible.

A survey of election records show Illinois Senator Paul Simon and Indiana Representative Jill Long top the list of lawmakers in Congress who have received the most donations from labor political action committees. The survey shows PAC's have contributed more than 23-Million dollars to this year's congressional campaigns... with seven individual union PAC's topping the one-Million-dollar donation mark. It says Democrats are the major recipients of labor money.

The federal government today sued three companies for polluting Indiana waterways feeding into Lake Michigan. RICHMOND, VA (OCT. 16) UPI - A federal appeals court Tuesday overturned a stay of execution for Wilbert Lee Evans, rejecting arguments that the condemned killer should be spared because of his heroism during a 1984 death-row breakout.

The three-judge panel of the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, vacating the stay issued by a U.S. District Court judge, agreed with the state that the courts could not intervene in the case simply because of Evans' exemplary life behind bars.

Evans' lawyers argued that his death sentence should be commuted to life in prison because he intervened to save guards and nurses from harm when six other condemned killers escaped from Mecklenburg Correctional Center in the largest death-row breakout in U.S. history.

His lawyers are expected to appeal the 4th Circuit's decision to the Supreme Court in Washington.

Evans is scheduled to die at 11 p.m. EDT Wednesday for the 1981 slaying of Alexandria Deputy Sheriff William Truesdale. Truesdale was bringing Evans back to the Alexandria jail after an extradition hearing when Evans grabbed for Truesdale's gun and fatally wounded the deputy.

In arguing before the federal appeals panel that the stay of execution should be vacated, Assistant Virginia Attorney General Donald Curry said commuting Evans' death sentence would be ''a back-door attack'' on the constitutionality of the state death penalty law that focuses on a convicted killer's ''future dangerousness.''

There is no alleged constitutional error for the appeals court to consider, he said, making Evans's case ''a clemency matter, pure and simple.'' Clemency, he said, is under the jurisdiction of Gov. L. Douglas Wilder, not the courts.

''You can't reweigh the evidence the jury heard after the fact,'' Curry said in a hearing conducted by telephone conference call.

''This is absolutely unique in the law of capital punishment,'' Judge J. Harvie Wilkinson, a member of the three-judge panel that heard the case.

No Virginia governor has intervened in a capital case since the Supreme Court allowed reinstatement of the death penalty in 1976. If executed, Evans, 44, would be the 10th person to die in Virginia's electric chair since that decision.

Wilder, a Democrat, once opposed the death penalty because he thought it unfairly discriminated against blacks. But the governor, who has expressed interest in running for national office, now favors capital punishment.

Virginia is among the toughest states in which to win appeals because of the legal concept of procedural default, which, simply stated, means that claims not asserted in original appeals cannot be brought up later.

Evans's lawyer, Mark Cahn, argued that, because the circumstances of this case are so unique, it qualifies for one of the exceptions to procedural default: the need to prevent a miscarriage of justice.

Wilkinson countered that Cahn was asking the court to invent a new rule, something he said it legally cannot do at this stage of appeals.

''There have been so many proceedings since 1984,'' Wilkinson said. ''Why is this claim ... coming in at the last minute? Did you raise the claim in state appeals? ... Why is it not defaulted because it was not raised earlier?''

Curry, the assistant attorney general, argued that if Evans's arguements are accepted, 40 Virginia prisoners sentenced to die because of their potential future dangerousness will be free to appeal if they have maintained good behavior on death row.

Cahn countered that it still would be up to a judge to decide if the condemned prisoner had made a strong enough case to warrant overturning the death sentence.

Curry said the differences ''would be only a matter of degree. ... Our point is it's a matter of executive clemency. Federal courts can't intervene ... without a constitutional error.''

GRAND RAPIDS, MI. (OCT. 16) UPI - First came the capitulation on taxes, then the concession on capital gains. Tuesday night, President Bush again bowed to the politics of the budget mess by doing a flip-flop on baseball.

After White House aides had struggled for almost 24 hours with the logistical details, Bush abruptly dropped plans to attend Wednesday night's second game of the World Series in deference to the deficit deliberations back in Washington. First lady Barbara Bush will pinch hit for the president in Cincinnati and throw out the first pitch, her aides said.

''It looked like the timing would be such that he thought it'd be good to be in Washington to be available to work the (budget) conference, if that's necessary, or do whatever lobbying we need to do,'' White House press secretary Marlin Fitzwater explained to reporters.

In fact, however, he later said Bush concluded his travel plans would be untimely only after being advised by Senate Republican leader Robert Dole of Kansas and House GOP leader Bob Michel of Illinois that ''everything could come to a head'' late Wednesday with passage of separate budget plans by the House and Senate.

In the background of the decision was the question of imagery. Over the last few weeks, Bush has made symbolic gestures to demonstrate sensitivity to the budget crisis: using a small plane rather than his Boeing 747 jumbo jet to commute between Washington and New York to seal an ill-fated budget deal with Congress late last month, and traveling by motorcade instead of helicopter to and from Camp David.

Fitzwater denied political appearances were behind the decision to scrub the baseball trip. However, Bush has taken no small amount of heat from Democrats over spending two the past days on the campaign trail, berating them for the problems back in Washington, while the budget debate moved once again to an uncertain climax.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (OCT. 16) UPI - Two men were shot dead and three others injured in a spate of gun attacks Tuesday night, the Royal Ulster Constabulary said.

The killings happened in the north of the city as gunmen cruised the darkened streets hunting for victims in a spiraling tit-for-tat war between Protestant paramilitary groups and the Irish Republican Army.

Already this year, 51 people have been killed in Northern Ireland. Since the IRA campaign started in 1969, 2,824 people have been killed.

A police spokesman said a 32-year-old Catholic man died in a hail of gunfire in the Oldpark district while walking to his home from a liquor store. He was shot at point-blank range when a man jumped from a stolen Ford Sierra car.

Minutes later, a 24-year-old man from Bangor, 12 miles east of Belfast, was shot in a similar attack as he waited for a taxi outside the Clifton Park Hotel, less than a half-mile from the scene of the first shooting.

Police said they believe the killings were carried out by a Protestant group in retaliation for an IRA gun attack on two police officers four days earlier.

One of the officers later died of his injuries, and the other officer was fighting for his life Tuesday.

Three men were shot in the legs in east Belfast Tuesday night. They were found lying in an alley, and were believed to be the victims of a paramilitary punishment squad.

LOS ANGELES (OCT. 16) UPI - A former news director at a pop music station filed a discrimination lawsuit Tuesday against the station and its popular disc jockey, alleging he made her the butt of sexist jokes on the air and on television.

In her lawsuit, filed in Superior Court, Liz Fulton, who worked as Rick Dees' sidekick in his nationally syndicated radio show from 1987 to March 1990, alleges she was wrongfully fired because ''Dees sought to replace her with a younger, more obviously sexual woman.''

The lawsuit asserts that Dees referred to Fulton on the air as ''Liz Rugburn Fulton'' and, on several occasions, ''represented ... that Fulton was the blond, buxom, younger woman who appeared with him (publicly),'' and even appeared on the Wally George Show with the woman in March 1988.

The imposter, dressed in a scant bikini, threw whipped cream at George and jumped on top of the talk show host's desk before being handcuffed and led off the set, Fulton's attorney, Gloria Allred, said.

In the lawsuit, Fulton claims she heard about the incident at the Wally George show from a listener who called her station, KISS-FM, after it aired again in 1989.

In addition to sex discrimination, the suit alleges defamation, breach of contract, unauthorized use of name and invasion of privacy.

Gannett Radio, the key defendant in the case, said the station had no immediate comment on the suit.

In the lawsuit, Fulton said she was terminated in March by a program director who said he needed ''to plan ahead for the next five years and (that (Fulton) didn't fit into that five-year plan.''

Dees explained Fulton's departure on the radio by saying she wanted to spend more time with her children, but Fulton claims she never requested more time with her family.

Fulton, 37, said Tuesday that she took 1 1/2-year sabbatical from the station in 1984 to have a child and that Dees and the station's operators treated her differently when she returned.

''There definitely was a noticeable change in attitude,'' Fulton said. ''There were functions I was not allowed to go to (and) I could not attend a lot of promotional things, like parties.''

Fulton said she never complained to the station about Dees' jokes about her ''because I really didn't want to lose my job.''

She said she continued to be the ''straight man'' to Dees because ''I was convinced that if I didn't act the way I was (acting), I would be fired.''

WASHINGTON (OCT. 16) UPI - Congress is on the verge of writing new safeguards for wetlands and prevention of water contamination into the farm program but environmentalists are steaming over the loss of a key pesticide proposal.

Farm policy negotiators killed the ''circle of poison'' language after both the House and Senate refused to yield on the issue. It would have barred export of pesticides not allowed on U.S. crops, as well as importation of food treated with them.

''The lesson learned from this fiasco is that the Agriculture Committees cannot be trusted to address the health and safety risks posed by pesticides '' said Rick Hind of the U.S. Public Interest Research Group.

Other environmentalists blamed a lobbying campaign by chemical manufacturers for the loss of the proposal, as well as opposition by the Bush administration.

Breaking the ''circle of poison,'' shorthand by proponents to describe how U.S. pesticide exports could return in the form of residues on food, was a top environmental objective for the new farm bill.

The Bush administration and chemical manufacturers called the proposal misguided and unlikely to improve food safety since imports already are subject to inspection for chemical residues.

Critics also charged the legislation could be circumvented by moving production of pesticides to other nations at a cost to U.S. jobs and the econmy. Proponents said those risks were exaggerated.

Both the House and Senate approved versions of the language last summer. The Senate plan was broader, barring export of banned pesticides, those with no U.S. food tolerance level, and those not approved for use on U.S. crops. The House would have allowed export of unregistered pesticides if they passed health reviews or were approved for use by any of two dozen industrialized nations.

The differences proved irreconciliable. House negotiators refused to accept the Senate approach. Senate Agriculture Committee Chairman Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., who defeated an attempt to weaken the Senate plan, was unwilling to accept a weaker package. Negotiators finally dropped provision. The bill is likely to face a final vote for congressional approval next week.

Environmentalists said they preferred to see the idea die for the year rather than be watered down to ''an empty gesture,'' as a Sierra Club lobbyist put it.

The environmental cause may have been damaged by a House vote last week in which Rep. Mike Synar, D-Okla., was soundly defeated in an attempt to require strong ''circle'' language.

Some of the House negotiators called the ''circle'' proposal a shotgun blast that would unwisely interfere with exports of chemicals that were safe but not designed for U.S. crops and hence not registered.

Although the ''circle'' language was deleted, negotiators agreed to require farmers to keep records on their use of restricted-use pesticides. The information would be available to health and environmental workers from the government but only limited access would be given to the public.

Also in the farm bill are proposals to create a wetland reserve that would buy up to 1 million acres in easements to protect wetlands and a water quality initiative that would defray the costs to farmers of altering their practices to reduce the chance of farm chemicals contaminating environmentally sensitive land.

The water quality program would have a goal of 10 million acres. Payments of up to $3,500 a year would be available for five years, plus cost-share payments of up to $1,500 a year.

The bill also would tighten the rules on the ''swampbuster'' program to make it easier to catch producers who convert wetlands to crop use. It would extend the so-called conservation compliance rule, which requires farmers to practice conservation in order to qualify for farm program benefits.

(OCT. 16) UPI - Charges and countercharges flew across the House chamber today prior to a showdown vote on a budget plan. The eruption came after Democrats barred Republicans from offering a plan that contained virtually NO new taxes and got its savings from spending cuts and freezes. The G-O-P plan also falls well short of cutting the deficit by the required 500-BILLION-dollars over five years. The Democratic-sponsored measure is expected to pass the House today, despite threats of a presidential veto.

Soviet President Gorbachev's compromise economic reform plan submitted to Parliament committees is drawing criticism. Russian leader Boris Yeltsin charges Gorbachev broke his promise to support a more radical program for a quick move to a market system. Yeltsin warns if the compromise plan with its slower move away from central control of the economy is adopted, the huge Russian republic may be forced to ignore the Kremlin plan. He says the republic may implement its own ''500-day'' program- essentially splitting its economy from the Soviet Union.

Pro-Syrian troops surrounded the French Embassy in Lebanon today. Soldiers converged on the embassy as the French and Lebanese governments disputed the fate of deposed Christian General Michel Aoun, who remains holed up at the mission. Lebanese President Elias Hrawi's government wants to try the renegade general for ''crimes'' against the nation and the alleged embezzlement of 70-Million dollars in funds. But France has vowed NOT to surrender Aoun for trial.

In South Africa, right-wing towns reportedly are finding ways to get around a new law against racial segregation in public places. A newspaper sent a black reporter to visit the eastern Transvaal province town of Bethal to test its compliance and found subtler forms of racism. The town has levied high fees on ''non- residents''... including a 195-dollar membership fee to use the library.

Yugoslavia's eight-man presidency today met with national leaders to break a deadlock over the country's political future. The presidency resumed deliberations on selecting between two competing plans. One calls for maintaining Yugoslavia as a federation of 23-Million people in six republics. The second plan envisions a confederation of independent states with separate militaries, currencies and foreign policies, but linked through common economic interests.

Officials also report NO flares or other light was spotted in the first after-dark search last night.

The bodies of six people were discovered today in the burned-out remains of their home in Jacksonville, Florida. Authorities say the fire was set last night by the husband of one of the victims. 35-year-old Gerald Wayne Lewis was arrested twice previously for abusing his wife and is in jail, charged with six counts of murder. The dead include four children... ranging in age from two to 12 years.

LOS ANGELES (OCT. 16) UPI - A divided City Council stopped short of banning smoking in the city's restaurants Tuesday, agreeing instead to a tentative compromise that would strengthen existing laws that govern smoking in eateries.

The council rejected the all-out smoking ban by a vote of 6-6, scuttling what would have been the toughest anti-smoking measure ever implemented by a major U.S. city.

Nevertheless, Councilman Marvin Braude, who proposed the ban, said he would continue to push for the proposal, vowing that eventually the city would adopt his legislation prohibiting smoking in all of the city's 8, 000 restaurants.

''I predict that within two years we will have no smoking in any restaurant in Los Angeles,'' Braude said afterward. ''Hopefully, a lot sooner.''

Much of the opposition to the ban stemmed from fears voiced by restaurant owners and their employees who said that the already slumping restaurant economy would be hurt even more as smoking patrons took their business to neighboring cities where no bans exist.

While the ban was being debated, it was variously labeled by supporters and opponents as a public health issue, an economic issue and a civil rights issue.

Armed with medical reports and letters from physicians and other supporters, including Secretary of Health and Human Services Dr. Louis Sullivan, Braude actively lobbied his colleagues before the council meeting, but was unsuccessful in garnering the required votes.

He suggested that anti-ban forces, including members of the tobacco industry, lobbied more persuasively.

''I thought they (his council colleagues) would have looked at the medical evidence and be persuaded,'' Braude said. ''(But) they listened more to the lobbyists than the public health professionals.''

He cited statistics from the U.S. Surgeon General's Office that estimate about 3,800 non-smokers die each year from lung cancer caused by passive, or second-hand, smoke from cigarettes.

Current city laws ban smoking in city-owned buildings and supermarkets.

Councilman John Ferraro said that, although national awareness about the hazards of smoking appear to headed toward more restrictions in public places, the time to implement such a sweeping policy has yet to arrive.

''To be a leader is fine and dandy, but we're jeopardizing the businesses in Los Angeles,'' Ferraro said. ''We're getting closer to a national ban on smoking, but let's not sacrifice the people who pay taxes.''

Several members of a local restaurant coalition, known as Restaurants for a Sensible Voluntary Policy on Smoking, reminded council members that the city of Beverly Hills passed a smoking ban in 1987 that was quickly rescinded after restaurants experienced an 11 percent drop in revenues.

Councilman Joel Wachs said there was not enough compelling medical evidence to convince him to vote for a law that he said amounted to yet another infringement on freedom.

''I'm concerned that in this country there is a growing wave of repression,'' Wachs said. ''I have trouble with that approach that constantly is telling people what to do.''

After more than 90 minutes hours of debate, the council voted to tentatively adopt a compromise measure offered by Councilman Hal Bernson, amending the city's existing law that requires restaurants with accommodations for 50 patrons or more to have separate smoking and non- smoking areas.

The compromise would require restaurants with seating for 50 or fewer patrons to post their smoking policy while larger restaurants would have to partition the two areas with a ventilation system.

Braude said the compromise ''doesn't do enough at all.''

WASHINGTON (OCT. 16) UPI - Herds in the 21 major dairy states produced just over 10 billion pounds of milk in September - the eighth month in a row to top 1989's pace, the Agriculture Department said Tuesday.

The September figure was 4 percent larger than the 9.7 billion pounds recorded one year earlier.

The government has projected dairy production this year will be 2 percent larger than last year's 144.25 billion pounds, aided by market prices 3 percent to 5 percent higher than 1989. Supermarket prices for milk were projected to be up 8 percent to 10 percent for the year.

If the rest of the nation followed the same trend as the major states, U.S. milk production last month totaled 11.8 billion pounds.

Output per cow in the 21 major dairy states averaged 1,173 pounds for the month, up 36 pounds from September 1989. There were 8.54 million head in dairy herds in the major states, up 37,000 from one year earlier.

Wisconsin, the No. 1 dairy state, produced 1.95 billion pounds of milk during September, up 4 percent. California, the No. 2 state, had a 6 percent gain for a total of 1.74 billion pounds.

Maryland showed the largest increase among the major states, up 14 percent to 121 million pounds. Iowa and Minnesota were the only states to show declines - both down 3 percent. Iowa produced 325 million pounds of milk and Minnesota 737 million pounds.

LOS ANGELES (OCT. 16) UPI - A narcotics ring that shipped cocaine to points across the nation has been dismantled, with authorities Tuesday announcing the seizure of a nearly $80-million cache of the drug and the arrests of seven Cuban nationals.

The ring, in what has become a commonplace practice, was believed to have smuggled its cocaine across the Mexican border by trucks that dropped their cargo in Los Angeles where the drugs were subsequently shipped across the nation.

In all, about 1,400 pounds of cocaine with a street value of about $79.5 million were seized by authorities.

Authorities said they believe the ring had been smuggling cocaine ''for some time'' but there were no precise estimates on when it began operations and no indication of how much of the drug it was responsible for bringing into the United States.

The seizure was made following a joint investigation involving the Los Angeles Police Department, the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration and the California Highway Patrol.

The investigation of the ring began in the summer after a CHP officer trained to detect drug-carrying commercial vehicles became suspicious of a tractor-trailor rig owned by Moonlight Trucking Co. of Alma, Ark., Police Chief Daryl Gates said.

On Oct. 8, the same officer made a traffic stop of a Moonlight rig in Burbank and discovered nearly 700 pounds of cocaine stuffed into a hidden compartment within the sleeper birth of the tractor. Two men were arrested.

Gates said those men, identified as Olvido Linares Jr., 22, of Miami, and Silvano Acosta, 23, of Hialeah, Fla., served primarily as drivers in the operation and were allegedly paid $200 for every kilogram they transported.

Within five days, the CHP, together with the DEA and the Los Angeles Police Department, stopped a second Moonlight rig near Desert Center, a Riverside County community 175 miles from Los Angeles.

Another roughly 630 pounds of the drug was seized. Two other men, Joseph Alvarez, 45, and Rene Reyes Montenegro, 44, both of Miami, were taken into custody.

The investigation then moved to Newark, N.J., where on Saturday authorities arrested Jacinto Diaz, 25, and Ricardo Alvarez-Perez, 43, both of Miami, and Pedro Pedrianes-Valinda, 20, of Hialeah, Fla.

Diaz was identified as the owner of the trucking company and a ''key player'' in the ring but authorities declined to say who masterminded the operation.

The trucking company, authorities said, was apparently established as a front for the ring.

Gates noted only two of the suspects were American citizens and that all were born in Cuba. All of the men were being held on $5 million bail each.

WASHINGTON (OCT. 16) UPI - Here are highlights of the Democratic-sponsored amendment to a $500 billion, five-year deficit reduction plan. Crafted by Democrats on the tax-writing Ways and Means Committee and supported by party leaders, the amendment passed the House Tuesday.

The Democratic amendment would cut the deficit by $26.2 billion in fiscal 1991 and $195 billion over five years. The larger package to which it was attached would slash the deficit by $40 billion in fiscal 1991 and by $500 billion through 1995.

The Democratic plan would raise revenue totaling $22.4 billion in 1991 and $148.6 billion over five years.

Key provisions, and the amount they would either raise in revenues or save in spending this fiscal year and over five years, include:

-Raising the top income tax rate for the richest Americans from 28 percent to 33 percent, eliminating the so-called bubble that now has rates dropping back from 33 percent to 28 percent for the very wealthy. Also, increasing, from 21 percent to 25 percent, the alternative minimum tax to make sure those who use exemptions and deductions pay a minimum tax. $4.5 bilion; $50 billion.

-Setting a 10 percent surtax on those with taxable incomes over $1 million. $0.6 billion; $7.6 billion.

-Imposing a new 10 percent luxury tax on cars costing more than $30, 000, private boats, yachts and planes costing more than $100,000 and on furs and jewelry costing more than $5,000. The tax on a $40,000 car would be $1,000 - 10 percent of the $10,000 cost that excedes the $30, 000 threshold. $0.3 billion; $2.8 billion.

-Delaying for a year the indexing for inflation of tax brackets and personal exemptions, which would cost most middle income taxpayers several hundred dollars in higher taxes. $4.1 billion; $36 billion.

-Raising to $100,000, from the current $51,300, the annual wage cap on which payroll taxes are deducted to fund Medicare. $1.5 billion; $22 billion.

-Raising tobacco taxes, increasing cigarette taxes four cents a pack in 1991 and four more cents a pack in 1993. $0.5 billion; $5.8 billion.

-Raising alcoholic beverage taxes, doubling the tax on beer from 16 cents to 32 cents a six-pack, raising table wine taxes by 25 cents a bottle and hiking by $1 per 100-proof gallon the tax on distilled spirits, raising the price of an 80-proof bottle of whiskey from $2 to $2.16. $1.4 billion; $9.3 billion.

-Increasing aviation excise taxes, $1,4 billion; $11.9 billion.

-Doubling the gas guzzler tax, which is now $500 on cars getting less than 22.5 miles per gallon, rising to $3,850 on cars getting less than 12.5 miles a gallon. $0.1 billion; $0.5 billion.

-Extending Social Security payroll taxes to state and local workers not currently covered. $1.3 billion; $10 billion.

-Allowing taxpayers to exclude from their income 50 percent of long- term capital gains, with a lifetime $200,000 cap. Also, excluding from taxation the first $1,000 in capital gains realized each year. $2.2 billion; would raise the deficit by $15.8 billion over five years.

-Cutting Medicare by $43 billion over five years, with $33 billion from health care providers and $10 billion from beneficiaries. Beneficiaries would see their Part B premiums raised to $29.90 in 1991, $31.70 in 1992, $36.50 in 1993 $41.20 in 1994 and $46.20 in 1995. The Part B annual deductible would rise from the current $75 to $100. The budget summit would have cut Medicare by $60 billion and raised the deductible to $150. $0.3 billion; $10 billion.

-Eliminates doubling to two weeks the waiting period for unemployment benefits.

-Exempts home heating oil from a new petroleum tax.

WASHINGTON (OCT. 16) UPI - The House, after a day of partisan warfare over how to cut the deficit, passed a Democratic amendment Tuesday that raises income taxes on the rich, hikes beer, wine and cigarette taxes and softens Medicare cuts.

The vote on the plan sponsored by Democratic members of the tax- writing House Ways and Means Committee was mostly along party lines.

It was attached to a larger bill that would cut the deficit by $40 billion in fiscal year 1991 and by $500 billion over five years. That larger bill was expected to be voted on by the House Tuesday night.

President Bush, campaigning for GOP candidates in the Midwest Tuesday, threatened to veto the bill if the Democratic amendment passed and the measure reached his desk.

''I will veto it because it raises the taxes of the working men and women of this country,'' Bush said in Illinois.

The Senate was expected to begin up to 20 hours of debate either late Tuesday or Wednesday on its own bipartisan deficit reduction package - one Bush indicated he could support.

After the Senate acts, negotiators from each chamber will try to settle differences in what is expected to be the largest deficit reduction package ever considered by Congress. The final plan must pass each house before going to Bush.

A temporary spending bill to keep the government running expires at midnight Friday. Bush has vowed to veto any new stop-gap spending measure unless Congress passes a budget plan he can accept before Friday's deadline.

Democrats hailed their plan as fairer to the middle class than the summit proposal.

''Approval of our alternative will be a proud moment for this House,'' said Ways and Means Chairman Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill. ''Our alternative is bold, but it is fair enough to win broad public acceptance.''

But House Republican leader Robert Michel of Illinois said the Democratic plan sounds ''the savage cry of class warfare'' with increased taxes on the rich.

''It is to budget deficit plans what Bart Simpson is to scholarship,'' Michel said, refering to the notorious cartoon underachiever of television fame.

The Democratic plan raises income tax rates on the rich from 28 percent to 33 percent, imposes a 10 percent luxury tax on expensive cars, jewlery, yachts and furs and adds a 10 percent surtax on those with annual taxable incomes above $1 million.

It would reduce Medicare cuts by $17 billion, from the $60 billion proposed by the bipartisan budget summit but rejected by the House, to $43 billion over five years. It also eliminates doubling to two weeks the waiting period for unemployment benefits and exempts home heating oil from a new petroleum tax.

And it would raise taxes on cigarettes by 4 cents a pack in 1991 and by 4 more cents in 1993. It would double, to 32 cents a six-pack, the tax on beer and increase taxes on wine and distilled spirits.

The Democrats' plan would also freeze for one year the annual inflation adjustment of income tax rates and personal exemptions. That would raise taxes by about $313 on a family of four with a taxable income of $34,000 next year, according to Treasury Department figures.

''This is a major tax increase that's going to put this country into a deep, bottomless recession,'' Rep. Dan Burton, R-Ind., said of the one-year freeze. ''They (Democrats) are going to tax and tax and tax us all to death.''

The proposal eliminates gasoline tax increases and revenue losing proposals, such as tax breaks for small business investments, in the rejected budget summit proposal.

MANAGUA, NICARAGUA (OCT. 16) UPI - Former Contra rebels are continuing to invade Sandinista farm cooperatives and private property because the government has failed to deliver the land it promised them, a rebel leader said Tuesday.

When an estimated 20,000 rebels handed in their weapons in May and June, the government agreed to provide land, housing, tools and agricultural credits in resettlement areas called development poles.

''Little of that has been carried out,'' former Contra Commander in Chief Israel Galeano said. ''We are in the development poles, but we haven't got enough land to work, or housing or bank facilities.

''That is why cooperative farmlands are being occupied,'' Galeano said.

The land invasions have touched off confrontations between the former rebels and the Sandinista police. In one such showdown, 10 Contras were killed and a policeman wounded.

The government set up an agricultural commission headed by Galeano and Humberto Ortega, the Sandinista army chief of staff, after former Contras took over a number of farms and attacked the Town Hall in Quilai, 130 miles north of Managua.

The government said the commission was formed to halt the assaults and called on former rebels to wait until the commission finds work for them.

Of the $300 million in U.S. aid allotted following President Violeta Chamorro's election victory last February, $45 million was earmarked for resettlement of the Contras and their dependents.

Since April, when Chamorro took office, the government has been trying unsuccessfully to curb runaway inflation, with constant devaluations of the cordoba and public spending cuts causing increased unemployment and social discontent.

WASHINGTON (OCT. 16) UPI - Farmers will be stuck with an unfairly large portion of federal spending cuts under the farm bill awaiting final congressional approval, two major farm organizations said Tuesday.

The final version of the bill was approved by House and Senate negotiators early Tuesday after a 13-hour conference committee meeting. It would cut farm program spending by 25 percent but try to make up for it by giving farmers more freedom to seek money-making crops.

''Farm bill negotiators were faced with a set of bad choices from the beginning and their end product only rearranges a mandated decline in farm income,'' said Del Weideman, president of the National Association of Wheat Growers.

The American Farm Bureau Federation, the nation's largest farm organization, said the bill would complicate the farm program at the same time it provided less of a safety net for farmers. The Farm Bureau objected to the $13.6 billion in cuts assigned to agriculture for the next five years. That means farm spending of about $41 billion through 1995.

Negotiators tried to balance the budget cuts and farm program goals by freezing crop target prices but adopting the so-called triple base program. It would declare 15 percent of a farmer's wheat, feed grains, cotton and rice land ineligible for subsidies. Farmers would be allowed to grow crops on the land, however.

The triple base would be coupled with a voluntary 10 percent ''planting flexibility'' program. Land enrolled in it also would be ineligible for subsidies but farmers would have freedom to experiment with new crops.

Analysts say triple base could result in lower farm income because of smaller government payments. Critics say the freedom to switch acreage among crops may be of little value to farmers in areas where climate dictates the choice of crops, such as wheat in the Great Plains, or there is little chance to market a different crop.

Congressmen said the triple base was the most equitable way to make budget cuts among the major crops covered by the farm program. There was little appetite for further cuts in target prices.

Assessments would be charged against dairy, tobacco, peanuts, honey, wool and mohair to assure they also contributed to the budget cuts.

The farm bill generally would freeze support prices and target prices at their current levels. Crop loan rates would go up slightly.

In addition, it creates the first-ever marketing loan for oilseeds such as soybeans and the first uniform national standards for what can be called organic food.

The Farm Bureau questioned the 2 percent loan origination fee assigned to the soybean loan. Like an American Soybean Association lobbyist, the Farm Bureau noted the potential for the fee to be extended to other commodities in coming years.

The Farm Bureau also was critical of a decision to alter the sugar program to guarantee foreign producers the chance to sell 1.25 million tons of sugar annually in the United States. A system of marketing quotas would be imposed if U.S. production impinges on the guaranteed foreign sales.

The farm bill also makes the current milk support price, $10.10 per 100 pounds the minimum milk support price through 1995. It also requires the Agriculture Department to conduct a study of how to limit milk surpluses in the future without cutting the support price or paying farmers to quit the business - a prescription that seemingly can be filled only by a two-tier support price.

ANAHEIM, Calif. (OCT. 17) UPI - Carl's Jr., moving to expand its fast-food operations internationally, announced Tuesday it has signed a licensing agreement to open restaurants in Mexico.

The pact with Valores Metalicos of Monterrey, Mexico, calls for the development of at least 10 Carl's Jr. restaurants within five years, with the first restaurant scheduled to open in Monterrey, in northeast Mexico, by next April.

''We think that with the modernization of the Mexican economy, there is a lot of potential for us,'' said Steve Kishi, vice president of Carl's, which operates 557 restaurants, mostly in California.

Jesus Garcia, owner of Valores Metalicos, said that Carl's ''California'' image will set it apart from other fast-food chains in Mexico.

''I think it's a natural extension for Carl's,'' said Janet Lowder, a Los Angeles-based restaurant consultant. ''It's not uncommon for chains to go outside the United States anymore.''

Lowder said that the increasing amounts of travel by Mexicans to and from California will make the Carl's name highly recognizable in Mexico.

She also noted that Carl's Mexican operations can draw upon the company's already-existing Spanish-language marketing campaign, launched last June to attract bigger numbers of the Western region's fast-growing Hispanic population.

The agreement, which gives Valores Metalicos exclusive territorial rights in the northeast Mexican state of Nuevo Leon with options to expand into the adjacent states of Coahuila and Tamaulipas, was signed in ceremonies at the headquarters of Carl's parent company, Carl Karcher Enterprises.

''We are also planning to get into Mexico City eventually,'' Kishi said.

Carl's, which stresses its quality rather than prices in its marketing, will be following industry leader McDonald's into Mexico. The first Mexican McDonald's opened five years and the chain now operates eight restaurants there.

''We take a pretty cautious view of expansion and usually let someone else break the first ground,'' Kishi said. ''Then we try to go in and do it better.''

Carl's agreement to move into Mexico is similar to transactions it had previously announced to expand into Japan and Malaysia.

It has opened three Carl's in Japan and will debut two more by the end of the year and seven next year. The first Malaysian Carl's is due to open in March.

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (OCT. 17) UPI - Production from America's biggest oil fields in Alaska has increased to the highest level in nearly two years and appears likely to remain at the boosted levels for the immediate future, oil officials said Tuesday.

Crude oil flow through the trans-Alaska pipeline rose this week to about 1.95 million barrels a day, below the 2 million barrel daily production peak achieved two years ago but reversing the gradual decline in production experienced since then.

The major oil producers attributed the increase to new oil enhancement facilities and projects, requests by the Bush administration for more oil and even the onset of winter on the North Slope, where cold weather actually improves oil pumping capability.

Oil production from Prudhoe Bay and other North Slope oil fields has not reached the current level since December 1988, when average daily production also was 1.95 million barrels, said Russ Douglas, senior reservoir engineer for the state oil and gas conservation commission.

''November and December projections are for throughput (oil flowing through the pipeline) to remain the same or a tad higher,'' said Marnie Isaacs, spokeswoman for Alyeska Pipeline Service Co., which operates the pipeline for seven oil company owners.

Last year, the average daily flow of oil through the pipeline was 1.88 million barrels, down from an average 2 million barrels per day in 1988. In 1987, pipeline flow averaged 1.96 million barrels per day.

North Slope production dipped to 1.6 million barrels per day during summer maintenance work that included a brief pipeline shutdown, but otherwise pipeline flow has been closer to 1.7 million barrels daily this year.

North Slope crude flows down the 800-mile oil artery to the southern Alaska port of Valdez, where tankers load oil for delivery to refineries around the country. Alaska oil represents one-fourth of domestic production, making Alaska the country's largest oil producing state.

The oil industry has taken a number of steps to boost production, some the culmination of long-term projects, others in response to currrent events.

Completion of a new natural gas handling facility at Prudhoe Bay lets the field operators handle more gas that comes up with the oil and reinject it into the ground to increase field pressure, producing an additional 75,000 barrels daily, said Paul Laird, spokesman for BP Exploration, which operates Prudhoe Bay with Arco Alaska. That amount is expected to increase to 90,000 barrels daily by year's end.

An accelerated well-stimulating program - begun after President Bush called for more production when the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait resulted in a drop in world oil supplies - was in its early stages but already was yielding increases expected to reach 50,000 barrels daily by the end of the year.

Many months of construction, maintenance, repair and new facility work - costing 100,000 to 150,000 barrels per day in reduced production - has ended, Laird said, thus allowing production to increase.

Production from BP's 100,000-barrel-per-day Endicott field, operating at below capacity, has been increased 10 percent, Laird said.

Also, ''production generally goes up as it gets colder,'' Laird said.

Compressors that drive the gas handling equipment function better in cold weather because cold air is denser and when they suck in more air, their horsepower increases, explained Ronnie Chappell, an Arco spokesman.

Increased daily production attributed to cold weather is difficult to quantify but Chappell said, ''It could easily be in the thousands of barrels.''

Last week the oil industry announced plans for a second gas handling complex that should add another 100,000 barrels per day to Prudhoe output by 1995.

Alyeska and North Slope oil producers are eyeing the 2 million barrel per day mark, Isaacs said, though there were no immediate plans to achieve that level of production from the North Slope fields. (If the smaller Cook Inlet oil fields south of Anchorage are included, Alaska production is about 2 million barrels per day.)

Alaska North Slope Production increases come at a time when the Persian Gulf crisis has reduced world oil supplies but also at a time when oil is selling for double the price it fetched before Iraq invaded Kuwait.

BELLEVUE, WASH. (OCT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - First Mutual Savings Bank (NASDAQ:FMSB) today reported strong net interest income for the third quarter, but reported a $522,000 loss, as anticipated, after taking a $1.2 million (after tax) write down resulting from a change in accounting method.

First Mutual's net worth ratio at September 30, 1990 is 7.1%, whereas the current FDIC regulatory minimum is 6%.

For the quarter ended September 30, First Mutual lost $522,000 or $.37 per share compared to a profit of $376,000 or $.26 per share in the third quarter of 1989. The Bank announced last month that it would take a $1.2 million after-tax write down in the third quarter resulting from a change in the method of estimating cash flows relating to its deferred servicing rights.

''The whole industry has moved in the direction of these accounting changes and we are moving with it,'' said Bruce Baker, president. ''These are accounting changes only and do not in any way represent any change in the bank's operations or any reassesment of the bank's condition based upon any operating experience. First Mutual continues to enjoy one of the best-performing loan portfolios in its industry. The accounting reporting rules have merely changed and we are adopting these changes. Nothing more.''

For the first nine months of 1990, First Mutual's net income totaled $317,000 or $.22 per share compared to $1,059,000 or $.76 per share in the like period a year ago.

''First Mutual had a strong quarter from operations, excluding the change in method of estimating excess servicing cash flows. Loan originations increased 87% and net interest income, the basic measure of bank profitability, increased 32% compared to the third quarter a year ago,'' Baker added.

''The Bank closed $27.9 million in new loans compared to $14.9 million in the third quarter last year. And, net interest income after provision for possible loan losses was $1,200,000 compared to $908,000 in the like quarter a year ago,'' Baker noted. First Mutual's net interest margin increased to 2.58% this quarter compared to 2.00% last year.

Non-interest expense was $912,000 compared to $1,286,000 in the third quarter of 1989. Non-interest income, which includes the $1.7 million pre-tax ($1.2 million after-tax) writedown of deferred servicing rights, was a negative $1,040,000 compared to $973,000 in the third quarter of 1989.

Also impacting non-interest income was a $189,000 decrease in gain on the sale of loans and a $70,000 decrease on the sale of securities compared to the third quarter a year ago.

First Mutual's deposits totaled $145.5 million at the end of September, up 24% from the $117.1 million a year ago. The Bank's portfolio of loans totaled $122.8 million at September 30, 1990 compared to $111.9 million one year earlier. In addition, its portfolio of loans serviced for others now stands at $353.3 million compared to $310.1 million at September 30, 1989.

On July 25, First Mutual announced it would change the method of applying an accounting principle for valuing the Bank's deferred servicing rights for loans the Bank services for others. The method First Mutual had been using in applying this accounting principle is one that has been used for many years by the thrift industry.

''We changed the estimating method to model cash flows while developing our estimate of the present value of the Bank's deferred servicing rights. This has the effect of stating our deferred servicing rights more conservatively and will actually increase earnings in future years,'' Baker said.

As previously announced, recent purchases by First Mutual's Employee Stock Ownership Plan (ESOP) of 10.1% of First Mutual's outstanding common stock reduced the Bank's capital again in the third quarter. First Mutual loaned its ESOP $1.5 million and the ESOP purchased 139,600 shares of First Mutual's outstanding common stock this year.

For reporting purposes, the ESOP purchases do not impact First Mutual's earnings; however, the Bank's balance sheet does reflect the dollar amount advanced to the ESOP's trustees for the purchase of shares. The amount advanced is charged directly against shareholder's equity in the quarter the advances are made. The ESOP's trustee was advanced $681,000 in the second quarter of 1990 and $814,000 in the third quarter of 1990 to facilitate the purchase of First Mutual stock.

First Mutual had total assets of $185.9 million and a loan servicing portfolio totaling $353.3 million at September 30, 1990. The Bank's book value at September 30, 1990 was $9.46 per share and its net worth was $13.1 million or 7.1% of assets.

Headquartered in Bellevue, First Mutual Savings Bank operates five full service branches in the Seattle metropolitan area known as the ''Greater Eastside.'' The FDIC-insured savings bank derives a significant portion of its income from mortgage banking operations and also originates small commercial property loans.

SEATTLE (OCT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Metropolitan Federal Savings & Loan Association of Seattle (NASDAQ:MSEA) Wednesday reported net income for the second fiscal quarter ended Sept. 30, 1990, was $144,000, or $.08 per share, compared to a loss of $2.0 million for the like quarter a year ago.

As a result of first quarter balance sheet restructuring, year to date losses are $9.6 million, or $5.13 per share, compared to a loss of $3.1 million for the first 6 months of the previous fiscal year. Earnings per share figures for 1989 are not meaningful since the association did not convert to stock ownership until January 1990.

Metropolitan also completed the liquidation of the remaining $1.5 million of its portfolio of high yield corporate bonds in the second quarter.

''The second quarter profit was earned exclusively from continuing operations '' said Patrick F. Patrick, president and chief executive officer since May 22 1990. ''Metropolitan's primary business focus has returned to serving the savings and residential lending needs of our community. We no longer depend on securities activities and commercial loan origination fees for profitability, as we did during the 1980's.''

The most important indicator of the company's improvement to date is the growth in net interest margin to 1.92% for the quarter ended Sept. 30, 1990, compared to .92% for the comparable quarter a year ago. Metropolitan's management has further reduced the association's sensitivity to interest rate fluctuations by liquidating holdings of fixed rate mortgage-backed securities, prepaying high rate Federal Home Loan Bank advances, and allowing above market-rate deposits to reprice at more appropriate levels or flow out of the association.

In a further move to reduce operating expenses, Metropolitan will relocate its corporate headquarters to the building that it owns at Westlake Park in downtown Seattle. In addition, the association will consolidate its Metropolitan Park branch with the Westlake Park branch as part of the relocation of the corporate offices.

During the quarter, Metropolitan increased general loan loss reserves by $1.4 million to $5.4 million in a move to reduce its exposure in the event of an economic downturn. The association primarily offset this provision with recoveries totaling $1.3 million from the liquidation of several foreclosed properties and properties held for investment.

At Sept. 30, 1990, the association's non-performing loans increased to $18.4 million from $14.5 million at June 30, 1990. The increase was primarily due to the addition of a loan secured by an apartment complex, the owner of which has filed bankruptcy; however, an agreement has been reached with the borrower subject to court approval, to return the loan to a fully performing status. ''Our Special Credits Officers work with our borrowers to encourage and assist them in maintaining a current status on their loans. In addition, we will aggressively market a foreclosed asset and dispose of any troubled property,'' Patrick said.

Metropolitan's assets totaled $405.1 million at Sept. 30, 1990, compared to $499.5 million at March 31, 1990. Metropolitan's book value per share was $9.43 at Sept. 30, 1990. Capital totaled $17.7 million, or 4.37% of assets, at the end of September.

Metropolitan is an FDIC-insured, federally chartered savings and loan association organized in 1935, with seven branches located in the greater Seattle area.

CLEVELAND (OCT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Parker Hannifin Corp. (NYSE:PH) Wednesday reported increased sales, net income, earnings per share and backlog from continuing operations for the first quarter of fiscal 1991, ended Sept. 30, compared to a year ago.

Parker's sales from continuing operations in the recent quarter rose 7.5 percent, to $615.6 million, up from $572.4 million in the corresponding quarter last year. The currency effect of the weakening dollar accounted for about 40 percent of the sales increase. Income from continuing operations increased 9.1 percent, to $23.9 million or 49 cents per share, compared to $21.9 million or 45 cents per share a year ago. Backlog on Sept. 30 was $1.28 billion, compared to $1.13 billion on that date last year.

Commenting on the company's first-quarter results, President and Chief Executive Officer Paul G. Schloemer said, ''In the face of mixed market conditions around the world, both our Aerospace and Industrial Segments performed in line with our expectations. Industrial Segment sales were up 8.9 percent and operating income was down 6.5 percent for the quarter, compared to a year ago. International sales, included in the Industrial Segment, were up 20.8 percent, with the effect of the weakening dollar accounting for two-thirds of the increase. The decline in Segment operating income was primarily due to reduced sales in certain domestic markets.

''Aerospace Segment sales were up 4.0 percent and operating income was up 35.5 percent for the quarter, compared to year-earlier results. These results were aided by continuing strong commercial aviation sales and lower development expenditures for new aircraft and engine programs.

Parker is a leading producer of motion-control components and systems for a wide range of industrial and aerospace markets. Sales from continuing operations in fiscal 1990, ended June 30, were $2.45 billion, with net income of $111.5 million.

LOS ANGELES (OCT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - A landmark agreement between a task force of attorneys general from 10 states and American Enviro Inc., marketer of Bunnies Diapers, over its environmental claims has resulted in production of a new environmentally oriented product -- a disposable diaper made with a cotton core.

In explaining the environmental features of the new Bunnies, called Bunnies-Plus, American Enviro President Robert Chickering said the core is made primarily of cotton because it is an annually renewable resource, unlike wood pulp from trees. Wood pulp comprises the core of most popular disposable diapers.

In keeping with the EPA goal of source reduction, Bunnies-Plus are also 27 percent thinner than the earlier model and use a plastic on the bag that is 30 percent thinner than most conventional diapers, he said.

Bunnies-Plus, like the original Bunnies, also use cadmium-free, lead-free inks on its bags to prevent contamination of ground water.

Bunnies-Plus make use of the same special plastic back sheet that can compost into mulch. The plastic currently used in leading diaper brands lasts hundreds of years and cannot be composted but must be landfilled or incinerated.

Chickering said that compostability will be increasingly important as more cities in the vanguard of solid waste solutions turn to composting to dispose of municipal wastes.

The agreement with the attorneys general, the first amicable settlement by the task force, follows a nine-month probe into environmental advertising by California, Florida, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Missouri, New York, Texas, Utah Washington and Wisconsin.

It allows use of the word ''biodegradable'' in conjunction with composting, but without implications that a product will biodegrade in a landfill.

Bunnies have won considerable approval among consumers, who bought more than 1.5 million bags of the new diapers since they went on sale a year ago. Bunnies-Plus will be sold nationally through Toys 'R Us and Target Discount Stores and regionally through most major grocery stores.

CHICAGO (OCT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - FMC Corporation Wednesday announced third quarter net income of $35 million, 98 cents per share.

This is a 2 percent improvement from 1989 third quarter earnings of $35 million, or 96 cents per share, before extraordinary items. Net income in the year-ago quarter after extraordinary items was $31 million or 86 cents per share. Sales rose 12 percent to $941 million for the quarter.

Strong performance by the Defense Systems segment offset weakness in industrial and performance chemicals. A favorable tax rate also improved the quarter's results.

Industrial Chemicals sales rose 6 percent in the quarter to $248 million, but earnings declined. The margin reduction resulted from manufacturing problems at the phosphorus chemicals and lithium businesses during the quarter. Domestic demand is weakening across most of our chemical product lines.

Performance Chemicals sales grew 5 percent in the quarter, but profits declined. Continuing difficulties in agricultural chemical markets, both domestic and international, hurt profitability for the segment.

Precious metals sales rose 5 percent in the quarter on higher gold and silver volumes. Volume increases were largely attributable to production from the relatively high-cost Royal Mountain King mine. Average realized prices for gold and silver in the quarter were comparable to the 1989 third quarter, including hedging gains. Higher-cost production offset the sales increase and resulted in lower profitability for this segment.

Machinery and equipment sales increased 9 percent in the quarter, and profits rose. The food machinery and petroleum equipment businesses led the sales increase. Backlog in Petroleum Equipment continued to strengthen during the quarter.

Defense Systems sales jumped 27 percent, and profits rose substantially in the quarter because of the timing of deliveries of major orders to the U.S. Navy and M113 armored personnel carriers to international customers. During the quarter a $7.5 billion arms package for Saudi Arabia was submitted to the U.S. Congress. The proposal represents $150 million in sales for FMC and includes 200 Bradley Fighting Vehicles.

For the first nine months of 1990, sales rose 6 percent to $2.7 billion. Earnings from operations increased slightly to $267 million, with substantially better performance by Defense Systems and Machinery and Equipment offsetting shortfalls in the Precious Metals and chemicals segments.

NEW YORK (OCT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Republic New York Corp., holding company of Republic National Bank of New York and The Manhattan Savings Bank, announced Wednesday that net income for the third quarter ended Sept. 30 was $54.7 million.

This compares to a net loss of $155.4 million in the third quarter of 1989, which included a $200 million provision for developing countries' debt obligations. Net income per common share for the third quarter of 1990 was $1.43, compared to a net loss of $5.32 in the third quarter last year.

The corporation today declared a quarterly dividend of 33 cents per share, payable Jan. 1, 1991 to holders of record as of Dec. 15, 1990.

For the nine months ended Sept. 30, net income increased to $151.8 million compared to a net loss of $69.8 million in the nine month period of 1989. Net income per common share for the nine months of 1990 was $4.17, compared to a net loss of $2.89 last year.

The corporation announced that the board of directors has authorized a stock repurchase program under which the corporation may purchase up to 500,000 shares of its common stock in the open market or in privately negotiated transactions. Repurchased common shares will be held as treasury stock and will be used to meet current and future common stock requirements for the corporation's benefit plans. The 500,000 shares represent about 1.5 percent of the 34.6 million shares currently outstanding.

At Sept. 30, Edmond J. Safra, the corporation's major shareholder, beneficially owned 9,961,610 shares of common stock or approximately 29 percent of the outstanding shares. Safra has the approval of the Federal Reserve Board to puchase up to an additional 1.5 million shares of Republic common stock. To date, he has purchased 171,200 shares under this approval.

The corporation completed the previously announced merger of The Manhattan Savings Bank on May 2. This transaction was accounted for as a purchase and the operating results of Manhattan are included in the corporation's consolidated financial statements from the date of acquisition.

The corporation is also evaluating plans to consolidate Manhattan Savings Bank administrative office space. Net interest income was $124.5 million and $328.5 million for the third quarter and first nine months of 1990, compared to $87.0 million and $265.4 million a year earlier. The major component of the increase in net interest income is a result of the acquisition of The Manhattan Savings Bank.

EL SEGUNDO, CA (OCT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - The availability of a new software product called Xerox Printer Access Facility (XPAF) was announced Wednesday by Xerox Corp.

The company said the software enhances Xerox printing systems in the IBM MVS/XA or MVS/ESA operating environments.

The software provides increased compatibility between Xerox high-volume centralized and low-volume distributed printing systems and responds to the needs of many Xerox customers to coexist with IBM Advanced Function Printing (AFP). AFP is a collection of IBM software programs normally required for IBM printing.

Residing on the computer mainframe, XPAF acts as a ''printer driver'' and data stream transformer and also provides centralized printer resource management.

In the IBM AFP software environment, XPAF transforms AFP data streams to a format that supports the user's ability to print applications on Xerox high-volume printers.

In the Xerox operating environment, XPAF transforms Xerox high-volume printer data streams into low-volume printer data streams.

As a system-level solution, XPAF satisfies customer requirements for centralized resource management of fonts, forms and graphics and for job accounting. It also provides a standard operating interface to printers and expedites application developments to reduce application backlogs.

XPAF is now available in the United States through the company's direct sales force. Initial license fee in the United States is $16,400, with an annual license fee of $3,200 a year after the first year.

Xerox intelligent printing systems feature magnetic ink character recognition (MICR), high-quality 300 and 600 dot-per-inch resolutions, multitray input and output options, duplex printing and many advanced finishing options.

OAKLAND, CA (OCT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - The Clorox Company (NYSE/PSE:CLX) Wednesday reported first quarter net earnings of $39,371,000 or 73 cents per share, down 14 percent from $45,911,000 or 83 cents per share, for the year ago period.

The decline in net income was primarily due to dilution resulting from the acquisition of the Pine-Sol cleaner and Combat insecticide lines. Also contributing to the lower net income were a general slowdown in grocery store sales and continued higher levels of new product and promotional spending.

The impact on earnings of the Pine-Sol/Combat acquisition, completed last August 1, was in line with earlier announced expectations that the transaction would result in a 30 cents to 40 cents per share dilution over the next 12 months. Chairman and Chief Executive Officer C.R. Weaver said integrating the acquisition into the company's operations is proceeding smoothly and is on schedule.

Net sales for the quarter increased 10 percent to $403,005,000 from $366,935,000.

Weaver attributed the higher sales primarily to shipments of new products combined with two months of volume from Pine-Sol and Combat. Growth in the rest of the business was modest due to the slowdown in the economy and competitive activity in some product categories.

First quarter shipments of the company's household products included record volumes for Clorox liquid chlorine bleach, Formula 409 all-purpose cleaner, Soft Scrub liquid cleanser, and Fresh Step cat litter. However, shipments of Clorox 2 color-safe bleach - both dry and liquid - were down, reflecting the effect of the new detergent-with-bleach products on the entire color-safe bleach category. Still, Clorox 2's market share held steady during the period.

New product activity continued at a heavy pace during the quarter. Professional Strength Liquid-plumr drain opener, introduced last January, is showing good progress. Take Heart salad dressings, a five-flavor line of no-cholesterol, low-fat salad dressings, introduced last March, also are showing excellent results.

The company also added a seventh flavor, Honey Dijon, to its regular line of bottled Hidden Valley Ranch salad dressings. These new products resulted in a sharp increase in the company's bottled salad dressing shipments. However, the increase in the bottled sector was offset to some extent by a slowdown in sales for the Hidden Valley Ranch dry mix product line.

Shipments of Clorox Detergent, which is marketed in about half of the country, were down from a year ago as a result of reducing marketing spending to sustaining levels and the absence of last year's heavy introductory shipments in 25 percent of the country.

Total shipments were higher for products marketed to the food service industry and for household products that are sold internationally.

Bottled water operations, located in the Northeast and throughout Florida, reported a strong increase in shipments. Results, however, were down due to ongoing costs of consolidating these regional businesses.

Weaver said that the company expects a continuing slowdown in the economy and strong competitive activity in some of its product categories during the second quarter. The October - December quarter historically is the lowest quarter in terms of sales and profits due to the seasonality of some key brands such as charcoal, salad dressing and bleaches.

SAN FRANCISCO (OCT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Pacific Telesis Group (NYSE:PAC) Wednesday reported third quarter earnings of $285 million, or 72 cents per share on revenues of $2.47 billion.

Earnings per share increased 5.9 percent compared to the third quarter of l989 or 72 cents to 68 cents in l989. The third quarter net income was up 2.5 percent compared to the like period in l989, or $285 million versus $278 million in l989. Total revenues increased to $2.47 billion from $2.37 billion in the third quarter in l989.

However, as described last year, third quarter 1989 results included three revenue reductions without which earnings per share would have been 73 cents and net income would have been $298 million. Third quarter, l990 earnings continue to recover from levels experienced earlier in the year due to the adverse effects of the annual $391 million Pacific Bell rate reduction(a) that accompanied a major restructuring of telecommunications regulation in California.

''Our core business continues to produce strong earnings through growth in access lines, customer usage and cellular customer growth. Expenses are well-managed and their increases are under the rate of inflation,'' said Sam Ginn, chairman and chief executive officer of Pacific Telesis Group.

Revenues rose 28.3 percent to $149.5 million. Cellular now serves 472,000 customers, up 38.4 percent over the like period a year ago. Pacific Bell and Nevada Bell now have 14.1 million lines in service, an increase of 3.8 percent from a year ago.

Toll messages for the two local exchange companies grew 8.3 percent compared to the third quarter in 1989 to 874 million and minutes of use increased 9.0 percent to approximately 10.6 billion. Expenses in the third quarter rose $78 million over the like period last year and were primarily due to increases for depreciation, improvements in the telephone network and internal operating systems and union contract-related labor costs. Somewhat offsetting these expenses, the work force has decreased by 1,744 employees since the first of the year.

During the quarter, the California Public Utilities Commission authorized the company to offset rationing revenue losses incurred through Aug. 8, 1990, in the five districts through the penalty collections. LOS ANGELES (OCT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Lufthansa German Airlines will provide daily non-stop service between both Los Angeles and Frankfurt and San Francisco and Frankfurt during the coming winter season.

It is a continuation of the summer schedule to meet the demand for increased travel to Germany and Central Europe. However, the German airlines thrice weekly Los Angeles-Munich flight will be discontinued on Nov. 4 to allow Lufthansa to reassign aircraft in connection with new services that will begin to Berlin.

Lufthansa will serve Berlin's Tegel Airport (formerly West Berlin) and Schoenefeld Airport (East Berlin's former airport) effective Oct. 28. Internal German flights will land at Tegel and the first USA-Berlin service will operate from Newark via Hamburg to Berlin.

Passengers from the West Coast wishing to fly to Berlin will continue to change aircraft at Frankfurt for hourly shuttle-type service. Lufthansa had not been able to serve Berlin since the end of World War II; the resumption of air service marking another change that comes about with the unification of Germany.

This winter, Lufthansa will again offer an extensive program of ski packages and tours to Germany and Central Europe. The airline's 54-page "Holiday Planner," describing the tour packages and fares, can be obtained from Lufthansa or travel agents. VALENCIA, CALIF (OCT. 17) BUSINESS EDITORS - The Newhall Land and Farming Co. (NYSE/PSE:NHL) Wednesday reported net income of $8.6 million, or 23 cents per partnership unit, on revenues of $48.7 million for the three months ended Sept. 30, 1990.

This compares with net income of $28.4 million, or 72 cents per unit, on revenues of $73.8 million reported for the third quarter of 1989.

For the first nine months of 1990, net income was $28.2 million, or 75 cents per unit, compared with net income of $39.9 million, or $1.01 per unit, for the year earlier period. Revenues for the first three quarters of 1990 were $142.0 million compared with $141.1 million for the first nine months of 1989.

Results for 1989 include the sale of 238 single-family lots for $43 million which contributed about $22 million, or 55 cents per unit, to net income for both third quarter and nine months.

Per-unit results for 1989 have been adjusted for the 2-for-1 split effective January 29, 1990.

Thomas L. Lee, chairman and chief executive officer, said, ''Revenues and earnings were lower because of weakness in the residential housing market and tightness of credit. While our industrial market remains strong, developers are encountering difficulty in financing parcels that are currently in escrow.

''Earnings for the year will be lower than last year's record results. Although home closings are expected to be close to last year's total of 574, we are selling lower-priced homes which provide smaller margins, and have been incurring higher marketing costs. In addition, residential lot sales for all of 1989 contributed $30.8 million, or approximately 78 cents per unit to 1989 earnings.''

Commenting on the results, Marshall G. Among the many steps taken were a 20 percent reduction in headcount, a reduction in base salary for all employees of from 2 - 15 percent consolidation of management and facilities within certain operations, and tougher credit and expense controls.'' Mr. Cox added, ''Inventory of $10 million, gives Western Microtechnology the best inventory turns within member companies of the trade association NEDA (National Electronics Distribution Association). A positive cash flow from operations was realized for the quarter, and the balance sheet is in excellent condition.''

SANTA CLARA, CA (OCT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - RasterOps Corp. (NASDAQ:ROPS) Wednesday announced an agreement to supply a custom 24-bit photorealistic graphic board for Eastman Kodak Co.'s new Photo CD system.

Under the agreement, RasterOps will provide the 24-bit color products used in the Sun Microsystems SPARCstation 1+ which is the platform for Kodak's new Photo CD system.

''The Kodak system opens up a very promising new commercial application area for our photorealistic products,'' said Kieth Sorenson, president and chief executive officer of RasterOps. ''In addition to advancing business applications such as publishing, the Kodak Photo CD system is a creative way of bringing 24-bit color technology to benefit a much larger general consumer market.''

Paul Dangler, Team Leader for Photo CD Image Manager at Kodak, said, ''RasterOp's capability to display 24-bit images is essential in a high-quality imaging application like Photo CD.''

A typical photofinishing workstation in the new system will consist of a scanner and thermal printer developed and manufactured by Kodak, a Sun computer and a Photo CD discwriter made by Philips.

The new system will enable photofinishers to scan images from 35mm slides or negatives into a Sun SPARCstation 1+ where they can be edited or manipulated using RasterOps' True Color boards, and then written onto Photo CDs.

In addition to playback of the Photo CDs, customers can manipulate and incorporate them into existing business applications such as presentations and reports. Photofinishers also can provide ''instant'' high-quality photos by sending images from the SPARCstation 1+ to Kodak thermal color printers.

RasterOps Corp., headquartered in Santa Clara, designs, manufactures and markets photorealistic color-imaging products for Macintosh, IBM PC, Sun SPARC station and Digital RISC-based workstation platforms. For the quarter ended Sept. 30, 1990, the company recorded a loss of $1.9 million, after tax, for discontinued operations, compared with a profit of $4 million for the year-ago quarter. At Sept. 30, 1990, the non-performing asset ratio was 1.95 percent of total assets, compared with 1.76 percent of total assets at June 30, 1990.

TAIPEI, TAIWAN (OCT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Microsoft Wednesday announced that it, the Taiwanese national police and the anti-counterfeit agency of the Ministry of Economic Affairs have taken action against a counterfeit operation that may have been responsible for introducing more than 30,000 counterfeit copies of the Microsoft MS-DOS operating system into the Taiwan, North American and European markets.

A surprise police search of Data State Corporation, a trading company based in Taipei, revealed a significant number of unauthorized copies of Microsoft MS-DOS operating system versions 3.3 and 4.01 software and documentation. Microsoft is seeking criminal prosecution in the case.

Based on a preliminary estimate, the counterfeits involved in the recent seizure, and those revealed in business records obtained during the seizure, could have displaced legitimate sales to end users with a value of more than $4.5 million, based on the average retail price. As part of an ongoing effort against software piracy, the seizure was the largest against a single company counterfeiting Microsoft software in Taiwan. Last summer, Taiwanese newspapers reported that after Business Software Alliance raids, sales of legitimate software rose dramatically. Microsoft expects a similar situation with MS-DOS software in Taiwan.

Seizure orders were issued in connection with a criminal complaint filed by Microsoft. On Oct. 16, the orders were executed at five separate locations -- an office, warehouses, a printing house and book bindery associated with Data State. In the search, approximately 5,500 complete counterfeit copies of MS-DOS versions 3.3 and 4.01 were found. In addition more than 18,000 bound manuals, numerous duplication machines and thousands of components to be used in assembling counterfeit copies of MS-DOS software packages were also seized by the police.

Data State is believed to have sold counterfeit copies of the MS-DOS operating system to small OEMs (original equipment manufacturers), distributors and resellers in Taiwan, North America and Europe. The bogus MS-DOS packaged product appears at first glance to be identical to legitimate copies of the MS-DOS operating system bearing only the Microsoft logo. Legitimate products bearing the Microsoft logo are manufactured exclusively by Microsoft. In addition, Microsoft also licenses OEMs to manufacture the MS-DOS operating system; these copies include the manufacturer's name and are sold with the OEM's computer systems. Data State has never been licensed to duplicate any part of the MS-DOS operating system.

MS-DOS is the most popular operating system for microcomputers. It is in use on more than 50 million microcomputers around the world, according to Dataquest, a market research firm. MS-DOS is also the most widely counterfeited software. The problem of software trafficking is widespread in Pacific Rim areas, including Taiwan. End users are led to believe that the product they are buying is the legitimate product from the original source -- in this case, Microsoft. Illegitimate copying of software cost U.S. software firms more than $16 billion in revenues worldwide in 1988.

Microsoft Corp. (NASDAQ:MSFT) develops, markets and supports a wide range of software for business and professional use, including operating systems, languages and application programs, as well as books, hardware and CD ROM products for the microcomputer marketplace.

Nine month net income per share was $2.53 on a fully-diluted basis, a gain of 7.7 percent compared with the $2.35 earned during the first three quarters of 1989. Per share earnings for the third quarter were 79 cents, compared with 83 cents earned in the same quarter of 1989.

Non-performing assets, consisting of non-accrual and renegotiated loans and other real estate (ORE), totalled $109.28 million or 2.47 percent of loans, leases and ORE at Sept. 30, 1990. A year ago, such assets were $87.82 million or 2.1 percent of loans, leases and ORE, while at the end of the second quarter of this year they were $104.24 million, or 2.33 percent of loans, leases and ORE.

Total problem assets, which consist of non-performing assets and accruing loans past due 90 days or more, increased from $100.79 million at Sept. 30, 1989, to $118.36 million at Sept. 30, 1990, but decreased from $120.5 million at June 30, 1990.

During the quarter the company increased its loan loss provision and its loan loss reserve. The loan loss reserve at Sept. 30, 1990, was $70.82 million, which was equal to 1.61 percent of total loans and leases, compared with a reserve and ratio of $58.51 million and 1.42 percent one year ago.

At June 30, 1990, the loan loss reserve of $66.96 million amounted to 1.51 percent of total loans and leases. The loan loss reserve is 102 percent of non-accrual and renegotiated loans and 90.2 percent of non-accrual and renegotiated loans and accruing loans past due 90 days or more.

These results represented a gain of 7.2 percent for the nine month period and an increase of 9.4 percent during the third quarter. Earning asset growth during 1990 accounted for the gain in net interest income, and came primarily from increased loans and leases, up 6.5 percent from Sept. 30, 1989.

Non-interest income increased $8.23 million or 44.4 percent for the quarter to $26.74 million, and up $12.94 million or 24.9 percent for the nine months to $64.98 million. The gain of $7.17 million taken during the third quarter from the asset-securitization of $115 million of home equity loans added to both the quarter and year-to-date comparison. Sustained quarterly and year-to-date improvements were noted in most other non-interest income categories.

Productivity, as measured by the ratio of non-interest expenses to average total assets, continued to improve, equalling 3.48 percent for the quarter and 3.53 percent for the nine months. These ratios compared with 3.55 percent and 3.69 percent for the respective periods last year.

APPLETON, WI (OCT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Valley Bancorporation (NASDAQ/NMS:VYBN) Wednesday reported net income of $7.846 million for the quarter ended Sept. 30, 1990 up from $7.738 million in the like period last year.

Earnings per share of 65 cents were unchanged from period to period. On a year to date basis, Valley earned $22.694 million, or $1.89 per share, vs. $21.954 million, or $1.85 per share, in 1989.

Valley's improvement reflects Wisconsin-based lending and the absence of high-risk real estate and LBO loans. Platten added that improved credit quality in today's economic environment is very encouraging.

On Jan. 31, 1990, Valley completed the cash acquisitions of the $118 million-asset First National Bank, Chippewa Falls, and the $21 million-asset Peoples State Bank, Three Lakes. Both acquisitions were accounted for as purchase transactions, therefore the consolidated results of operations include the operations of Chippewa and Three Lakes only from the date of acquisition forward.

Earnings for the first nine months of 1990 benefitted from a strong increase in net interest income of $8.840 million, resulting from growth in average earning assets between periods of 10 percent, or $267.474 million.

The income benefits from an increased level of earning assets was offset somewhat by a drop in net interest margin between years as the margin for 1990 equalled 4.49 percent, down slightly from 4.51 percent in 1989.

The third-quarter margin was 4.58 percent, an improvement over the second-quarter margin of 4.49 percent. Yields on earning assets have increased while overall cost of funds have not changed.

The margin was positively impacted in the third quarter by a reduced level of nonperforming loans. Noninterest income for the first nine months of 1990 grew to $30.134 million, an increase of $3.966 million over the $26.168 million in 1989.

Noninterest expense in 1990 moved up to $87.710 million, an increase of $8.946 million over the first nine months of 1989, due in part to our 1990 expansion activities. The provision for loan losses amounted to $5.731 million, an increase of $1.186 million from the first nine months of 1989. The increase in the provision for loan losses reflects increased loan growth along with an increase in net charge offs of $.378 million between periods.

The return on average assets for the first nine months of 1990 was .93 percent compared with .99 percent for the like period in 1989. The return on average equity decreased from 13.14 percent in 1989 to 12.48 percent in 1990.

At Sept. 30, 1990, Valley reported total assets of $3.334 billion, an increase of 10.6 percent over the $3.015 billion recorded on Sept. 30, 1989. Net loans increased to $2.219 billion, compared with $1.981 billion a year earlier, a 12.0 percent increase. The reserve for loan losses totaled $24.714 million on Sept. 30, 1990 compared with $21.224 million on Sept. 30, 1989.

The reserve for loan losses as a percent of loans stood at 1.10 percent on Sept. 30, 1990 and 1.06 percent a year earlier. Nonperforming loans at Sept. 30, 1990, amounted to $24.202 million, 1.08 percent of loans compared with $23.140 million, 1.16 percent of loans on Sept. 30, 1989. Deposits on Sept. 30, 1990 stood at $2.896 billion, an increase of 10.3 percent over deposits of $2.626 billion a year earlier.

Stockholders' equity totaled $249.073 million, an increase of $19.661 million over the $229.412 million on Sept. 30, 1989. At Sept. 30, 1990, book value per share was $20.68 compared with $19.29 per share at Sept. 30, 1989, an increase of 7.2 percent. of $4.8 million, or 33 cents per share, for the like period a year ago.

Revenue for the quarter was $37.1 million, down from $46.9 million in the comparable period last year, but up 43 percent compared to the immediately preceding quarter ended July 1, 1990.

Based on average U.S. usage, the new unit will produce enough power to meet the needs of 42,000 people. This order illustrates growing worldwide demand for electrical power, which characterizes a growing market for new power generation equipment.

GE received the contract in consortium with European power plant constructor

SAE Sadelmi. SAE Sadelmi will build the plant and supply and install transformers, switchgear and other associated power plant equipment. The unit is intended for baseload operation and will be fueled with crude oil.

The gas turbine-generator and related equipment will be shipped in December of this year and the unit is slated for commercial operation in the first quarter of 1992. The gas turbine will be manufactured in GE's Greenville, S.C. manufacturing facilities and the generator will be manufactured at GE's Schenectady, N.Y. plant.

GE is the world's leading manufacturer and supplier of power generation systems and services, including steam turbines, gas turbines, STAG (TM) combined-cycle systems, cogeneration power equipment and a variety of uprate, upgrade and power plant maintenance programs. SAN JOSE, CA (OCT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Laserscope (NASDAQ:LSCP) Wednesday announced financial results for the third quarter ended Sept. 30, 1990.

The company reported revenues of $17.1 million for the quarter, an increase of 218 percent over revenues of $5.38 million in the third quarter of 1989.

Net income for the quarter was $2.39 million, an increase of 340 percent from $0.54 million in 1989. Net income per share for the quarter was 35 cents, up by 218 percent from 11 cents in last year's third quarter.

Revenues for the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1990 were $35.6 million, an increase of 158 percent over the first nine months of 1989. Net income for the nine months was $4.93 million, an increase of 271 percent from 1989. Net income per share for the first nine months of 1990 was 73 cents, up by 170 percent from 1989.

The third quarter results reflect a continuation of Laserscope's strong profitability performance. In addition to the completion of the ninth successive quarter of increased profits, Laserscope announced substantial improvements in profit margins this quarter. Gross margin for the quarter was 60.2 percent compared with 57.1 percent in the immediately preceding quarter.

Similarly, operating margin was 15.4 percent, compared to 13.1 percent in the immediately preceding quarter. These improved margins were the result of product cost reductions and operating efficiencies achieved in Laserscope's manufacturing operations.

Sales of the company's laser systems were approximately 76 percent higher than the immediately preceding quarter. The strong increase in the third quarter shipment level reflects both good underlying growth in demand for Laserscope's KTP/YAG Surgical Laser Systems and additional shipments to return customer delivery times to a more normal level.

Delivery times for the company's Surgical Laser Systems had risen in the second quarter as a result of a rapid increase in orders. This increased shipment rate was facilitated by a substantial increase in production capacity.

The actual production rate for the company's Surgical Laser Systems was more than double that of the first quarter of this year.

Reflecting the substantially higher level of revenue from the sales of laser systems, recurring revenue from sale of disposables, accessories and service was 18 percent of the total, compared to 25 percent in the second quarter. However, in absolute amount, these revenues showed good growth from the previous quarter.

Laserscope announced this new product earlier in the quarter. The air-cooled system has the same functionality as previous models and can cut hemostatically in contact with tissue providing tactile feedback to the surgeon.

Simply by moving the fiber out of contact with tissue the surgeon can achieve the alternative surgical effects of coagulation and vaporization.

Laserscope designs, manufactures and markets an advanced line of KTP/532 and KTP/YAG surgical laser systems and related accessories and disposables. These systems employ the company's proprietary laser technology based on KTP crystalline material and enable the surgeon to cut, coagulate and vaporize tisssue in a wide variety of applications and procedures.

COSTA MESA, Calif. (OCT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - PDA Engineering (NASDAQ:PDAS) Wednesday reported its results for the first quarter ended Sept. 30, 1990.

Net earnings increased 23 percent to $416,000, or 9 cents per share, for the first quarter of fiscal year 1991, as compared with $339,000, or 8 cents per share, for the first quarter of fiscal year 1990.

Revenues for the first quarter were $8.15 million, an increase of 26 percent over the first quarter of the previous year. Software-products revenues for the first quarter increased 38 percent over the same period last year. Engineering services also continued to operate at profitable, stable levels.

This is the 23rd consecutive revenue increase compared with the prior year's quarter since PDA Engineering became a publicly owned company in 1985. The company's operating income for the current quarter amounted to $493,000, an increase of 43 percent over the $344,000 for the first quarter of the previous fiscal year.

Louis A. Delmonico, president and chief executive officer, said:
''First-quarter revenues established another record compared to the first quarter of last fiscal year. The quarter had special meaning to us because of the rate of increase of our revenues.

''Our software-products revenues are derived from both renewals of licenses from existing cusomers and also from new annual licenses. Our renewal rate also continues to be high. As a provider of engineering software that helps companies in the design-to-manufacturing process, we see that there is a continuing high interest in products that increase productivity.

''Secondly, we had a significant amount of new business during the first quarter. This indicates high interest in our product offerings overall.

''During the quarter, we began marketing and sales of three new products -- P/FATIGUE, a PATRAN software module to analyze and predict product life; P/CONCEPT-Analysis, a stand-alone analysis product that provides engineering-analysis capability and directly interfaces with Parametric Technology Corporation's Pro/ENGINEER design software; and a first-of-a-kind materials visualization, selection and data-integration software system, M/VISION.

''With M/VISION, engineers, for the first time, can exploit and use materials as a design variable. The start-up and marketing of these new products, when added to several new projects and personnel additions over the past several months, meant that our expense levels were also at record levels, in what is historically our lowest revenue quarter in our fiscal year.''

Commenting on the net earnings reported, Delmonico said, ''Given the high level of activity and expenses in the first quarter of fiscal 1991, we are pleased that the net earnings also increased.''

Delmonico concluded, ''Our first-quarter overall revenues and earnings growth are on plan and establish a pace for the balance of our fiscal year.''

PDA Engineering, based in Costa Mesa, specializes in analysis software, engineering services, materials engineering and training for mechanical engineers engaged in product design, analysis and manufacturing. PDA's leading MCAE software products, sold under the PATRAN brand name, provide specialty analysis capabilities for aerospace, automotive, commercial and government markets.

The company distributes its products through sales offices in 11 U.S. cities, five company-owned subsidiaries in Europe and independent distributors elsewhere.

PORTLAND, OR (OCT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Precision Castparts Corp. (NYSE: PCP) Wednesday reported improved sales and earnings for the quarter and record sales and improved earnings for the six months ended Sept. 30, 1990.

E.H. Cooley, board chairman and chief executive officer of the Portland-based manufacturer of investment castings for the aerospace, industrial turbine and health care industries, said that sales for the quarter increased 17 percent to $130 million, up from $110.9 million in the prior year's second quarter. Gross margin improved by 22 percent and was 16 percent of sales for the quarter. Net income for the quarter amounted to $8 million, or 46 cents per share, up 11 percent from the $7.2 million, or 43 cents per share, for the same period last year. Compared with the current year's first quarter, net income was up nearly 8 percent on approximately the same level of sales.

For the first half of fiscal 1991, sales amounted to a record $259.8 million, a 17 percent increase from the prior year's $222.5 million. Net income increased 3 percent to $15.4 million, or 89 cents per share, from $14.9 million, or 88 cents per share, earned in the first six months one year earlier. Pre-tax income increased 30 percent from $17.7 million to $23 million. The provision for income taxes for the prior year was reduced as a result of the realization of R&D tax credits in last year's first and second quarters.

In reporting quarterly results today, Cooley said that sales growth occured in both the company's Structurals and Airfoils Divisions. Cooley said that the company's gross margin continues to improve as development castings are converted to more routine production. General and administrative expenses increased during the quarter, Cooley said, because incentive compensation increased compared to nominal amounts the prior year, because of the write-off of a large account receivable in Oregon, and because constant European spending was higher when converted to dollars.

The backlog of orders at Sept. 30, 1990, amounted to $546.3 million, up 18 percent from $463.3 million one year earlier.

VANCOUVER, WASH. (OCT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - VanFed Bancorp (NASDAQ:VANF), Wednesday reported that a strong residential mortgage market, an improved interest rate environment, and continued tight expense control boosted third quarter net income to $368,000, or $.32 per share, compared to a net loss of $133,000, or $.12, in the third quarter last year.

''VanFed has been able to capitalize on the strong demand for home mortgages during the summer. Loan originations nearly doubled to $46 million compared to $23.1 million a year ago and, more importantly, non-performing loans (including real estate owned) have been reduced to $3.3 million or 1.06% of total assets from $5.2 million or 1.72% a year ago,'' said Loren B. Means, president and CEO.

''While our loan volume has increased, the size of our lending staff has remained constant, significantly increasing productivity. Our entire lending organization has demonstrated its ability to provide top notch-service while adhering to our strict underwriting standards,'' he added.

''Uncertainty about interest rates and the economic outlook has reinforced our desire to maintain a moderate approach to loan originations. In the last two quarters we have added significant amounts to the bank's reserves to protect its capital and will continue to maintain a conservative posture,'' Means said.

For the first nine months of 1990, VanFed's net earnings were $1,102,000, or $.95 per share, compared to $427,000, or $.37 per share, in the like period a year ago.

VanFed's net interest income, after a $290,000 provision for possible loan losses, increased 14.5% to $1,795,000 this quarter compared to $1,567,000 in the third quarter of 1989. The net interest margin shows a steadily increasing trend, moving to 2.65% for the quarter compared to 2.41% in the second quarter this year and 2.30% in the third quarter a year ago.

Non-interest income was $629,000 in the quarter ended Sept. 30, 1990, compared to $827,000 earned in the like quarter a year ago. Non-interest expense totaled $1.8 million compared to $2.6 million in the third quarter of 1989.

VanFed's total assets at Sept. 30, 1990, were $313.3 million. In addition, the portfolio of loans serviced for others totaled $250.4 million. The bank's net worth at Sept. 30, 1990, was $15.3 million, and its net worth ratio was 4.9%.

VanFed's book value was $13.21 per share at the end of September, an 10% increase over last year.

VanFed Bancorp is the holding company for VanFed Savings Bank, the largest publicly held thrift headquartered in Southwest Washington. The $313-million thrift serves its customers through seven full-service branches and a mortgage loan production office in Clark County, Washington.

CAMBRIDGE, MA (OCT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Lotus Development Corp. Wednesday announced that it has reached an out-of-court settlement with Paperback Software International and Stephenson Software Ltd. for the violation of Lotus' copyrights in its 1-2-3 spreadsheet software.

In June, U.S. District Court Judge Robert E. Keeton ruled that Paperback of Berkeley, Calif., and its development partner, Stephenson Software of Vancouver, British Columbia, violated Lotus' copyrights in 1-2-3 by copying substantial elements of the software program's user interface.

The settlement calls for Paperback to cease violating Lotus' copyrights by removing from the market its infringing spreadsheets, V-P Planner, V-P Planner Plus and V-P Planner 3D. Paperback also agreed to pay Lotus $500,000. In addition, Paperback agreed not to appeal Judge Keeton's June ruling and to drop its counterclaims against Lotus.

Lotus filed suit against Paperback and Mosaic Software Inc. in January 1987, charging the defendants deliberately copied, keystroke for keystroke, the spreadsheet module of Lotus 1-2-3. The case was tried in February and March 1990 in U.S. District Court in Boston.

''We filed suit more than three years ago because these companies had created a competitive product by copying our work,'' said Thomas Lemberg, Lotus' vice president and general counsel.

''We believe the protection of intellectual property is fundamental to the health of the software industry,'' Lemberg added. ''We and our customers benefit from competition, but not from competition based on the theft of someone else's work. Success in this industry is derived from creativity and innovation. The copyright laws protect software creators and innovators, and encourage them to deliver products with new benefits for customers.''

In Lotus' pending copyright infringement suit against Mosaic Software Inc. of Boston, Lotus charges that Mosaic's ''The Twin'' spreadsheet products violate Lotus' copyrights. Mosaic has agreed to be bound by Judge Keeton's rulings in the Paperback case concerning the scope of Lotus' copyrights and has conceded that its products are copied from 1-2-3. Mosaic's remaining defenses are scheduled to be tried on Oct. 25 before Judge Keeton.

Lotus Development Corp. (NASDAQ:LOTS) develops, markets and supports business software that helps users access, analyze, communicate and share information. Founded in 1982, the company's first product, Lotus 1-2-3, is the most popular personal computer software program in the world with more than 12 million users. Lotus markets its broad range of products in more than 65 countries and offers users comprehensive support options, including 24-hour-a-day, 7-day-a-week support in the U.S. for PC versions of its 1-2-3 spreadsheet.

NEW ORLEANS (OCT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - First Commerce Corp. (NASDAQ:FCOM) Wednesday announced its third quarter earnings of $2,253,000.

This compares to net income of $5,207,000 in the previous quarter and $6,896,000 in the third quarter of 1989. The largest factor affecting third quarter earnings was a provision for loan losses of $18,095,000. Nonperforming assets increased $15,592,000. Earnings per share were 15 cents versus 55 cents in the same quarter last year and 40 cents in the second quarter.

The increased provision for loan losses resulted from continued adherence to First Commerce's strategy of recognizing and dealing with problems as early as possible. While the Louisiana economy is showing some signs of improvement, real estate values remain very weak and continue to decline. The increased provision was primarily due to real estate-related loans.

Net interest income was $41,882,000 this quarter, compared to $38,745,000 in the same quarter of 1989. Growth of 10 percent in earning assets was the largest factor in this increase. Loans grew 6 percent and investment securities grew 28 percent, when compared to the same period in the prior year.

The net interest margin was 4.30 percent in the third quarter, 4.41 percent in the third quarter of 1989 and 4.33 percent in the second quarter of this year.

Other income, excluding securities transactions, was $18,196,000 in the third quarter, 9 percent higher than the third quarter last year. The increase in noninterest income is primarily due to normal recurring sources, principally fees and service charges on deposit accounts and credit card income. Operating expense was $40,006,000, only a 1 percent increase over the same quarter in the prior year.

The provision for loan losses of $18,095,000 this quarter compares to $6,170,000 in the third quarter of 1989 and $11,953,000 in the previous quarter. The allowance for loan losses was 2.40 percent of loans and leases, versus 1.99 percent at Sept. 30, 1989, and 2.22 percent at June 30, 1990.

Net charge-offs were $13,692,000 in the current quarter, compared to $7,161,000 in the same quarter of 1989 and $4,592,000 in the second quarter. Nonperforming assets were $93,140,000 on Sept. 30, 1990, 33 percent higher than a year ago.

As a percent of loans and leases, nonperforming assets were 3.91 percent at the end of the third quarter, versus 3.04 percent at Sept. 30, 1989 and 3.28 percent at the end of the prior quarter.

On Sept. 30, 1990, stockholders' equity was 4.80 percent, primary capital was 6.02 percent and total capital was 8.02 percent. Total assets were $4.6 billion, loans and leases, net of unearned income, were $2.3 billion and deposits were $3.7 billion.

KANSAS CITY, MO (OCT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Charles G. Hanson, chairman and chief executive officer of Stuart Hall Company Inc., (NASDAQ:STUH), Wednesday announced that he has signed a multi-year, multi-million dollar contract with FSC Paper Company L.P. of Chicago, Illinois.

The multi-year agreement will provide Stuart Hall Company a 100 percent recycled paper produced with 60 percent post-consumer wastes. The recycled paper will have an exceptionally smooth writing surface, Hanson noted.

Stuart Hall will use the recycled paper in its new Green Leaf line of school and office products. The company will introduce 36 new Green Leaf products to the market by December of this year.

The Green Leaf product line will be distributed through the company's distribution system of 46,000 retail stores and will be supported by a promotion and advertising budget in excess of $1 million.

Hanson also stated, ''With many of America's landfills nearing capacity, Stuart Hall executives were determined to offer consumers products that will allow them to have a strong positive impact on the natural environment. While paper has been produced with up to 51 percent recycled fiber in the past, there has never been a 100 percent recycled paper for the office and school markets produced with 60 percent post-consumer wastes, such as newspapers, magazines and computer print-out sheets, destined for a landfill. We view this as an extremely significant development for the good of the nation's environment,'' Hanson concluded.

EL SEGUNDO, CA (OCT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - International Rectifier Corp. (NYSE/PSE:IRF) Wednesday reported net income of $1.1 million (10 cents per share) on sales of $58.4 million in its first fiscal quarter ended September, compared with a net loss of $0.7 million (6 cents per share) on sales of $49.6 million in the year-ago quarter.

Net results improved by $1.8 million on revenue growth of $8.8 million (17.8 percent) year-to-year. Quarter-end backlog of $96.1 million set a company record, running 24 percent ahead of the year-ago level. Orders and shipments also set first-quarter records for the company.

Gross margins rose 2.8 points year-to-year, to 31.5 percent. Results reflected the year-to-year increase in production volume in the Electronic Products

Division. At HEXFET America, the company's $100 million HEXFET power MOSFET manufacturing plant, wafer fabrication capacity utilization averaged 59 percent in the quarter, compared with 45 percent in the year-ago quarter.

First quarter orders ran 3 percent above year-ago levels, constrained by limited assembly capacity on HEXFETs and allocations on shipment of certain high-demand products. Additional assembly capacity installed at HEXFET America in the December quarter is expected to reduce leadtimes and backlog and support order input proportionate to the production increase.

The company introduced its new generation of IGBTs (Insulated Gate Bipolar Transistors), which are much faster and more efficient than other IGBTs on the market. The company expects their performance capabilities to greatly expand the range of applications for these devices. Additional patent applications are pending.

Several events during the quarter related to IR's proprietary technology and intellectual property.

IR announced the issuance of a new U.S. patent that covers all cellular structures for power MOSFET and IGBT-type power transistors.

Siliconix incorporated and International Rectifier implemented an ongoing royalty-bearing license agreement under IR's power MOSFET patents, which were held valid and infringed by Siliconix in a Federal District Court decision earlier this year.

IR filed two lawsuits separately charging Harris Corp. and SGS Thomson Microelectronics, S.p.A. and its U.S. subsidiary with infringement of IR's power MOSFET patents. Harris filed an action for declaratory judgement to invalidate the five power MOSFET patents just upheld in litigation.

The company expects double digit revenue growth in fiscal 1991 with continued improvement in operating profitability, subject to economic conditions.

International Rectifier is a major worldwide supplier of power semiconductors and the international leader in power MOSFETs with its HEXFET line.

MOUNTAIN VIEW, CA (OCT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - In an ''open letter'' to ASK stockholders mailed Tuesday, Sandra L. Kurtzig, ASK's chairman, president and chief executive officer terms the acquisition of Ingres Corp. ''the cornerstone of ASK's long-term strategy'' and ''critical to ASK's strategies to increase stockholder value.''

She also says that the planned sale of 5.6 million ASK shares to EDS Corp. and Hewlett-Packard Co. for $60 million, or $10.78 per share, ''demonstrates the strong support that these companies have for our strategy.''

As evidence of her own belief in the future of ASK, Kurtzig says, ''I have personally invested nearly $8.4 million cash in ASK common stock purchases over the past 14 months.''

Commenting on the attempt by James Lennane to seize control of ASK's board, Kurtzig says, ''Lennane has no known experience as a manager or board member in the manufacturing information systems or relational database and tools industries. Moreover, he has failed to offer any specific business plans or programs to ASK.''

Among the numerous benefits cited in the letter of the proposed Ingres acquisition -- which would create a software company with annual sales approaching $400 million -- are that the purchase will strengthen ASK's position as a leading supplier of computer systems and software and will substantially strengthen ASK's international presence.

Kurtzig also says, ''Ingres products offer tremendous potential for ASK... (they) are considered some of the most advanced in its industry.''

Regarding the sale of ASK stock to Hewlett-Packard and EDS, Kurtzig notes that ''the endorsement of EDS and HP of ASK's strategies should strengthen ASK's position in its market.''

The letter concludes, ''We have formed a bold strategic plan for growth and to enhance stockholder value. I am optimistic about our future and urge you (stockholders) to reject Lennane's scheme to seize control of ASK and to derail our carefully conceived strategy.''

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, CALIF. (OCT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Nichols Institute (ASE:LAB) announced Wednesday that net income for the third quarter of 1990 increased by 52 percent to $1,955,000, or 14 cents per share, compared with $1,288,000, or 11 cents per share, for the 1989 quarter.

Net income for the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1990, was $5.62 million, or 41 cents per share, compared with $3,401,000, or 32 cents per share, for the comparable 1989 period.

Revenues for the 1990 third quarter were $44,789,000, a 37 percent increase over the $32,766,000 reported for the 1989 quarter. Revenues for the 1990 nine-month period totaled $129,320,000, a 35 percent increase above the $95,488,000 recorded last year.

Dr. Albert L. Nichols, chairman of the board and chief executive officer, indicated the current results were in line with the company's earlier announcement regarding its expectations for the third quarter.

He further indicated that the record level of revenues attained this quarter and the earnings performance were achieved despite the typical seasonal softening in demand for laboratory-testing services during the summer months and the adverse impact associated with consolidation of the company's regional laboratory operations in Portland, Ore.

Nichols Institute provides esoteric diagnostic testing to clinets nationwide in the fields of endocrinology, genetics, immunology, microbiology, molecular biology, oncology, serology, special chemistries, toxicology and virology.

It also has regional laboratories in California, the Pacific Northwest and the Midwest which provide clinical testing to those markets. NIDA-certified substance-abuse testing is also provided to clients nationwide. Nichols Institute Diagnostics manufactures kits for the performance of medical diagnostic tests which are distributed worldwide.

NASHUA, NH (OCT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Nashua Corp. (NYSE:NSH) Wednesday reported record net income of $8.2 million, or $1.26 per share, for the quarter ended Sept. 28, 1990.

This compares with income from continuing operations of $7.9 million, or $.83 per share, and net income of $6.4 million, or $.67 per share, for the same period in 1989. Average shares outstanding for the three months ended Sept. 28, 1990, were 6.5 million vs. 9.6 million in the prior year.

Sales for the three months ended Sept. 28, 1990, increased to $163 million compared with $143 million in the third quarter of 1989. The sales gain was primarily attributable to the mail-order photofinishing business of Hedley-Taylor plc which was acquired in March 1990.

For the nine months ended Sept. 28, 1990, Nashua reported net income of $16.8 million, or $2.09 per share, compared with income from continuing operations of $12.5 million, or $1.31 per share, and net income of $13.7 million, or $1.43 per share, for the same period in 1989. Sales for the first nine months of 1990 were $453 million vs. $421 million in the comparable 1989 period, the increase due primarily to the photofinishing business acquired in the first quarter of 1990.

Management reported higher sales and operating income for the Photofinishing Group compared with the same quarter last year. While revenues in the United Kingdom increased sharply due to a first quarter 1990 acquisition, income climbed in all three countries where Nashua operates.

The Computer Products Group recorded increased sales compared with year-ago levels primarily due to higher demand for thin-film discs. Operating income fell below last year's level, reflecting the effect of lower shipments of small-oxide discs.

Third-quarter operating income advanced versus 1989's third quarter in the Office Supplies Group, despite lower revenues. Paper shipments declined during the quarter compared with last year's levels. Toner sales, however, continued to advance and accounted for the improved operating results.

The company indicated that third quarter sales and earnings declined in the Coated Products Group compared with the same period last year. Tape demand has been adversely affected by the slowing economic activity in the U.S., while thermal paper revenues declined due to reduced export volume and lower domestic pricing.

The company reported that 119,000 shares of common stock were repurchased during the third quarter, bringing the total shares repurchased under the current one-million share program to 398,000.

Management again indicated that it expects to realize a gain from the April 1990 sale of its international office systems business to Gestetner Holdings plc. However, the company has not yet recognized any gain as the final purchase price is subject to adjustment upon audit, and that audit process has not been completed.

Nashua Corp. provides a diverse mix of products and services which includes coated paper products, computer products, office supplies and photofinishing services.

A condensed consolidated statement of income and balance sheet and selected financial information for the company and wholly owned subsidiaries is attached.

MURRAY HILL, NJ (OCT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - C.R. Bard, Inc. (NYSE:BCR) Wednesday reported sales totaling $199.6 million, net income of $10.5 million and earnings per share of 20 cents for the quarter ended September 30, 1990.

Included in the results for the quarter is a gain on the sale of Shield Healthcare Centers and a charge to provide inventory reserves for angioplasty catheters.

Net income for the quarter was $10.5 million, up 6 percent over $9.9 million in the third quarter of 1989 and earnings per share were 20 cents compared with 18 cents, an 11 percent increase.

Sales for the quarter ended September 30, 1990 increased 5 percent to $199.6 million compared with $190.1 million in the third quarter of 1989. Domestic sales for the quarter were $139.1 million, down 3 percent, while sales outside the U.S. rose 28 percent to $60.5 million. Foreign currency exchange variations accounted for about 8 percentage points of the sales increase outside the U.S.

Sales growth in the quarter was led by the surgical and urological product groups, up 18 and 17 percent, respectively. Excluding domestic angioplasty sales, Bard's worldwide sales were up 14 percent in the quarter.

Bard's effective tax rate for the quarter decreased to 26% compared with 37% a year ago as more of this year's pre-tax earnings come from countries with lower tax rates. The sale of Shield Healthcare Centers, announced on September 13, was completed on September 28. The sale resulted in a pre-tax gain of over $5 million, which is classified below the operating income line. Most of the purchase price was received in cash at the closing and the balance is due upon the completion of an independent audit.

During the quarter, the Company determined that its current U.S. inventory of balloon angioplasty catheters will not be suitable for sale when Bard reenters the U.S. market. Product changes and changes to the manufacturing system to comply with FDA regulations led to this conclusion. As a result, inventory reserves were increased to 100% of the book value of these catheters. The charge, included in cost of goods sold, was over $5 million.

Bard is currently seeking FDA approval to market in the U.S. a fixed-wire balloon angioplasty catheter (the New Probe) and two over-the-wire balloon angioplasty catheters (the Sprint and Solo).

NASHVILLE, TN (OCT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Shoney's Inc. (NYSE:SHN) Wednesday named James W. Arnett, previously president of the company's largest division, Shoney's Restaurants, president and chief operating officer of the corporation.

A 20-year employee, Arnett, 41, replaces Gary P. Spoleta, who is retiring to develop franchised Shoney's Restaurants in New Mexico.

In addition, Steve Sanders, a 25-year employee who had been vice president of operations in the Shoney's Restaurant division, was named president of that division, succeeding Arnett.

The changes in management are effective immediately, although Spoleta will remain in an advisory capacity to management until the end of the year, said Leonard H. Roberts, chairman and chief executive officer.

Arnett began working with Shoney's in 1970 while he was a student at Tennessee Technological University in Cookeville, Tenn. He was manager of the restaurant in five years and was named Shoney's operator of the year for 1977. He was later promoted to division director and regional vice president.

Spoleta, 47, has been with Shoney's Inc. for 18 years. A graduate of the Cornell University School of Hotel and Restaurant Administration with a master's degree in food biochemistry, Spoleta joined Shoney's Inc. as director of commissary operations in 1972. In 1977, he was named group vice president of the Shoney's Restaurant division, and became president of Shoney's Inc. in 1982.

At the annual meeting of Shoney's Restaurant operators in October 1989, it was announced that, upon retirement, Spoleta would be granted rights to develop franchised Shoney's Restaurants in New Mexico. The arrival of Roberts as the new chairman and chief executive officer, however, delayed his retirement plans, Spoleta said.

Shoney's Inc. is a major diversified food service operator and franchisor of more than 1,600 restaurants and lodging units, including Shoney's, Captain D's Lee's Famous Recipe Chicken, Fifth Quarter Restaurants, Pargo's and Shoney's Inns. DENVER (OCT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - U.S. Gold Corp. (NASDAQ:USGL) Wednesday announced the sale of its White Pine gold property and related assets in White Pine County, Nev., to a privately held company for approximately $630,000 including $80,000 of debt forgiveness.

Proceeds from this sale are being held in a restricted account with the company's senior secured bank creditor. The company anticipates a pre-tax loss on the sale of approximately $2.5 million which will be recorded in the

The company has operated White Pine since 1988 and produced a total of approximately 30,000 ounces of gold.

HARTFORD, CT (OCT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - United Technologies Corp. had record net income for the third quarter and nine months, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer Robert F. Daniell announced Wednesday.

Net income for the quarter increased 22 percent to $239.8 million. Excluding gains from the sale of Italian automotive firms Diavia and Aura, earnings increased 7.5 percent. Net income in the same period a year earlier was $196.7 million.

Earnings per share for the quarter were $1.76 on a fully diluted basis, compared to $1.39 in the third quarter of 1989. Revenues for the quarter were approximately $5.3 billion, compared to $4.8 billion for the same quarter last year.

For the first nine months of the year, net income was $581.8 million, up approximately 12 percent from $517.7 million in 1989. Nine-month earnings per share were $4.30 compared with $3.84 in 1989, an increase of 12 percent.

''I am particularly pleased with the strength of our performance, especially in light of the poor economic environment and the weakness in the U.S. residential housing and automotive markets,'' said Daniell.

Total debt was reduced substantially during the quarter, from $4.2 billion on June 30 to $3.6 billion as of Sept. 30. ''We are on schedule with our working capital reduction program and continue to make impressive progress,'' said Daniell.

Operating results for all segments were strong in the quarter, with the greatest improvement in Flight Systems units Sikorsky and Hamilton Standard. Flight Systems profits were $50 million, compared to a third quarter 1989 loss of $34 million.

Power segment operating income was $242 million, down $39 million from last year's third quarter, when Pratt & Whitney realized substantial one-time fee income from its engine program partners.

Operating profits for the Building Systems segment were $138 million, down $15 million from 1989's third quarter. Carrier's results were lower than last year, with strong European performance partially offsetting the weak North American residential market. Otis results were also lower in the quarter primarily because of Brazilian operations.

Industrial segment operating income was $65 million for the quarter, up $39 million from the prior year. The increase reflects the recent sale of the corporation's 75 percent interest in Diavia and Aura operations, which resulted in about a $46 million pre-tax gain in the quarter.

United Technologies provides a broad range of high-technology products and support services to the aerospace, building systems and automotive industries.

The Hartford-based corporation's best-known products include Pratt & Whitney aircraft engines, Carrier heating and air conditioning systems, Otis elevators and escalators, Sikorsky helicopters, Hamilton Standard aerospace systems, Norden defense systems and UT Automotive components and systems. Several UTC units supply equipment and services for the U.S. space program.

WASHINGTON (OCT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - An AT&T executive Wednesday told a House subcommittee that thousands of AT&T long distance customers are being switched to competing carriers without the consumers' authorization, a practice called ''slamming.''

Quoting from letters ''slamming'' victims have written to the company, Merrill Tutton, AT&T vice president for consumer services, told of an 86-year-old terminally ill Connecticut woman who said she and her daughter had their long distance service switched from AT&T to MCI without their approval.

Tutton said the woman received a telemarketing call asking if she'd like to sign up with MCI. ''She tells the representative that her daughter handles all of her business affairs,'' said Tutton. ''Shortly thereafter, she gets a letter from MCI and learns that she's been switched without her approval.''

Testifying before the House Subcommittee on Government Information, Justice and Agriculture, Tutton said the instances of ''slamming'' are not isolated. ''In the last six months alone, over 90,000 AT&T customers have told us that they were victims of 'slamming,''' he said.

In another case, Tutton said a Georgia couple wrote AT&T saying they received a telemarketing call telling them their long distance carrier was being changed.

''And I quote from their letter, 'The representative said this would be a mandatory change -- no ifs, ands or buts and that we as consumers had no control over it,''' said Tutton. He added: ''Consumers should have the right to choose their long distance company without being victimized by deceptive, fraudulent or unfair marketing practices.''

Tutton said AT&T's remedy for ''slamming'' was filed with the Federal Communications Commission in January. AT&T asked the FCC to change its rules to require that all long distance companies obtain written permission from customers before switching service.

The proposal has received the support of more than 30 national and state consumer groups, state commissions and state attorneys general.

AT&T believes that ''the surest and simplest way to ensure customer protection against slamming is to put control where it belongs -- in the hands of consumers,'' Tutton said.

NEW YORK (OCT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - The High Yield Income Fund Inc. October 1990 Monthly Update.

Distribution Information

Amount	Payable Date	Record Date	Declaration Date
$.080	Nov. 16, 1990	Oct. 26, 1990	Oct. 15, 1990

Investment Adviser Commentary:

- The board of directors of the High Yield Income Fund declared on Oct. 15, 1990 a monthly distribution of $0.080 a share. In response to conditions in the high yield market earlier this year, the Fund's investment adviser took a defensive position and shifted a portion of its assets into higher quality, lower yielding securities.

This decision was aimed at preserving the Fund's assets and posturing the Fund for the long-term. As a result, the Fund's $0.080 dividend more accurately reflects the earnings potential of the Fund.

- The high yield market continued its downward slide. Persian Gulf tensions kept oil prices high. Fears of higher inflation and recession intensified as both consumer and producer prices rose sharply during the month.

- There have been more sellers than buyers in the market. The Resolution Trust Corp. (RTC) has sold almost $1 billion of securities this year. Mutual funds have been net sellers of bonds to cover redemptions and to increase cash positions as a defensive strategy. As a result, yield spreads in the First Boston High Yield index widened to 970 basis points over comparable maturity Treasuries during September, an all-time record.

The investment Adviser's near term outlook is cautious given very poor technical market conditions and weak economic fundamentals. However, the Adviser feels that when sellers like the RTC finally exit the market and the direction of the economy comes into sharper focus, the stronger credits in the high yield universe should prove to be a compelling value.

NEW YORK (OCT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - The Dun & Bradstreet Corporation reported Wednesday third-quarter earnings per share of $.77, down 7.2 percent from $.83 a year ago.

Net income in the third quarter was down 10.0 percent to $139,729,000 from $155,258,000 a year ago. The percentage decline in D&B's third-quarter earnings per share was less than the decline in net income because the company's share repurchase program resulted in a reduction in the average number of shares outstanding.

Third-quarter operating revenue increased 11.2 percent to $1,159,582,000 from $1,042,416,000 a year ago. Adjusted for the impact of the acquisition of Management Science America (MSA) in December 1989, and the sale of Zytron and Neodata Services, revenue growth for the quarter was about 6 percent.

Third-quarter operating costs, selling expenses and administrative expenses increased to $937,470,000 from $821,412,000, in part due to the impact of the acquisition of MSA, repositioning actions at U.S. Credit Services, and accelerated investment at Nielsen Marketing Research.

Operating income in the third quarter of 1990 was $222,112,000, essentially unchanged from $221,004,000 a year ago.

Dun & Bradstreet's reported financial results reflect the third-quarter sale of Zytron and Neodata Services, as well as other actions to restructure certain operations and businesses, and to reduce costs and increase operating efficiencies. The pre-tax costs associated with these restructuring actions essentially offset a pre-tax gain of $77 million on the sale of Zytron and Neodata Services.

As a result, D&B's third-quarter 1990 earnings per share were not affected materially. The restructuring actions taken by the company include the discontinuance of certain product lines at IMS International; the reorganization of certain operations at IMS and American Credit Indemnity; and the integration of McCormack & Dodge (M&D) and MSA into a new division, Dun & Bradstreet Software.

The company reported third-quarter non-operating expense--net of $15,412,000, compared with non-operating income--net of $14,620,000 a year ago. Third-quarter non-operating expense--net resulted from a number of factors, including lower income from marketable securities, higher interest expense, higher goodwill amortization and the absence of benefits from tax-sharing agreements with an Alaska Native Corporation.

As a result of the continuing impact of global tax- planning actions, the company's tax rate in the third quarter was 32.4 percent, compared with a rate of 34.1 percent in the third quarter a year ago.

Dun & Bradstreet said the company's third-quarter results were in line with its expectations and that it continues to anticipate that 1990 earnings per share will be in the range of $2.80 per share.

Factors expected to hold down next year's performance include the impact of adverse economic conditions on Dun & Bradstreet businesses, already being most heavily experienced at Donnelley Directory; continued price competition and an anticipated high level of investment expenditures in Nielsen Marketing Research for the development of new technologies and services; the ongoing impact of a step-up in operating costs at U.S. Credit Services as a result of repositioning actions implemented during the past 12 months, coupled with 1991 revenue growth below the company's long-term expectations for the division; and the impact on IMS of competitive conditions in the U.S. market and costs associated with maintaining IMS' leadership position.

ORLANDO, FL (OCT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - AT&T and Kokusai Denshin Denwa (KDD) of Japan announced in Orlando Wednesday they have been conducting feasibility studies for constructing new transpacific cable systems using 2.4 gigabits per second (2.4 billion bits per second) optical amplifier technology, which they are now developing.

The proposed cable systems, connecting Japan and the U.S. mainland, would use state-of-the-art optical amplifier technology. The cable systems would have multiple fiber pairs operating at a rate of 2.4 gigabits, eight times the capacity of currently installed fiber-optic cables.

The new cable network system will enable international carriers to provide up-to-date telecommunications services of the highest quality, along with the added value of increased reliability of the Pacific cable network. The cable system is planned to meet customers' requirements for service and diversity.

The first new optical amplifier telecommunications cable system (TPC-5) is anticipated to be in service in 1996. A follow on cable system (TPC-6) is expected to provide the ability to restore service from one cable onto another cable thereby improving restoration arrangements for the existing Pacific Cable System.

Optical amplifiers -- segments of optical fiber containing the rate earth element erbium -- boosts lightwave signals without first converting them to electrons and back to light, as is done in conventional systems.

In lightwave communications systems, information is carried as pulses of light instead of electrical pulses. A light source, usually a laser, launches pulses of light down a hair-thin glass fiber, turning on and off to represent the ones and zeroes of digitized information.

As they travel through the fiber, the light pulses broaden and lose their shape and need to be regenerated or amplified every forty miles or so.

In an optically amplified system, the signals get a boost as they pass through spliced-in segments of fiber containing erbium. The optical amplifiers are pumped by semiconductor lasers that energize the signals as they pass through the fiber.

Optical amplifiers can handle various bit rates and modulation formats. Unlike electronic repeaters, which have to be replaced if the bit rate or modulation is changed, optical amplifiers can handle varying system configurations.

The world's first transoceanic lightwave system, TAT-8, went into service in 1988 and has a capacity of 40,000 simultaneous telephone calls. TAT-9, to be deployed in 1991, will handle 80,000 simultaneous calls.

Both use state of the art conventional technology, with electronic repeaters that convert photons (light pulses) to electrons and back every 40 mto 60 miles.

A new fiber-optic cable would have a capacity of 600,000 simultaneous conversations using optical amplifiers and operating at 2.4 gigabits (billion bits per second) over two pairs of fibers and using conventional compression techniques.

AT&T Bell Laboratories scientists are experimenting with optical amplifiers in ultra-long-distance systems and in systems for island-to-island or coast-to-coast transmission. Related research involves high-repetition lasers pump lasers, all-optical logic elements, integrated optical waveguide devices and new types of optical fiber.

Since May of this year, AT&T Microelectronics has been marketing three benchtop models of Bell Labs-designed terrestrial erbium-doped amplifiers to commercial customers and has also developed custom models.

PALATINE, IL (OCT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Square D Co. Wednesday reported increases in sales, net earnings and net earnings per share for the third quarter and nine months ended Sept. 30, 1990, compared with the same 1989 periods.

Jerre L. Stead, chairman, president and chief executive officer, said 1990 third quarter sales increased 6.2 percent to $428.6 million. He said net earnings were $31.9 million, an increase of 3.9 percent over $30.7 million a year earlier, and that net earnings per share were $1.30 or 4.8 percent higher than $1.24 in 1989.

On a fully diluted basis, net earnings per share increased 5.9 percent to $1.26 from the $1.19 of a year ago.

Earnings per share from continuing operations of $1.30 were up 4.0 percent from $1.25 a year earlier, and on a fully diluted basis, earnings of $1.26 increased 5.0 percent over the $1.20 of 1989. He said operating earnings in the third quarter were $50.8 million, compared with $54.5 million in the year-ago period.

Operating earnings in the domestic industrial control business declined due to increased product development costs, lower sales of automation and power protection products and continued investments to accelerate growth of the technical services division.

Stead said that third quarter non-operating income was higher than the same period last year due to increased investment income on the proceeds from the divestiture of a business earlier this year.

Stead said that for the first nine months of 1990, Square D sales were $1.22 billion, compared to $1.21 billion in 1989 and net earnings of $93.3 million increased 3.0 percent over the $90.5 million a year earlier. Net earnings per share were $3.80, up 5.3 percent from the $3.61 of 1989. Fully diluted net earnings per share were $3.65, up 2.8 percent over the $3.55 of 1989.

For the 9-month period, earnings from continuing operations were $89.2 million compared to $90.2 million last year. Earnings per share from continuing operations were $3.62, up slightly from $3.60 in 1989. On a fully diluted basis, earnings per share from continuing operations were $3.49, compared to $3.54 last year.

Stead pointed out that 1989 third quarter and 9-month results were restated to reflect treatment of General Semiconductor Industries (GSI) as a discontinued operation effective in the 1990 second quarter.

The average number of Square D shares outstanding for the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1990 was 23,269,000 shares, 7.2 percent less than the 25,074,000 for the year-earlier period.

Square D is a worldwide leader in industrial control and electrical distribution products, systems,and services and had 1989 sales from continuing operations of $1.60 billion.

BROOKFIELD, WIS. (OCT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - The following is a letter to shareholders from Payco American Corp. (NASDAQ:PAYC) Chairman of the Board Dennis G. Punches and President and Chief Executive Officer William A. Inglehart.

Dear Shareholder:

Payco American Corp. has just completed its third quarter with another strong advancement in quarterly profits.

Net income for the three months ended Sept. 30, was $1,488,000, for a 35 percent incerase compared to the same period in the prior year.

This 1990 improvement in profitability is primarily attributable to continued improvement in our profit margins combined with a 12 percent increase in revenue for the first nine months of 1990. During this same year-to-date time frame, the company's margin on income from operations improved to 8.4 percent compared to 7.1 percent for the nine month period of the prior year.

The operating margin continues to improve for a variety of reasons including the benefits of the Payco Automated Collection System (PACS). PACS is the company's on-line, real-time computer system which assists, monitors and directs our collection effort. Also contributing to our increase in profits and operating margins was expense control resulting from the company's continued ability to leverage its fixed data processing and occupancy costs as well as improvement in our employee's productivity.

Accounts received for collection were $1.9 billion for the first nine months of 1990. This placement level represents a 14 percent increase compared to the prior year. Placements received for the third quarter of 1990 reflected a modest 4 percent increase over the prior year. The increase in these third quarter placements was less than the trend of increases experienced in the first half of 1990.

During the first six months of 1990, the company received $125 million of accounts for collection under a multi-year contract with a major hospital corporation. This contract effectively expired on June 30, 1990, and consequently, no comparable placements of accounts have been received during the third quarter.

As previously announced, the company declared a 2-for-1 stock split effected in the form of a stock dividend. Each shareholder of record as of the close of business on July 13, received one share of common stock for each common share held.

We remain optimistic about the company's success throughout the balance of 1990. Attached to this letter is a detailed presentation of both the third quarter and year-to-date operations.

Very truly yours,

Dennis G. Punches
President and Chief Executive Officer

TAMPA, FL (OCT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Seahawk Deep Ocean Technology Inc. (NASDAQ:SDOT) has begun the predisturbance survey of its second ancient shipwreck site.

The site is 1,200 feet deep, approximately 50 miles east of St. Augustine, Fla. The survey is being conducted in a joint effort with Harbor Branch Oceanographic Institution, using Harbor Branch's Johnson Sea-Link submarine launched from the R.V. Edwin Link.

The predisturbance survey consists of creating a photomosaic record of the entire wreck site by taking photos every few feet and piecing them together. Such a survey shows scholars how the site looked before any excavation was initiated.

Once the entire wreck site has been photographically logged, the survey team will recover a small number of artifacts from the site to study in preparation for full recovery efforts next year. The team is hoping that the recovery of one of the ship's cannons will eventually lead to early identification of the vessel.

Meanwhile, Seahawk continues excavation of its first site, a colonial Spanish galleon 1,500 feet deep, in international waters about 60 miles southwest of Key West, Fla. Excavation on that site has yielded thousands of artifacts including 22 gold bars, hundreds of silver coins, jewelry, three mariners' astrolabes and a plate with the Papal Seal.

The company believes that the Papal plate will be a major key in naming the ship. Seahawk's researchers are continuing to search the archives in Seville, Spain for answers.

FAIR LAWN, NJ (OCT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - The industry's highest capacity 12-inch optical storage disk, with a total capacity of 7 Gigabytes (or 3.5 GB per side), has been introduced by Maxell Corp. of America.

The now WORM optical disk (Write Once Read Many times) is designed to operate with Hitachi's newly introduced OD-321 optical drive.

At the same time, Maxell announced that the company has doubled the optical disk manufacturing capacity of its Tsukuba plant in Japan, moving up by six months the company's expansion plans.

According to Dave Berry, Maxell's manager of new product development, ''We are making substantial investments on improving our already extensive R&D facilities in Tsukuba, as well as our state-of-the-art production facility which is now probably one of the most contaminant-free and technically advanced in the industry.

''We are making these long-term commitments because the future is bright for all types of optical technologies,'' Berry said. ''We are presently making substantial strides toward development of even larger capacities for both WORM and rewriteable optical disks.''

Describing the newly-announced 7-GB disk product, Berry said, ''The new model OC 321-2 disk will provide superior capabilities for most archival applications, because it features several major design improvements.''

The new WORM disk features a smaller track pitch from 1.6 to 1.5 microns in use of the zoned CAV (constant angular velocity) recording method ''to pack more data into the outside tracks in relation to the inside tracks.''

In addition, Berry indicated that the operational speed has been increased from 600 to 1,000 rpm resulting in a higher data transfer rate. In previous models, the data transfer rate was 440 KB/s. For the new disk, this has been more than double to 1.2 to 2.2 MB/sec. Also, the new disks employ a new pit-edge detection method of recording, making each disk pit 1.7 times higher capacity than previous disks which used the pit-position method or recording where each pit was one bit.

Production and shipment of the new disks is scheduled for first quarter 1991; pricing will be approximately one-third higher for the new media which have a capacity almost three times Maxell's earlier 2.6 GB disks.

BRAINTREE, Mass. (OCT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - The Bank of Braintree (NASDAQ/NMS BTSB) announced a net loss of $2,492,000 or $1.59 per share for the third quarter ended Sept. 30, 1990 compared to net income of $194,000 or $0.13 per share for the same period in 1989.

For the nine month period ended Sept. 30, 1990 the bank had a net loss of $2,187,000 or $1.40 per share, compared to net income of $852,000 or $0.55 per share a year ago.

The bank's loan loss provision, including the 3rd quarter provision of $3,000,000 was $3,950,000 for the first nine months of 1990, compared to $450,000 for the first nine months of 1989. For the first nine months of 1990 $1,998,000 has been charged off to the allowance for loan losses, compared to $294,000 for the first nine months of 1989.

After these charge-offs the bank's loan loss reserve totaled $3,240,000 or 2.70 percent of gross loans at Sept. 30, 1990 compared to $1,033,000 or .80 percent of gross loans at Sept. 30, 1989.

Included in non-performing assets at Sept. 30, 1990 was other real estate owned of $2,548,000.

The third quarter loan loss provision takes into consideration a recently completed field portion of a Massachusetts Commmissioner of Banks regulatory examination, and management's assessment of additional unallocated reserve requirements in light of the continuing deterioration in the local real estate market. The total loan loss reserve to total nonperforming loans now stands at 48.4 percent.

According to Winthrop Sargent IV, chairman and chief executive officer, ''We do not believe that we have seen the floor to the New England real estate market. For this reason, we have increased our unallocated reserve for loan losses over and above recommended levels.''

After the additional provision for loan losses and the resulting net loss for the nine month period ended Sept. 30, 1990, the Bank of Braintree will still have a strong capital/asset ratio of 10.87 percent. Sargent also said that ''There are no plans at this time to reduce or eliminate the regular quarterly dividend.'' T

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (OCT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - First Eastern Corp. (OTC:FEBC) reported net income fell to $1.66 per share for the nine months ended Sept. 30 down 31 percent from $2.42 a year earlier.

For the quarter, net income per share was 46 cents compared to 81 cents last year, a drop of 43 percent.

A primary reason for these results was a large increase in the provision for loan losses. This was due in part to a higher level of nonperforming assets and a building of the allowance for credit loss in a time of uncertainty.

The year-to-date provision was increased to $15.4 million, as compared to $5.3 million a year earlier, while the provision for the quarter was increased to $6.5 million, as compared to $1.7 million.

''In this quarter, we continued to add substantially to our reserves against future loan losses,'' noted Richard M. Ross Jr., chairman and CEO.

''These increases protect the company against individual loans that have shown signs of weakness, as well as categories of loans which could develop problems in the future.

''We believe that these increases have allowed First Eastern to anticipate any potential deterioration in its loan portfolio due to current and foreseeable adverse economic trends. In fact, we believe these writedowns are in many cases in excess of the losses that experience tells us we may eventually sustain,'' Ross said.

In general, northeastern Pennsylvania, First Eastern's primary marketplace, has not felt the erosion in real estate values to anywhere near the same degree as New Jersey and New England, Ross said, adding,''Commercial vacancy rates remain very low and there have been no unsuccessful multifamily housing units or retail shopping areas built.''

However, Ross noted that while a slowdown in the growth of the Pocono area will affect customers, ''we believe the size of our individual extensions plus the conservative loan to value standards we have used in our underwriting will minimize any possible loss.''

Overall, year-to-date net earnings were $16.6 million, down 30 percent from $23.6 million last year for the nine months ended Sept. 30. Quarterly earnings were $4.6 million, down 42 percent from $7.9 million a year earlier.

During 1990 First Eastern acquired nine branches of Atlantic Financial and The First National Bank of Wyoming, Pa. Adjusted to reflect these acquisitions, First Eastern's total assets rose about 8 percent to over $3 billion at period end as compared to a year earlier, while loans and leases were up 13 percent to $2.2 billion and deposits 8 percent to $2.7 billion.

Loan-to-deposit ratio at period end was 81.6 percent compared to 84.4 percent last year while equity-to-assets was 7.3 percent compared to 7.9 percent last year.

Equity accounts have been affected by the stock repurchase program which was placed in service during the second quarter of this year. As of Sept. 30, treasury stock represented $4.2 million in equity accounts.

Nonperforming loans at Sept. 30, were approximately $43 million as compared to $36 million at year end. Nonperforming loans consist of nonaccrual loans, loans past due 90 days or more and restructured loans.

Nonaccrual loans were approximately $23 million at Sept. 30, 1990 as compared to about $20 million at Dec. 31, 1989. Other real estate and repossessed assets stood at approximately $18 million as of Sept. 30, 1990 as compared to slightly over $3 million at Dec. 31, 1989. As a percentage of loans, nonperforming loans were 1.98 percent on Sept. 30, 1990, compared to 1.82 percent on Dec. 31, 1989.

The allowance for possible credit losses to loans and lease financing at Sept. 30, was 1.33 percent compared to 1.10 percent last year and 1.11 percent at year end 1989. The allowance for possible credit losses represented 126 percent of nonaccrual loans at Sept. 30, 1990 as compared to 108 percent at Dec. 31, 1989.

The Office of the Comptroller of the Currency will perform a regularly scheduled examination of First Eastern and Peoples First National banks during the fourth quarter. Despite a great deal of discussion regarding whether examination procedures have become more stringent, Ross said that in view of current national economic trends, the company has strenghtened internal procedures and focused senior management's attention on all aspects of maintaining asset quality.

''We believe these steps have prepared us for the examination,'' he added.

ROCKY HILL, CT (OCT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Ames Department Stores Inc. said Wednesday that it is continuing its expense-reduction efforts by reducing its corporate office staff, and closing its offices in West Hartford, Conn., and Syracuse, N.Y.

Approximately 250 people, including 160 in Syracuse, have been directly affected, out of a current corporate office employment level of about 1,600. Affected employees have been offered severance packages and outplacement assistance.

An additional 200 positions have been eliminated from the corporate office staffing plan. Last month the company closed one-third of its stores, and now operates 461 stores in the Northeast.

Ames also said that it has decided to close its West Hartford office, returning its merchandise division to Rocky Hill. The company said that it would close its Syracuse, finance office and relocate its accounting functions to Rocky Hill. Both actions will occur next spring.

Stephen L. Pistner, Ames' chief executive officer, said, ''Both the staff reduction and office consolidation are essential elements of our plan to reduce expenses and operating losses, while matching Ames' corporate organization with the company's smaller size.''

Ames filed for protection under Chapter 11 of the U.S. Bankruptcy Code Apr. 25 to restructure its business and finances.

CHATTANOOGA, TN (OCT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Chattem, Inc. (NASDAQ: CHTT), a manufacturer of consumer products and specialty chemicals, announced Wednesday improved results for the nine months and quarter ended August 31, 1990.

For the nine month period, net sales rose by 21 percent to $63,163,000 from $52,059,000 in the like period a year earlier. The increase in sales was driven by a strong performance from Chattem Consumer Products resulting largely from the successful national launch of Flex-All 454, a topical analgesic, and additional volume from Norwich Aspirin, acquired in July, 1989.

Chattem Chemicals experienced good growth in the specialty, hydroxide and DASC lines which offset a reduction in non-recurring, low margin glycine sales.

International sales also grew due to a strong performance in the U.K.

Reflecting the substantial increase in year-to-date sales, earnings from continuing operations rose by more that 50 percent to $2.8 million, or $2.20 per primary share, from $1.8 million, or $1.38 per primary share, a year earlier. Importantly, these earnings were achieved in spite of the recognition of a significant loss on Flex-All 454 related to advertising and promotion expenses incurred to support the national launch.

For the quarter ended August 31, 1990, sales increased by 63 percent to $18.8 million from $11.5 million and net income from continuing operations rose to $492,000, equal to $.38 per share, from a loss of $1.2 million, or $.97 per share, in the comparable period last year.

This record performance will be achieved in spite of the incurrence of a net loss on Flex-All 454. While Flex-All 454 has had a negative short term impact on earnings, it is expected to contribute significantly to growth in sales and earnings in future years.

MIAMI (OCT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - AT&T has been charged with racketeering and antitrust violations in a lawsuit filed by Westel de Venezuela seeking $90 million in damages.

The New York Federal Court action claims that AT&T has attempted to monopolize trade and commerce in the telecommunications, computer and data terminal industries in the Republic of Venezuela ''through a pattern of racketeering activity'' and ''in furtherance of a scheme to defraud'' by driving Westel from the marketplace and misappropriating its technology, proprietary business information, business opportunities and personnel.

The lawsuit alleges that AT&T's conduct appeared to be a reaction to the 1982 Federal court ordered divestiture resulting from anti-trust litigation brought by the United States Justice Department which ''impelled AT&T to reevaluate its relationship with its representatives in areas beyond the territorial limits of the United States.''

Westel was AT&T's representative beginning in 1977 and introduced and marketed the company's product line throughout Venezuela. Its customers included the Country's national oil company (PEDEVESA), the national telecommunications corporation (CANTV), the airline AVENSA, as well as the leading banks and governmental institutions of Venezuela.

Westel charges that AT&T implemented its scheme by inducing it to purchase obsolete and nonfunctional equipment at inflated prices and then slandering the company by advising its customers that Westel was at fault for subsequent malfunctions and failures.

Westel also asserts that it developed a direct inward dialing signal converter which AT&T misappropriated and is presently offering and selling as its own throughout the world.

The suit additionally seeks damages for the usurpation of substantial CANTV projects obtained by Westel including data transmission and the supply of cable throughout Venezuela.

The predicate acts which give rise to the RICO charges are mail and wire communications by AT&T in interstate and foreign commerce in furtherance of a scheme to defraud.

The antitrust violations AT&T are charged with are based upon allegations concerning its attempt to obtain a telecommunications monopoly in Venezuela.

Westel is represented by attorneys Tralins & Gilbert of Miami, and Rosner & Goodman of New York.

The first nine months of 1990 ended with unaudited net income of $2,271,254, or 14 cents per share, on concentrate sales of $14,087,607 vs. a net loss of

Kendrick said, ''Higher production levels together with an improvement in the grade of ore mined as well as continued attention to controlling operating costs contributed positively to results for the quarter.''

Kendrick also announced the temporary curtailment of a limited number of exploration and development projects in the Bunker Hill Mine and a corresponding 18 percent reduction in the mine workforce. ''We are taking this action to conserve cash and to maintain profitability in response to a weakened economic outlook.''

ATLANTA (OCT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Samna Corp. (NASDAQ:SMNA) Wednesday announced the results for the third quarter of 1990.

Net revenues increased 122% to $4,031,000 from third quarter 1989 net revenues of $1,816,000. Third quarter 1990 net income of $145,000 compares with a net loss of $982,000 in the prior year after income tax benefit of $417,000. On a per share basis, net income was 5 cents for the current quarter in contrast with a loss of 38 cents after tax benefit of 16 cents for the third quarter of 1989.

The increase in net revenues is directly attributable to the company's graphical user interface (GUI) products. Ami Professional, the company's premier GUI word processor, was not available in the third quarter of 1989. Technology license fees and sales of newly released international versions also contributed to the increase.

For the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1990, the company reported net revenues of $10,262,000, up 41% from 1989 nine month revenues of $7,253,000. The net losses for the nine month periods ended Sept. 30, 1990 and 1989 were $1,221,000 and $2,274,000, respectively. The loss for the 1989 period reflected income tax benefit of $1,030,000. Net loss per share for the first three quarters of 1990 was 46 cents as opposed to 89 cents after tax benefit of 40 cents for the comparable 1989 period.

SADDLE BROOK, NJ (OCT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - Anthony S. Abbate, president and chief executive officer of Interchange Financial Services Corp., reported net earnings for the nine-month period ending Sept. 30, of $1,857,541 as compared to the Sept. 30, 1989, amount of $2,318,252.

On a per share basis after deducting dividends paid to holders of preferred stock, this amounted to 89 cents per share in 1990 as compared to $1.16 per share for the same period in 1989 or a 23 percent decrease.

The 1989 results included $525,000 net of income taxes from the sale of mortgage servicing rights. If this non-recurring amount were removed from 1989's results, 1990 earnings would show an improvement over 1989. Abbate further stated that 1990's results include the absorption of branching activities which began in 1989 with the establishment of an office in Franklin Lakes. New offices are planned in Hillsdale in November and in Little Ferry in 1991.

Asset quality continues to be strong. Loans past due 90 days or more, including non-performing loans, have decreased to 1.4 percent of total loans from 1.7 percent at June 30th. Such loans were 1.2 percent of total loans at Sept. 30, 1989, giving further indication of the strength and stability of asset values. These ratios are much less than the averages reported for holding company peers for the periods indicated.

The allowance for possible loan losses is being maintained at a level of about 1 percent of total loans. Management considers this level more than adequate to cover potential losses.

Abbate stated that Interchange's underwriting of loans has always been conservative and as a result, he does not anticipate the kinds of events which have been affecting other financial institutions.

During the most recent quarter, a new venture, Clover Leaf Insurance Agency Inc., commenced operations as a subsidiary of Interchange State Bank. Its purpose is to offer tax-deferred annuities of several types, including college-saver and long term health care programs. Abbate said this subsidiary is expected to contribute substantial fee income as we are able to tell our customers of the advantages of these products.

Interchange Financial Services Corp. owns the outstanding shares of Interchange State Bank, based in Saddle Brook, with ten banking offices throughout Bergen County.

LOUISVILLE, KY (OCT. 17) BUSINESS WIRE - ICH Corp. (ASE:ICH) Wednesday announced it has redomiciled its subsidiary, Constitution Life Insurance Co. (''Constitution''), from Illinois to Kentucky.

This redomestication is part of a previously announced strategic refocusing of ICH that will emphasize life, health, and accumulation products. Constitution will serve as the primary writer of accumulation products for ICH. Constitution has received a claims paying rating of A+ from Standard and Poor's.

ICH also announced the formation of the ICH Capital Management Group (''CMG'') as a division of ICH. The CMG has responsibility for managing all aspects of Constitution Life as well as providing asset-liability and investment management services to the other ICH companies and to Marquette National Life Insurance Co. In total, the CMG will manage approximately $4.8 billion in assets.

The company will focus on three broad classes of customers. One such class will be institutional investors such as money market funds, bank trust departments, 401(k) and other employee savings plans, and other conservative investors that seek and value insurance company guarantees.

Another area of thrust will be specialized seperate accounts, which will be marketed to defined benefit pension plans, bank trust departments, speciality investment firms, and other investors with total return orientations.

The third area of focus will be the retail annuity investor, typically individuals that value features such as floating credited interests rates as protection against inflation.

The initial product offerings will be in the institutional market, including products such as Guaranteed Investment Contracts (GICs) indexed to short term rates. Additional product types currently under development include GICs indexed to intermediate term rates and certain fixed rate products.

Constitution is capitalized with over $1 billion in assets. This figure includes less than 5 percent in non-investment grade securities and no commercial mortgages. Liabilities total $900 million of existing GICs which were reinsured into Constitution from another ICH Company, Southwestern Life.

The company's adjusted surplus exceeds $100 million, resulting in an 11 percent capital/liability ratio. Ruby noted this ratio is substantially higher than the industry average and properly reflects Constitition's underlying financial strength.

LONDON (OCT. 17) - The British Jaguar car manufacturer has recalled 65,300 XJS cars produced between 1978 and 1983 for changes to the petrol-feed system as a result of complaints about leaks, company sources said on Wednesday.

A Jaguar spokesman said that changes to the models, which had been sold throughout the world, and of which 18,300 had been sold in Britain, would be made without charge by Jaguar dealers.

PARIS (OCT. 17) - Leading French banks on Wednesday reduced the base rates from 10.50 percent to 10.35 percent from Thursday, in response to a reform of obligatory banking reserves which was published by the Bank of France on Tuesday.

The movement was led by the CCF bank, which was followed by the Societe Generale and by Credit Lyonnais.

But the Banque Nationale de Paris (BNP) bank said that it would not reduce its rates within the next few hours.

The move to cut rates, which had been expected, was a response to a decision by the finance ministry to reduce obligatory deposits by the banking system with the Bank of France by 26 billion francs (about 4.5 billion dollars) to 74 billion francs, thus easing charges borne by banks by 2.6 billion francs.

Some analysts had expected rates to fall by one quarter of a point, but the eventual reduction was 0.15 points.

PARIS (OCT. 17) - The Governor of Hong Kong, Sir David Wilson, on Wednesday urged French construction companies "to fight" to participate in projects for the port and new airport in Hong Kong.

Speaking at a meeting of the France-Hong Kong Business Association, he said: "It is up to you to fight to seize these opportunities."

He noted that the airport, with two runways, had to be built as fast as possible because the existing airport was already operating beyond forecast capacity".

The airport would be linked to the centre of Hong Kong by new road and rail bridges, he said.

The project was estimated to cost 16.3 billion dollars, and the financing would extend beyond 1997 when Hong Kong is due to become part of China.

Sir David had earlier met French External Trade Minister Jean-Marie Rausch. Ministry sources said that they discussed the problems of Hong Kong in general terms and that there was no significant point of disagreement.

In 1989 France was the 11th biggest supplier to Hong Kong, and was the fourth supplier in the European Economic Community (EEC) after West Germany, Britain and Italy.

In 1989 France had a trade surplus with Hong Kong of about two billion francs (about 394 million dollars).

TOKYO (OCT. 17) - Japan's ship exports on a contract basis soared 65.2 percent from a year earlier to 115 vessels or 5.78 million gross tons in the six months to September, an industry group said Wednesday.

The contracted exports are expected to drop in the next six month period due to the Gulf crisis and the yen's appreciation, the Japan Ship Exporters' Association said.

The Middle East crisis caused by Iraq's invasion of Kuwait on August 2 cut Japan's contracted ship exports by 36.5 percent in August and by 5.5 percent in September, the association said without specifying the volumes.

ABU DHABI (OCT. 17) - The Gulf emirate of Abu Dhabi will no longer suffer from water shortages when a multi-billion-dollar desalination project comes on stream by the year 2000.

The project at Al-Tawila, 50 kilometers (30 miles) north of Abu Dhabi city, will produce about 110 million gallons of sweet water and 1,000 megawatts of electricity per day and serve nearly half the United Arab Emirates (UAE) population.

"It will meet the needs of the whole popultion of Abu Dhabi of more than 700,000," Abu Dhabi Water and Electricity Department Undersecretary Said Atiq told Agence France-Presse.

The project was launched in 1985 and is to cost around 14 billion dirhams (3.8 billion dollars), making it one of the biggest hydroelectric plants in the Middle East.

It will raise Abu Dhabi's output of desalinated water to 180 million gallons per day, equivalent to the total production of the UAE, which groups Abu Dhabi with six other emirates.

Like other desert Gulf states, the UAE has turned to the sea for potable water and used its immense oil wealth to build scores of desalination plants.

In contrast with their oil wealth, estimated at 500 billion barrels, Gulf Cooperation Council (GCC) states are among the world's poorest in water, prompting Turkey in 1988 to propose an ambitious project to pipe water to them from its Seyhan and Cehyan rivers.

After conducting a two-million-dollar study at its expense, Turkey said the 21-billion-dolalr dual pipeline, which was also to supply Syria and Jordan, was feasible and awaited an Arab answer.

HANOI (OCT. 17) - The Vietnamese government has ordered street vendors, hotels, state stores and restaurants to stop selling foreign-made cigarettes or face trial and fines, the press reported Wednesday.

A ban on sales of smuggled overseas brand cigarettes, aimed at protecting the local industry, came in an August 3 directive that went into effect at the start of this month.

But makes such as Dunhill and 555 are still easy to come by under the counter here.

In a bid to enforce the ban, Prime Minister Do Muoi issued a new directive Monday, the official daily Nhan Dan reported.

The new directive said the government would continue to take steps to end the illegal imports and punish those responsible. Institutions and individuals who stepped forward and handed over their contraband would be exempted from fines or imprisonment, it added.

Those found violating the ban would be fined three times the value of their cigarettes and put on trial.

Civil servants found guilty of indulging in the illicit traffic would be "severely punished" and risked being sacked, Nhan Dan said.

Seized cigarettes would be handed over the trade ministry for reexport, it said, adding that informants would be rewarded with 30 per cent of the fine levied on those convicted of selling or stocking overseas brands.

The sale of foreign-made cigarettes is a big business in Vietnam, with much of the trade coming from Thailand and Singapore across Vietnam's border with Cambodia.

Vienna (OCT. 17) - Worldwide demand for oil from member countries in the Organisation of Petroleum Exporting Countries (Opec) will have increased to 23 million barrels per day (bd) in 1990 from 15.45 million bd in 1985, Opec secretary General Subroto predicted Wednesday.

In an address to an international oil conference in Jakarta, which was released to the press in Vienna, Subroto said if the Gulf crisis could be resolved and ''overhated prices'' would drop to normal levels it could be assumed that, after a period of hesitation, growth in world oil demand would pick up again.

Many Opec members had already raised their production in line with their promise to help offset the shortfall in supplies from Iraq and Kuwait.

If and when the oil supply situation returned to normal, it was expected that Opec's total sustainable production capacity would increase from about 28 million bd in 1990 to 34 and 35 million bd in the years 1995 and 2000 respectively.

Subroto pointed out that the current market situation had highlighted the need for trilateral cooperation among producers, oil companies and consuming countries to prevent steep price increases and damaging price fluctuations.

This could be done by incrasing production where this was possible, restraint on the part of oil companies in boosting stocks and a release of strategic stocks by consuming countries.

Opec found it incomprehensible that those responsible for energy policies in the consumer countries still saw ''no ground for trilateral cooperation,'' Subroto said.

Hong Kong (OCT. 17) - The threefold rise in crude oil prices means that airlines need a ''very big fare increase'', Sir Colin Marshall, chief executive of British Airways, told a press conference here Wednesday.

Sir Colin said that the 7 per cent fare rise secured by airlines since the beginning of the Gulf crisis was far too modest.

He maintained there was ''no justification for aviation fuel to be at the price it is today''. Fuel costs were equivalent to 12 per cent of British Airways revenue.

He predicted that higher prices would somewhat reduce the growth rate of passenger traffic next year but he was confident that there would be an annual 7 per cent growth in passenger traffic over the 1990's as a whole and that growth rates in the Asia-Pacific region would be in two-digit figures. dpa ba 171522 okt 90

MOSCOW (OCT. 17) - Russian leader Boris Yeltsin has proposed forming a coalition Soviet government and lambasted a compromise economic reform package proposed by Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev.

Mr. Yeltsin on Tuesday told the Russian parliament that the Gorbachev plan would "sabotage reforms in Russia", according to the full text of his speech, published on Wednesday by the Russian Communist Party newspaper Sovietskaya Rossia.

The Russian president suggested three possible responses to the economic crisis, including the formation of a new government to which he and Mr. Gorbachev would each appoint half of the ministers.

Mr. Yeltsin returned to form in his spectacular reaction to the Gorbachev plan to lead the country towards a market economy in his first major statement since he was injured in a car accident on September 1.

Just hours after Mr. Gorbachev's plan was distributed to members of the Soviet parliament, Mr. Yeltsin told Russian deputies that it "means catastrophe within the first few months of its application".

He said that what passed for a programme amounted to "an extra effort to maintain the administrative system outside the control of the people", and he strongly attacked the government of Prime Minister Nikolai Ryzhkov.

He also said: "On questions of principle, the president (Mr. Gorbachev) and myself are going in the same direction, but we have a different pace for moving ahead, and different methods."

He said: "We are both open to dialogue ... but apparently this is not to everyone's taste. Our dialogue is not yet stabilised."

Mr. Yeltsin criticised Mr. Gorbachev for "yet again changing his views" although he had said when they met at the end of August "that he would support only the Shatalin programme".

This was a reference to the radical proposal for reform within 500 days which has been adopted by the Russian parliament.

Mr. Yeltsin said that the Gorbachev plan was inspired by the Ryzhkov plan, as were decrees adopted by Mr. Gorbachev since he was endowed with special powers by the Soviet parliament at the end of September.

MANILA (OCT. 17) - Congressional threats to repudiate the Philippines' foreign debt harmed attempts to obtain debt relief and new foreign assistance, two legislators who observed debt negotiations acknowledged Wednesday.

Senator Vicente Paterno and Congressman Gary Teves also said creditors were disappointed with Manila's growing budget deficit and the failure to undertake important economic reforms, particularly the delay in raising oil prices.

The government has been trying to slow growth of the budget deficit, which was 32 billion pesos (1.24 billion dollars) as of mid-September, far above the 21 billion peso (815 million dollar) deficit targetted for the whole of 1990.

"This mood of disappointment lessens the will of many friends of the Philippines to advocate our cause and to generate support for our requests," Mr. Paterno said.

He added that congressional threats to legislate a unilateral moratorium on the country's 27 billion dollar foreign debt "lost sympathy and interest for the Philippines."

President Corazon Aquino has long stood firm on honoring the country's foreign debt obligations but lawmakers, including Mr. Paterno, have repeatedly called for the repudiation of part of the debt.

"We had not expected the intensity and vehemence of the banks' reaction to the debt suspension resolution," Mr. Paterno said.

Mr. Teves called on the government to "continue to pursue maximum debt relief through negotiations," rather than through threats of a unilateral debt suspension.

He also called for the swift forging of an economic reform package by mid-November so that the country could get some 530 million dollars in assistance from the International Monetary Fund, the World Bank and the Japanese Export-Import Bank.

The two lawmakers acted as observers in the country's negotiations with official, multilateral and commercial foreign creditors in the United States last month.

BRUSSELS (OCT. 17) - The European Economic Community (EEC) agreed Wednesday to grant immediate aid of over seven million dollars for Romanian orphans, a European Commission spokesman said here.

The money, totalling 5.7 million European Currency Units (ECU's -- 7.4 million dollars), will be used to heat orphanages before the onset of winter, and to buy food and other supplies.

More than half the money will be spent on heating systems and fuel for the orphanages, particularly those for children aged under three.

The rest will go towards such supplies as milk products, vitamins and medicines for four orphanages caring for 6,000 children -- including 2,000 aged under three and 4,000 who are severely handicapped.

Last week, the European Parliament asked the EEC for emergency aid for Romanian orphans before the start of winter. A European Commission team of experts is currently in Romania to help with the distribution of aid.

The EEC is involved with the Romanian government in a programme to improve orphanages and to set up next year a training centre for para-medical staff.

Romanian orphanages care for between 100,000 and 130,000 children.

PRAGUE (OCT. 17) - Czechoslovak President Vaclav Havel on Wednesday sacked his defense minister, former communist party member General Miroslav Vacek, the news agency CTK reported.

Prime Minister Marian Calfa was assigned by Mr. Havel to run the defense ministry on a provisional basis, according to CTK.

The agency said that Mr. Havel had expressed his gratitude for Gen. Vacek's "loyalty" and emphasized his contribution to the restructuring of the Czecloslovak army.

Informed sources said that the departure of Gen. Vacek, 55, was probably related to the results of an investigation carried out over the past several weeks by a committee named by Mr. Havel.

The committee examined the positions and activities of the Czechoslovak army at the time of the "Velvet Revolution" which overthrew the former communist regime last November.

At the time of the overthrow of the communist government, Gen. Vacek was chief of staff of the Czechoslovak army and a candidate member of the communist party Central Committee.

He resigned from the communist party in February, several weeks after being named defense minister.

A press conference on the results of the committee's investigation is scheduled here for Thursday.

SAO PAULO (OCT 17) - Brazil's state oil company Petrobras is interested in prospecting and developing British oil fields in the North Sea, a British energy official said Wednesday.

Colin Moynihan, who was in Brazil to attend an energy industry forum, said Britain wanted to boost technology exchanges with Brazil, mainly in the area of underwater drilling and production.

Petrobras is already working in the North Sea through its subsidiary Braspetro which is exploring a Norwegian oil site.

Mr. Moynihan, who was meeting with British businessmen working here in Sao Paulo, said Braspetro was well placed to win international bidding for concessions that would increase oil production in the North Sea.

He said the Gulf crisis and oil price hikes have prompted Britain to move to boost its oil production. Britain already invests some 7.8 billion dollars in the oil sector annually, he said.

BERLIN (OCT. 17) - East German firms virtually ceased all investment after German monetary union on July 1 and investment from west German firms remained limited, according to a survey published here Wednesday.

East Berlin's Institute for Applied Economic Research, in a study of 50 East German industrial firms, found that the introduction of the Deutsche mark caused three-quarters of them to suffer a haemorrhage of liquidity that was only halted by scrapping large investment projects.

The outlook for self-financing is likely to remain gloomy in the short term, as few East German firms will make any profits this year or in 1991, according to the survey, released by ADN news agency.

West German firms were also "very restrained" about investing in the German Democratic Republic before unification, which took place on October 3. Only 10 per cent of the East German companies questioned said they had found a western partner to provide fresh capital, the survey said.

Western investment chiefly centered on a handful of sectors likely to yield rapid profits, it found.

Heavy industries that used to benefit from large subsidies under the Communist regime, such as materials processing, machine tools and truck building, were largely ignored.

WASHINGTON (OCT 17) - U.S. Secretary of States James Baker Wednesday said Iraq was politically, economically and militarly isolated, and he ruled out any concessions to Iraqi President Saddam Hussein over occupied Kuwait.

Baker told the senate's foreign policy committee that the unity of the international community in imposing U.N.-ordered Security Council sanctions against Iraq was the ''best hope'' for a peaceful solution to the Gulf crisis. These sanctions were biting, he added.

''The political and economic isolation of Iraq has been achieved, the costs and responsibilities for enforcing this isolation are beingfairly distributed, economic leakage is minimal. The Iraqi economy will suffer badly, and the Iraqi war machine will be hurt.''

He said 54 countries were either directly involved in opposing Iraq in a military and economic way or had vowed to join hands in doing so.

''He (Saddam) lacks not only the political and economic option of holding

Kuwait but also the military option to succeed,'' Baker added. ''Every hope for peace in this conflict-ridden region depends on stopping Iraq's aggression and ultimately reversing his capacity for future agression.''

In Moscow, U.S. Defence Secretary Dick Cheney and Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev discussed the Gulf crisis, Radio Moscow reported without giving details.

Cheney's four-day visit, which began Tuesday, comes against a backdrop of mounting tension in the Gulf and an Iraqi warning to Moscow not to disclose any military information about the country.

Iraq threatened last Friday to stop Soviet military advisers leaving for home if Moscow gave Cheney any information on Iraq's military facilities.

JOHANNESBURG (OCT. 17) - The 12 mines in Gengold, the gold division of the General Mining Union Corporation (Gencor), posted a 9.5 percent hike in taxed profits for the third quarter here Wednesday.

Taxed profit came in at 117.9 million rands (46.4 million dollars) compared to 107.7 million rands (42.4 million dollars) in the June quarter.

But profits were hit by a 51.6 percent rise in capital expenditure from 39.9 million rands (15.7 million dollars) in the second quarter to 60.5 million rands (23.8 million dollars).

Profits after tax and capex were down 15.4 percent from 67.8 million rands (26.6 million dollars) to 57.4 million rands (22.5 million dollars).

A 15-16 percent annual wage hike, which is 1.4 to 2.4 percent above the current year-on-year inflation rate, and 11.8 million rands (4.6 million dollars) in redundancy pay-outs, pushed working costs up 4.7 percent, from 509.5 million rands (200.5 million dollars) in the June quarter to 533.3 million rands (210 million dollars).

Tonnage milled dropped from 3.9 million tons to 3.8 million tons, and average yield dropped from 5.3 grams of gold per ton of rock milled to 5.2 gt.

Gold production was down 2.7 percent, from 20,449 kilograms in the June quarter to 19,891 kg.

The star performer was the Unisel mine between Virginia and Welkom in the Orange Free State (OFS), which posted a 27.1 percent increase in taxed profit from 8.93 million rands (3.51 million dollars) to 11.36 million rands (4.47 million dollars).

Buffelsfontein mine near Klerksdorp, some 170 kilometres (102 miles) southwest of here, lost its position as the group's biggest producer, its 3,206 kg output down 10.8 percent on the June quarter, on the back of a 4.5 percent drop in tonnage milled and a decline in yield from 6.0 gt to 5.6 gt.

The OFS mine of Beatrix, between Virginia and Theunissen, took over top slot, producing 3,225 kg of gold, in itself a drop of 1.4 percent on the June quarter.

PERTH, Australia (OCT. 17) - Western Australia's only metropolitan daily newspaper, The West Australian, is on the market, its owner Bell Group said Wednesday.

Bell Group, a subsidiary of the financially troubled Bond Corporation Holdings Ltd., told the Australian Stock Exchange it wished to sell a controlling interest in the paper, which is firmly established and profitable.

It would approach prospective buyers, including British media magnate Robert Maxwell, Bell Group said in a statement.

Mr. Maxwell already has a minority holding in the paper and earlier this year offered 250 million dollars (196 million U.S.) for the newspaper.

Australian Treasurer Paul Keating and the Australian Journalists' Association both rebuffed the offer.

Analysts here said Wednesday that the newspaper was worth about 200 million dollars (157 million U.S.) in the current depressed economic climate.

The West Australian is Perth's only daily newspaper since the closure six weeks ago of the Daily News, an evening paper.

NEW YORK, United Nations (OCT 17) - The five permanent members of the U.N. Security Council were discussing Wednesday a new U.S.-sponsored resolution concerning the resupply of food and water to foreign embassies in occupied Kuwait, diplomatic sources said.

The sources said the full Security Council could adopt the resolution by the end of the week. The Big Five -- Britain, China, France, the Soviet Union and the United States -- have been discussing the matter since Tuesday, they said.

Their meetings also took up a draft resolution proposed by Britain demanding compensation from Iraq once its troops withdraw from Kuwait, which Baghdad invaded August 2, the diplomats said.

The British draft resolution is only in its initial stages, they added.

A chief aim of the resolutions is to refocus international attention on the Gulf crisis following the uproar over the killing of 21 Palestinians by Israeli police while suppressing demonstrations on East Jerusalem's Temple Mount.

U.N. Secretary General Javier Perez de Cuellar Wednesday reaffirmed his support for "a peaceful solution (of the Gulf crisis) provided it is a just solution, in a framework of the Security Council resolutions which said that the Iraqis should withdraw from Kuwait without conditions."

Meanwhile, Iraq formally refused to allow a cargo plane loaded with medicine to fly to Kuwait as had been requested by Kuwait's U.N. Ambassador Mohammad Abulhasan, U.N. spokesman Francois Giuliani said Wednesday.

The Iraqi response was delivered to Mr. Perez de Cuellar, who relayed it to Mr. Abulhasan, Mr. Giuliani said.

Kuwait, which offered to pay the cost of the shipment, had suggested that the medicine be flown in by the International Committee of the Red Cross. Medicine is exempted from an international embargo against Iraq.

LONDON (OCT 17) - Three Britons have managed to escape from Iraq into Saudi Arabia, crossing the border "in the last 24 hours", the Foreign Office said Wednesday.

The three did not possess exit visas.

Two of the men who worked for a hospital in Baghdad run by a subsidiary of the Irish airline Aer Lingus were criticised by the company for their action, which it described as "very dangerous and irresponsible".

It was carried out "against the strong advice of both the British and the Irish ambassadors in Iraq", a company spokesman said.

Iraq has granted "special status" to some 200 Irish and 43 British nationals working at the Parc hospital, and the company hoped the incident would not put that in jeopardy.

WASHINGTON (OCT 17) - The United States and Vietnam have agreed to step up cooperation to resolve the fate of the nearly 2,300 Americans still missing as a result of the Vietnam War, General John Vessey said here Wednesday following talks with Vietnamese Foreign Minister Nguyen Co Thach.

"Mr. Thach and I have had a successful meeting ... He has agreed to all the proposals I have made and I have agreed to the proposals he has made," Gen. Vessey, who is President George Bush's special emissary on POW (Prisoners of War)MIA (Missing in Action) matters, told a press conference.

Gen. Vessey said the agreement centered on "specific technical proposals for joint investigation, information-seeking and return of remains."

During the meeting, which lasted nearly two hours and was followed by a luncheon, the two sides agreed to form a team to examine particular issues and a technical meeting would be held, perhaps in the next two weeks, Gen. Vessey said.

He added that a joint information-seeking team would then gather in Vietnam at the end of November.

Also attending the two-hour meeting were Vietnam's U.N. Ambassador Trinh Xuan Lang, his deputy Nguyen Can as well as Ann Griffiths, executive director of the National League of Families (NLF) of American Prisoners and Missing in Southeast Asia, Deputy Assistant Secretary of State Kenneth Quin and Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense Carl Ford.

On NLF reports that live U.S. prisoners were still being held in Vietnam, Mr. Thach, who is also a vice-premier, said: "I would like to say that there are not any living Americans under our control."

But he also pointed to recent reports that a former Japanese soldier had emerged from the Southeast Asian jungle 45 years after the end of World War II, suggesting that Americans could be hiding in Vietnam without Hanoi's knowledge.

He also said that Laos, Vietnam and the United States had agreed to cooperate on the POWMIA issue. There are 1,677 MIA's in Vietnam, 530 in Laos and 83 in Cambodia.

U.S. officials noted that Americans captured in Cambodia and Laos during the Indochina war were lost in areas then under Vietnamese control.

U.S. officials pointed out that it was the first time a cabinet-level Vietnamese official visited Washington for talks with U.S. Government representatives.

TUNIS (OCT 17) - Representatives of the Arab League met here Wednesday to deliberate on bloodshed in Jerusalem.

Because of a deep rift over the Gulf crisis, only eight of the league's 21 members were represented.

On hand were delegates from Algeria, Iraq, Jordan, Qatar, Mauritania, Sudan and Tunisia as well as the Palestinian Liberation Organisation (Plo), all of them pro-Iraq.

Anti-Iraq governments such as Egypt, Syria and Saudi Arabia were not represented at the urgent session called by the Plo in a bid to link the Palestinian issue with the Gulf crisis.

WASHINGTON (OCT 17) - Secretary of State James Baker Wednesday said a continuing arms embargo of Iraq -- even if it pulls its troops out of Kuwait -- should be considered to assure the region's security.

He told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that the United States was seeking a peaceful solution to the Gulf crisis.

But if armed conflict proves inevitable, Mr. Baker said, legislators would be fully briefed by their leaders. He refused to say how extensive, or at what level, consultations would be between the White House and Congress.

A group of senators recommended establishing a group of legislators to consult with the White House but Mr. Baker said he had "a little bit of reservations about a formal mechanism."

Mr. Baker said even after the trade embargo is lifted against Iraq, an arms embargo should remain in place to deter future aggression.

"Some sort of continuing arms embargo -- going even to the conventional (weapons) -- would be something... that should be considered and thought through as a condition of releasing the sanctions," said Mr. Baker.

Mr. Baker made his comments in response to a question about what should be the U.S. response if Iraq pulls its troops out of Iraq. An arms embargo would still leave Baghdad with nuclear and chemcial weapons.

If Iraq withdraws from Kuwait, Mr. Baker recommended that lifting the trade sanctions against Baghdad be conditioned on Iraq reducing or destroying its stockpile of weapons.

Asked about U.S. actions in the crisis, Mr. Baker said, "The only truly effective action we can take now is to continue to heighten Iraq's political, economic, and military isolation."

Mr. Baker said that breaches of the United Nation's imposed military and trade embargo of Iraq and Iraqi-occupied Kuwait have been minimal.

He rejected accepting a reported compromise in which Iraqi President Saddam Hussein would give up Kuwait if he were allowed to keep crude oil fields near the Iraqi border, asw well as two strategic Kuwaiti islands in the Gulf.

WASHINGTON (OCT 15) - The United States and the Soviet Union have been sharing intelligence on terrorism and in some cases have succeeded in foiling terrorist attacks, the director of the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) said Wednesday.

CIA Director William Webster told a U.S. news agency in an interview that the Soviets had been more careful about sharing information on Iraq because of concerns for the 5,000 Soviet citizens still there.

"Anything that they say that suggests they provide intelligence to us may diminish their chances" of negotiating the departure of those citizens, he was quoted as saying.

But he said the Soviet Union was "on our team" in its policy regarding Iraq and that the common stance had "opened up the opportunity to deal more frankly on terrorism" in the future, according to the report.

Without exposing its intelligence sources, Mr. Webster said, the United States had passed on warnings of terrorist threats to Soviet officials or diplomats.

In several cases, he said, "it was pivotal to their preventive action."

Mr. Webster said the Soviets also had relayed to the United States information about threats to its people. He did not elaborate.

On Iraq, the CIA director was reported to have said that Iraqi President Saddam Hussein had isolated himself from his advisers and was forming his impression of events from news reports.

Any effort to overthrow Mr. Hussein would have to come from the top echelons of the military because the Iraqi president enjoys support among poor Iraqis and middle and lower level military ranks, Mr. Webster said.

On other issues, he said the United States had "pursued some important leads" arising from the files of the disbanded East German secret police, the STASI, and that the Soviets "must be wondering" how many of its spies have been compromised.

He also said Cuban President Fidel Castro does not appear in imminent danger but "he's got more pain on his hands and he's at greater risk" as a result of Moscow's cut in support for the Cuban regime.

ENTEBBE, Uganda (OCT 17) - Rwandan President Juvenal Habyarimana agreed on Wednesday to open peace talks with rebels fighting his government's forces, provided they accept a cease-fire, Ugandan President Yoweri Museveni said after talks with the Rwandan leader.

Mr. Museveni, addressing a press conference after the talks in the western Tanzanian town of Mwanza, said Lt.-Col. Habyarimana had also agreed in principle to allow Rwandan refugees, from whose ranks the rebels are drawn, to return home.

Rwandan refugees based in Uganda invaded Rwanda more than two weeks ago, saying they had been forced into exile and shut out of their homeland for three decades.

Mr. Museveni said the Rwandan government had agreed to "open talks with opposition figures including Fred Rwigyema."

Mr. Rwigyema, who is a former deputy commander of the Ugandan armed forces, is the leader of the rebel force now inside Rwanda.

Mr. Museveni said the ceasefire demand was the Rwandan government's only precondition to peace talks.

Many of the rebels are deserters from the Ugandan army, who took arms and ammunition with them when they invaded north-west Rwanda from neighbouring Uganda.

They are mostly members of the minority Tutsi tribe. Their parents fled Rwanda 30 years ago amid tribal massacres of the Tutsis by the majority Hutus.

The Hutus at that time ousted the Tutsis, Rwanda's traditional ruling class, from positions of power.

Earlier Wednesday Mr. Museveni had held talks in the Ugandan capital Kampala with Belgian Prime Minister Wlfried Martens.

Mr. Martens, whose country is Rwanda's former colonial ruler, is in east Africa for talks on trying to end the bloodshed there.

NEW YORK, United Nations (OCT 17) - The political impasse in the Cambodian peace process means the country's U.N. seat becomes vacant Thursday, the deadline for accrediting delegations.

The vacancy, which does not mean Cambodia is excluded from the world body, stems from an agreement reached by the tripartite resistance and the Vietnamese-backed government of Phnom Penh to form a Supreme National Council (SNC) as a provisional government.

The accord was reached last month in Jakarta as part of a U.N.-sponsored peace framework for Cambodia.

According to the accord, the SNC was to have served as repository for Cambodia's sovereignty, and would designate representatives to international bodies.

However, the SNC must delegate to the United Nations the administration of the country and the organizing of elections during a transition period, beginning with the declaration of a cease-fire and ending with the proclamation of the election results.

Cambodia's seat here has been held since 1982 by the resistance, formally called the Coalition Government of Democratic Kampuchea. The resistance is formed by two non-communist factions -- one led by former monarch Prince Norodom Sihanouk, the other by former prime minister Son Sann -- and the Chinese-backed communist Khmer Rouge, militarily the strongest of the three factions.

Before the current General Assembly session began September 18, a decision was taken to leave the Cambodian seat vacant until the SNC designated its own representatives.

But the council has been unable to agree on a leadership and thus has named no U.N. delegation.

The Khmer Rouge and the Son Sann faction say they will accept Prince Sihanouk as chairman but refuse to let Cambodian Premier Hun Sen take the vice-chairman's post.

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (OCT 18) - An unknown scourge has cut the population of the yellow-eyed penguin, already the world's rarest penguin, by half this year according to a New Zealand scientist.

Otago Museum scientist John Darby, a world authority on the bird known to science as megadyptes antipodes, said late Wednesday that the alarming drop in numbers had been revealed by a new census.

The penguins, which average 76 centimetres (30 inches) in height, breed on parts of the New Zealand South Island coast and on sub-Antartic islands to the south.

In 1986, when only 650 pairs of adult birds returned to breed on the South Island, the yellow-eyed penguin was classified as endangered by the Conservation Department in line with internationally recognised codes.

Last year fewer than 320 breeding pairs survived and a mysterious condition in the food supply, thought to be related to the El Nino weather pattern, was blamed for the deaths of hundreds of penguins.

Mr. Darby said the population had plummeted by at least 50 per cent, with only 140 to 170 pairs of adult penguins breeding on the South Island this season.

The cause of the dramatic drop was unknown, but the birds have been hit in the past by food shortages, disease and -- on the South Island -- attacks from animals.

In an effort to save the bird, conservationists launched a fund Wednesday called the Yellow Eyed Penguin Trust.

"New Zealanders have shown the world how to save rare and endangered species," said Alan McConnon, managing director of the dairy firm Mainland Products Ltd., which pledged support.

"Without immediate and substantial community support over the next two or three years it will be too late. The yellow-eyed penguin will disappear from the mainland of New Zealand forever."

The trust will be used for a national education programme and to restore safe breeding grounds by purchasing land and fencing materials to protect penguins from predators such as ferrets, stoats and cats.

PARIS (OCT. 17) - The Japanese group Sumitomo Rubber Industries is to set up a Netherlands-based holding company to bring together its European activities at the end of the year, the company said Wednesday in a statement released here.

Sumitomo, which in 1985 bought the British-based tyre company Dunlop, said the new unit, Sumitomo Rubber Europe B.V, would have a fully paid-up capital of 11.1 billion yen (88 million dollars).

Total sales are expected to be 150 billion yen (1.2 billion dollars) per year.

The statement said that the group's main European tyre operations -- SP Tyres in Britain, SP Reifenwerke in Germany and Dunlop-France here -- would retain decision-making powers in their own local markets, as would the group's 11 European distribution companies.

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (OCT. 17) - Islanders on a remote Pacific atoll on Wednesday celebrated a record cash bonanza from their pearl harvest, Radio New Zealand (RNZ) reported here Wednesday.

Some 1,000 people on Manihiki, one of the Pacific's most beautiful atolls and part of the Cook Islands group 3,000 kilometres (1,860 miles) northeast of here, scored their biggest return ever from commercial pearl farming, RNZ said.

TOKYO (OCT. 17) - The Soviet Union has proposed a new payments method that is close to a prepayment system for imports of Japanese steel products in negotiations with Japanese traders and steelmakers, industry sources said Wednesday.

Under the proposed system, the Soviet Union is to deposit money in an account with a Japanese bank before the delivery of the Japanese steel products, mainly steel tubing to be used in developing the country's oil and gas reserves, they said.

They said such a payment system had previously been used only in small-scale trade contracts with local Japanese companies with low credit-ratings.

The new Soviet proposal is apparently aimed at securing a supply of steel urgently needed for energy developments as the Soviet Union was 500 million dollars behind in its payments to Japanese trading firms at one point this year, the sources said.

TOKYO (OCT. 17) - A senior Bank of Japan official on Wednesday cautioned against the dollar's rapid fall against the yen and urged policy coordination among major industrial nations to prevent the U.S. currency going into a tailspin.

The official, who asked to remain anonymous - only the bank's governor can be quoted by name - spoke after the dollar fell to a 20-month low against the yen briefly in morning trading here Wednesday.

"It is troublesome for Japan to leave its currency excessively high to cushion inflationary pressures from higher oil prices when the U.S. is grappling with the Gulf crisis and an economic slowdown," he said.

"We must take into consideration policy coordination pledged by finance ministers and central bank governors of the Group of Seven nations," the source said.

The Group of Seven (G-7) comprises Britain, Canada, France, Germany, Italy, the United States and Japan.

JAKARTA (OCT. 17) - The International Energy Agency (IEA), the oil watchdog of Western industrialised countries, on Wednesday rejected OPEC appeals for intervention to help stabilise world petroleum markets.

IEA countries were ready to act, however, if the current oil problem deteriorated, IEA Executive Director Helga Steeg said.

"The current world crude oil markets are still adequately supplied and no product shortfalls have been experienced by IEA member countries to date," Mrs. Steeg said in a speech read for her to an energy seminar here.

Oil markets were "very nervous" and the situation "manageable but not comfortable," she said.

The Organisation of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) has appealed to the Paris-based IEA to release its huge strategic reserves to ease market pressures.

Oil prices passed the 40 dollar-a-barrel barrier last week, rising from less than 20 dollars before the August 2 Iraqi invasion of Kuwait.

On Tuesday, OPEC ministers from Algeria, Nigeria, Venezuela and Indonesia criticised the IEA's failure to act and called for a dialogue with the IEA for cooperation in managing the oil markets.

The ministers, who were attending the seminar here, said the agency should release its strategic stocks so that prices would be brought under control before winter in the Northern Hemisphere brings increased demand.

The IEA, which comprises 21 of the 24 members of the Organisation for Economic Cooperation and Development, holds more than one billion barrels in emergency stocks. The amount is in addition to stocks held by private oil companies in IEA member countries currently put at 67 days of consumption.

Mrs. Steeg said that following a meeting of the IEA governing board late last month, the member countries "have, so to say, their finger on the button and are ready to undertake stock draw andor demand restraint measures immediately if additional shortfalls develop."

TOKYO (OCT. 17) - Motor vehicle exports by Toyota Motor Corp. and Nissan

Motor Co. Ltd. declined in the six months to September but domestic sales by Japan's two biggest carmakers boomed, according to figures released Wednesday.

Toyota also said that its overall production rose in the same period, both at home and abroad, while Nissan said its total output was unchanged with a modest increase in local production offset by a sharper decline overseas.

Exports by Toyota fell 6.1 percent from a year earlier to 836,170 vehicles in the first half while domestic registrations climbed 6.3 percent to a record 1.19 million units, a company spokesman said.

Production in Japan rose eight per cent to 2.09 million vehicles while output abroad soared 42 percent to 344,972 units.

Nissan said its exports fell 10.4 percent from a year earlier to 462,944 vehicles in the six months while domestic sales expanded three per cent to a record 684,058 million units.

Domestic output climbed 1.1 percent to 1.19 million units while overseas production fell 3.8 percent to 308,657 vehicles.

In September alone, exports by both companies also rose. But Toyota suffered its first decline in domestic sales in 18 months while Nissan posted its fifth consecutive increase. Toyota's overall production rose, however, while Nissan's output declined both in Japan and in overseas markets.

Toyota's exports fell 4.9 percent from a year earlier to 134,001 vehicles while domestic sales decreased 1.6 percent to 192,823 million units. Domestic output rose 1.5 percent to 334,373 vehicles while production overseas leapt 18.4 percent to 52,909 units.

Nissan's exports plunged 12.2 percent to 88,254 in September while domestic sales climbed 1.3 percent to 127,225 units. Production in Japan fell 2.1 percent to 203,025 while overseas output sank two per cent to 52,960 units.

TOKYO (OCT. 17) - Japan's Nippon Telegraph and Telephone (NTT), France's public sector company France-Telecom and U.S. firm Southwestern Belle Corp. may form a consortium to bid for a slice of Telefonos de Mexico SA (Telemex), the Nihon Keizai Shimbun said Wednesday.

The consortium would bid 800 million dollars for some of the shares on offer for Telemex which is to be partially privatised, the economic daily said quoting sources in the United States.

"We do have an interest in this proposal, however, we haven't decided yet to participate in the bid," an NTT spokesman said Wednesday without giving further details, although he conceded the size of the operation would require "the cooperation of several firms in some sort of consortium."

An NTT official is currently in Mexico and is due to take part Thursday and Friday in a meeting organised by the Mexican government to explain the terms of the privatisation.

Bidding for the 20.4 percent of Telemex on offer is due on November 15, although foreign firms will only be able to bid for less than half that amount, NTT said.

The newspaper said other NTT officials were also in Mexico finalising agreements with the French and U.S. firms and with other interested companies.

For NTT this initiative would the first step in internationalisation, previously blocked by the government, and could lead to markets in South America and Eastern Europe, the newspaper said.

BEIJING (OCT. 17) - China's southern province of Guangdong has announced a five-year export development programme involving investments of 6.4 billion dollars, China Daily said Wednesday.

The plan also involves setting up two special zones for foreign companies and the development of a stock market, the English-language paper said.

Priority will be given to energy, communications and raw materials, three sectors which have slowed growth in the province which is tied to outside markets, exporting one fifth of its productio, mostly to Hong Kong, Macau, Japan, Taiwan and South Korea.

The programme will largely be financed by the province, with limited support from the government.

China's southern coastal provinces, like Guangdong, have seen major growth over the past decade due to Beijing's policy of opening up the country which has allowed them to offer favourable investment packages to foreign firms. They also benefit from a more relaxed control by the central government.

Guangdong's industrial growth last year was 15.9 per cent, twice the national average.

The province is currently hosting a bi-annual trade fair in its capital Guangzhou which has attracted some 5,000 foreign businessmen.

TOKYO (OCT. 17) - Japanese audio manufacturer and record firm Nippon Columbia Co. Ltd. has bought 53 percent of its British sales agent Hayden Laboratories Ltd. for an undisclosed sum, a company spokesman said Wednesday.

Nippon Columbia, which markets audio equipment under the Denon brand name, already has subsidiaries in Germany and France.

JAKARTA (OCT. 17) - President Suharto Wednesday called on Indonesians to try to shed their dependence on rice as the staple diet, so the nation could continue to meet its own food needs.

"Our dependency on a single staple food should be gradually decreased...By reducing our dependency on one or two staple foods, our food need could be met more easily, " Mr. Suharto said in a speech to commemorate World Food Day.

He urged this country of 185 million people, fifth largest in the world, to turn efforts to diversify food consumption into a long term national campaign.

Indonesia, the world's largest rice importer in the 1970s, turned self sufficient in 1984 after successive bumper harvests and rigorous policies to promote agriculture.

However output leveled off in the past few years, mainly due to land shortage. Population growth meanwhile is rapidly exceeding rice production growth.

Officials have said that total rice output was projected to fall by 0.52 percent from last year's 29.38 million tonnes to 28.9 million and tot planted with rice nationwide had shrunk this year by 2.18 percent to 229,863 hectares (568,000 acres).

Although both Mr. Suharto and Mr. Baharsyah did not name any alternative to rice in their speech, officials have in the past pointed to wheat-based food, sago, soya beans, corn (maize) and cassava as potential new components of the national diet.

BUCHAREST (OCT. 17) - Bucharest Wednesday announced a 40 percent devaluation of the Romanian leu in a bid to stabilise prices and reduce the country's foreign trade deficit.

The devaluation will take effect on November 1. Under the move, the currency will be devalued to 35 lei to the dollar from 21 lei to the dollar at present, the news agency Rompres said.

On the black market here, the U.S. currency is currently traded at a rate of up to 100 lei to the dollar.

The agency quoted National Economics Minister Eugen Dijmarescu as saying the devaluation was a step toward making the leu convertible. The government planned to achieve partial convertibility as early as January 1, 1991, Dijmarescu said.

Simultaneously, subsidies for some consumer goods will be abolished and price controls will be relaxed.

TAIPEI (OCT. 17) - Taiwan's parliament handed the government a victory Wednesday when it voted to overturn legislation increasing pensions to employees of state-run firms.

The government-sponsored motion, seen as a test of confidence in the cabinet of Premier Hau Pei-tsun, passed by a vote of 168-25, overturning labor law revisions passed in July.

The ruling Kuomintang (KMT) had stalled promulgation of the legislation, which increased by an average 50 per cent the pensions of some 92,000 employees of state-run firms. Officials have said the increase would be too costly.

It was the first time the cabinet has asked parliament to reconsider a law since 1949, when KMT forces fled to Taiwan from mainland China after losing a civil war to the communists.

The vote in the KMT-dominated legislature was conducted through a secret ballot instead of by acclamation, the usual practice, apparently to protect legislators from a boycott by voters in the 1992 elections.

San Sebastian (OCT. 17) EFE - Police bomb disposal experts early Wednesday defused a car bomb which had been parked outside a car showroom in northern Spain by suspected Basque separatists, government officials said.

A provincial government spokesman said the car, packed with 50 kg of explosives and 100 kg of shrapnel, had been parked outside a Peugeot car dealership in the Basque coastal city of San Sebastian, 390 km north of Madrid.

The car had been stolen late Monday in the city by assailants who identified themselves as members of the armed Basque separatist group ETA and tied up the vehicle's owner.

Around 2 a.m. (0100 GMT) the local traffic authority office received a telephone call from someone claiming to represent ETA warning of the car bomb.

Bomb disposal experts were rushed to the area where they located the device 20 minutes later.

The government spokesman said the bomb was defused around 9 a.m.

He said it was possible that ETA had decided to warn of the device after it failed to go off when intended.

ETA has killed more than 600 people since it took up arms 22 years ago to fight for the right to independence for the troubled Basque region.

BUENOS AIRES (OCT 17) EFE - Three bombs exploded in the Argentine capital early Wednesday morning, causing extensive damage but no injuries, police said.

The first bomb went off at a branch of the U.S.-based Citibank at 1:15 a.m. (0430 GMT), shattering windows and damaging the computer system. The branch is located in the Almagro district of Buenos Aires.

Fifteen minutes later a bomb destroyed the door of an office of the conservative Democratic Center Union, the third-biggest political party in the country.

The blast also broke windows and damaged facades of two buildings near the party office, located some 800 meters from the presidential palace.

A third bomb, hidden inside a cardboard box, exploded in a garbage truck after rubbish collectors picked the box up outside a state social security office.

The rubbish collectors were taken to hospital, but officials later said they had not been injured.

ROME (OCT. 17) EFE - Italian deputy Ilona Staller, alias "Cicciolina", has offered herself to Iraqi President Saddam Hussein as a hostage and wants to visit him in Baghdad for some "love talk", according to a letter she handed over to the Iraqi embassy in Rome Wednesday.

The Radical Party deputy and porno actress said the embassy officials told her she would "in all probability" be given a visa to visit Baghdad.

But she did not say whether Iraq would take up her hostage offer.

Staller said that in her letter she reminded Saddam that the foreigners trapped in Iraq since it invaded Kuwait August 2 "are hostages forced against their will to act as barriers against a military attack" from the U.S.-led multinational force in Saudi Arabia.

The controversial deputy also criticized arms dealers "who have found in you, Saddam Hussein, a perfect patron".

"In the name of love I ask that you let me travel to Baghdad to become a hostage and a shield against the death merchants," Staller wrote.

She closed her letter to Saddam by asking the president to "renounce Kuwait and amaze all those who want to water the desert sand with blood".

MANAGUA (OCT. 17) - Some 10,000 Nicaraguan bank workers went on strike Wednesday to protest government plans to cut back the state sector and push through huge redundancy programs, union officals said.

Most banks were effectively shut down by the strike action, although the Central Bank was open until noon.

The one-day strike action came as the government prepared to renew talks with business and trade union leaders aimed at forging a social pact for economic recovery.

Leading left-wing unions allied to the opposition Sandinista party have refused to take part in the talks and have condemned the government's plans to reduce the size of the state sector and introduce free market reforms.

Bank workers warned they may call a fresh strike for next Monday.

President Violeta Chamorro took office April 25 after beating the Sandinistas in February elections.

Since taking power, Chamorro's government has been hit by two Sandinista-backed general strikes which caused serious economic losses and brought violent clashes in which six people were killed.

BRASILIA (OCT 17) EFE - A leading newspaper Wednesday quoted Brazilian Economy Minister Zelia Cardoso de Mello as saying that international banks were waging a campaign against her.

"Zelia Says That Creditors Want Her Out" was the front page banner headline of the Folha de Sao Paulo.

The widely-read Sao Paulo daily ran an exclusive interview with the minister whose alleged romance with former justice minister Bernardo Cabral has scandalized the Brazilian political scene.

Cabral, a married man of 58, resigned from his government post October four days ago after newspapers printed details of his affair with Cardoso, 37, who is single.

Cardoso told Folha de Sao Paulo that recent attacks against her coincided with Brazil's presentation of new proposals to resume interest payments on its massive foreign debt which were suspended in June 1989.

The proposals were given a cool reception in New York last week at a meeting of a Brazilian delegation, which did not include Cardoso, and a committee of 22 of Brazil's bank creditors, according to press reports.

CHICAGO (OCT. 17) UPI - The grain market shook off its early weakness and closed higher on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Corn and soybean futures rallied on short-covering and concern over a weather system moving across the Upper Midwest. Forecasters called for strong winds and heavy rain in some areas which could damage corn and soybeans that are still in the field.

One analyst said the market was overdue for a technical rally, but also said gains could be limited until there is positive action in Washington regarding credit guarantees to the Soviet Union.

Short-covering supported wheat futures, along with news that China was in the market for 300,000 tons of export bonus wheat. There also were indications the market may have been oversold.

Commercials were on both sides of the wheat market.

Country movement generally was light.

Soybean basis levels were higher at the Gulf, while the corn basis was steady to firm.

At the close, corn was up 1 3/4 to 2 1/4, soybeans unchanged to up 4 1/4, wheat up 1 3/4 to 3 1/4 and oats up 4 1/4 to 4 1/2.

NEW DELHI (OCT. 17) XINHUA - INDIA IS WITNESSING AN UNPRECEDENTED BOOM IN CABLE TELEVISION NETWORKS, WITH THEIR NUMBERS ALMOST DOUBLING OVER THE PAST ONE YEAR, ACCORDING TO A STUDY PUBLISHED HERE TODAY.

THE STUDY, CONDUCTED BY THE OPERATIONAL RESEARCH GROUP (ORG), SAID THE SUDDEN INCREASE IS DUE TO A STEEP RISE IN THE COST OF VIDEO CASSETTE RECORDER UNITS AND THE GROWING INTEREST OF ADVERTISERS IN THESE NETWORKS.

TILL 1985, ONLY 100 CABLE NETWORKS EXISTED IN INDIA. A GRADUAL INCREASE REGISTERED IN THE FOLLOWING YEARS HAS GIVEN WAY TO A SUDDEN SPURT DURING THE PAST YEAR. THE ORG STUDY ESTIMATES AT LEAST 3,450 NETWORKS ARE FUNCTIONING IN THE COUNTRY AT PRESENT, AS AGAINST 1,900 IN 1989.

THE STUDY CONDUCTED ON BEHALF OF DOORDARSHAN (INDIAN TV) SAYS AN AVERAGE CABLE TELEVISION NETWORK IN HOTELS SHOWS PROGRAMS FOR 20 HOURS THROUGH MULTI-CHANNELS, THOSE OPERATING IN RESIDENTIAL AREAS SHOW PROGRAMS FOR LITTLE OVER FOUR HOURS.

OF THE 3,450 NETWORKS, 590 ARE IN HOTELS, WHILE 2,860 FUNCTION IN RESIDENTIAL AREAS.

FALLS CHURCH, VA (OCT. 17) MCS -- A SAMPLING OF TODAY'S COMMENTARY COMPILED BY MARKET CONSENSUS SURVEYS, INC. IN TWO SECTIONS (1) STOCKS (2) MONEY & ECONOMY.

IN THE NEWS:

The COMMERCE DEPARTMENT reports that housing starts for September fell 0.6%. Analysts were expecting a much larger 2.5% decline from August's rate.

The Nikkei gains 253 points. ... Stocks are lower in London where the FTSE is off 15 points in the early afternoon. ... The dollar continues to fall. ... The yield on the long bond is at 8.87%. ... Brent North Sea crude is up 10 cents to $36.90. ... The HOUSE passes a deficit-reducing budget package that PRESIDENT BUSH vows to veto because it increases income taxes. The SENATE takes up its own plan today. Bush likes it better. ... CITICORP says third-quarter net income tumbled 38% from a year earlier because of problem loans. ... GENERAL ELECTRIC reports third-quarter net up 9%. ... SIR JAMES GOLDSMITH has agreed to swap control of CAVEHAM FOREST INDUSTRIES for HANSON PLC's 49% stake in NEWMONT MINING.

WHAT'S AHEAD:

The FEDERAL RESERVE is scheduled to release September industrial production and capacity utilization figures at 9:15 a.m. EDT. Analysts estimate that industrial production will have declined 0.2% and capacity production will be down 0.3%. ... The House Banking Committee is scheduled today to hold hearings on the RESOLUTION TRUST CORP.

FROM THE BULLS:

STEPHEN LEEB, editor of "Indicator Digest" and "Personal Finance," insists that his bullish position is "not out of whack" because the market is only about three percent below where it was in mid-August. "I would still maintain -- in fact the statistics prove it -- that the market today is really no lower than it was a couple of months ago. It just seems as if it is lower. We've had this relentless barrage of nothing but bad news. But if you step back, you find most stocks are well above their lows of two months ago. ... When this market starts going up, it's not just going to go up 50 or 60 points. You are looking at a rally ... that is going to carry us back to at least 2700 and maybe further." He won't predict the bottom, however, "because panic is very tough to quantify." (CNBC's "Market Wrap-Up", 10/16)

OPPENHEIMER's MICHAEL METZ, a market strategist, believes the bear market might soon be over. He says investors would be wrong to watch for a cathartic final plunge in share prices that would give a clear signal that the end has arrived. Not enough stock is owned on margin to lead to a massive sell-off, Mr. Metz says, while mutual fund and institutional holdings have already been parred down. He expects the market to quietly develop a trading range with the bottom near current levels. (WSJ, 10/17)

FROM THE BEARS:

"The backdrop is negative and the knee-jerk reaction is to short this market," says TIM SCALA of SEQUOR GROUP. He says the market is being hurt by the confusion in government and that it may take Gramm- Rudman-Hollings sequestration to give the market any confidence. "What we really do need is a cut on the spending side and that doesn't look very likely." (FNN "Marketwrap", 10/16)

KENNETH SPENCE, director of the technical analysis group at SALOMON BROTHERS, says the drop in commodity prices, and in gold particularly, is one of the most bearish indicators he currently sees for the stock market. People needing cash so badly that they are unloading tangible investments doesn't bode well for stocks, he says. Mr. Spence also sees other reasons to worry about the stock market. He was bothered last week because each day there were more than 1,000 declining NYSE issues. "When you have that kind of broad-based selling, that indicates you're not at the end of a decline. It means you are in the middle." He says, "I expect a further downside move with the 2350 support level in the Dow being broken." (WSJ and "Investor's Daily", 10/17)

STOCK MARKET:

"This shows you just how tough it is to [rebound] on a sustained basis," says HUGH JOHNSON of FIRST ALBANY CORP. "Any move up is labored because everyone's braced for shocks in the Middle East, budget talks or negative earnings reports." ("USA Today", 10/17)

Technical analyst JOHN McGINLEY of "Technical Trends Newsletter" says the market may bottom at about 2300 on the Dow. "The reason I say that is that it's kind of a range [or a round figure] and how much further can things go without some kind of a recovery." (CNBC's "Market Wrap-Up", 10/16)

There are signals of a market bottom, but it will likely take a while longer to complete, says RAY HINES of the "Wall Street Generalist." He looks for a recovery in stocks prices over the next 6-9 months which will be much stronger than most expect. Hines points to bonds and utilities as signs of a significant bottom, and says he expects global interest rates to start coming down this quarter. High energy prices are sustainable, says Hines. (CNBC "World Business", 10/17)

"This [market action] has nothing to do with fundamentals," says MARK MATHESON at CRUTTENDEN & CO. "Individual stocks are getting hammered due to panic and psychology that might not wash out for several weeks." ("USA Today", 10/17)

"The beating in financial stocks really hurt the market [yesterday]," says JON GROVEMAN, president of LADENBURG, THALMANN & CO. "The market will have a hard time staging a significant rebound unless financial stocks can benefit" from lower interest rates. ("USA Today", 10/17)

"There's a lot of nervousness right now -- a lack of confidence in the economy the government and the asset valuation of stocks," says MATTHEW KULKIN of ADVEST GROUP. ("USA Today", 10/17)

STOCK TIPS:

CITICORP did not cut its dividend even though earnings, excluding a one time gain, were only a couple of cents higher than the payout. CHEMICAL and CHASE have already cut their dividends, and JAMES HANBURY of WERHEIM SCHRODER says, "There's a lot of fear in the marketplace that more cuts are going to be happening." Hanbury says banks which are doing well like J.P. MORGAN and BANKERS TRUST have highly successful worldwide trading operations that account for 30%- 35% of revenues. Hanbury says these two companies represent the quality in the industry right now, although he is not currently recommending any banking stocks. (CNN "Business Morning", 10/17)

According to a front page article in "The Wall Street Journal," HASBRO INC., the troubled toy company, is trying to stage a comeback, but many analysts are unimpressed. "Hasbro's domestic business is sluggish," says GARY JACOBSON of KIDDER PEABODY. "The gains are clearly all on the international side, which is also benefitting from a favorable U.S. currency rate. At the end of the year Hasbro will still be stretching to post flat revenues, while profits will be down." One of the problems with Hasbro is that it hasn't created a "megahit" toy to replace the fading G.I. Joe. "My criticism isn't that the people at Hasbro haven't come up with a hit, because that's hard to do, but the amount of money they've spent not coming up with a hit," says SEAN McGOWAN a toy analyst at GERARD KLAUER MATTISON. (WSJ, 10/17)

On September 28, STEPHEN CHECK of the "Blue Chip Correlator" went 100% invested for the first time in seven months. "While everyone is extremely bearish, our numbers do not back up that view," says Check. "Uncertain times are when buying opportunities always occur." On his buy list: BROWNING FERRIS at 31 3/4, GE at 58 1/4, HEINZ at 29 5/8 and UPJOHN at 34. (CNBC "World Business", 10/17)

Even with APPLE CORP.'s new computer line, PRUDENTIAL-BACHE SECURITIES analyst RICK MARTIN has downgraded the stock from a hold to a sell. He says the new products will be "like sending an earthquake through [Apple's] product line." He says that given the current weak PC market, Apple's "transition will be painful" as it tries to grow on the back of this new line. "They've got to take their lumps and get on with the growing," concludes Martin. ("Investor's Daily", 10/17)

"Value Line Investment Survey" recommends stock in ABBOTT LABORATORIES. The newsletter says the health care product maker's earnings should average 15% to 20% annual growth in the next five years as it introduces new products and broadens its market base. ("USA Today", 10/17)

"There have been an important number of new product introductions from the pharmaceutical industry over the past couple of years that are only now beginning" to reap profits, says OPPENHEIMER's STEVEN GERBER. Companies such as ELI LILLY, MERCK, WARNER LAMBERT, AMERICAN HOME PRODUCTS and PFIZER all posted double digit earnings gains for the third quarter. But it is not all a bed of roses. "There are some concerns related to recent moves towards price controls" overseas, says Gerber. (FNN "Marketwrap", 10/16)

"ITT at 40 right now is priced as if HARTFORD [its insurance unit] doesn't exist, as if it has no worth whatsoever," says newsletter editor STEPHEN LEEB. "You take a stock like ITT whose intrinsic value conservatively is $90 -- and you can make a case that it's worth $110-$120 -- trading at 40 [then] you can't reprove me for being bullish. Yes, it could go down to 37, but in six months if this stock is at 70 or 80, you're not going to believe the values that existed today." (CNBC's "Market Wrap-Up", 10/16)

Though burdened by heavy debt, some analysts believe the sell-off of BLACK & DECKER has gone too far. "I don't think Black & Decker is in extremis," says CLIFFORD RANSOM II, who advises institutional clients of FERRIS, BAKER WATTS. "This company is earning a lot of money." Mr. Ransom predicts the company will earn $1.20 a share this year and $1.80 in 1991 even with the debt. "You're paying five time [next year's] earnings for a world-class consumer and industrial brand name. This stock ought to be worth nine times earnings." (WSJ, 10/17)

FALLS CHURCH, VA (OCT. 17) MCS -- A SAMPLING OF TODAY'S COMMENTARY COMPILED BY MARKET CONSENSUS SURVEYS, INC. IN TWO SECTIONS (1) STOCKS (2) MONEY & ECONOMY.

MONEY & CREDIT:

"People [in the currency markets] are bearish about the U.S. budget deficit, bearish about the state of the [U.S.] economy and bearish about the congressional and presidential paralysis" on a budget deficit-reduction agreement, says JEFFREY MONDSCHEIN, managing director in charge of foreign exchange at CONTINENTAL BANK in Chicago. (WSJ, 10/17)

"There's still some momentum here [for the dollar to fall]; but by and large, we think the medium course of the dollar is up, not down," says RICHARD WITTEN vice president in charge of foreign exchange at GOLDMAN, SACHS & CO. "Most of the negative news for the dollar is out in the open," he says. "Thus, you would expect that once a budget accord is reached and U.S. interest rates drop the next move would presumably be up." (WSJ, 10/17)

HARRIS TRUST's TIM BARTON says the greenback "doesn't seem to have much of a bounce." No one is willing to step in and support the dollar and so it continues to test new lows, according to Barton. ("Investor's Daily", 10/17)

IAN SPENCE, chief dealer for MANUFACTURERS HANOVER TRUST CO., says that while "it looks like [the dollar] is going to continue to decline, I'm not convinced we're going to break substantially lower than these levels." In the short-run he sees the dollar stabilizing at 1.50 marks and 126 yen. (WSJ, 10.17)

"In the old days, people used to believe that the dollar and gold moved in opposite directions; gold was considered a good hedge against inflation," says LILIANA NEALON, a first vice president at UNION BANK OF SWITZERLAND in New York. "But today the dollar and gold don't trade" in opposite directions. (WSJ, 10/17)

"To suck in the [foreign] capital to support the deficit is going to require an incentive," says NICHOLAS HOWARD, director of European trading at JAMES CAPEL. "The incentive is not a lower dollar, the incentive would have to be higher rates." Overseas markets are viewing the U.S. as ungovernable, says Howard. "A country that can't put a budget together when its got a financing requirement as large as the United States is in one heck of a mess." (CNBC "World Business", 10/17)

When recessionary pressures arise, "the first temptation ... is to seek relief from those pressures in terms of monetary policy," says former Fed Chairman PAUL VOLCKER. He says any policy that allows for inflation "is more likely to aggravate the problem than improve it." ("Nightly Business Report", 10/16)

Bond investors have a fundamental reason to be bullish: The CRB commodity futures index has fallen sharply over the past two day to its pre-Kuwait invasion level -- even though oil, a major part of that index, remains substantially higher. "It raises the question of whether we should worry about inflation or deflation," says SCOTT WINNINGHAM, bond market analyst at STONE & McCARTHY RESEARCH ASSOCIATES. If prices generally are declining, bonds become more attractive investments for their guaranteed fixed income. (WSJ, 10/17)

DONALD DUERSON, who manages six municipal bond funds with $2.2 billion in assets for FRANKLIN RESOURCES INC., says the city bonds are getting hit in a "self-fulfilling prophecy." He says that "when people are worried someone is in [financial] trouble, they won't lend him money. When they don't lend him money, he gets in trouble. But analysts say many are worth buying. SHEILA HORWITZ of WERTHEIM SCHRODER says they "are the only tax shelter in town right now." Duerson recommends buying the highest rates bonds from cities in areas feeling the least economic pinch -- such as the Pacific Northwest and the Carolinas. "A year from now, investors who bought bonds at these prices will be very happy they did," he says. ("USA Today", 10/17)

THE ECONOMY:

"I don't think we're in a recession. We have a slow economy," says MARTIN FELDSTEIN of the NATIONAL BUREAU OF ECONOMIC RESEARCH. "One month does not a recession make." ("Investor's Daily", 10/17)

"Recession or not, the economy is not growing at any rate that makes a difference," says former Fed Chairman PAUL VOLCKER. ("USA Today", 10/17)

"Everybody right now is concerned about the increased debt buildup during the 1980s," says NICHOLAS P. SARGEN, an international economist at SALOMON BROTHERS INC. "If you thought as in the 1970s that the U.S. would inflate its way out of the debt problem, you bought gold." But today, he says, "the value of real estate, stocks and junk-bond assets is declining. In that deflationary environment, gold is much less attractive." (WSJ, 10/17)

"It really is incredible [commodities] deflation," says BILL WOLMAN, chief economist at "BusinessWeek" and "CNBC." "I mean, yesterday was the worst day since 1981. There is a threat of war in the Middle East, the price of oil is up today, and yet the price of precious metals has really taken a tremendous decline so that we really have a commodity deflation going on through here and there is only one conclusion I can reach: It is an extremely bearish signal for the economy because materials prices are leading indicator of economic activity. This decline in commodity prices can only be inferred as a very big danger signal for the economy as a whole." (CNBC's "Market Wrap-Up", 10/16)

"If we don't get into a serious deflationary trend, I think the price of gold will begin to bottom out around these levels and will stay confined between $360 and $400 [an ounce]," says PETER CARDILLO, director of commodities research at JESUP, JOSEPHTHAL INC. "Silver and platinum might work their way down just a little more, but not too much further from these levels." (CNBC's "Market Wrap-Up", 10/16)

There "was very good volume" on the precious metals market yesterday, according to FRED DEMLER, a metals economist at PAINEWEBBER. He says part of the volume was due to profit taking on the part of those who had bought gold in the last two months, and "fresh waves of new speculative selling coming into the market." (CNN "Moneyline", 10/16)

IN WASHINGTON:

If PRESIDENT BUSH gives in here and raises the top income tax rate, "isn't it possible, in the future, that whenever one comes up short that we will just continue to raise tax rates?" asks MARSHALL ACUFF of SMITH BARNEY. "Where does all that end?" (FNN "Marketwrap", 10/16)

In a 62 - 34 vote, the Senate passed civil rights legislation which PRESIDENT BUSH says he intends to veto on the grounds that it would spur employers to hire by quotas to protect themselves against lawsuits. "It isn't over until it's over," says SEN. EDWARD KENNEDY (D. - Mass.). "If he vetoes it, there's a good chance that the Congress will override the veto." (WSJ, 10/17)

SEATTLE (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - A new and significant transportation alliance has been formed between Airborne Express of the United States and John Nurminen Oy, the leading Finnish forwarder, to provide Airborne customers with air express and freight service to the Soviet Union, Airborne Express said today. It is an exclusive U.S. agreement.

Except for the period of the Second World War, John Nurminen Oy has had some operations in the USSR for more than 50 years. In 1969, the company entered into an agreement with Sovtransavto, the Soviet Department of Transportation, on regular truck service to Moscow and Leningrad, the first Soviet agreement of its kind with any western country and the model for future agreements. In 1988, the company established a branch office in Moscow in cooperation with Sovtransavto.

An unusual aspect of the relationship is Nurminen's ability to rely on the duplication of gauge in the railway systems in both Finland and USSR which permits Soviet railway waggons to come to Finland and accept Finnish export cargoes. Both Soviet and Finnish trucks are used in the European part of the Soviet Union. The ability to rely on these alternate modes of transportation is very important in avoiding delays currently being experienced in air service in and out of Moscow's Sheremetjavo airport.

Also important is Nurminen's cooperation with Sovtransavto which allows the company to have shipments from Finland paid to the Finnish-Soviet border with Sovtransavto collecting charges within the territory of the Soviet Union.

The relationship between Airborne and Nurminen is characteristic of Airborne's philosophy of seeking, wherever possible, strategic and often exclusive alliances with leading transportation companies in a given geographic area, who are equally eager for reciprocal access to Airborne's U.S. domestic airline and distribution systems. The U.S. company now provides service to 183 countries around the world.

The company said that strong performances in the mortgage and governmental bond trading areas and its correspondent clearing operations and the sale of an investment in a small company significantly contributed to the results for the quarter. SAN DIEGO (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - DH Technology (NASDAQ: DHTK) today reported net income of $1,265,000, or $.25 per share for the quarter ended Sept. 30, 1990. The company reported net income of $1,559,000, or $.31 per share for the quarter ended Sept. 30, 1989. Revenues for the quarter decreased to $9,333,000, compared to $10,798,000 for the same period last year.

Although revenue decreased, pre-tax income as a percent of revenue for the quarter ended Sept. 30, 1990, was 20.9 percent, up slightly compared to the same period in 1989. This was achieved primarily as a result of cost savings realized from vertical integration programs and the establishment of the company's own maquiladora operation at its printhead manufacturing facility in Mexico.

The company attributed the decrease in revenues to the overall slow- down in the economy which has caused the rescheduling of product deliveries and a decrease in order rates by certain customers. Assuming there is no further deterioration in the general economy, the company continues to have a positive long-term outlook. This confidence is based on planned new product introductions, existing contracts and the company's strong balance sheet.

DH Technology is a leading independent supplier of technologically advanced high-performance printheads, printer mechanisms and specialty printers. DH Technology's products are utilized by the lottery, labelling, ticketing, office automation, gasoline vending and specialty printing industries.

(OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Smith Corona Corporation (NYSE: SCO) announced today that for the first quarter ended Sept. 30, 1990, the company reported net income of $6.7 million, or $.22 per share. This compares with net income of $16.3 million, or $.54 per share, for the comparable quarter last year. Sales for the quarter were $118.7 million, compared to $152.2 million reported a year ago.

G. Lee Thompson, chairman and chief executive officer of Smith Corona stated, "We anticipated that the domestic consumer spending environment would continue to be soft during the first quarter; however, while revenues are down compared to last year's record first quarter, they have increased substantially from the previous quarter and have exceeded our plan. CINCINNATI (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - The Kroger Co. (NYSE: KR) said today that continuing strong sales and reduced interest expense resulted in third quarter net earnings of $464,420, or one cent per share, compared to a loss of $5.3 million, or a loss of 7 cents per share, in the 1989 third quarter. Last year's results included an after-tax gain of $18.7 million from the sale of assets and an extraordinary loss of $1.3 million related to the early retirement of debt.

Third quarter 1990 operating cash flow from continuing operations (pre-tax earnings before interest, depreciation, and LIFO) totaled $260.8 million, a 7.2 percent increase over operating cash flow of $243.4 million in last year's third quarter.

Sales in the third quarter rose 8.0 percent to $5.974 billion from $5.534 billion. Supermarket sales continued their strong momentum, with identical store sales increasing 6.6 percent over the previous year, well ahead of the rate of food price inflation.

For the first three quarters of 1990, Kroger reported net earnings of $15.5 million, or 18 cents per share, versus a net loss of $26.8 million, or a loss of 36 cents per share. Last year's results include the gain from the sale of assets and an extra-ordinary loss of $5.2 million from the early retirement of debt. Operating cash flow improved 4.0 percent to $693.9 million, versus $667.1 million last year. Sales from continuing units totaled $15.275 billion a 7.7 percent increase over 1989 third quarter sales of $14.179 billion.

Kroger Chairman and Chief Executive Officer Joseph A. Pichler said third quarter results were in line with Company expectations.

He noted that the improvement in identical store sales in the third quarter and year-to-date is well ahead of the supermarket industry average, and also above food price inflation, which is running in the 3.5 percent to 4 percent range. "As we move into the fourth quarter -- the most important sales period for Kroger -- our identical store performance shows that we are protecting our market share and building our business for the long term," Pichler said.

Kroger President Richard L. Bere added that the third quarter performance demonstrates the Company's ability to produce strong results in an environment characterized by increased competition and growing economic concerns.

Kroger's interest expense declined 12.1 percent in the quarter to $168.5 million. Year to date, interest expense is down 12.3 percent from the previous year, the result of lower overall debt and reduced borrowing costs.

In addition, the Company achieved its second interest rate reduction of 1/4 of 1 percent allowed under Kroger's restated credit agreement with its major lending banks. The latest reduction becomes effective on December 20. The first 1/4 of 1 percent reduction became effective in June.

SEATTLE (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Security Pacific Bancorporation Northwest today reported net income of $28.6 million for the quarter ended Sept. 30, 1990, and $76 million for the year-to-date, an increase of 28 and 16 percent, respectively, over the same 1989 periods.

In 1989, net operating income was $22.2 million for the quarter and $65.5 million for the year-to-date (excluding a non-recurring gain of $3.3 million during the first quarter of 1989).

The performance of Security Pacific Bank Oregon and Security Pacific Savings Bank contributed to the increase in third quarter net income. The 1990 results also include Security Pacific Bank Canada's activities, and some other changes between affiliates. Results for comparable periods have been adjusted to reflect these changes.

Security Pacific Bancorporation Northwest Chairman and Chief Executive Officer John Getzelman said, "Security Pacific is solidly positioned to continue to meet the financial needs of our customers in the months ahead."

At quarter end, the company's consolidated total assets were $10.8 billion, an increase of eight percent over the same period last year. The increase is attributed to expansion efforts, including the second quarter acquisition of Gibraltar Savings Bank, and growth in consumer and residential real estate lending. The company's non-performing assets decreased slightly, since year end, taking into account adjustments for expansion.

Getzelman said, "Security Pacific's financial strength and stability afford the company the flexibility to continue to pursue growth opportunities in order to make the bank more accessible to customers throughout the Northwest.

"Security Pacific's third quarter acquisition of Idaho-based Mountain West Savings Bank (now Security Pacific Bank Idaho, FSB) is an excellent example of our expansion strategy," he added. "This is the first time Security Pacific's vast array of financial products and services has been available to the Idaho marketplace."

The Mountain West Savings Bank acquisition, completed on Aug. 27, provided the company with $343 million in assets and ten branches. In June, ground was broken for a Boise, Idaho, office.

Security Pacific Bancorporation Northwest is a Seattle-based, multi-bank holding company with assets of $10.8 billion and subsidiaries operating in Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Alaska and Canada. The bancorporation is an affiliate of Security Pacific Corp. (NYSE: SPC), the nation's fifth-largest banking company.

WASHINGTON (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - MCI Communications Corporation (NASDAQ-NMS: MCIC) today reported third quarter revenue gains of 20 percent over the year ago quarter, and a net loss of $176 million, as expected, due to a one-time $550 million charge associated with the accelerated digitization of its worldwide network. Adjusting for this asset writedown and other non-recurring items, company earnings would have been $180 million, or 71 cents per common share.

For the quarter ended Sept. 30, 1990, MCI reported revenue of $2 billion, reflecting benefit from its August 14 acquisition of Telecom USA, Inc. As a result of the one-time $550 million charge and other non-recurring items, the company reported a loss of $176 million, or a loss of 69 cents per common share. This compares with revenue of $1.67 billion, earnings of $158 million and earnings per common share of 62 cents for the same quarter a year ago.

"Without the writedown and other one-time events, MCI's profits would have been up 14 percent over the year-ago quarter," Bert C. Roberts, Jr., MCI president and chief operating officer, said.

"Despite the challenge of smoothly integrating Telecom USA, the company increased its share of the large account, international and residential markets, and rolled out a new service for small to mid-size businesses," Roberts said.

With the addition of Telecom USA's network facilities and a capacity exchange agreement with Williams Telecommunications Group, MCI is able to move up its network digitization plans from 1993 to 1991. As a result, MCI has written down and begun to retire analog equipment.

Among the quarter's highlights was the $1.25 billion acquisition of Telecom USA, formerly the nation's fourth largest long distance carrier, which had a dilutive effect on earnings.

Other accomplishments during the quarter were the introduction of a number of new services that will solidify MCI's position in the data and general business arenas.

For data users, the company unveiled a new family of products called Virtual Private Data Services which will eventually bring the power of supercomputers to the desktop. The first two members of the family, high-capacity Switched

T-1 and T-3 services, will be commercially available in 1991.

For the $18 billion small to mid-sized business market, the company began to sell MCI Vision, a long distance package that provides smaller businesses with the features and capabilities traditionally available only to the largest national firms.

PHILADELPHIA (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Bell Atlantic (NYSE: BEL) announced today that it will combine its two software companies, Bell Atlantic Knowledge Systems, and Technology Concepts Inc., on Jan. 1.

The company also said it has named William E. Miller, formerly of CRISP

Automation/Joy Technologies, to head up the new company, which will be called Bell Atlantic Software Systems. Miller recently joined Bell Atlantic to oversee the integration of the two companies.

The new company will be headquartered in Morgantown, W.Va., where Knowledge Systems was born three years ago in concert with West Virginia's emerging Software Valley movement. In three years that company has grown from four employees to 50 in Morgantown, principally software engineers, and 25 in Princeton, N.J.

"Adding value for our customers, in the movement and management of their information, is at the heart of Bell Atlantic's business systems strategy," said Jeffrey S. McDermott, president of Bell Atlantic Software and Systems Solutions.

"By combining and moving these companies forward as one, we have created a core competence in software that is vital to addressing the information management requirements of our customers. Miller, who will manage our growing software capabilities, has an impressive track record in managing progressive, largely entrepreneurial, technology companies. "We are also pleased to be able to demonstrate our continued commitment to Software Valley by locating our software headquarters there," McDermott said.

U.S. Sen. Robert C. Byrd (D-W.Va.), founder of the Software Valley movement in West Virginia, said: "Bell Atlantic is one of the linchpins of Software Valley and I am extremely pleased that the company is expanding its presence in West Virginia.

"The decision on the part of Bell Atlantic to consolidate its software activities and headquarter the new division in Morgantown is an excellent example of how high technology is becoming an increasingly important component of West Virginia's industrial base."

West Virginia Gov. Gaston Caperton said: "Information services is a vital strategic growth area for West Virginia in the 1990s. We are devoting considerable resources to attract partners in this important business segment.

"We are delighted with Bell Atlantic Knowledge Systems' development as a cornerstone of Software Valley," Caperton said. "We are particularly pleased that Bell Atlantic is expanding its business and making Morgantown the headquarters for this line of business."

PARSIPPANY, NJ (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - General Public Utilities Corp. (NYSE:

GPU) today reported 2.2 percent increases in earnings per share for both the third quarter and the nine-month period.

The increases in earnings are largely attributable to growth in the number of residential and commercial customers and rising per-customer usage. These gains were partially offset by an increase in depreciation expense and by the capital costs associated with additions made to GPU's utility plant to enhance system reliability.

"Our sales growth reflects gains in population in some areas of GPU's service territory. We anticipate continued increases in sales and benefits from our initiatives to build an increasingly market-driven and customer-sensitive organization," said Standley H. Hoch, chairman, president and chief executive officer of GPU. "We also are pleased that our favorable 12-month earnings benefited from a decline in operation and maintenance expense," Hoch added.

Third quarter earnings per share rose to $1.84 per share, from $1.80 per share. Net income in the quarter increased to $101.9 million, from $101.0 million for the year-ago period.

For the nine months, earnings per share increased to $4.18 per share, from $4.09 per share. Net income decreased slightly to $231.7 million from $231.9 million for the year-ago period.

For the 12 months ending Sept. 30, 1990, earnings per share increased to $5.10 per share, from $4.71 per share. Net income increased to $282.3 million from $266.9 million for the period.

Results for both the nine- and 12-month periods benefited from earlier repurchases of common shares and tax credits resulting from the completion of the cleanup program at Three Mile Island Unit 2.

In addition, 12-month results showed improvement because of reduced operation and maintenance expense due both to the corporation's cost-containment initiatives and to higher year-ago comparable figures caused by an extended outage in 1989 at GPU's Oyster Creek nuclear plant.

GPU is a registered electric utility holding company with three operating subsidiaries - Jersey Central Power & Light Co., Pennsylvania Electric Co. and Metropolitan Edison Co. The GPU System provides approximately 39 billion kilowatt-hours of electricity for approximately 1.9 million customers.

PROVIDENCE, RI (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Fleet/Norstar Financial Group (NYSE: FNG) today reported net income of $38 million for the third quarter ended Sept. 30, 1990. Third quarter net income per fully diluted share equaled 33 cents, compared to 85 cents in the third quarter of 1989.

With profits in both the second and third quarters of this year, the corporation reported net income of $434,000 for the nine months ended Sept. 30

Terrence Murray, chairman and chief executive officer, said, "Although the economy continues to deteriorate, not only in New England but nationally, Fleet/Norstar now is profitable for the first nine months, and we are encouraged by that performance. We continue to believe that Fleet/Norstar's broad diversification positions the company to resume growing when the economy turns around."

Murray said the company's Financial Services Group performed well in the quarter, contributing $34.9 million to the corporation's net income, an increase of 14 percent compared to 1989's third quarter.

Fleet Finance, the corporation's Atlanta-based consumer finance subsidiary, generated $12.9 million, up 14 percent, while Fleet Mortgage Group earned $12 million for a 15 percent increase over its results a year ago.

The best income producers among Fleet/Norstar's banks were Norstar Bank of Upstate N.Y., Albany, which earned $13.7 million for the third quarter, and Norstar Bank, N.A., Buffalo, which contributed $13 million to earnings.

Murray said that, at Sept. 30, the corporation held approximately $3.4 billion in excess liquid assets, continuing the company's efforts to maintain an extremely strong and liquid balance sheet. Excluding these excess liquid assets, the corporation's equity-to-assets ratio of 7.06 percent continued very strong at Sept. 30.

HEBRON, KY. (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - At a news conference held at the Greater Cincinnati International Airport today, Kentucky Governor Wallace G. Wilkinson Ronald W. Allen, chairman, president and chief executive officer of Delta Air Lines (NYSE: DAL), and Kenton County Airport Board Chairman Paul F. Michels announced Delta's plan for a $315 million airport expansion project at the Greater Cincinnati International Airport.

Gov. Wilkinson, in discussing the airline's decision said: "This will result in Delta greatly expanding its services in the tri-state area. This new major Flight Center at the Greater Cincinnati International Airport will serve to perpetuate Delta's already considerable importance as a catalyst for economic development in this area. There is a strong partnership here with Delta that is mutually productive, and I am pleased that with today's announcement Delta will be providing more of its quality service and benefits to the community in the future."

Delta's Allen said: "With this expansion, Delta's Cincinnati International Airport facility will be a Flight Center second to none. The planned expansion will include a spectacular new 200,000 square foot terminal, which will replace the existing Terminal D, and a new concourse constructed south of and parallel to the existing concourse. It is anticipated that the new project will accommodate 19 additional domestic gates and six international gates and provide expansive passenger service and operational support areas as well as space for concessionaires. A federal inspection service facility for international flights will be an integral part of the new facilities. The proposed expansion will double the number of Delta gates. Presently, Delta operates 22 domestic gates and three international gates at Cincinnati."

The Delta plan calls for a high-speed, tracked people-mover system to transport passengers underground along a 2,000 linear foot tunnel connecting the new Terminal D with the existing Concourse D and the new Concourse E. The new concourse will also feature moving sidewalks.

The new terminal will provide additional ticket counters and larger baggage claim and Delta DASH facilities. It is anticipated that the proposed airport expansion will require modification of certain support facilities including a new mail sortation facility, a new and expanded cargo facility, a new aircraft service facility, an expanded fuel farm and fueling system, a new aircraft deicing facility and a new employee parking lot.

The proposed plans for the Delta expansion are subject to final modification, but the airline will begin work almost immediately on the project which will require more than four years to complete.

NEW BRITAIN, CT (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - "Economic weakness in markets and geographic areas important to us have resulted in flat sales and per share earnings in the third quarter," reported Richard H. Ayers, chairman and chief executive officer of The Stanley Works (NYSE: SWK).

Net sales for the third quarter were $492 million compared with $488 million for the quarter last year. Price increases and currency gains from international operations offset volume reductions.

Earnings per share for the quarter, on fewer shares outstanding, were $.65, the same as third quarter 1989. Net earnings were $27.7 million for the quarter, down from the $29 million reported a year ago.

Inventory levels continued to decline as planned efforts to reduce working capital were successfully accomplished despite the flat sales. The lower production activity did, however, contribute to a slight decline in gross profit margins when compared with third quarter of last year.

A LIFO inventory gain of $4 million ($.06 per share) is comparable with the gain reported in the third quarter of last year. Operating expenses as a percent of sales were 23.3 percent compared with 22.3 percent in last year's third quarter.

Interest-net expenses improved slightly and Other-net expenses were less than last year's third quarter which included charges for a plant closing and environmental related expense.

Net earnings as a percent of sales were 5.6 percent, down from the six percent reported last year. The effective tax rate for the quarter has been adjusted to reflect an expected tax rate of 39 percent for 1990, comparable with the 1989 rate.

Net sales for the nine months of 1990 were $1,475 million, up one percent from the $1,460 million reported for the same period last year. Net earnings for the nine months were $80.8 million, $1.90 per share, compared with $84.4 million, $1.94 per share, reported last year.

Net sales in the United States for the third quarter were up slightly as price increases were partially offset by volume declines. Net sales in Europe were up eight percent as price increases and the positive currency effects of a weaker dollar more than offset volume declines. Sales in Other Areas were down six percent as operating units, primarily in Canada, continue to be plagued by extremely weak market conditions.

FORT WORTH, TEXAS (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Snyder Oil Corporation ("SOCO") (NYSE: SNY) announced today that its board of directors had approved a stock repurchase program. A total of up to $10 million has been authorized for purchases. It is expected that the shares will be acquired from time to time in the open market. The company may, in certain instances, also engage in block purchases.

In announcing the repurchase program, Thomas J. Edelman, the president of SOCO said, "We are currently enjoying exceptional profits and cash flow due to high crude oil and natural gas liquids prices. However, our shares are trading at levels well below what we believe to be appropriate to our assets or earning capabilities. We assume this is due to the sharp decline in the equity markets over the past two months. Consequently, so long as the high oil and NGL price levels continue, we plan to expend at least half of the resulting profits in repurchasing our stock. The other half of the profits will be dedicated to accelerating our efforts to expand our reserve base through exploration and development."

"Despite increases in net interest income, net earnings for third quarter were down from 1989's third quarter due primarily to higher loan loss provisions and reduced income from real estate operations," said Robert F. Adelizzi, HomeFed president and chief executive officer.

Net interest income, before provisions for loan losses, for the quarter showed an 11.2 percent increase over 1989's third quarter from $93.6 million to $104.1 million. At Sept. 30, 1990, HomeFed's non-performing assets, generally defined as non-accrual loans and foreclosed real estate, increased to $749 million or 3.92 percent of total assets, compared to $708 million or 3.73 percent of total assets at June 30, 1990 and $463 million or 2.60 percent of total assets at Dec. 31, 1989.

During the quarter, the company added $201 million in new non-performing assets, while $91 million in non-performing assets were sold. An additional $18 million in non-performing assets were brought current or paid off during the quarter.

Of the $201 million in new non-performing assets, $86 million were commercial and industrial real estate loans, $68 million were apartment loans, $19 million were land acquisition and development loans, $19 million were single-family mortgages and $9 million were other loans. GLENS FALLS, N.Y. (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - IMCERA Group Inc. (NYSE: IMA) announced here today at its 81st annual meeting of shareholders first quarter earnings of 78 cents per share compared with 27 cents per share a year ago. Substantially better results by IMCERA's three operating companies brought the improvement.

For the quarter ended Sept. 30, 1990, sales were $375.7 million compared with $315.2 million last year. This year's net earnings were $18.0 million versus $7.5 million a year ago.

"Operating earnings of our three businesses more than doubled from a year ago " said IMCERA President and Chief Operating Officer M. Blake Ingle. "The earnings momentum from new product introductions and capacity additions, improving operational performance, and higher operating margins are expected to continue.

"Mallinckrodt Medical operating earnings of $16.0 million were more than twice last year's first quarter results. Sales increased 36 percent, with Optiray, the company's new nonionic contrast agent, leading the way," Ingle said. "In addition to our radiology and cardiology businesses, nuclear medicine, anesthesia products and critical care contributed to the sales and earnings improvements.

Mallinckrodt Specialty Chemicals reported operating earnings of $10.1 million, an increase of 60 percent from a year earlier on a 16 percent increase in sales," Ingle said. "Solid improvements turned in by the flavors, drug and cosmetic chemicals, and lab chemicals businesses were the major factors in the year-to-year earnings gain.

"Pitman-Moore had an outstanding quarter with operating earnings of $16.9 million, up more than 40 percent on sales gains of 12 percent. The leverage from last year's consolidation of Coopers Animal Health continued to improve margins. Animal productivity, parasiticides, and veterinary specialties products showed strong sales gains, and both domestic and international sales were up."

"While the first quarter has typically been the weakest of the year, this year we ran ahead of budget and substantially ahead of last year's results," added

Chairman and Chief Executive Officer George D. Kennedy. "It's still unclear what effect this will have on the pattern of quarterly earnings for the full year, but we're off to a great start for 1991"

IMCERA's pretax equity of IMC Fertilizer's (IFL) earnings was $8.7 million, an increase of $1.1 million compared with last year. This year's tax rate was 35 percent compared with 12 percent in last year's first quarter. The increase in tax rate was largely attributable to a change made at the end of fiscal 1990 in computing taxes on IFL earnings.

Headquartered in Northbrook, Ill., IMCERA has three businesses -- Mallinckrodt Medical, Mallinckrodt Specialty Chemicals and Pitman-Moore. IMCERA also owns approximately 38 percent of the common stock of IMC Fertilizer Group, Inc.

SENECA FALLS, N.Y. (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Goulds Pumps, Inc. (NASDAQ-NMS: GULD), today reported records in sales, net earnings and earnings per share for the third quarter of 1990. These third quarter results were the best in Goulds' 142 year history, and according to Stephen V. Ardia, president and CEO in a letter to the shareholders, "Goulds remains on track toward a record year in 1990."

Third quarter sales were $144.2 million, up 6 percent from $136.2 million a year ago. Net income increased 21 percent to $9.3 million, up from $7.7 million for the same quarter a year ago. And earnings per share for the quarter were $.45, up from $.38 a year ago.

Net income from continuing operations increased 6 percent to $9.3 million, compared to $8.8 million in 1989. Earnings per share from continuing operations were $.45 in the third quarter, compared to $.43 in 1989.

Total orders received for the third quarter were $143.6 million, versus $139.3 million a year ago, and backlog remained constant at $114.5 million.

Gross margins for the quarter were 29.8 percent, up from 29.2 percent for the same quarter a year ago. Ardia noted that gross margin performance would have been even better at 30.3 percent had the company not established a reserve of approximately $1 million to cover a potential contract receivable loss in Kuwait. Said Ardia, "This reserve reflects our total potential exposure in Kuwait and Iraq and we are continuing to make every effort to collect this contract receivable."

For the first nine months of 1990, sales were a record $411.8 million, an increase of 8 percent over $381.7 million for the nine month period a year ago. Net income rose 15 percent to $24.5 million, up from $21.3 million in 1989. Earnings per share were $1.19, up 13 percent from $1.05 in 1989. And earnings per share from continuing operations were $1.19, compared to $1.18 in 1989.

Ardia stated that, "Business remains solid for our Industrial Products Group and for our largest division, the Engineered Products Division. Here, our focus on core markets continues to pay dividends, both domestically and globally." He added, "The third quarter also saw the Engineered Products Division improve its customer service and on- time delivery performance by 26 percent."

Ardia continued, "Record sales, earnings and orders from our Lowara S.p.A. subsidiary, helped our Water Technologies Group show a strong sales increase for the quarter and for the first nine months. Lowara continues to excel in the European marketplace and should exceed $100 million in sales in 1990. This represents a 63 percent increase in sales volume since it was acquired in 1986."

Also in the Water Technologies Group, our Water Systems Division showed a slight sales increase over the same quarter a year ago. An extremely competitive marketplace related to a sluggish economy and poor housing starts has caused Water Systems Division contribution to be approximately 10 percent below 1989 levels. The contribution fall off would be even greater except we have been successful in entering the commercial marketplace as well as the fact that approximately 70 percent of our normal marketplace is replacement business versus business directly tied to new housing starts.

Ardia concluded, "We are extremely pleased with the company's results in the third quarter and for the first nine months of the year. We continue to make gains in margins, profits and sales supported by rapidly improving customer service levels. Our strategies are working, and we are on target for an all-time record year in both sales and earnings.

"We are particularly excited by these positive, short-term results as they are balanced by excellent progress in our long-term goals of Total Quality, new business system developments, participative management and teamwork."

RICHMOND, VA. (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - American Filtrona Corporation (NASDAQ-NMS: AFIL) reported that results for the first nine months of 1990 compared to the same 1989 period were: net sales of $108.4 million, down 3 percent from $111.3 million; pretax income of $8.0 million, down 18 percent from $9.8 million; net income of $5.0 million, down 18 percent from $6.1 million; andearnings per share of $1.35, down 18 percent from $1.65.

For the third quarter this year compared with the corresponding 1989 period, net sales of $35.3 million were down 3 percent from $36.4 million; pretax income of $2.2 million was down 34 percent from $3.3 million; net income of $1.4 million was down 33 percent from $2.0 million; and earnings per share of 37 cents was down 33 percent from 55 cents.

The weak operating performance in the third quarter reflected slowness in several key markets. The bonded fibers segment continued to have lower than expected sales of cigarette filters and writing instrument product sales were flat. A softening in sales to construction related customers had an adverse effect on earnings in the plastic extrusion operations. The plastic products and industrial filtration segments earnings were below the 1989 third quarter; however, on a year-to-date basis they remain ahead of last year.

The Board of Directors declared a quarterly dividend of 22.5 cents per share payable on November 24, 1990 to shareholders of record as of November 9, 1990.

BETHLEHEM, PA. (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Union Pacific Corp. (NYSE: UNP) increased its third quarter earnings 17 percent, from $137 million to $161 million, while improving its operating income 10 percent to $345 million, it was announced today.

Earnings per share were $1.61, compared with $1.35 in the third quarter of 1989.

Union Pacific Railroad achieved an earnings gain of 4 percent to a record $148 million, despite a $17 million pre-tax increase in fuel prices. This was the railroad's 20th consecutive year-over-year quarterly improvement. Third quarter carloadings were the highest for any quarter in the company's history. With the exception of forest products, every commodity had higher carloads, generating an overall gain of 7 percent, with the strongest performances in coal (up 10 percent), autos (up 13 percent), food products (up 14 percent) and intermodal traffic (up 8 percent). The railroad's third quarter operating ratio rose from 78.7 to 79.6 percent as fuel prices rose 22 percent.

Union Pacific Resources raised its earnings 11 percent to $51 million on the strength of significantly higher crude oil prices and increased volumes of all hydrocarbons. Crude prices were up 31 percent as a result of the Persian Gulf conflict. Hydrocarbon production was up 21 percent, with natural gas leading the way with a 36 percent gain. UP Resources has brought seven platforms on-line in the Gulf of Mexico since January 1990, and has continued its successful gas infill drilling programs in Texas. At the same time, Resources has almost doubled its year-to-date exploration and production capital spending.

Overnite Transportation increased its third quarter earnings 13 percent before goodwill to $17 million. Tonnage was up 10 percent, and the June rate increase authorized by the Interstate Commerce Commission held firm throughout the quarter. The company maintained an 88 percent operating ratio despite a fuel cost increase.

USPCI recorded earnings before goodwill in the third quarter of $6 million, which almost equaled its earnings for all of 1989. Remediation and disposal revenues of both hazardous and industrial wastes more than doubled.

Union Pacific Realty earnings were $9 million, reflecting continuing progress in liquidating the company's real estate holdings.

In the first nine months, Union Pacific Corp.'s earnings per share were $4.41, compared with $3.98 last year. Net income was up 3 percent to $442 million. Union Pacific Railroad earned $416 million, up 3 percent; Union Pacific Resources achieved earnings of $157 million, up 5 percent; Overnite Transportation earned $43 million before goodwill, up 1 percent; USPCI had income before goodwill of $11 million, a gain of $8 million; and Union Pacific Realty earned $26 million, up $17 million.

NEW YORK (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Ogden Corporation (NYSE: OG) announced today that its subsidiary, OGDEN/ERC Government Systems Company, was awarded a one-year, $275,000 contract through its W.J. Schafer Associates (WJSA) business unit from the U.S. Department of Energy's (DOE) Division of Advanced Utility Concepts.

Under the contract, WJSA's San Francisco Operation will conduct studies examining the feasibility of superconducting magnetic energy storage (SMES) using high temperature superconductors (HTS). Subcontractors will include General Atomics and Advanced CryoMagnetics, both of San Diego, and Argonne National Laboratory, in Argonne, Ill. The contract is being administered by DOE's Chicago Operations Office, also in Argonne.

SMES is a technology under development for improving electric load management and energy efficiency. The replacement of conventional superconductors with new HTS in SMES offers potentially greater energy savings. The WJSA study will focus on determining the range of application of SMES in utility and industrial facilities of up to 250 MWh; a preliminary HTS design and assessment; and defining specifications for HTS use in SMES. The range of the study includes small to mid-size industrial and utility applications.

WJSA has been involved in the design and analysis of SMES technology for government and industry since 1987 and currently serves as consultant to the Department of Defense on its SMES Engineering Test Model program, co-sponsored by the Electric Power Research Institute. General Atomics, responsible for addressing HTS design issues under the study, built a 30 megajoule SMES unit for DOE in 1983 and recently announced that it is producing 20-meter lengths of flexible HTS wire.

OGDEN/ERC Government Systems, a Fairfax, Va.-based firm, serves government and commercial clients in the defense and space technologies, software-systems engineering and engineering and support services markets, worldwide.

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - ACC Corp. (NASDAQ: ACCC) today announced net income of $417,145, or $.12 per share, on revenues of $9,218,915 for the three month period ended Sept. 30, 1990 compared to net income of $379,100, or $.11 per share, on revenues of $9,217,712 for the same period in 1989. For the nine months of 1990, ACC Corp. had net income of $1,367,867, or $.40 per share, on revenues of $28.06 million. This compares with $977,812, or $.30 per share on revenues of $27.52 million for the nine-month period in 1989 after a downward adjustment of $1.98 million due to discontinued operations.

In commenting on ACC's performance, Richard T. Aab, chairman and chief executive officer, stated, "We are pleased with both the revenue and net income levels for the third quarter. Net income increased 10 percent for the quarter over the third quarter of 1989 and 40 percent year-to-date. Revenues were a strong $9.2 million. During the summer, ACC Long Distance Corp. migrated customers to lower priced service offerings, which reduced revenues for the quarter. However, those revenues were more than offset from new business brought on in August and September. Billable minutes for the quarter were up 3.2 percent over the second quarter of 1990 and were 5.5 percent over the comparable third quarter in 1989.

"The start-up of our intra-Canada business has been slightly slowed due to contract and facility availability delays stemming in part from a construction union strike this summer. This is strictly a timing problem and will be resolved shortly. Our U.S./Canadian business remains strong. Network and S, G and A expenses are well under control. However, in spite of our diligence, we incurred $150,000 of legal expenses for our defense in two lawsuits brought against ACC earlier this year, which we believe have no merit." In looking ahead for the fourth quarter, Aab continued, "We remain optimistic that 1990 will be a superb year for ACC Corp."

ACC Corp. is a holding company for ACC Long Distance Corp., ACC Network Corp., ACC Long Distance Ltd., ACC Global Corp., ACC Local Fiber Corp. and Danbury Cellular Telephone Co., Inc. The company provides primarily long-distance telephone service throughout northeastern United States and eastern Canada. The company's stock is listed on the National Market (OTC) under the NASDAQ symbol ACCC.

Consolidated net income for the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1990 was $6,910,000, or $.46 per share, including a tax benefit of $568,000, or $.04 per share, from utilization of foreign subsidiaries tax loss carryforwards and $2,853,000, or $.19 per share, resulting from the sale of investment securities. If the timing of these projects falls short of our expectations, we will take appropriate action to reduce overhead further.

COLUMBUS, IN (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Arvin Industries, Inc. (NYSE: ARV), announced today that sales from continuing operations for the third quarter of 1990 of $429 million were up 14 percent from the year ago period, while earnings per share from continuing operations increased to $0.43 in 1990 from $0.12 in 1989 for the quarter. Net earnings for the quarter after taking into account discontinued operations increased to $11.3 million or $0.50 per share in 1990 from $4.5 million or $0.12 per share in 1989.

For the first nine months of 1990, sales from continuing operations were $1,269 million compared to $1,143 million in 1989, while net earnings from continuing operations were $23.3 million, or $0.93 per share, compared to $14.6 million or $0.53 per share, for the comparable period last year. Net earnings after taking into account discontinued operations rose to $0.98 per share in 1990 from $0.53 per share in 1989.

Arvin Chairman and CEO James K. Baker said, "Third quarter sales and earnings benefited greatly from the improved performance of our automotive original equipment businesses in both the U.S. and Europe. New applications, new products and new business added to revenues.

"The replacement parts businesses continued to be strong beyond seasonal trend and also surpassed last year's third quarter. This is the first time that Arvin auto parts sales have reached one billion dollars in the first three quarters. We continue to benefit saleswise from focusing our resources on our core businesses, as evidenced by our 14 percent volume increase vs. 3Q of 1989.

"In Europe, the increases were primarily due to sales of emission control products to existing as well as new customers. In the U.S., key factors were new products, new product applications with existing customers and new business with Japanese customers. Margins continued to improve as a result of past restructuring programs and increased volume."

Baker said that margins are not yet at acceptable levels; "however in light of soft automotive build rates, and with the political and economic uncertainty which characterized the quarter, the level of earnings per share confirmed that the profit potential of Arvin has increased as a result of strategic acquisitions and internal restructuring.

"The outlook for the fourth quarter indicates increasing recessionary pressures in the U.S. which will affect the auto industry. In spite of this, there is a good likelihood that our results for 1990 can measure up to our earlier expectations."

Jerre L. Stead, chairman, president and chief executive officer, said 1990 third quarter sales increased 6.2 percent to $428.6 million. He said net earnings were $31.9 million, an increase of 3.9 percent over $30.7 million a year earlier, and that net earnings per share were $1.30 or 4.8 percent higher than $1.24 in 1989. On a fully diluted basis, net earnings per share increased 5.9 percent to $1.26 from the $1.19 of a year ago.

Earnings per share from continuing operations of $1.30 were up 4.0 percent from $1.25 a year earlier, and on a fully diluted basis, earnings of $1.26 increased 5.0 percent over the $1.20 of 1989. He said operating earnings in the third quarter were $50.8 million, compared with $54.5 million in the year-ago period.

"Overall, we are pleased with our third quarter performance," said Stead. "In spite of continued weaknesses in residential and non-residential construction markets, we recorded sales gains in our domestic electrical distribution sector, mostly as the result of increases in sales of assembled electrical products. Our operating income in that sector declined because last year we had a stronger mix of higher margin distribution equipment business in the third quarter."

Stead added that sales and operating earnings for international businesses also increased for the quarter, while sales in the domestic industrial control sector were relatively flat.

Stead said that for the first nine months of 1990, Square D sales were $1.22 billion, compared to $1.21 billion in 1989 and net earnings of $93.3 million increased 3.0 percent over the $90.5 million a year earlier. Net earnings per share were $3.80, up 5.3 percent from the $3.61 of 1989. Fully diluted net earnings per share were $3.65, up 2.8 percent over the $3.55 of 1989.

For the nine-month period, earnings from continuing operations were $89.2 million, compared to $90.2 million last year. ANCHORAGE, ALASKA (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Martech USA, Inc. (NASDAQ: MUSA) today reported record revenue and earnings for the fiscal year ended Aug. 31, 1990. Revenue was $44,513,000 vs. $41,139,000 during the twelve-month period ended Aug. 31, 1989. Net income was $8,150,000, or 85 cents per share, as compared to $7,395,000, or 64 cents per share in the prior period.

"The results for fiscal 1990 reflect our entire organization's successful effort to diversify our customer base," stated Ben C. Tisdale, chairman and chief executive officer. Tisdale attributed the company's increase in revenue to an increased customer base in both the Alaska and California operations and the successful diversification into the environmental remediation business by the Gulf Coast operations headquartered in Louisiana. "During the 1990 fiscal year we performed 442 jobs for 183 customers. This compares to 365 jobs for 121 customers during the 1989 fiscal year."

During the fiscal year, Martech signed contracts with the governments of Czechoslovakia, Hungary and Poland to direct environmental remediation of abandoned Soviet bases. "We have built valuable, strong relationships with governments and industry in all three countries and have signed a number of individual contracts to perform remediation work at various industrial sites in all three of these countries," said Tisdale. "The governments in these three countries consider the poor states of their environment their most pressing problem, and Martech is playing a vital role in providing solutions. However, it is important to note that during fiscal 1990 these three countries accounted only 4 percent of our total revenues," he added.

Looking ahead, Tisdale noted that Martech enters fiscal 1991 with the highest backlog in its history with signed contracts for more than 30 percent of its projected revenue. "Our company offers the combination of scientific expertise and remediation capabilities in conjunction with our marine expertise which makes Martech one of the leading providers of complete, one-stop environmental remediation services," Tisdale added.

Martech USA provides a comprehensive range of environmental remediation services as well as specialized marine and construction services.

MONTREAL (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Dominion Textile (Montreal: DTX) today announced the restructuring of certain weaving operations in Canada which will result in the consolidation of its industrial fabrics production in Magog, Quebec, and the closing of a plant in Yarmouth, Nova Scotia.

A $5.5 million investment in replacement equipment and plant modernization will increase the efficiency of the Magog facility while allowing it to manufacture fabrics currently produced in Yarmouth. More than 130 permanent jobs will be created in Magog.

The 100-year-old Yarmouth plant, operated by Dominion Textile since 1973, will cease production in phases commencing in July 1991 and will be totally shut down in December 1991. It employs 330 people. In addition to the nine- to 14-month notice, employees will receive a severance package based on years of service.

Dominion Textile said the competitive position of both the Magog and Yarmouth plants was negatively affected during the past 18 months by low manufacturing volumes. The inevitable decision to consolidate the two operations favored Magog because a significantly lower capital investment is required to effect the consolidation of the industrial woven fabric business.

The 14-month notice given by the corporation will allow an orderly transfer of production to Magog, thus maintaining a high level of service to customers. The Dominion Industrial Fabrics Company manufactures fabrics designed and produced to customer specifications for industrial applications.

Dominion Textile also said that in conjunction with union representatives and appropriate government agencies, all available adjustment programs, including severance pay, retraining, relocation as well as a number of other services will be explored to assist affected employees.

CHARLOTTE, NC (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - NCNB Corp. (NYSE: NCB) today reported net income for the third quarter of 1990 of $57.0 million or 51 cents per common share. These results compared to net income of $143.6 million, or $1.45 per common share, in the third quarter of 1989.

Earnings in the current quarter reflected a provision for loan and lease losses of $146.4 million, a significant increase over the provision of $66.3 million in the year-earlier quarter. In addition, third-quarter 1989 results included a substantially larger contribution from gains on the sale of investment securities.

Net income for the first nine months of 1990 reached $334.5 million, an eight percent increase over the same period of 1989. Earnings per common share in 1990 were $3.15, compared to $3.30 per common share for the first nine months of 1989.

Excluding the effect of investment securities gains, net income for the first nine months of 1990 rose 25 percent to $304.9 million, and earnings per common share rose 11 percent to $2.85. Dividends per common share have risen 31 percent to $1.05 for the first nine months of 1990, while return on common shareholders' equity was 15.02 percent during this time period.

"NCNB's earnings this quarter reflect the difficult operating environment facing banks today," said Hugh McColl, NCNB Chairman. "Continuing increases in problem loans and loan losses, combined with the continuing deterioration of the U.S. economy, dictate our cautious stance on credit quality issues. This caution was illustrated by our decision to strengthen our reserve for loan and lease losses by $67 million in the third quarter, to $593 million."

"However, we continue to benefit from our broad franchise in the Carolinas, Florida, and Texas, markets that are relatively stronger than the nation as a whole," continued McColl. "This is evidenced by our ability to achieve loan and fee-based income growth in the face of a weaker national economy. And our balance sheet has maintained a high degree of liquidity and a solid capital position".

Using 1990 transitional guidelines, Tier I risk-based capital was $3.3 billion on September 30, 1990, or 6.31 percent of risk-weighted assets. This placed NCNB's ratio above the regulatory minimum guideline of 3.625 percent.

Total capital stood at $5.1 billion, or 9.70 percent of risk-weighted assets, compared to the minimum guideline of 7.25 percent. NCNB's current risk-weighted capital ratios also exceeded required levels under the final 1992 guidelines.

WEST LAFAYETTE, IND. (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Great Lakes Chemical Corporation (NYSE: GLK) today reported record earnings and revenues for both the third quarter and for the first nine months of 1990.

Record earnings for the 1990 third quarter of $35,429,000, or $1.01 per share, were 12 percent higher than the $31,655,000, or $.90 per share, reported in the same period last year. Revenues for the quarter rose 14 percent to a new high of $279,791,000 compared to the $244,805,000 posted in the third quarter of 1989.

For the first nine months of this year, net income gained 14 percent to an all-time high of $104,272,000, or $2.97 per share, versus the $91,461,000, or $2.62 per share, earned in the same period one year ago. Revenues of $811,831,000 also reached record levels, jumping 33 percent from the $610,169,000 registered for the first three quarters of 1989.

Emerson Kampen, chairman, president and CEO, commented, "The first nine months of 1990 have been extremely rewarding both from the standpoint of our record financial results, as well as showcasing Great Lakes' fundamental strengths. The company is well on the way to posting its best year ever during a period when the domestic economy has grown at a negligible rate and the chemical industry on average has shown year-to-year earnings drops in each quarter.

"Much of the growth," he continued, "has taken place in overseas markets. Sales outside the United States again reached new heights, reflecting the great strides we have made in augmenting the company's global presence. Flame retardant demand remained very strong, particularly in the Far East, and our wholly-owned subsidiary, Great Lakes Chemical (Europe) continued to show marked improvement from one year ago."

He added, "Our OSCA subsidiary and Octel Associates affiliate also contributed to the quarter's success. OSCA benefited from growing worldwide acceptance of its completion fluids technology, combined with a sharp increase in drilling activity. Octel demonstrated once again the steady, non-cyclical nature of its business."

He also pointed out that, despite the record levels achieved in the quarter, the company still felt the limiting effects of a soft economy. "Huntsman Chemical Corporation reported marginally lower earnings. A sluggish U.S. foundry industry held earnings from our furfural derivatives business to levels well below the second quarter and as compared to the third quarter 1989. However, I'm confident the furfural business is on the verge of returning to past growth levels based on our progress in improving production yields while reducing costs and developing new, value-added specialty chemicals."

Kampen concluded, "Our performance in the quarter and for the year to date clearly demonstrates the company's ability to register growth in the midst of a difficult business environment. Even though most economists don't agree as to what the future holds, I believe that our leadership positions in a diverse range of markets that span the globe, coupled with the introduction of new products in some key segments, will enable Great Lakes to make further progress in the months ahead."

Great Lakes Chemical Corporation, a Fortune 500 company, is the world's leading producer of bromine, brominated chemicals and furfural derivatives for such applications as flame retardants, agriculture, oil and gas well completion fluids, water sanitizers and other specialty applications. The stock of the company is traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

LOS ANGELES (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Ford Motor Company (NYSE: F) and the Arrowhead Water Corporation, a Perrier Group of America Company, today introduced the first mid-range heavy duty truck powered by methanol.

"What Ford learns about methanol as a heavy truck engine fuel could have important implications for future generations of heavy trucks, and for our nation's air quality," said Donald R. Buist, director of Ford's Automotive Emissions and Fuel Economy Office.

The joint project is sponsored by the California Energy Commission (CEC) and the South Coast Air Quality Management District (SCAQMD) as part of an Alternative-Fueled Truck Demonstration Program.

Charles Imbrecht, California Energy Commission chairman, is optimistic about the nation's first demonstration of methanol in heavy duty truck engines.

"California continues to lead the way in the development and testing of clean burning transportation fuels, and results from this demonstration program will confirm that one of these fuels -- methanol -- can measurably improve the state's deteriorating air quality," he said.

The methanol-powered Arrowhead beverage truck will be used to deliver bottled drinking water to residential customers in southern California. It is on display as part of the California Clean Air and New Technology Conference which opened here Oct. 15 and concludes today at the Los Angeles Westin Bonaventure Hotel.

Ford redesigned a Ford New Holland 6.6-liter diesel engine into a spark-ignition engine for operation with M85 methanol fuel (85 percent methanol and 15 percent gasoline) for use in Arrowhead's Ford F800 beverage delivery truck.

The dedicated methanol engine has sequentially timed, electronically controlled port fuel injection and a distributorless ignition system. It has been designed to meet the 1991 heavy-duty truck gasoline-engine emission standards established by the California Air Resources Board.

The joint program with the Arrowhead truck is scheduled to run for one year. At the conclusion of the program, Ford will evaluate the methanol engine compared to the diesel engine it replaced on the basis of customer acceptance criteria such as performance, driveability and durability.

CHICAGO (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - FMC Corporation (NYSE: FMC) today announced third quarter net income of $35 million, or $0.98 per share. This is a 2 percent improvement from 1989 third quarter earnings of $35 million, or $0.96 per share, before extraordinary items. Net income in the year-ago quarter after extraordinary items was $31 million or $0.86 per share. Sales rose 12 percent to $941 million for the quarter.

Strong performance by the defense systems segment offset weakness in industrial and performance chemicals. A favorable tax rate also improved the quarter's results.

Quarterly Review of Operations

Industrial chemicals sales rose 6 percent in the quarter to $248 million, but earnings declined. The margin reduction resulted from manufacturing problems at the phosphorus chemicals and lithium businesses during the quarter. Domestic demand is weakening across most of our chemical product lines.

Performance chemicals sales grew 5 percent in the quarter, but profits declined. Continuing difficulties in agricultural chemical markets, both domestic and international, hurt profitability for the segment.

Precious metals sales rose 5 percent in the quarter on higher gold and silver volumes. Volume increases were largely attributable to production from the relatively high-cost Royal Mountain King mine. Average realized prices for gold and silver in the quarter were comparable to the 1989 third quarter, including hedging gains. Higher-cost production offset the sales increase and resulted in lower profitability for this segment.

Machinery and equipment sales increased 9 percent in the quarter, and profits rose. The food machinery and petroleum equipment businesses led the sales increase. Backlog in petroleum equipment continued to strengthen during the quarter.

Defense systems sales jumped 27 percent, and profits rose substantially in the quarter because of the timing of deliveries of major orders to the U.S. Navy and M113 armored personnel carriers to international customers. During the quarter a $7.5 billion arms package for Saudi Arabia was submitted to the U.S. Congress. The proposal represents $150 million in sales for FMC and includes 200 Bradley Fighting Vehicles.

DANBURY, CT (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - The Linde Division of Union Carbide Industrial Gases Inc. began production of arsine this month at its new $16 million electronics gases center, located on a 188-acre site south of Kingman, Ariz.

Phosphine production is expected to being in November. Arsine and phosphine are two critical gases required for compound and silicon semiconductor fabrication.

When completed, this dedicated specialty process gases production facility will also mix and package a full line of ultrahigh-purity gases, including silane, dichlorosilane, etchant gases and inert carrier gases.

The facility is strategically located to serve the electronics industry in the United States. Some of its products will also be distributed overseas.

The Kingman Electronics Gases Center is designed to set new standards for quality, purity, and consistency to meet the ever-increasing demands of the semiconductor industry.

Using proprietary techniques and procedures developed by Linde, the facility's unique design and production capabilities distinguish it from all other specialty process gases facilities in the world. The facility also incorporates the best available safety and environmental technology to assure the safe processing, storage, and distribution of toxic gases.

Fill areas at the Kingman Electronics Gases Center will use the most advanced American and Japanese ultraclean components so that side-by-side comparisons can be made to determine which delivers the best performance.

To minimize particle contribution from the production environment, cylinders will be processed and filled in Class 10 enclosures within Class 100 cleanrooms. Electropolished piping systems using 316L stainless steel throughout will be used for all VLSI and ULSI gas production. Analytical equipment employed at Kingman will be capable of detecting many VLSI and ULSI gas contaminants to parts-per-billion levels.

A comprehensive Information Management System will facilitate statistical process control and statistical quality control data collection and analysis. The Kingman facility will also contain a separate development laboratory for continuous improvement of gas purity and consistency, analytical methods and contamination reduction.

MARTINSBURG, W.VA. (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Mountaineer Bankshares of W.Va. Inc. (NASDAQ-NMS: MTNR) today announced an increase in net income for the third quarter of 1990 and increased earnings for the first nine months compared to the same period last year.

Net income for the third quarter of 1990 increased by 256 percent to $1,107,000 or $0.42 per share compared to $311,000 or $0.12 per share for the same period in 1989. Those profits boosted earnings for the nine months ending Sept. 30, 1990, to $3,214,000, a 26 percent increase over the $2,556,000 earned the previous year.

Nine months' earnings per share were $1.22 in 1990 vs. $0.97 in 1989. Mountaineer's return on average assets through Sept. 30, 1990, was 0.81 percent compared to 0.63 percent last year.

"The large percentage increase in earnings results from comparing this year's earnings to 1989, which was a year of abnormally high credit losses and weak earnings," said Mountaineer Bankshares President Brent D. Robinson. "We have made some progress in the loan area, as charge-offs are down nearly a million dollars compared to last year, and our overhead expense has been reduced in excess of a half a million dollars year-to-date. However, our non-performing loans are high, which requires us to keep our allowance for loan losses at above 2 percent of outstanding loans, and we will probably not be able to further reduce our loan loss provision from its current levels for the next few quarters."

Mountaineer Bankshares is the holding company of five West Virginia banks, including Old National Bank, Martinsburg/Charles Town/ Berkeley Springs; The Empire National Bank of Clarksburg; City National Bank of Fairmont; The Bank of Wadestown, Fairview/Barrackville; and Mercantile Banking & Trust Co., Moundsville.

NEW YORK (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Family Circle, which has helped propel women's professional tennis to the prominence it enjoys today, has signed an multimillion-dollar contract with NBC-TV for a multiyear extension to broadcast the Family Circle Magazine Cup live from the Sea Pines Plantation Racquet Club, Hilton Head Island, S.C.

The Family Circle Magazine Cup enjoys the highest viewership of any all-women's tennis tourney. Ratings of the finals this year were up 35 percent, outpacing the women's finals of the French Open and comparable to the women's finals at Wimbledon.

When it premiered in 1973, the Family Circle Cup was the first all- women's pro tournament to be broadcast on network TV. The tournament over the years has served as the national television debut for many tennis careers. Jennifer Capriati was introduced to the tennis world as she took to the courts at last year's tournament, and Chris Evert started her new career in the broadcast booth.

"We have had a dedication and commitment to this tournament to make it the premier women's sports marketing event ever since we started it nearly 19 years ago," said Charles H. Townsend, president and chief operating officer of Family Circle. "A women's sports event of this scale creates a tremendous opportunity for corporate sponsors. The Family Circle Magazine Cup was the prototype, and it has been developed to the point where it has become the most powerful sports marketing event of the year," he added.

The finals of the tournament this year had a 3.5 rating, or approximately 11 million viewers. "Research shows that the tournament is very attractive in garnering professionals and upper income groups as viewers," Townsend said. The tournament is held over five days and includes the network broadcast of the tennis semifinals and finals, golf, on-site brand marketing and product visibility, and guest packages for entertaining key customers or for incentive meetings. Each Family Circle Magazine Cup sponsor receives a custom-tailored multimedia/promotional package maximizing its tournament involvement.

Sponsors are given a package of advertisements in Family Circle and Tennis magazine and commercial time during the NBC live broadcast of the matches. Television includes two 30-second network spots per day (four total) plus exclusive identification for official cup sponsors via national TV billboards. Promotional packages and worldwide media coverage add additional reach.

Also included in the sponsorship package are on-site sampling/display booths for the more than 37,000 attendees, on-court signage, and tournament guest entertainment packages for business meetings or entertaining.

NBC will broadcast the semifinals of the tournament live from the Sea Pines Plantation Racquet Club from 4 to 6 p.m. on Saturday, April 6, and the finals from 1 to 3 p.m. on Sunday, April 7, 1991.

Family Circle magazine is the world's largest-selling women's magazine and is published every three weeks by The New York Times Company Magazine Group.

HARTFORD, CONN. (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Society for Savings Bancorp, Inc. (NASDAQ: SOCS) today reported a net loss of $3.6 million in the third quarter ended Sept. 30, 1990 or 30 cents per share, down from $9.1 million or 76 cents per share in net income for the same period last year. Net income for the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1990 was $2.4 million or 20 cents per share, a decrease of $23.8 million or $2 per share when excluding the effect of two material non-recurring items in 1989. These two items in the second quarter of 1989 were a gain from the sale of the credit card portfolio and an acceleration of goodwill amortization (expense), which increased earnings by $14.5 million on an after-tax basis.

Net interest income for the third quarter ended Sept. 30, 1990 was $27.8 million compared to $27.0 million for the third quarter ended 1989. Shareholders' equity decreased $24.8 million from $270.6 million at Sept. 30, 1989 to $245.8 million one year later. This decrease represents for the most part a $25.8 million unrealized loss on its marketable equity securities portfolio at Sept. 30, 1990. The ratio of equity to assets was 5.77 percent at Sept. 30, 1990 as compared to 6.25 percent a year earlier. Total assets were $4.3 billion at Sept. 30, 1990 unchanged from Sept. 30, 1989. Total loans were $2.7 billion on Sept. 30, 1990 down from the $2.9 billion at Sept 30, 1989.

Non-performing assets were $164.8 million at Sept. 30, 1990, an increase of $74.1 million from Dec. 31, 1989 and an increase of $65.4 million since Sept. 30, 1989. Non-performing assets were 3.87 percent of total assets, consisting of $109.1 million of non- accrual loans, $37.0 million of repossessed assets, $4.7 million of performing loans restructured to lower interest rates and $14.0 million of loans delinquent more than 90 days but still accruing interest. Total allowance for loan losses was $49.5 million, an increase of $15.5 million since Dec. 31, 1989 and $12.6 million from Sept. 30, 1989. The ratio of the allowance for loan losses to total loans was 1.80 percent at Sept. 30, 1990.

Society attributes its current loss in the third quarter 1990 and lower year-to-date 1990 earnings to the increased level of commercial real estate non-performing assets. The rising level of non-performing assets has led to an increase of $2.7 million in the loan loss provision in the third quarter of 1990 over the same period in 1989. The total loan loss provision is $16.7 million for three months ended Sept. 30, 1990. Overall, 1990 loan loss provision is $34.6 million at Sept. 30, 1990, an increase of $13.2 million, when compared to the prior year's provision for the same nine month period. Increased non- performing assets also reduced the net interest margin and operating expenses have grown because of an increase in problem loan workout costs and in the carrying costs of foreclosed property and repossessed assets.

AUSTIN, Texas (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - The Continuum Company, Inc. (AMEX: CNU) announced that it has acquired through a wholly-owned subsidiary, ownership of 99.8 percent of the outstanding ordinary shares of Computations Holdings Limited of Sydney, Australia, pursuant to a share exchange offer dated Oct. 12 1990, and pursuant to a majority shareholders' agreement dated Oct. 17, 1990, between Continuum and the three largest shareholders of Computations. Computations' three largest shareholders were the Government Insurance Office of New South Wales, the State Authorities Superannuation Board and Computations Pty. Limited.

In consideration for the ordinary shares of Computations, Continuum issued

1,746,970 shares of its common stock. Approximately 3,030 Continuum common shares will be issued for the remainder of Computations' outstanding ordinary shares.

Computations is an international consulting and computer services firm providing computer software and services to the financial services industry, primarily life and property and casualty insurance companies. In addition to Computations' presence in the United States and in the United Kingdom, the acquisition of Computations represents an extension of Continuum's business due to Computations' presence in Australia and in Northern Europe. Assets acquired include the software products COGEN, COLOSSUS AND CLOAS. COGEN is a comprehensive software system for the property and casualty insurance industry. COLOSSUS is an expert system for the valuation of bodily injury claims. CLOAS is an administrative system for life insurance companies.

For the year ended June 30, 1990, Computations' revenues totaled $41,400,000 and net losses were $27,200,000. Losses included significant non-recurring expenses and included losses attributable to operations not being acquired by Continuum; in any event, Continuum believes the June 30, 1990 results are not indicative of future performance.

Immediately on closing, Continuum has begun a restructuring of the operations of Computations, with Continuum senior management installed in Sydney and in the United Kingdom and European operations of Computations. The restructuring will include a reduction in personnel and a combination of Computations' United Kingdom facilities into Continuum's United Kingdom facilities.

Continuum will account for its acquisition of Computations as a purchase. Costs associated with the restructuring will be provided for as of the date of acquisition.

The acquisition agreements provided that, among other things, Computations would dispose of its ownership in its U.S. and Canadian subsidiaries prior to closing. Computations would assume certain of the contractual obligations of such subsidiaries, however, Continuum and Computations would be indemnified against losses under the assumed contracts.

Cash balances at closing were approximately $12 million. The acquisition agreements provide for post-closing adjustment of cash amounts under certain conditions.

Additionally, the acquired businesses had no bank debt at closing, exclusive of obligations pursuant to a research and development syndication which are substantially offset by research and development syndication funds on deposit.

Continuum expects to file with the Securities and Exchange Commission today a Form 8-K report which will include the referenced agreements as well as audited financial statements of Computations.

The Continuum Company is an international consulting and computer services firm based in Austin, Texas, serving the needs of life insurance and other financial services companies for computer software and services.

MINNEAPOLIS (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - First Bank System, Inc. (NYSE: FBS) today reported third quarter 1990 net income of $35.3 million, an increase of $5.4 million, or 18.1 percent, from the second quarter of 1990. Earnings of $6.1 million were reported in the same period a year ago. On a per share basis, earnings were $.39 in the third quarter of 1990 compared with $.38 in the second quarter of 1990 and $.01 in the third quarter a year ago.

The improvement in net income from the prior quarter reflects a $3.8 million increase in net interest income on a taxable-equivalent basis and a $3.8 million reduction in noninterest expense offset partially by a $4.0 million increase in the provision for credit losses.

The Comptroller of the Currency recently completed its annual credit examination of the company's lead bank in Minneapolis without requiring any increase in the aggregate level of the allowance for credit losses. Provision for credit losses in the third quarter of 1990 was $35.0 million compared with $31.0 million in the second quarter and $35.5 million in the third quarter of 1989. Domestic net charge- offs were $46.3 million in the third quarter of 1990 compared with $42.5 million in the second quarter and $46.9 million in the same period a year ago. Domestic nonperforming assets were $356.7 million at Sept. 30, 1990, compared with $364.1 million at June 30, 1990, and $328.6 million at Sept. 30, 1989.

Results in the third quarter of 1990 also reflect tax benefits related to the utilization of operating loss carryforwards of $.07 per share compared with $.03 per share in the second quarter.

First Bank System's Chairman, President and Chief Executive Officer, John F. Grundhofer said, "Our third quarter results reflect the steady progress we are making in rebuilding the company. Our restructuring program has now been underway for a year. As a result, First Bank System is well positioned to meet the challenge of today's difficult banking environment. Even so, we continue to believe that nonperforming asset levels may be volatile over the next several quarters."

SEATTLE (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - The Washington Water Power Company (NYSE: WWP) today reported increased earnings from continuing operations for both the third quarter of 1990 and the 12 months ended Sept. 30, 1990, primarily as a result of strong performance by its electric operations.

Total earnings for both reporting periods reflect a one-time gain from the third quarter sale of the company's coal mining assets. WWP's subsidiary, Widco, sold its 50 percent interest in the Centralia Coal Mine to the mine's co-owner, PacifiCorp, on July 31, 1990.

The resulting non-recurring after-tax gain of $13.5 million resulted in total consolidated earnings per share for the third quarter of $0.81, as compared with earnings of $0.20 per share for the same quarter in 1989. Earnings from the company's continuing operations during the third quarter amounted to $0.33 per share.

For the 12 months ended Sept. 30, 1990, total earnings per share, including the gain from the coal mine sale, were $3.54. Earnings from continuing operations for the 12-month period were $2.82, compared with earnings of $2.53 per share from continuing operations for the same 12-month period in 1989.

Net Income for the third quarter was $18.8 million on revenue of $119.1 million versus earnings of $4.4 million on revenue of $113.9 million in the third period 1989. For the 12-month period, earnings were $80.3 million on revenue of $549.1 million as compared with net income of $61 million on revenue of $506.4 million in the same period last year.

Paul A. Redmond, WWP chairman and chief executive officer, said the improvement the company achieved in its utility operations was the most significant development of the third quarter.

"Third quarter earnings from continuing operations increased a full 65 percent - from 20 cents per share a year ago, to 33 cents per share this year," Redmond said. "Strong performance by our utility operations, primarily in our retail electric sales, accounted for 29 cents of that 33-cent total for the quarter."

He said the retail electric revenue increase during the quarter resulted from increased air conditioning loads caused by warmer than normal temperatures in July and August.

Continued warm weather delayed the normal start of the heating season in late September, Redmond said, which reduced retail electric usage and revenues late in the quarter and caused a slight decline in gas consumption on a per-customer basis for the entire period.

CHICAGO (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Continental Bank Corporation (NYSE: CBK) today reported third-quarter net income of $40 million, or $0.58 per common share, compared with $65 million, or $1.04 per common share, in the third quarter of 1989. Net income increased $30 million over the same period last year, excluding a gain of $55 million on the sale of a London office building recognized in the 1989 third quarter.

Continental's income from continuing operations was also $40 million in the 1990 third quarter, compared with $93 million, or $1.55 per common share, in the 1989 third quarter. Income from continuing operations increased $2 million over the same period last year, excluding the $55 million gain. On this basis the increase in income from continuing operations resulted primarily from higher combined trading profits and lower employee expense, partially offset by a higher provision for credit losses.

Income from continuing operations was $20 million higher than second quarter 1990, excluding the second-quarter establishment of a $46 million reserve to cover the cost of realigning product lines and a $21 million loss on the sale of long-held investment securities. The improvement primarily was due to higher revenues and lower operating expenses.

"We accomplished a great deal in the third quarter," said Continental Chairman Thomas C. Theobald. "When you factor out last year's real estate gain, we're performing on a better pace than we were a year ago. In fact, on a quarterly basis our core business results are the best we've recorded in the last five quarters.

"Also encouraging is the fact that we reduced operating expenses from the 1989 third quarter," Theobald added. "Maintaining a tight rein on costs is absolutely crucial. We got a jump on many of our competitors by taking decisive action in the 1990 second quarter, and we will persist in our efforts to control expenses going forward."

For the first nine months of 1990, Continental reported net income of $40 million, or $0.24 per common share, compared with $205 million, or $3.28 per common share, a year ago. Income from continuing operations totaled $56 million, or $0.53 per common share, for the first nine months of 1990, down from $263 million, or $4.37 per common share, a year ago.

WILKES-BARRE, PA (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - First Eastern Corp. (NASDAQ: FEBC) today reported net income fell to $1.66 per share for the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1990, down 31 percent from $2.42 a year earlier.

For the quarter, net income per share was $.46 compared to $.81 last year, a drop of 43 percent.

A primary reason for these results was a large increase in the provision for loan losses. This was due in part to a higher level of nonperforming assets and a building of the allowance for credit loss in a time of uncertainty. The year-to-date provision was increased to $15.4 million, as compared to $5.3 million a year earlier, while the provision for the quarter was increased to $6.5 million, as compared to $1.7 million.

"In this quarter, we continued to add substantially to our reserves against future loan losses," noted Richard M. Ross Jr., chairman and chief executive officer. "These increases protect the company against individual loans that have shown signs of weakness, as well as categories of loans which could develop problems in the future.

"We believe that these increases have allowed First Eastern to anticipate any potential deterioration in its loan portfolio due to current and foreseeable adverse economic trends. In fact, we believe these writedowns are in many cases in excess of the losses that experience tells us we may eventually sustain," Ross said.

In general, northeastern Pennsylvania, First Eastern's primary marketplace, has not felt the erosion in real estate values to anywhere near the same degree as New Jersey and New England, Ross said, adding: "Commercial vacancy rates remain very low and there have been no unsuccessful multifamily housing units or retail shopping areas built."

However, Ross noted that while a slowdown in the growth of the Pocono area will affect customers, "we believe the size of our individual extensions plus the conservative loan to value standards we have used in our underwriting will minimize any possible loss."

Overall, year-to-date net earnings were $16.6 million, down 30 percent from $23.6 million last year for the nine months ended September 30, 1990. Quarterly earnings were $4.6 million, down 42 percent from $7.9 million a year earlier.

Net earnings of $7 million increased 20 percent from $5.8 million in the third quarter of 1989. Sales for the latest quarter rose 10 percent to $96.3 million from $87.9 million. All per-share figures reflect the two-for-one stock split effective Aug. 24, 1990.

The company's nine-month results showed similar gains as net earnings and net earnings per share rose 23 percent to $22.7 million, or 92 cents per share, from $18.5 million, or 75 cents per share, in the prior year. Crompton & Knowles' sales for the nine months were up 7 percent to $289.1 million from $270.7 million in 1989.

Third quarter results from the company's two business segments were as follows:

Specialty Chemicals Sales of the company's specialty chemicals business increased 12 percent in the quarter, with particularly strong gains in the foreign dyes and the domestic industrial dyes businesses. In the textile dyes market, demand for dyes used on cotton and cotton knitwear blends remained high in the United States and in Europe. During the quarter the company concluded the acquisition of Atlantic Industries, Inc., thereby broadening its existing textile and paper dyes business and increasing its production capacity. Sales of specialty ingredients remained virtually unchanged from the prior year primarily due to an ongoing program of rationalizing certain spice and seasoning business.

Specialty Process Equipment & Controls While overall industry demand in the plastics extruder market weakened, the company increased its sales 2 percent as it gained market share. The company's current order backlog is at $28 million, up $1 million from the second quarter. During the quarter Crompton & Knowles brought onstream a new extrusion technical center and introduced new specialized extruders for the growing plastics recycling and engineered plastics compounding markets.

WASHINGTON (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - The U.S. House of Representatives has approved legislation offered by U.S. Rep. Doug Walgren (D-Pa.) to protect senior citizens who buy health insurance to fill in the gaps in current Medicare coverage, it was announced today.

The House approved the Walgren measure as part of the House Budget Reconciliation package adopted Tuesday night. The Senate is expected to include a similar proposal, offered by U.S. Sen. John Heinz (R-Pa.), in its Budget Bill.

"This bill ought to be called the Elderly Protection Act of 1990," said Walgren, who chairs the Consumer Protection Subcommittee, which has jurisdiction over health insurance.

"Senior citizens spend millions of dollars each year on overlapping and duplicative health insurance coverage," Walgren said.

"It should not require a Ph.D. in insurance to make sense out of all the competing insurance policies advertised to senior citizens," Walgren added. "But that is what it takes to sort out the current confusion over what Medicare and Medicaid covers and does not cover and what gaps in Medicare coverage that private 'medigap' insurance really fills.

"It is long past time that we tried to make things more understandable to the health insurance consumer," Walgren said.

In addition, Walgren said that the proposed bill also contains important protections for consumers on policy renewability, eligibility, duplication and state supervision.

"I am confident that this urgently needed legislation will help our seniors in selecting only those health care policies that are necessary."

CHICAGO (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - FMC Gold Company (NYSE: FGL) today reported third-quarter net income of $10.9 million compared with net income of $11.6 million in the third quarter of 1989.

During the quarter, gold production increased, and gold prices were higher. However, higher costs caused by lower grades and increased heap-leach production offset the revenue improvement. Earnings per share in the third quarter were $0.15 compared with $0.17 in 1989, reflecting the 8 million new shares issued to Burlington Resources in exchange for Meridian Gold Company.

Third Quarter Results

Sales for the third quarter of 1990 were $42.2 million compared with $38.4 million last year. The average realized price of gold increased to $381 per ounce from $369 per ounce in the third quarter of 1989. The average realized price of silver declined to $4.88 per ounce from $5.19 per ounce in the year-ago period.

In the third quarter, FMC Gold produced 89,000 ounces of gold compared with 84,000 ounces in the same period last year. Gold production in the third quarter included 14,000 ounces from the Royal Mountain King, Calif., mine. At the Paradise Peak, Nev., mine, gold production declined reflecting an expected decrease in mill ore grades, partially offset by increased heap leach production. At the Jerritt Canyon, Nev., mine (30 percent owned by FMC Gold), gold production increased, reflecting higher mill throughput and improved performance of the ore-roasting circuit.

Cash production costs increased during the third quarter to $169 per gold equivalent ounce compared with $131 per gold equivalent ounce last year, due to higher-cost Royal Mountain King production and higher costs at Paradise Peak.

FMC Gold held $100 million in cash and cash equivalents at the end of the quarter and realized interest income of $2.2 million, compared with $1.1 million last year.

SPRINGFIELD, IL (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Firstbank of Illinois Co.

(NASDAQ-NMS: FBIC) today announced net income and net interest income reached record levels in the third quarter ended Sept. 30, 1990.

For the quarter, net income increased 10.1 percent to $3,067,000, or 56 cents per share, from $2,765,000, or 51 cents per share, in the comparable period a year ago. Net interest income for the quarter before loan loss provision increased 10.6 percent in the third quarter to $11,432,000 from $10,338,000 in the comparable period a year ago.

Net income for the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1990, rose 15.1 percent to $8,996,000, or $1.65 per share, from $7,814,000, or $1.45 per share, in the year-ago period. Net interest income for the nine months before loan loss provision was $32,756,000, a gain of 10.5 percent from last year's $29,652,000. For the nine months, the provision for possible loan losses increased to $1,641,000 from $1,261,000 in the 1989 nine months.

On a trailing 12 month basis, net interest income for the period ended Sept. 30, 1990 increased 11.3 percent to $43,377,000 from $38,956,000 in the comparable period a year ago. The provision for possible loan losses was $2,695,000, an increase of 44.0 percent from the previous period's $1,871,000. Net income rose 16.5 percent to $11,878,000, or $2.18 per share, from $10,196,000, or $1.89 per share, a year before.

Mark H. Ferguson, Firstbank's president and chief executive officer said, "These record results marked the eighth consecutive quarter in which earnings have exceeded the prior reporting period. The primary reason for this trend is the improvement in the composition of our earning asset base resulting in our net interest margin increasing to 4.54 percent from 4.49 percent in the 1989 period. Our strong earnings performance has allowed us to increase our provision for loan losses to cover loan portfolio growth as well as charge-offs, while continuing to report record earnings.

"The acquisition of City Bank of Bloomington-Normal, completed April 20th, has contributed to our improved results. Earnings from the date of the acquisition through the end of the third quarter represented an annualized return on average assets of 1.63 percent, while total assets grew from $14.5 million to $20.2 million in the period. The growth in earnings and assets at City Bank means that the transaction has had no dilutive effect to Firstbank in the first year."

COSTA MESA, CA (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Arthur E. Svendsen, chairman of the board of the managing general partner of Standard Pacific L.P. (NYSE: SPF) today announced third quarter results.

For the third quarter ended Sept. 30, 1990, Standard Pacific earned $9,233,000 ($.34 per unit) on revenues of $90,136,000. This compares with earnings of $20,601,000 ($.75 per unit) on revenues of $102,139,000 a year ago.

For the nine months, net partnership income was $44,824,000 ($1.63 per unit) on revenues of $300,036,000. For the same period a year ago, the partnership earned $70,281,000 (2.56 per unit) on revenues of $315,076,000. The 1989 partnership income was positively impacted by a gain of approximately $1.5 million ($.06 per unit) from the sale of an industrial building located in Orange County, Calif.

Standard Pacific's earnings and new order trends continue to be impacted by both a softening of the California housing market as well as a change in its product mix. Market conditions have necessitated increases in certain sales and marketing costs versus the prior year.

Svendsen also announced that the board of directors has declared a $.20 per unit cash distribution payable Nov. 29, 1990, to unitholders of record on Nov. 15, 1990. Svendsen confirmed the 1990 general distribution policy of the partnership which is to pay approximately 60 percent of per unit earnings in the form of distributions.

In announcing the results, Svendsen also reported the estimated taxable income per unit for the third quarter ended Sept. 30, 1990, of approximately $.30 per unit, based on the partnership's inside tax basis.

MINNEAPOLIS (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Government officials, civic leaders, and industry executives joined Minnegasco, Inc. here today in ceremonies marking the opening of Minnegasco's South Lyndale natural gas vehicle fueling station.

The station, located at 501 W. 61st St., in Minneapolis, is the largest public natural gas vehicle fueling station in the United States. It is also the first facility of its kind open in the Upper Midwest.

Gary N. Petersen, executive vice president and chief operating officer of Minnegasco, said he expects the station to serve as a prototype for similar sites as natural gas begins to emerge as a viable alternative fuel for vehicles in the 1990s.

The state-of-the-art facility was designed and constructed by Minnegasco to serve the growing needs of its natural gas-powered fleet, as well as natural gas vehicles operated by the company's commercial fleet customers. Currently, more than 100 Minnegasco vehicles and over 100 customer vehicles in Minnesota operate on natural gas.

The station can fill four vehicles simultaneously using a quick-fill process that takes between two and five minutes. To use the station, drivers insert a computer-read credit card into a reader that keeps track of mileage between fuelings and the volume of gas in each vehicle. A sophisticated computer converts the same information into gasoline equivalents.

The fueling station also features a 200-square-foot natural gas vehicle education center. The center houses an interactive display, video screens, brightly colored graphics, photographs, and customer testimonials which inform the public about the use of natural gas as a vehicle fuel.

The American Gas Association estimates that there are 30,000 cars, trucks and buses running on natural gas in the United States. Worldwide, some 700,000 vehicles are fueled by natural gas.

Minnegasco, Inc., the natural gas distribution company of Diversified Energies Inc. (DEI) (NYSE: DEI), serves more than 650,000 residential, commercial and industrial customers in 234 communities in Minnesota, Nebraska, and South Dakota.

DEARBORN, MI (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - The following statement may be attributed to John P. King, Parts and Service Engineering Office manager, Ford Parts and Service Division:

Ford Motor Company (NYSE: F) is providing owners of about 407,000 1989-90 Thunderbird and Cougar vehicles with extended warranty coverage on front brake rotors and linings for 24 months or 24,000 miles, or until May 31, 1991, whichever provides the greater coverage.

In some cases, uneven front brake rotor wear could cause the vehicle to vibrate and the steering wheel to shake during braking. Less than one-third of the vehicles at 24,000 miles are expected to experience any of these symptoms.

To correct this condition, dealers will install revised front brake rotor and new disc brake linings, although Thunderbird SC and Cougar XR7 models will only get the new rotor. Due to a parts availability condition, letters informing customers to have the work performed by their dealer will be done on a staggered basis across the country.

The company will contact all owners by mail to notify them of the extended coverage and will cover all costs of parts and labor. Of the vehicles affected approximately 382,182 are located in the United States, 20,967 in Canada, and 4,373 in export locations.

ST. LOUIS (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - General Dynamics Corporation (NYSE: GD) reported net earnings of $68.5 million, or $1.63 per share, for the third quarter of 1990 on sales of $2.5 billion, compared to $76.5 million, or $1.83 per share, on sales of $2.5 billion, in the year-ago period.

"The decline in net earnings is primarily due to the third-quarter reduction of the earnings rate on the F-16 aircraft program," said Stanley C. Pace, chairman and chief executive officer. "This reduction is partially attributable to costs associated with the activity returning the F-16 deliveries to contract schedule during the quarter, but also gives some recognition to the cost pressures as we transition to lower production rates. We hope that the F-16 earnings rate can return to higher levels once we have adjusted to the lower production rates."

Whereas net earnings for the first nine months in 1989 were $210.3 million, or $5.03 per share, on sales of $7.4 billion, for the same period in 1990 there was a net loss of $47.8 million, or $1.15 per share, on sales of $7.6 billion. This loss includes a special after-tax charge of $330 million, or $7.91 per share, against second-quarter earnings. This charge is attributable primarily to cost overruns on the A-12 aircraft program. Significant uncertainties continue to exist with regard to that aircraft program.

The company's backlog of funded U.S. government orders at the end of the third quarter was $17.3 billion and total backlog (funded and unfunded) was $24.8 billion, the latter amount representing approximately 2.4 years in sales. Comparable amounts at the same time in 1989 were $16.5 billion and $28.3 billion.

"Third-quarter results reflect a decrease in the company's interest expense by more than one-third from the year-ago period," Pace said, "adding 13 cents per share to this quarter's earnings over the previous year's. This primarily reflects favorable results in our cash flow management program."

Pace also noted these additional positive events: -- Deliveries of F-16 aircraft from Fort Worth division were returned to contract schedule by the end of September, two months ahead of projected recovery.

-- Prospects for international sales of the M1 Tank increased, particularly to U.S. allies in the Gulf region.

-- Another five consecutive successful tests of the sea-launched Tomahawk Cruise Missile were conducted, bringing the year's total to 16 successes out of 16 launches. Tests included the first coordinated mission of Tomahawk with tactical aircraft.

-- The Advanced Cruise Missile continued to receive high acclaim for exceptional performance in its flight testing program.

-- The first prototype of the Advanced Tactical Fighter being built by the Lockheed/Boeing/General Dynamics team successfully completed its first flight on Sept. 29. The second YF-22 prototype is scheduled to begin its flight test program in the near future. The two aircraft are expected to fly a combined total of about 100 sorties during the remainder of 1990.

-- The first launch in General Dynamics' Commercial Space business took place on July 25, when an Atlas I lifted a research satellite into orbit from Cape Canaveral. Since that launch, General Dynamics Commercial Launch Services has signed contracts for its 23rd and 24th commercial launches. Atlas is also scheduled to launch 10 military missions for the Air Force.

-- General Aviation sales were up 25 percent over 1989, principally due to the continuing momentum of Cessna's Citation V deliveries. Cessna also announced plans to build the Citation X, which will be the world's fastest business jet. The Citation X will cruise just under the speed of sound, enabling it to fly non-stop from New York to Los Angeles in barely four hours.

NEW YORK (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - The Dallas-Fort Worth Airport Authority entered into the largest forward commitment interest rate swap ever executed on a tax exempt basis. The swap also represents the first interest rate swap ever transacted in the state of Texas for a municipal entity.

The purpose of this interest rate swap is to lower the interest payments which the airport currently makes on $243,650,000 of its outstanding bonds. These bonds which cannot be advanced refunded carry coupons of 10 percent or more.

The swap structure includes a forward commitment by the airport to refund the outstanding bonds at their first call dates (1992 and 1994), coupled with a delayed-start swap which generates savings immediately.

This structure is unique because, unlike other forward refunding products in the municipal marketplace, it allows all or a portion of the savings to be realized before the redemption of the outstanding bonds. The main savings benefits derived this structure include:

-- By entering into the swap, the airport realized savings (beginning Fiscal Year 1991) of approximately $36.5 million (gross basis) or in excess of $21 million (present value basis). These savings represent roughly 9 percent of the par value of the bonds to be refunded.

-- The airport will use the average annual savings of approximately $2.6 million to reduce landing fees to the carriers serving Dallas-Fort Worth Airport by approximately 6 cents per thousand pounds of landed weight.

"Due to the recent tax reform and our inability to take advantage of advanced refunding techniques, we worked with our financial advisers on interest rate swaps and other forward delivery products. These efforts resulted in millions of dollars in savings that allows the board to immediately reduce its landing fees," director of finance Richard S. Williams said.

The First Southwest Company is financial advisor to the Dallas-Fort Worth Airport Authority.

Merrill Lynch is acting as principal is this swap transaction and will act as senior manager for the underwriting of the refunding bonds to be issued by the Airport in 1992 and 1994. Co-managers include the First Boston Corporation, APEX Securities and W.R. Lazard & Laidlaw Inc.

ATLANTA (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Crawford & Co. (NYSE: CRDB), a diversified service firm providing claims services, risk management services, health care management and risk control services to insurance companies, corporations and self-insured entities, today reported financial results for the third quarter 1990, ended Sept. 30.

F.L. Minix, chairman and chief executive officer, stated that revenue from services provided totaled $114.3 million, an increase of nearly 16 percent over the third quarter 1989 revenue of $98.7 million. Pretax income was $13.9 million, an improvement of 15.7 percent over the comparable period of 1989, and net income was $8.7 million, a gain of 17.3 percent. Earnings per share were $0.25 for 1990 compared with $0.21 for 1989.

Revenue for the first nine months of 1990 was $334.7 million, up 23.6 percent over 1989 revenue of $270.7 million. Pretax income totaled $38.9 million, an improvement of 16.5 percent over the comparable period of 1989, and net income was $24.4 million, a gain of 17.2 percent. Earnings per share were $0.69 for the first nine months of 1990, compared with $0.59 for 1989.

"I am especially pleased with the third quarter 1990 results," Minix said, "because we were able to exceed the third quarter 1989 revenue which included a record $14 million in catastrophe-related services. While our catastrophe revenue during the third quarter of 1990 was $6.1 million, the real growth came from our health care management services and our non-catastrophe claims and risk management services provided to insurance companies and self-insured corporations. Health care management services revenue increased 29 percent over the third quarter of 1989 while revenue from claims and risk management services was up 25 percent.

"Another positive factor during the third quarter 1990," Minix stated, "was that our operating and administrative expenses, which had been outpacing our revenue gains during the first half of the year, came more in line with revenue growth, and this had a very favorable effect on our third quarter profit margin."

GREENVILLE, S.C. (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - The results for Carolina First Corporation's (NASDAQ: CAFC) third quarter of 1990 were announced today by company president, Mack I. Whittle, Jr. He stated that net income for the first three quarters of 1990 had increased by over 22 percent from the earnings of the same period last year. For the nine months earnings were $898,000 or $.34 per share compared to $733,000 or $.28 per share in 1989. Assets at September 30, 1990, were $333,042,000 an increase of 12 percent from the 1989 level of $296,381,000. Stockholders' equity for the 1990 period end totaled $29,994,000 compared to $28,593,000 at the same time in 1990. Mr. Whittle pointed out that it is important to note that the results for both years reflect the operations of Carolina First Bank as well as First Federal of Georgetown, which was acquired by Carolina First Corporation on August 31, 1990. Per share data has also been restated to reflect our second 5 percent stock dividend paid October 1, 1990.

Mr. Whittle stated: "This has been an exciting quarter for Carolina First. At the end of August we completed the merger with First Federal Savings and Loan of Georgetown, adding $118 million in assets, $12 million in equity, four offices in Georgetown and fifteen thousand deposit accounts. This merger of a healthy thrift by a South Carolina Bank Holding Company was one of the first such transactions to occur in South Carolina. At the first of October we also announced reaching an agreement with American Federal Savings Bank of Greenville to acquire their two offices in Anderson, South Carolina. This transaction allows us to purchase over $20 million in deposits representing the entire American Federal City of Anderson operation, a market they have been in since 1982. These advances would not be possible without the strong base we had in place with Carolina First Bank. These two acquisitions required only minimal upgrading of the Bank's data processing operation. This further confirms our initial decision to purchase data processing equipment that could drive a financial institution much larger than we were in our early months of operation. The continued strong performance of the Bank has given us the ability to make these moves that will provide benefits in the future."

President Whittle continued: "For the third quarter the earnings of Carolina First Bank were 22 percent higher than that of a year ago and were 15 percent higher in the first nine months of 1990 than the same period in 1989. Over the past twelve months the Bank's loans have grown 32 percent to be at $153,744,000 as of the end of September. At the same time the quality of these assets has continued excellent with non-accruing loans and loans greater than 30-days past due being .63 percent of total loans at the end of the quarter. We feel that in the 90's financial institutions will need strong capital, quality assets and to offer superior products and services to prosper and grow. We know that Carolina First has these qualities."

Carolina First Corporation is a $360 million asset financial company consisting of Carolina First Bank, a state-chartered bank headquartered in Greenville, and of First Federal Savings and Loan of Georgetown, a federally-chartered savings and loan. Both are full-service, community-oriented financial institutions offering a broad range of commercial and consumer banking services. The Company operates, through its subsidiares four offices in Greenville County and five in Georgetown County. The Company was organized in 1986 following an October initial public offering of stock. Through this offering, $15 million in capital was raised, earning Carolina First the distinction of being the largest bank holding company created in South Carolina. Its stock is traded on the over-the-counter market under the NASDAQ symbol CAFC. Market markers of Carolina First Corporation include J.C. Bradford, Interstate/Johnson Lane Securities and Robinson-Humphrey Company, Inc. It is a widely-traded stock with over two million shares and over 2,500 outstanding shareholders.

FORT WORTH, TEXAS (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Robert H. McLean, chairman of the board and president of Buffton Corp. (AMEX: BFX), announced today the environmental investigation of the company's real property in Vestal, N.Y., which has been underway for six years, is nearing conclusion. The final tests have recently been completed, and based on these favorable test results, the company has concluded that the costs of the remedial work to be performed on the property will be immaterial.

In making the announcement, McLean stated, "As a result of these favorable test results and the remedial action recommended by our environmental experts, we are reversing the $1 million accrual for clean-up costs which was charged to operations in our fourth quarter ending Sept. 30, 1989."

McLean further stated, "We are delighted with the results of the investigation of our property. We are also pleased with the efforts of the United States Environmental Protection Agency in helping to bring about a cost effective, expeditious solution to this matter. As we have previously reported, Buffton's responsibility in this matter arose solely because of the fact the company purchased the real property at the Vestal facility, and not because Buffton contaminated the property. Our manufacturing process at the facility has not contaminated the environment."

McLean concluded that, "The reversal of the $1 million accrual will result in a positive impact of an estimated 16 cents per share, net of taxes, in our fourth quarter. More importantly, we believe that the resolution of this matter will remove the apparent concern in the investment community as to the nature and extent of this problem."

PHOENIX, ARIZ. (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Callahan Mining Corp. (NYSE: CMN) today reported a nine-month loss of $1,346,000, equivalent to $.18 per share, compared with a loss of $3,300,000, or $.43 per share, for the first three quarters of 1989. Comparative revenues were lower, $10,575,000, vs. $22,064,000, a year ago, because of the shutdown of the Ropes gold mine.

The loss for the third quarter was $345,000, or $.05 per share, compared with a loss of $763,000, or $.10 per share, for the same period in 1989. Third quarter revenues were $3,341,000 vs. $7,923,000 last year.

Consolidated silver revenues from the Galena and Coeur mines in Idaho were $442,000, vs. $493,000 for the first nine months of 1989. The average silver price realized by Callahan during the period declined to $4.85 per ounce from $5.25 per ounce in the prior year. Silver revenues included $63,000 in minimum royalties which are payable to Callahan when Galena has a cash deficit.

Another revenue source, the Flexaust Co., Callahan's wholly owned manufacturing division, reported a 9 percent decline in pretax income on a 3 percent drop in nine-month sales. A 9 percent fall-off in sales during the most recent quarter was attributable to the softening economy.

IRVINE, CA (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Medstone International Inc. (NASDAQ: MSHK) today reported a net loss of $2,324,437, or $.50 per share, for the third quarter ended Sept. 30, 1990, on revenues of $1,738,566. This compares with a net loss of $1,648,279 or $.34 per share for the quarter ended Sept. 30, 1989, on revenues of $1,177,402.

For the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1990, Medstone incurred a net loss of $3,688,701 or $.79 per share, compared to a net loss of $1,473,173, or $.30 per share, for the similar period in 1989.

The third quarter loss resulted from unsuccessful efforts to secure a shippable order for a lithotripsy system, operating expenses not in line with revenues and legal expenses associated with the shareholder class action suit. However, recurring revenue has increased by 55 percent contributing $1,535,414 in sales for the third quarter.

"The domestic market for the purchase of a renal lithotripter is very slow. We are aggressively pursuing the replacement market and lower volume users with our Fee-For-Service Program, and are beginning to make progress," stated Richard Ferrari, president and chief operating officer. "Medstone is in an enviable position with approximately $9,000,000 in cash, no debt, a product approved for kidney stone treatment, and a backlog -- all strong indicators," Ferrari continued. "We have taken the necessary actions to bring operating expenses in line with expected revenue. The challenge before us is to return the company to profitability, preserve our cash, capture a greater share of the renal lithotripsy market and find additional products for the company," he added.

"Medstone's backlog for equipment sales is $1,950,000, plus five Fee-For-Service contracts. I am optimistic that Medstone's backlog and continued recurring revenue growth generated through the Fee-For- Service Contracts currently in place will return Medstone to profitability," Ferrari concluded.

Medstone International Inc., the Irvine manufacturer of the Medstone STS was established in 1984 to develop and market medical systems and equipment for non-invasive shockwave lithotripsy. Medstone was granted approval by the FDA in April 1988 for general clinical use of the STS on kidney stones and is pursuing FDA approval for its use on gallstones.

ARLINGTON, VA. (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Gannett Co., Inc., (NYSE: GCI) announced today that earnings for the third quarter of 1990 were $79,403,000, or 50 cents per share. In the year-earlier quarter, net income was $83,135,000, or 52 cents per share.

Results in 1989 included a gain on the sale of a Spanish-language newspaper.

Revenues increased slightly in the quarter to $829,861,000, compared to $827,882,000 in 1989. Operating income fell 9 percent to $150,606,000 from $166,031,000.

For the first nine months of 1990, net income declined 4 percent to $259,671,000 from $270,140,000. Earnings per share were $1.62, compared to $1.68 in 1989. Revenues in 1990 totaled $2,537,056,000, down slightly from last year's $2,549,615,000. Operating income declined 9 percent to $481,201,000. For the first three quarters of 1989, operating income was $526,667,000.

In a letter to shareholders, Gannett said consolidation of the retail industry continues to impact advertising demand. The prospect of new taxes and higher energy prices has challenged consumer confidence, exaggerating the pressures on retailers, which are traditionally among the company's largest advertisers.

Newspaper advertising revenues declined 3 percent in the third quarter, reflecting a 5 percent decline in ROP advertising volume and reduced newspaper advertising in Detroit, where a joint operating agency was implemented Nov. 27 1989. Retail linage was down at most newspapers, and classified volume reflected lower demand for auto, help wanted and real estate advertising.

At USA Today, paid advertising pages totaled 734 in the quarter, compared to 785 in the year-earlier period. Year-to-date, ad pages numbered 2,525, compared to 2,735 in 1989. Because of rate increases reflecting higher readership, advertising revenues advanced 5 percent in the quarter and 3 percent year-to-date.

Broadcasting revenues increased 4 percent in the quarter, while outdoor revenues advanced 3 percent.

Gannett is a nationwide news and information company that publishes 82 daily newspapers, including USA Today, and USA Weekend, a newspaper magazine. It also operates 10 television stations, 15 radio stations, and the largest outdoor advertising company in North America.

ARLINGTON, VA. (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Bell Atlantic (NYSE: BEL) will use "spread spectrum" radio communications technology from Omnipoint Data Company, Inc., this fall in what is believed to be the first test of wireless telecommunications applications that does not require the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) to re-allocate radio frequency spectrum from existing uses.

"The development of efficient wireless communications technologies marks an important step in the evolution of an information-age telecommunications network that will meet the needs of customers in the 21st century," said John Seazholtz, Bell Atlantic vice president of technology planning and information services.

"Bell Atlantic believes the value of wireless personal communications services will be further enhanced when these are deployed in a way that combines the best features of today's computer-controlled telephone network with radio communications technologies," said Seazholtz. "The day will come, for instance, when a telephone network computer can be programmed to recognize a person's location and then route calls accordingly as the person moves from place to place." Bell Atlantic is the first regional Bell company to announce such a wireless trial using spread spectrum technology in radio frequency bands usually reserved for industrial, scientific and medical equipment, known as the "ISM bands." The FCC generally allows unlicensed use of spread spectrum technology in the ISM bands provided the devices pass FCC certification and operate under the rules governing these bands. The company will begin its tests when Omnipoint gains approval from the FCC for experimental testing of its equipment in these frequencies.

Unlike most of the experimental license requests to the FCC for wireless personal communications services, Bell Atlantic's proposal does not require re-allocation of spectrum from existing uses. This means commercial products and services could be deployed quickly.

Bell Atlantic's objectives during its trial of the Omnipoint equipment are to gain information about desirable features for service offerings, as well as technical data on radio frequency propagation, resistance to interference, antennae location, the number of co-located users, and how best to interface the wireless technology with Bell Atlantic's network.

"This contract with Bell Atlantic represents a major step forward in Omnipoint's efforts with the local exchange industry to develop a nationwide public use application for spread spectrum technology," said Douglas G. Smith, president of Omnipoint.

CLARENDON HILLS, ILL. (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - MAF Bancorp, Inc. (NASDAQ-NMS: MAFB), the parent holding company of Mid America Federal Savings Bank, reported today that earnings for the first quarter ended Sept. 30, 1990 increased 61 percent from the same period a year ago. Earnings for the first quarter of fiscal 1991 totalled $1.65 million, or $.47 per share, compared with $1.03 million for the year earlier period. Earnings per share for the prior year period are not meaningful because the bank did not complete its conversion from mutual to stock form of ownership until January of 1990.

The substantial increase in first quarter earnings resulted primarily from an improvement in net interest income after provision for loan losses. This principal component of the bank's core earnings increased 13.4 percent to $7.1 million from $6.3 million in the year earlier period. This improvement resulted principally from earnings generated from the investment of stock conversion proceeds as well as from a decrease in the balance and the cost of interest-bearing liabilities, offset by an increase in the provision for loan losses. Although up slightly from June 30, 1990, the ratio of non-performing assets to total assets remains very good at .85 percent as of Sept. 30, 1990. Non-interest income remained stable at $2.3 million in the current year quarter compared with $2.4 million in the prior year quarter.

Increases in loan servicing fee income and other fee income from customer products and services were offset by declines in income from real estate operations and gains on loan and security sales. Loan servicing fee income improved to $844,000 in the current quarter from $688,000 one year ago while other non-interest income, which includes fee income on various products and services, increased to $1.3 million from $1.1 million a year ago. Income from real estate operations declined to $68,000 in the current quarter compared to $162,000 in the year earlier period while net gains from loan and security sales were $137,000 in the current period compared to $471,000 in the year earlier period.

The current quarter's results also showed a favorable decline in non- interest expense, which decreased to $6.9 million from $7.1 million last year. This decrease reflects positive results from the bank's cost reduction program which was implemented in early 1990. Compensation, occupancy and advertising expenses all declined in the current quarter compared to the prior year quarter while certain other expense categories showed only modest increases.

At Sept. 30, 1990, the company had total assets of $1.54 billion, down slightly from the $1.60 billion of assets at fiscal year ended June 30, 1990. Deposits decreased to $1.18 billion from $1.21 billion at June 30, 1990. Stockholders' equity, all of which is tangible capital, improved to $56.3 million from $54.4 million at year end 1990. The company's book value per share was $15.97 at Sept. 30, 1990 based on 3,525,000 shares outstanding.

CHICAGO (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - The American Medical Association today announced it filed a complaint in U.S. District Court against Carme, Inc., which manufactures and markets "Allercreme," for a preliminary and permanent injunction to stop the company from using a non-existing AMA "Seal of Approval" on its products.

According to the complaint, filed in U.S. District Court's Northern District of Illinois -- Eastern Division, Carme has been marketing since June its products with an AMA "Seal of Approval." The defendant has used the seal in its consumer advertising campaign and on its product labels.

"As stated in our complaint, this representation is false. Not only does the AMA not endorse or approve Allercreme products, the AMA does not endorse any other consumer product. The AMA once had a 'Seal of Acceptance' program for consumer products, but it was discontinued in 1955 -- over 35 years ago," said Kirk B. Johnson, J.D., general counsel of the AMA.

According to Johnson, even within the scope of the pre-1955 Seal of Acceptance program, the defendant's promotional materials are false and misleading. The seal used for Allercreme is not a true representation of any AMA seal. In addition, Carme has not proven to the AMA that the particular products displaying the seal as currently manufactured were ever reviewed or accepted by the AMA. Carme began its current campaign without notifying or seeking permission from the AMA.

Prior to 1955, the Texas Pharmacal Co. was authorized to display the AMA Seal of Acceptance for Allercreme. That authorization ended with the discontinuation of the seal program in 1955 and Texas Pharmacal Co., as were other companies, was notified of the program's end. Carme was never part of the original agreement.

Under the original pre-1955 program, all products and product claims were reviewed individually, said Johnson. Therefore, acceptance of one product did not constitute acceptance of another product bearing the same name, he said.

GLENS FALLS, NY (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Imcera Group, Inc. (NYSE: IMA) is poised to increase net sales of $1.4 billion in 1990 to about $2.3 billion and more than double its return on invested capital to 15 percent by 1994, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer George D. Kennedy told shareholders attending the company's 81st annual meeting of shareholders here today.

Kennedy said Imcera's substantial increase in earnings in the first quarter of 1991 reported earlier today reflects the kind of performance step-up necessary to reach these 1994 targets.

"We've accomplished our transformation from commodity to technology businesses put investment and strong management into place and simplified our capital structure well enough to set our sights on these objectives," Kennedy said. To do so, he noted that Imcera's net sales would increase from 1990 to 1994 at a compound annual rate of 13 percent.

Kennedy said net sales for Imcera's three businesses - Mallinckrodt Medical, Mallinckrodt Specialty Chemicals and Pitman-Moore - are projected to increase from 1990 to 1994 at compound annual rates of 17 percent, 11 percent and 12 percent, respectively, with the companies' combined operating margins averaging about 15 percent in the period.

Raymond F. Bentele, Imcera executive vice president and president and chief executive officer of Mallinckrodt, Inc., reported on notable 1990 accomplishments in finances, new product introductions, manufacturing, safety, and community activity.

"We concluded 1990 with over $35 million more in cash than expected, primarily due to the dramatic improvement in inventory and receivables control by Pitman-Moore," Bentele said.

"The Coopers acquisition moved us further into international markets, and we managed investments worldwide through strong financial monitoring and control. Despite currency fluctuations in Latin America and Europe, we moved smoothly through the year."

Bentele said sales of Mallinckrodt Medical's non-ionic contrast medium, Optiray(R), are running "well ahead" of expectations and "we expect to introduce it in Europe in fiscal 1991. "We are currently awaiting approval in West Germany, Japan and Canada and seven other European countries."

Bentele cited "tremendous improvements in manufacturing capability" at several plants, including start on a new Optiray facility and aromatic fluorine intermediates plant in St. Louis and continued improvements in operations in Erie, Pa., and Raleigh, N.C., and a new acetaminophen plant in Chesterfield, United Kingdom.

MINNEAPOLIS (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - TCF Financial Corporation (NYSE: TCB), parent company of TCF Bank Savings fsb (TCF Bank), today reported net income of $4.1 million for the third quarter ended Sept. 30, 1990, compared with $5.5 million for the 1989 third quarter and a net loss of $32.3 million for the 1990 second quarter.

The 1990 third quarter results included $669,000 in pre-tax gains from asset sales, compared with $3.5 million in the same 1989 period. Earnings per share were 57 cents for the 1990 third quarter, compared with 75 cents for the 1989 third quarter and a net loss per share of $4.47 for the 1990 second quarter.

For the first nine months of 1990, TCF had a net loss of $25 million, compared with 1989 nine month earnings of $16.1 million. The nine month loss per share was $3.47, compared with earnings of $2.22 per share for the first nine months of 1989.

The 1990 third quarter results represent a return to profitability for TCF, which reported a 1990 second quarter net loss due to a balance sheet restructuring that included a $25 million provision for loan and real estate losses, the closing of its Texas thrift subsidiary and write-off of $13.1 million of goodwill, and a net gain of $224,000 from asset sales.

TCF Chairman and Chief Executive Officer William A. Cooper said TCF's third quarter results showed continued improvement in core operations. "In a very difficult period for financial institutions, TCF has managed to continue its progress of improving net interest margin, reducing interest rate risk, increasing fee income, controlling operating expenses, and reducing non-performing assets," said Cooper.

Net interest income for the third quarter was $24.5 million, up from $21.4 million for the 1989 third quarter, but down slightly from $24.7 million for the 1990 second quarter. TCF's net interest margin for the 1990 third quarter was 2.52 percent, up from 1.93 percent for the 1989 third quarter and 2.40 percent for the 1990 second quarter.

Year-to-date net interest income and net interest margin were $73.7 million and 2.43 percent, respectively, up from $69.4 million and 1.97 percent for the first nine months of 1989. TCF's operating results remain susceptible to changes in short-term interest rates.

TCF realized gains of $669,000 on sales of loans and investments in the third quarter, compared with $3.5 million in the 1989 third quarter. Year-to-date, TCF realized gains of $893,000 on sales of loans and investments and the sale of loan servicing, compared with 1989 nine month gains of $10.5 million on sales of loans and investments, the sale of loan servicing, and settlement of certain of its pension plan obligations.

PHILADELPHIA (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Consolidated Rail Corp. (NYSE: CRR) today reported third quarter earnings per share of $1.50 (fully diluted basis) an 18.1 percent increase over third quarter 1989 earnings per share of $1.27.

Net income was $72 million, a decrease of 17.2 percent vs. third quarter 1989 net income of $87 million. Third quarter 1990 revenue was $847 million, a 1.4 percent increase vs. third quarter 1989 revenue of $835 million.

James A. Hagen, Conrail's chairman, president and chief executive officer, said the net income decline was anticipated because of Conrail's financial restructuring earlier this year, which he described as "part of Conrail's continuing commitment to provide maximum value to shareholders."

The restructuring comprised a $1.1 billion first quarter Dutch auction tender offer followed by a $200 million open market stock purchase program (completed in the third quarter), and resulted in higher net interest costs. The number of common shares outstanding at Sept. 30, 1990, was 40.3 percent lower than at Sept. 30, 1989, because of the tender offer and open market stock purchase program.

For the first nine months of 1990, net income was $171 million ($3.23 per share, fully diluted basis) vs. nine-month 1989 net income of $229 million ($3.34 per share), a decrease of 25.3 percent in net income and a decrease of 3.3 percent in earnings per share. Revenue for the first nine months of 1990 was $2.53 billion, a decrease of 2.2 percent vs. the $2.59 billion in revenue for the first nine months of 1989.

"We are pleased with Conrail's performance during the third quarter, which was in line with our expectations. Although revenue was relatively stable, Conrail has continued to control costs and improve efficiency. One measure of this success is ton miles per employee, which increased 19 percent compared to the third quarter of 1989," said Hagen.

"As solid as the third quarter has been, the troublesome economic outlook for the remainder of the year and 1991 concerns us," said Hagen. "At the very least, we expect to see a continuation of the unfavorable traffic mix we have experienced during the past year, with higher volumes of low-revenue freight, such as coal, and lower volumes of high-revenue freight, such as motor vehicles.

"Rising fuel prices will impact our performance in the fourth quarter. We also expect pricing pressure to continue to dampen revenue, despite a four percent increase effective October 1 for much of our non-contract traffic."

COLUMBUS, OHIO (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Huntington Bancshares Incorporated (NASDAQ: HBAN) today reported net income of $2.1 million for the third quarter of 1990 compared with $28.2 million earned in the same period one year ago. These results reflect the impact of management's decision to increase Huntington's allowance for loan and lease losses by an additional $31.6 million. At Sept. 30, the allowance totalled $113.9 million or 1.50 percent of total loans and leases and 136.9 percent of non-performing loans.

For the first nine months of 1990, net income was $57.8 million versus $81.4 million reported in 1989. Earnings per share were $.04 for the three months and $.99 for the nine months ended September 30, 1990. These figures compare with $.50 and $1.45 for the corresponding periods last year.

"We continually perform a comprehensive review of the loan portfolio, current economic conditions and other pertinent factors to determine the adequacy of the allowance for loan and lease losses. Faced with an anticipated period of declining economic activity, we determined the increase in the allowance to be prudent," stated Frank Wobst, chairman and chief executive officer of Huntington Bancshares Incorporated. "While this action significantly reduces earnings for the third quarter, it puts us in a strong position as we end 1990 and enter the new year. We expect our earnings for the fourth quarter to return to a level that is comparable with prior periods."

During the third quarter, the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency conducted a rigorous examination of Huntington's principal subsidiary, The Huntington National Bank, which included a special review of its real estate loan portfolio. This exam did not have a material impact on Huntington's third quarter operating results.

"The Company's asset quality and capital ratios remain in the top quartile of the largest 50 banks in the country. In fact, we do not expect Huntington's charge-offs for the year to exceed .55 percent of average loans and leases - dramatically below current industry averages," Wobst commented. "Our decision to increase the allowance for loan and lease losses will not affect Huntington's current dividend policy."

The third quarter had many strengths. Average total loans and leases increased 9.5 percent from the third quarter of 1989 to the same period this year. Commercial, consumer and mortgage loans were largely responsible for this increase. Average total deposits also showed good growth up 8.6 percent from the third quarter one year ago.

Net interest income, on a fully tax equivalent basis, increased 8.5 percent from the third quarter of last year. This was primarily due to loan growth and increases in lower cost deposits. The net interest margin improved to 4.17 percent in the third quarter of 1990 from 4.09 percent in the second quarter of this year, and was comparable with the margin of 4.19 percent in the third quarter of 1989.

Huntington's capital levels continue to be well above regulatory guidelines. Average equity to average assets increased to 6.67 percent for the third quarter of 1990 from 6.47 percent for the same period last year. Primary capital to total assets was 7.39 percent at Sept. 30, 1990 versus 7.02 percent one year ago.

Results reported for 1990 include the Sept. 28, 1990 acquisition of First Home Federal Savings and Loan Association, a $200 million company headquartered in Sebring, Florida.

Huntington Bancshares is a $12 billion regional bank holding company headquartered in Columbus, Ohio. The Company's banking subsidiaries operate 261 offices in Ohio, Florida, Indiana, Kentucky, Michigan, Pennsylvania, and West Virginia. In addition, Huntington's mortgage, trust, investment banking, and automobile finance subsidiaries manage 32 offices in the seven states mentioned as well as, Delaware, Illinois, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Rhode Island, and Virginia.

Huntington's common stock is traded on the NASDAQ National Market System using the symbol "HBAN."

SANTA CLARA, CALIF. (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Integrated Device Technology Inc. (NASDAQ: IDTI) (IDT) today announced results of operations for the second quarter of fiscal year 1991. Revenues for the second quarter ended Sept. 30, 1990 were $49,503,000, down from revenues of $54,118,000 for the like period a year ago, and an increase over revenues of $49,080,000 for the first quarter of fiscal 1991.

Net income for the second quarter was $250,000 compared to $260,000 in the prior quarter. Earnings per share for the second quarter were $.01, compared to $.22 for the second quarter of fiscal year 1990. Shares used in calculating earnings per share for the quarter decreased to 25,592,000 from 25,644,000 for the second quarter of fiscal year 1990.

"The second fiscal quarter was disappointing. Orders booked during the quarter for shipment within the quarter did not meet with our expectations," said D. John Carey, chairman and executive officer. "Our problems were primarily centered in the TTL I/O SRAM area and continued to be related to two sources. The first was significant competition in the high-speed SRAM marketplace which resulted in lower selling prices. The second was delays in bringing to market very high-speed versions of some of our SRAMs. These delays meant that we were unable to offer for sale the highest-speed version of some of our products, and this further aggravated already severe pricing pressure.

"Considerable progress was made during the quarter on new high-speed versions of 16K x 4, 8K x 8, 32K x 8 and 64K x 4 SRAMs," continued Carey. "These new designs are in various stages of completion, and we expect to sample or ship limited quantities of most of these products during the December quarter. In addition, our new world-class, six-inch wafer fabrication area has achieved limited qualification, and we expect to achieve qualification on several significant products this quarter."

WILMOT, WIS. (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Stronger sales coupled with control of operational expenses and improved inventory management enabled Gander Mountain Inc. (NASDAQ-NMS: GNDR), the mail order and retailer of outdoor sporting goods, to today report record earnings for the first quarter ended Sept. 30, 1990. Net income was up 10.0 percent to $1.1 million when compared to the first quarter of last year.

Ralph L. Freitag, chairman and president, stated, "The record performance of the company was achieved despite economic uncertainty and consumer cautiousness which plagued most of the mail-order industry. We continue to devote attention to our basic plan of strengthening our core business, better management of our margins and building our infra- structure for the future."

RESULTS OF OPERTAIONS The company's net income for the first quarter ended Sept. 30, 1990, increased 1 ?percent to $1.1 million from the $1.0 million reported in the same quarter last year. Earnings per share rose to $.40 per share from the $.36 per share reported in the first quarter of 1989.

Net sales increased to $34.5 million for the quarter, up from the $32.7 million reported in the same quarter last year and up from $29.2 million without the effect of the two subsidiaries divested in fiscal 1990.

Gross margin as a percent of net sales from the core business of outdoor sporting goods remained flat at 34.9 percent compared to 35.0 percent in the same three months of last year.

Total operating expense increased 5.6 percent from the $9.4 million reported in the first quarter of fiscal 1990. Without the effect of the two divested subsidiaries, operating expense increased $1.9 million to $9.9 million. Other expense declined $270,000 to $285,000 for the same period.

PERFORMANCE ANALYSIS Commenting on the financial performance, Freitag indicated "that our strategic focus which began last year and directed toward enhancing our core business of outdoor sporting goods, continued to show very positive results despite a generally unfavorable economic climate. Our sales have been tracking very close to our plan with our retail component performing extremely well.

"Our operating expense, without the effects of the two subsidiaries divested in 1990 and additional expenses related to our catalogs, has increased slightly when compared to the first quarter of last year. Our current quarter also reflects the costs of the additions to our management team and the costs to improve our operations," Freitag added.

"The attention to the operations and inventory management is evident in our lower borrowing costs. Enhanced inventory management has improved our cash flow and reduced our dependency on external bank borrowing," said Freitag.

MARKET INFORMATION Gander Mountain, Inc. is a customer-oriented specialty merchandiser primarily serving the outdoor recreation market through mail-order catalogs and retail outlets. The company's stock trades on NASDAQ National Market System; its symbol is GNDR.

MENOMONEE FALLS, WI (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - F&M Financial Services Corp. (NASDAQ: FMFS) today announced that net income for the third quarter of 1990 increased 10 percent to $1,108,000, or $0.37 per share, compared to $1,005,000 or $0.34 per share, for the same period in 1989.

Net income for the first nine months of 1990 was $2,493,000, or $0.84 per share, compared to $2,694,000, or $0.98 per share, a year ago. The current nine-month figures reflect F&M's decision to add an extra $1,223,000 to the loan loss reserve -- in addition to the planned increases to the reserve -- primarily during the second quarter of 1990. Excluding this additional charge, year-to-date net income would have been $1.09 per share. At Sept. 30, 1990, the loan loss reserve was 1.27 percent of total loans outstanding, as compared to 1.03 percent at Dec. 31, 1989.

"Our decision to increase the loan loss reserve in the second quarter strengthened F&M's balance sheet," said Richard P. Klug, chairman, president and chief executive officer of F&M. "Third- quarter earnings benefited from the general stability of the net interest margin, which was 4.69 percent (based on average earnings assets) for the quarter. We are pleased to report these improved earnings, particularly given the difficult economic and industry environments we currently face."

Total assets as of Sept. 30, 1990, were $689 million. Deposits rose to $602 million during the first nine months of the year, up 14 percent from Sept. 30, 1989. Net loans were $473 million at Sept. 30, 1990, up 15 percent from the same time last year. At Sept. 30, 1990, nonperforming loans were 1.45 percent of total loans.

"We continue to focus on the quality and diversity of our loan portfolio," Klug said. "Asset quality is a key priority at F&M -- so important that we have incorporated it as a measure in our employee performance and reward system."

F&M Financial Services Corp. is a diversified multibank holding company headquartered in Menomonee Falls, Wis., with 34 banking locations throughout the state. F&M also has four nonbank subsidiaries, which are: F&M Trust Co., Inc.; Leasenu, Inc., a full-line leasing company; F&M Insurance Services, Ltd.; and F&M Realty, Inc.

Revenues for the quarter were $78,844,000 compared with revenues of $39,577,000 for the same quarter a year ago, an increase of 99 percent. Net income was $14,314,000 or $0.33 per share compared with net income of $3,912,000 for the same period a year ago or $0.11 per share, adjusted for the company's recent two for one stock split.

SHELTON, CONN. (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Data Switch Corporation (NASDAQ: DASW) today reported that sales growth continued in the third quarter, resulting in record quarterly revenues and cash flow from operations.

Revenues for the three months ended Sept. 30, 1990, were $31,499,000, a 30 percent increase over revenues of $24,164,000 in 1989s third quarter. Net income was $998,000, or 9 cents per share, versus $109,000, or 1 cent per share, a year ago. The current period's income included an extraordinary gain of $165,000, or 2 cents per share, representing an upward adjustment of the first quarter gain resulting from the company's debenture exchange.

For the nine months of 1990, revenues were $89,106,000, with net income of $4,559,000, or 40 cents per share, compared with 1989s nine month revenues of $75,959,000 and net loss of $2,245,000, or 20 cents per share. Included in the nine months results was an extraordinary gain of $2,378,000 or 21 cents per share, from the debenture exchange.

Commenting on third quarter results, Robert G. Gilbertson, president and chief executive officer, said, that revenue improvements resulted from steady growth in both domestic and international sales. "All product lines did well," he said, "and data communications product sales were strengthened by initial shipments of the Universe distributed communications matrix switch, announced early in 1990."

"However," Gilbertson said, "profits were adversely affected by a larger provision for obsolete materials than we normally have, other write-downs, and a slight variance in product mix. We experienced the impact of these adjustments in the third quarter and expect gross margins next quarter to improve."

Gilbertson also pointed out that both inventories and receivables wee reduced during the period. Inventories declined to $25 million by the quarter's end, 12 percent lower than the $29 million three months ago. Receivables dropped by 14 percent, from $37 million to $32 million.

"These improvements," he said "had a direct positive effect on our balance sheet, contributing to cash flow in excess of $10 million during the quarter. This, in turn, enabled us to further reduce our debt, as we continued to strengthen the company's financial position."

Looking ahead, Gilbertson said that sales activity in the final quarter "is expected to continue along current trends, given backlog and momentum. We are carefully watching for effects in the marketplace of IBM's recent product announcement, although indications are that customers view it as a strategic direction and do not plan to move rapidly to the new architecture. Because we had anticipated the IBM product changes, we are well positioned with our current products and products under development to meet present and future customer needs."

Data Switch Corporation is a leading manufacturer of management and control systems for data processing and data communications applications.

#90290p6210 10/17/1990 ~PR Newswire

LATROBE, PA (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Kennametal Inc. (NYSE: KMT) reported today that sales and earnings for the quarter ended Sept. 30, 1990 increased over the same period a year ago.

Sales for the September 1990 quarter were $152 million, up 12 percent from $136 million last year. Net income was $6.9 million, or $0.66 per share, up seven percent from $6.5 million, or $0.62 per share last year.

Quentin C. McKenna, chairman of the board and chief executive officer, said that sales growth resulted primarily from the acquisition of J&L America Inc. (J&L) last January, continued strong demand for metalworking products in Europe and coal and construction tools in the United States and favorable foreign currency translation effects of a weaker U.S. dollar.

Sales in Kennametal's traditional, U.S. metalworking business remained flat for the second consecutive quarter. McKenna stated that the weak U.S. economy and fears of a possible recession limited sales growth in the U.S. market. The company increased prices of traditional metalworking products in the U.S. during the past week, the first such increase in over a year.

In reviewing the operating results, McKenna noted that the gross margin percentage increased from 41 percent to 42 percent primarily as a result of cost reductions and productivity improvements in the company's non-U.S. manufacturing operations. Higher interest expense and amortization costs were directly related to the acquisition of J&L.

GIS Supply, an industrial supply company acquired in June 1989, again incurred an operating loss in the September 1990 quarter. The operating loss, coupled with interest expense and amortization of intangible assets acquired, lowered Kennametal's earnings per share by about ten cents in the September 1990 quarter.

While the operating loss was higher than a year ago, it was substantially lower than the operating loss sustained in the June 1990 quarter. While GIS Supply's sales have increased over the past year, operating expenses have also increased in order to support GIS Supply's long-term strategy of becoming a national distributor of industrial tools and supplies.

During the September 1990 quarter, the company reduced the operating losses in its United Kingdom operations as compared with a year ago. The improvement in the U.K. is the result of higher sales and improved margins arising from manufacturing rationalization programs implemented in the second quarter last year.

For the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1990, the company reported a net loss of $12.5 million ($.47 per share) on net revenues of $165.5 million. The net loss for the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1989, was $27.6 million ($1.05 per share) on net revenues of $203.2 million. TAYLOR, MI (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Heritage Bankcorp, Inc. (NASDAQ: HEBC) today reported that net income for the quarter ended Sept. 30, 1990, was $917,000 as compared to $573,000 for the same period one year ago.

Earnings per share were $0.43 per share for the three months ended Sept. 30, 1990. For the three months ended Sept. 30, 1989, earnings per share were $0.21 based upon historical earnings since the issuance of common stock (Aug. 10, 1989) and $0.32 per share based upon pro forma earnings as if the common shares were issued on July 1, 1989.

E.G. Wilkinson Jr., president and chief executive officer, stated that "the increase in quarterly income reflects the strong core earnings of our company." The company continues to report core earnings from operations at a time when market forces are challenging the performance of many financial institutions.

"During this period, our shareholders continue to own a company characterized by consistent earnings and strong capital. On Oct. 15, 1990, we paid a $0.13 per share cash dividend. That payment represents the fourth quarterly dividend since our stock offering."

During the quarter, the Office of Thrift Supervision ("OTS") completed a full regulatory review of the company's subsidiary Heritage Federal Savings Bank. The OTS review resulted in $7.2 million of additional loans being classified as loans of concern.

The additions to the bank's loans of concern include $6.0 million of "performing - nonperforming" loans. "Performing - nonperforming" loans include loans which are paid-to-date and have not had a delinquent payment in the past 12 months.

Certain "performing - nonperforming" loans have been renegotiated and contain additional repayment arrangements not included in the original note. Additionally, the bank allocated $1.0 million of its general allowance for possible loan losses specifically against the "performing - nonperforming" loans.

As of Sept. 30, 1990, total nonaccruing loans, loans of concern and real estate owned were $21.4 million and the allowance for possible loan losses to nonaccruing loans, loans of concern and real estate owned was 22 percent.

Wilkinson also emphasized that the bank continues to exceed all fully phased-in regulatory capital requirements as of Sept. 30, 1990. The bank's capital ratios are: tangible 4.8 percent, core 5.8 percent, and risk based 13.0 percent.

BERKELEY, CALIF. (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Paperback Software International confirmed today that they had reached a settlement with Lotus Development Corp. (NASDAQ: LOTS) in their landmark four-year old lawsuit over copyright infringement. Paperback Software has agreed to stop selling their VP-Planner spreadsheet products on Dec. 1, 1990. In June of this year, a federal court in Boston ruled that Paperback's spreadsheet program, VP-Planner, infringed Lotus' copyright on the user interface of their spreadsheet program, 1-2-3.

According to Paperback Software President, Steven Cook, "Reaching a settlement with Lotus allows us to concentrate on the marketplace instead of the courtroom. We plan to immediately solidify our position as the number one supplier of expert system development tools for personal computers." Cook contintued, "Walking away from the copyright issue is not what we wanted to do since we still strongly disagree with the judge's opinion. However, this settlement is simply our best business alternative. Since the lawsuit was filed nearly four years ago, our customers have been very supportive but we've had to bear the entire burden of the litigation. This is an industry battle that is best carried on by participants with greater resources."

WASHINGTON (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Consumer complaints about having long distance service switched among carriers have been exaggerated for competitive reasons, an MCI official told a congressional subcommittee today.

"Our records indicate that less than one-half of 1 percent of consumers have errors in carrier selection changes," said Eugene Eidenberg, MCI executive vice president. Testifying before the House Committee on Government Operations' Subcommittee on Government Information, Justice and Agriculture hearing, Eidenberg urged Congress, "Do not be taken in by AT&T's self-interest in preserving its market share, but focus on consumer concerns and interests.

"AT&T's motives are clear in stemming the loss of their customers who switch to other long distance companies for better value and quality service," said Eidenberg. "AT&T continues to lose more than 100,000 customers a week to its competitors and they are resorting to tactics that impair the telemarketing practices of these other long distance companies.

"The real goal of this subcommittee should be to ensure the absolute integrity and zero fault tolerance of the telemarketing practices of long distance companies," continued the MCI official. "MCI supports this ideal and last week submitted to the Federal Communications Commission a five-step plan to protect consumers against unauthorized switches."

MCI's plan submitted to the FCC would require that all long distance companies which engage in telemarketing implement measures that would have:

1. Mandatory and uniform disclosure language in all sales contacts.
2. Monitoring of telemarketing activities to ensure compliance of mandatory disclosure language.
3. Independent verification of sale, with mandatory language including the fact that the consumer's long distance company will be changed.
4. Outside independent auditing firm, to examine company's sales practices.
5. Free and convenient return to customer's original carrier when they claim they have been switched without their authorization.

"This package of consumer protections will accomplish two important goals," said Eidenberg. "It will protect consumers from unauthorized switches and, at the same time, permit AT&T competitors to market their services effectively. MCI has implemented many of these measures already, and is in the process of putting this entire package in place regardless of what actions the FCC may take.

LOS ANGELES (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - United Television Inc. (NASDAQ: UTVI) today announced third quarter net income of $3,377,000 or $.31 per share, compared to last year's third quarter net income of $59,076,000, or $5.39 per share. The 1989 third quarter results reflect a net gain of approximately $61,000,000 on the sale of a portion of the company's former Warner Communications Inc. holdings.

Net revenues for the 1990 third quarter were $27,343,000, an increase of 15 percent from last year's $23,763,000, and a third quarter record. The company's third quarter operating income increased to $2,286,000 from a loss of $343,000 in last year's third quarter.

Interest and other income in the quarter increased to $2,742,000 from last year's $1,616,000, primarily reflecting interest on cash balances resulting from the 1989 Warner sale, as well as dividends received on Time Warner Inc. (NYSE: TWX) convertible preferred stock acquired in January 1990 in exchange for the company's remaining Warner holdings. Interest expense declined to $201,000 from $1,314,000 in the prior year quarter reflecting the September 1989 redemption of the company's 14 1/2 percent subordinated debentures.

Net income for the nine month period ended Sept. 30, 1990, was $44,840,000, or $4.13 per share, compared to last year's net income of $59,928,000 or $5.47 per share. Approximately $35,900,000 of 1990 nine month net income and $61,000,000 of 1989 nine month net income is attributable to net gains on dispositions of the company's Warner holdings.

Nine month net income excluding the Warner gain was $8,905,000, or $.82 per share compared to last year's loss of $1,283,000 or $.12 per share. The increase is attributable to a 95 percent increase in operating income, to $4,463,000 from $2,294,000, together with increases in interest and dividend income as well as decreases in interest and debt retirement expense. Net revenues for the nine months were a record $85,326,000, a 13 percent gain over last year's $75,572,000.

CHERRY HILL, N.J. (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Commerce Bancorp Inc. (NASDAQ: COBA) today reported net income of $1,012,000 or 16 cents per share for the third quarter and net income of $4,307,000 or 81 cents per share for the first nine months of 1990.

These results compare to net income of $1,628,000 or 44 cents per share (fully diluted) for the third quarter of 1989 and net income of $4,753,000 of $1.27 per share (fully diluted) for the first nine months of 1989. Net income per share of common stock for the third quarter of 1990 and for the first nine months of 1990 was impacted by the issuance of 950,000 shares of common stock via a public offering in November 1989 and by the issuance of 417,000 shares of Series C ESOP Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock in January 1990.

Vernon W. Hill II, chairman of the multi-bank holding company based here, attributed the decline in net income to increased loan loss provisions prompted by an increase in non-performing assets resulting from the continued softness in the real estate market and a further slowing of the region's economy. The provision for loan losses for the third quarter and first nine months of 1990 were $1,245,000 and $2,338,000, respectively, compared to $270,000 and $945,000, respectively, for the same 1989 periods. The increase in the loan loss provision was a prudent measure in the face of the slowing regional economy and an increase in non-performing assets, Hill stated, and reflects Commerce's commitment to recognize and deal with credit problems as they arise. However, conditions in the company's primary lending areas have continued to decline during the third quarter and its quarterly loan portfolio review caused it to change its expectations.

Hill said Commerce's growth trend continues with total assets exceeding $884 million, up from $741 million a year ago, a 19 percent increase. Total deposits increased to $816 million, a $134 million increase, or 20 percent over 1989 deposits of $682 million.

Although the third quarter was marked by continued softness in the real estate market and a further slowing of the region's economy, Hill said loan and asset quality remains favorable by current industry standards. Non-performing loans (i.e., non-accrual loans and restructured loans) at Sept. 30, 1990, were $11,698,000 or 2.10 percent of total loans, compared to $3,842,000, or .74 percent at Dec. 31, 1989, and $4,412,000, or .90 percent at Sept. 30, 1989. Loans past due 90 days or more were $1,102,000 at Sept. 30, 1990, vs. $443,000 and $367,000 at Dec. 31, 1989, and Sept. 30, 1989, respectively. Non-performing assets (i.e., non-performing loans and assets acquired in foreclosure) at Sept. 30, 1990, were $14,551,000 compared to $4,164,000 at Dec. 31, 1989, and $4,597,000 at Sept. 30, 1989. Non-performing assets and loans past due 90 days or more represented 1.77 percent of total assets at Sept. 30, 1990, vs. 0.58 percent and 0.67 percent at Dec. 31, 1989, and Sept. 30, 1989, respectively.

Shareholders' equity as a percent of total assets at Sept. 30, 1990, was 6.36 percent and primary capital as a percent of total assets was 6.86 percent. The company's risk-based capital ratios, Tier 1 and Tier 2, were 8.12 percent and 8.88 percent, respectively, both well above regulatory prescribed guidelines.

Hill also announced that the company's board of directors declared its regular quarterly cash dividend of $.225 per share of common stock, payable Nov. 9, 1990, to shareholders of record Oct. 30.

Hill further stated that Commerce continues to be financially sound and that its sound financial and organizational resources will continue to serve it well as it continues to expand its primary business by delivering highly personalized banking services to its markets.

Commerce Bancorp Inc. is a multi-bank holding company headquartered in Cherry Hill, with 26 banking offices. Its three bank subsidiaries are Commerce Bank, N.A., Cherry Hill; Commerce Bank/Pennsylvania, N.A., Philadelphia; and Commerce Bank/Shore, N.A., Forked River, N.J.

NEWPORT BEACH, CALIF. (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - American Health Services Corp. (NASDAQ: AHTS), one of the nation's largest operators of fixed site magnetic resonance imaging centers "will open eight to 10 new centers in 1991, reducing somewhat the aggressive new center opening program which in the last 14 months resulted in the opening of 19 centers," E. Larry Atkins, recently elected president, told security analysts today. "The moderation of growth through the opening of fewer new centers will permit us to consolidate the impressive gains of the past year and to concentrate on further improving profit margins at our existing centers," he said.

"As a result of this decision," Atkins told analysts, "American Health Services in the third quarter ended Sept. 30 will take one-time write-downs related to severance arrangements and the termination of certain projects which no longer meet our strategic goals. These write- downs, estimated at about $2.5 million, will create a third-quarter loss, despite the fact that center operating profits will be at record levels. We do not expect these write-downs to have a material adverse effect on planned cash flow. With 37 centers in operation and three to open around year-end, this balanced growth program will enable us to focus on center profitability and to maintain a leadership position in what we believe is the most profitable segment of the imaging industry," he said.

Last year American Health earned $910,145, or $.10 per share, on $25.1 million in revenues. For the six months ended June 30, 1990, earnings rose 47 percent to $771,152, or $.06 per share, on a 30 percent increase in revenues to $15.5 million.

MIAMI (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Capital Bancorp today reported third-quarter 1990 consolidated net income of $1.4 million, or $.32 per share, compared with $2.3 million, or $.51 per share, for the third quarter of 1989. Earnings for the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1990 were $2.0 million, or $.44 per share, compared with $6.6 million or $1.46 per share, during the first nine months of 1989.

Consolidated figures include the results of Capital Bank, Capital Factors, Inc. and Capital Trading Group, Inc.

Effective September 1990, bank regulations were revised to require computation of a "leverage" ratio to replace the primary capital ratio. A minimum ratio of 3 percent is required for well-run financial institutions. At Sept. 30, 1990, Capital Bank's leverage ratio stood at 6.43 percent and Capital Bancorp's leverage ratio was 5.80 percent.

BALTIMORE (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Provident Bankshares Corp. (NASDAQ-NMS: PBKS) today announced third quarter net income of $1 million, or $.17 per share, which represents a 5 percent increase over the $956,000, or $.16 per share, earned for the same quarter last year.

Third quarter '90 earnings grew due to a 26 percent increase in non- interest income over third quarter '89.

Net interest income remained flat compared with last year while non- interest expenses increased by 3 percent. The third quarter's earnings reduced Provident's net loss for the nine months of 1990 to $4.9 million or $.82 per share.

Non-performing assets and past-due loans, principally real estate related, were $30.2 million or 3.58 percent of total outstanding loans as of Sept. 30, 1990, up from the amount reported a year ago but 9 percent below the amount reported at the end of the second quarter 1990. The reserve for loan losses was 1.63 percent of total loans as of Sept. 30, 1990, compared with 1.31 percent as of Sept. 30, 1989.

Total deposits at Sept. 30, 1990, were $1.12 billion, compared with $1.11 billion at Sept. 30 last year. ST. LOUIS (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Mark Twain Bancshares Inc. (NASDAQ: MTWN) reported today third quarter earnings of $4.093 million, a 5.3 percent increase over third quarter 1989. Fully diluted earnings per share were 50 cents, a 6.4 percent increase from third quarter 1989. Return on average assets for the quarter was .81 percent. Return on common equity was 14.62 percent.

"The earnings stream at Mark Twain has accelerated each quarter of 1990, even though the number of uncertainties in the economy and in the banking industry has also increased," said John Dubinsky, Mark Twain president and chief executive officer.

Third quarter earnings of about $4.1 million followed second quarter earnings of $3.8 million and first quarter earnings of $3.1 million. "We are pleased with our solid performance and increasing momentum in light of the current turbulence," Dubinsky said.

Earnings for the first nine months were $11.025 million compared to $11.610 million in the first nine months of 1989. Fully diluted earnings per share were $1.34 compared to $1.41 in 1989.

"Mark Twain's earnings have been impacted this year by a lower net interest margin spurred by competition for deposits, but that trend has recently shown signs of easing," Dubinsky said.

Mark Twain reported an increase in net interest margin during each month of the third quarter concluding with a rate of 4.40 percent in September. This trend brought third quarter margin to 4.29 percent, up slightly from 4.27 percent in the second quarter.

Dubinsky said that other areas of income that are not affected by net interest margin have experienced excellent growth. Non-interest income surged 30.1 percent from third quarter 1989. Mark Twain's primary fee groups, led by the Bond Department, which ran 87.6 percent ahead of third quarter last year, generated $4.67 million in revenues and were 41.1 percent ahead of third quarter last year.

"If margin continues to improve and non-interest income maintains its strength 1990 should be a good year for Mark Twain considering current business conditions," Dubinsky said.

Mark Twain's balance sheet categories continued strong growth trends in the third quarter. Total assets of $2.1 billion were up 10.4 percent from third quarter end 1989. Deposits of $1.8 billion increased 9.2 percent. Total loans of $1.5 billion grew 9.5 percent for a double-digit annualized growth rate.

ATLANTA (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Georgia-Pacific Corp. (NYSE: GP) today reported earnings per share of $1.11 for the three months ended Sept. 30, 1990 compared with $2.03 per share in the 1989 third quarter. The company reported third quarter net income of $95 million vs. $178 million in 1989.

For the nine-month period, earnings per share were $3.54 in 1990 vs. $5.58 in 1989, and net income for the nine months was $303 million compared with $504 million a year ago.

The company's operating cash flow for the quarter was positively impacted by a reduction of working capital, which offset higher interest payments resulting from the acquisition of Great Northern Nekoosa Corp. Cash flow from operations was approximately $440 million in the 1990 third quarter compared with $381 million a year ago. Sales increased because of the acquisition to $3.4 billion, up from $2.6 billion in the 1989 period.

Pulp and paper operating profits for the quarter were $279 million compared with $236 million a year ago. "Prices are weaker in the market pulp and containerboard businesses, but demand and pricing for tissue and communication papers remain strong," said T. Marshall Hahn Jr., Georgia-Pacific chairman and chief executive officer.

Building products operating profits for the quarter were $111 million vs. a record $162 million last year. "The company's building products business experienced sharply lower prices, particularly in plywood, which decreased approximately 15 percent from third quarter 1989 prices. With housing starts at their lowest level since 1982, demand for wood products also is down. Although new housing remains a major market for our building products, the company's markets have changed during the 1980s. These changes have positively affected our ability to be competitive and profitable today. Our continued profitability is due, in part, to increased demand over the past several years in the remodeling and repair market, our decreased dependence on new housing starts, capacity reductions in the Northwest because of a diminishing supply of public timber and continued progress in cost reduction," Hahn concluded.

CHICAGO (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - At their annual meeting here today, stockholders of Duff & Phelps Selected Utilities Inc., a closed end investment company that trades on the NYSE (DNP), approved an amendment to the fund's charter to change the name to Duff & Phelps Utilities Income Inc. The ticker symbol remains unchanged.

Management had found that many stockholders and members of the financial community mistakenly thought that the fund invested principally in utility equity securities, rather than in a diversified portfolio of equity and fixed income securities of companies in the public utilities industry.

The name change was proposed to more accurately reflect the fund's investment strategy and its principal investment objective of current income and long-term growth of income.

Stockholders also re-elected three directors -- Wallace B. Behnke, aged 64, a consulting engineer; Gordon B. Davidson, 64, CEO of a Louisville, Kentucky, law firm; and chairman Claire V. Hansen, 65, senior adviser to the board of Duff & Phelps Inc. -- and ratified the selection of Arthur Andersen & Co. as the fund's independent public accountants.

Common stock dividends of six cents per share, payable Nov. 12 and Dec. 10 to shareholders of record Oct. 31 and Nov. 30 respectively, were declared.

MINNEAPOLIS (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - A record level of net interest income and continued improvement in pretax income and core operating results from banking and mortgage banking activities highlighted the financial results reported today by Metropolitan Financial Corporation (NYSE: MFC), Minneapolis.

Net income for the three months ended Sept. 30, 1990, was $6,135,000, or $0.73 per share on a primary basis and $0.64 per share fully diluted, compared to $7,176,000, or $0.91 per share on a primary basis and $0.82 per share fully diluted, for the comparable period in 1989. For the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1990, net income was $16,607,000, or $1.94 per share on a primary basis and $1.74 per share fully diluted, compared to $16,954,000, or $2.31 per share on a primary basis and $2.20 per share fully diluted, through the first three quarters of 1989.

Through the first nine months of this year, income before income taxes and the cumulative effect of an accounting change was $15,765,000, and 88 percent increase over the $8,385,000 reported through the first three quarters of 1989. For the quarter, income before income taxes was up by $1,066,000, or 21 percent, over the same quarter a year ago.

Norman M. Jones, chairman and chief executive officer of the regional financial services holding company, commented, "For the third consecutive quarter we have seen improvement in the core operations of the savings bank and the mortgage banking company compared to the results reported one year ago. Net interest income before the provision for credit losses was $17,956,000, a record for the third quarter, compared to $15,364,000 for the same period in 1989 and, year to date, net interest income totaled $53,342,000 compared to $50,046,000 for the first nine months of 1989."

Noninterest income for the quarter was $16,292,000, compared to $18,492,000 for the three months ended Sept. 30, 1989. Jones noted that the decline was attributable to two factors. The company recorded less gain on sale of assets in the most recent quarter than it did one year ago, $2,710,000 compared to $3,317,000, and real estate sales commissions were down $1,588,000 to $7,269,000, compared to the $8,857,000 reported for the third quarter of 1989. Year to date, real estate sales commissions were $20,286,000 compared to $21,611,000 in 1989.

Metropolitan Financial Corporation's other major subsidiaries are Metropolitan Financial Mortgage Corporation, St. Paul, Minn., the largest originator of residential mortgage loans in the Twin Cities, and Edina Realty, Minnesota's largest home seller. At Sept. 30, 1990, Metropolitan Financial Corporation's total assets were nearly $4.2 billion. The company's common and preferred stock trade on the New York Stock Exchange, the common under the symbol MFC.

BALTIMORE (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Baltimore Bancorp (NYSE: BBB), the parent company of the Bank of Baltimore, today reported net income for the third quarter of 1990 of $5,021,000, slightly higher than the $5,019,000 net income for the third quarter of 1989.

For both the third quarter of 1990 and 1989, net income was $.39 per share.

For the first nine months, net income was $15,540,000 in 1990 ($1.21 per share) compared to $15,720,000 in 1989 ($1.21 per share), a slight decrease.

Harry L. Robinson, chief executive officer, commented that major contributors to 1990 earnings performance were gains in net interest margins, significant growth in other operating income from fees and mortgage banking operations and continued low levels of net credit losses. Lower amounts of investment gains in the quarter compared to the prior year were offset by gains recorded in extinguishment of debt.

Consolidated total loans increased 2.9 percent to $2,265,803,000 and core deposits 6.2 percent to $2,094,518,000 at Sept. 30, 1990, compared to Sept. 30 1989.

At Sept. 30, 1990, non-performing loans were .81 percent of total loans compared to .65 at Sept. 30, 1989. Net charge offs on an annualized basis were .23 percent of average loans versus .19 percent in the third quarter of 1989. The allowance for loan losses was .86 percent of loans increased from .76 percent at the end of the third quarter of 1989.

The corporation's equity capital ended the period at $244,934,000 or 7.04 percent of total assets.

IRVINE, Calif. (OCT. 17) PR NEWSWIRE - Gradco Systems Inc.'s (NASDAQ: GRCO) Keith B. Stewart, founder and chairman, announced today that he will formally step down as chairman and will not nominate himself for one of the two board seats available to him. He stated his reason for not wanting to serve on the company's board of directors was that he felt the company had to return to normal as quickly as possible and it does not serve anybody's interest to operate a board which has to show up at board meetings with their respective lawyers because of the continuing litigation between the two groups.

"I find myself in a very interesting position," he went on to say. "When you are the founder of what became a successful public company, you tend to look at things philosophically. Growing a company from $4.7 million in 1982 to its high of $115 million in 1989 gives you a great deal of satisfaction. The last seven years as chief executive officer of a public company was rewarding, though under the watchful eyes of the shareholders who constantly demanded explanations and asked me to work miracles. I think I am going to enjoy reversing roles for a while. After all, I am the largest shareholder and it could be interesting being the watchdog for a change and asking for explanations and miracles.

"My future plans are uncertain. I will step back from G.S.I. and observe for a while before deciding whether to seek to regain control or renew efforts to acquire the company.

"The most important thing now is my fiduciary duties as chairman of Gradco Japan. The Japanese shareholders have demonstrated their confidence and have made a significant investment in Gradco Japan with the clear understanding that we are committed to build value there over the next two years. This is the most valuable asset and for the benefit of all of the shareholders, we must do everything to protect it and fulfill our commitment to them.

"The future of G.S.I. is now in the hands of others, but it is going to take a dedicated and cooperative effort to save this company and get it back on track. Now I can focus on only one major task, and that is to concentrate on building back to the value of Gradco stock through Gradco Japan."

Stewart also stated he is particularly distressed at the rate of exodus from the company and hope that some sense will prevail by all concerned.

Gradco is the world's leading independent supplier of sorter sheet feeders and other paper handling devices to the office automation market.

CINCINNATI (OCT. 17) UPI - When Cincinnati Manager Lou Piniella asked Eric Davis to consider moving to the leadoff spot in the batting order for the World Series, the outfielder refused.

Davis obviously knows what's best for him. And Tuesday night in Game 1, batting cleanup was best for him and the upstart Reds.

Awakening from a post-season slump, Davis belted a towering two-run home run off seemingly untouchable Dave Stewart in the first inning, then added an RBI single in a three-run fifth as Cincinnati rolled to a 7-0 rout of the Oakland Athletics.

''To come this far and be hitting fourth for five years and then all of a sudden be switched in my first World Series ... it wasn't a tough decision,'' said Davis, who has been bothered by a sore shoulder.

Davis batted a paltry .174 with one RBI in the National League playoffs, but homered off the first Series pitch he saw in his career.

''Lou made him a little upset when he wanted him to bat leadoff,'' said Billy Hatcher, who contributed to the Reds' cause by going 3 for 3 with three runs scored. ''After he hit that home run he was just saying to Lou, 'Leave me at fourth'''

Said Piniella with a smile: ''He'll bat in the four-spot tomorrow.''

While Davis supplied the power, Jose Rijo supplied effective power- pitching. The hard-throwing right-hander, showing none of the inconsistency that marked his three-year career in the Oakland organization, scattered seven hits in a seven-inning performance that would have made his Hall of Fame father-in-law Juan Marichal proud.

''I knew I had good stuff warming up,'' said Rijo. ''I knew I would have to be tough tonight and make better pitches, and I did.''

The victory, accomplished with surprising ease before 55,380 red-clad fans at Riverfront Stadium, snapped a 10-game postseason winning streak for the defending champion A's, who stranded 11 baserunners and went 0 for 8 with runners in scoring position.

Stewart, who entered with a 7-1 record and 1.99 ERA for his postseason career, lasted only four innings and 64 pitches. He walked four - as many as he he did in 32 innings during the 1989 Series and 1990 AL playoffs - two of which eventually scored.

''It was probably my worst performance in a long time,'' Stewart said. ''I'm surprised at my wildness. We haven't been beaten in the postseason in a long time. This might kick us and get us going.''

Said teammate Rickey Henderson: ''(Stewart) told us he couldn't get his pitches down. He practically asked to come out.''

Oakland, seeking to establish a dynasty, instead might be facing a label as one of history's great underachievers. The A's Tuesday night looked more like the club that was stunned by the Dodgers in 1988 rather that the overpowering outfit that swept the Giants last year.

The Reds, making their first Series appearance since 1976, can take a 2-0 lead Wednesday night when they send left-hander Danny Jackson against 27-game winner Bob Welch.

With both bullpens expected to dominate, each club thirsted for the early lead. The Reds needed just four batters to get it.

With one out in the first, Hatcher - a career .349 hitter in the postseason - walked, and one out later Davis cracked the first pitch he saw well beyond the center-field wall.

The drive soared at least 425 feet and made Davis the 22nd player to homer in his first at-bat in the World Series.

Stewart, the MVP in his last two postseason series, escaped a jam in the second when he walked two more, but a leadoff pass to Barry Larkin got him in trouble in the third.

Hatcher followed the walk with a double into the left-field corner, and Larkin raced home when shortstop Mike Gallego's relay sailed over the head of catcher Terry Steinbach. The error allowed Hatcher to continue to third, and he scored to make it 4-0 when Paul O'Neill grounded out.

Meanwhile, the A's - who had five days off before the Series as they did in 1988 - were failing in the clutch. Gallego fanned with runners on first and third to end the second, and Willie McGee and Mark McGwire each bounced out after Henderson, who had three hits, doubled with one out in the third.

After Stewart departed for a pinch hitter in the fifth, the Reds blew it open with three runs in the bottom of the inning. Hatcher again doubled to left, and after O'Neill walked, Davis singled for a 5-0 lead.

Hal Morris' groundout moved the runners to second and third, and they scored when Chris Sabo grounded a single up the middle.

Lansford got to third in the sixth with one out, but Willie Randolph and Gallego meekly popped out.

Rob Dibble and Randy Myers eached pitched an inning for Cincinnati.

WASHINGTON (OCT. 17) UPI - The Senate, defying threats of a presidential veto, passed civil rights legislation providing safeguards against discrimination in the workplace.

The Senate approved the Democratic-backed measure by a 62-34 vote Tuesday night after beating back a Republican effort to scuttle the plan.

Senate Republican leader Robert Dole of Kansas sought to send the bill back to Senate-House negotiators with orders to return a Republican alternative that Democrats argued would not have barred discrimination in employment.

The Senate defeated the motion.

''This is a bill that defines the kind of country we want America to be,'' Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., said. ''If we tolerate discrimination, we'll have a lesser country and America will not be America. Crying quotas is the last resort of opponents of civil rights and that charge won't stick because it isn't true. This is not a quota bill. It is an anti-discrimination bill.''

The legislation would reverse or modify six Supreme Court decisions handed down in 1988-89 and four other decisions that date to 1985 that involve awards and lawyer fees in job discrimination cases.

The measure also expands the historic 1964 Civil Rights Act by allowing victims of intentional discrimination to recover compensatory damages and in the most severe cases punitive damages.

In a letter to Dole, President Bush said he was convinced the bill passed by the Senate ''will have the effect of forcing businesses to adopt quotas in hiring and promotion.''

''It will also foster divisiveness and litigation rather than conciliation and do more to promote legal fees than civil rights,'' Bush said. ''If this bill is presented to me, I will be compelled to veto it.''

Bush said the more narrow Republican alternative ''represents a sound, practical compromise, and I will sign such a bill if it is presented to me.''

The White House and Attorney General Dick Thornburgh have said the bill would be vetoed despite intense negotiations and efforts by sponsors of the measure to meet administration and business fears that it would lead to quotas in hiring and promotions.

Several senators said Bush would like to sign the bill, but is being pressured by Thornburgh and top White House aides to veto the measure.

Kennedy, who said supporters have ''repeatedly modified this legislation in an attempt to meet the concerns of the administration,'' predicted there is ''a good chance'' Congress would override a Bush veto. The House is expected to consider the measure Wednesday.

''This legislation explicitly rules out quotas, explicitly instructs the courts that no quota-style employment action is required or condoned in law,'' Senate Democratic leader George Mitchell of Maine said. ''It is, therefore, difficult to understand the source of the president's concern about the bill.''

The original bills were passed by the Senate 65-34 and by the House 272-154, both short of the needed two-thirds majority to override a veto.

Since, Senate-House negotiators have made major changes in the bill in a futile effort to meet administration objections.

The compromise bill expressly provides that nothing in the legislation should be interpreted to even ''encourage'' adoption of quotas; declares that statistical imbalance in the workforce does not by itself constitute discrimination; and limits punitive damages to $150, 000 or the amount of compensatory damages, whichever is greater.

Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, another major supporter of the bill, said negotiators failed to reach a consensus because White House officials ''want to kill the bill. The president is being badly advised by some closest to him.''

Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, said he would have been willing to accept the compromise - despite personal misgivings - if the administration backed it.

''We failed. We couldn't put it together,'' Hatch said, adding that Bush has so much concern with the compromise that he will veto the bill.

Hatch charged that the bill would force business to ''make every employment decisions with an eye on the numbers'' and said the legislation is a ''significant and irresistible step toward quotas.''

(OCT. 17) UPI - The House called the bluff of President Bush Tuesday and passed the largest deficit-reduction package in U-S history. The plan includes an amendment to raise the tax rate on higher incomes and to increase so-called ''sin'' taxes while easing cuts in Medicare. But President Bush specifically cites that amendment in saying he'll veto the package. He says he woN'T balance the budget- in his words- ''on the backs of working Americans.''

Bush also faced opposition in the Senate, where Democrats passed a new civil-rights bill. That puts the president in a ticklish position with elections around the corner. Senator Edward Kennedy says the bill ''defines the kind of country we want America to be.'' The president counters by saying it will ''do more to promote legal fees than civil rights.''

Protestant paramilitary groups and the Irish Republican Army are in a spiraling series of tit-for-tat shootings. Two men were shot and killed in Belfast, Northern Ireland, Tuesday night, and three others were injured. Police believe the murders were in retaliation for an I-R-A attack on two police officers four days ago.

The Contra rebels are again going on the offensive in Nicaragua. The Contras have renewed attacks on Sandinista farm cooperatives and also have seized private property. The Contras blame the attack on UNfulfilled promises by the government, which promised to resettle the Contras. Says one rebel leader... ''Little of that has been carried out.''

A fire that burned out of control for about five hours aboard a Canadian freighter at a Lake Michigan port in Indiana, 40 miles east of Chicago, has now been put out. The crew of 27 escaped UNharmed, but at least four firefighters were treated for smoke inhalation. NO evacuations were necessary because the port is in an industrial area and the only danger- says a Coast Guard official- was ''a real bad smell.''

(OCT. 17) UPI - After a few days of diplomacy, the Persian Gulf crisis heated up again Tuesday. It was the first time three people shared it in the same year.

They'll take their arguments to the Supreme Court in the morning.

Survivors of last year's powerful earthquake in the San Francisco Bay area are preparing to mark the first anniversary of the quake. The temblor, which measured at seven-point-one on the Richter scale, was blamed for 62 deaths. Some of the events marking the anniversary are somber, while some display a healthy- if morbid- sense of humor. At one party, guests are being asked to bring Shake 'n Bake, upside-down cake, tossed salad and quivering Jell-O.

Two music greats were remembered Tuesday. Leonard Bernstein was buried alongside his wife in the family plot in Brooklyn following a private ceremony. The composer and conductor died Sunday at 72 from cardiac arrest brought on by emphysema. He is best known as the long- time conductor of the New York Philharmonic. .

Jazz great Art Blakey died yesterday in New York City at age 71 following a battle with lung cancer. The drummer was one of the early musicians to draw directly on African polyrhythms to enrich Western musical forms. His ''Jazz Messengers,'' formed in 1955, was one of the most influential groups in modern jazz.

WASHINGTON (OCT. 17) UPI - President Bush promised to veto a budget package like the one narrowly approved by the House that proposes, in part, to reduce the soaring federal deficit by raising income taxes on the rich.

The bill, crafted by Democrats and approved Tuesday along partisan lines, 227-203, meets the deficit reduction targets of $40 billion in fiscal 1991 and $500 billion through 1995 that were set in a budget resolution approved by Congress last week.

The focus shifts to the Senate where another defict-reduction plan, which proposes no change in income tax rates and is preferred by Bush and top GOP congressional leaders, is scheduled for debate on Wednesday.

If the Senate plan is approved, conferees from both houses will try to negotiate a compromise bill.

Congress is under pressure to produce a budget agreement by midnight Friday when a temporary spending bill that is funding the federal government is due to expire. Bush has said that he will not sign a new funding measure if Congress fails to reach a budget agreement by the deadline.

Following a day of campaigning for GOP candidates in the Midwest Tuesday, Bush restated his veto threat if the measure reached his desk with the Democratic-sponsored tax package.

''Tonight the Democrats in Congress have turned back the clock. By a partisan vote in the House of Representatives, the Democrts pushed through a tax increase on working men and women,'' said Bush in a statement.

''I am determined that the budget deficit reduction package be fair. I am determined that the budget not be balanced on the backs of working Americans '' said the president. ''That's why I will veto the Democratic plan passed by the House should it reach my desk.''

But Democrats said their plan is fair to the middle class.

''Approval of our alternative will be a proud moment for this House,'' said Ways and Means Chairman Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill. ''Our alternative is bold, but it is fair enough to win broad public acceptance.''

The Democratic plan raises income tax rates on the wealthy from 28 percent to 33 percent.

It would freeze for one year the annual inflation adjustment of income tax rates and personal exemptions, which would raise taxes by about $313 on a family of four with a taxable income of $34,000 next year, according to Treasury Department figures.

The bill also proposes to:

-Impose a 10 percent luxury tax on expensive cars, jewlery, yachts and furs and add a 10 percent surtax on those with annual taxable incomes above $1 million.

-Reduce Medicare cuts by $17 billion over five years, from the $60 billion proposed in the ill-fated budget summit agreement negotiated by congressional leaders and the White House.

-Eliminate a provision that would have doubled to two weeks the waiting period for unemployment benefits.

-Exempt home heating oil from a new petroleum tax.

-Increase cigarette taxes by 4 cents in 1991 and 4 cents more in 1993.

-Increase taxes for a six-pack of beer by 32 cents. Increase wine and liquor taxes.

-Eliminate proposed increases in gasoline taxes and tax breaks for small business investments.

House Republican leader Robert Michel of Illinois said the Democratic plan sounds ''the savage cry of class warfare'' with increased taxes on the rich.

''This is a major tax increase that's going to put this country into a deep, bottomless recession,'' Rep. Dan Burton, R-Ind., said of the one-year freeze. ''They (Democrats) are going to tax and tax and tax us all to death.''

Early Tuesday, the House Rules Committee, an arm of the Democratic leadership, voted along party lines to prevent consideration of an alternative deficit reduction plan drafted by Republicans. It was barred from floor debate because it failed to meet deficit-reduction targets.

SEOUL, SOUTH KOREA (OCT. 17) UPI - The prime ministers of the divided Koreas met Wednesday in the North Korean capital for unprecedented talks in which the North sought political rapprochement and the South focused on cross-border citizen exchanges and cooperation.

The positions were put forth when South Korean Prime Minister Kang Young-hoon and his Northern counterpart Yon Hyong-muk met at 10 a.m. local time at the People's Cultural Palace in Pyongyang, dispatches from South Korean reporters said.

They met in the first of two sessions scheduled for the Pyongyang round of the inter-Korea talks which began in Seoul in September. The current talks are the first of their kind since Korea was divided at the end of World War II in August 1945.

North Korea Wednesday presented a seven-point draft text of a joint non-aggression declaration.

Yon said, ''We propose to give top priority to ending political and military confrontation while seeking to push many-sided cooperation and exchanges at the same time, but your side puts priority on cooperation and exchanges...''

He also said North Korea believes withdrawal of U.S. forces and nuclear weapons from Korea as essential in ending South-North confrontation but the South does not perceive any moves in this regard.

Kang, speaking for the South, said the two Koreas must accept each other as real political entities and restore and develop a single national community ensuring coexistence and co-prosperity. He called on the North to show a positive attitude to three propositions.

''First, a new era of improved South-North relations, rapport and cooperation must be forged if we are to move ahead toward peace and peaceful unification of our homeland. To that end, your side must discard the policy of revolutionizing the South - a policy that repudiates and is hostile to our system,'' Kang said.

''Second, the suffering that national division has caused our people must be eased as quickly as possible. To that end, your side ought to cooperate in expeditiously realizing home visits by dispersed family members.

''Third, even before peaceful unification is achieved, efforts must be made to promote the coexistence and co-prosperity of the South and the North. ... For that purpose, your side should positively respond to the need for vigorous economic exchanges and economic cooperation based ... on a principle of complementarity.''

Yon's said his draft of a seven-point South-North Korea non- aggression declaration accommodates the contents of the Seoul-proposed basic agreement.

The draft said ''the North and the South as one nation shall not use arms against the other party in any case or infringe upon the other party by force of arms'' and ''shall settle possible differences and disputes peacefully through dialogue and negotiation.''

He renewed his ''urgent'' demands made at the Seoul round that both sides do not seek U.N. membership without agreement at the prime ministers talks, the South stop annual Team Spirit joint military exercises with the United States, and those jailed by Seoul for unauthorized visits to the North be freed.

The session ended in two hours. Another meeting will be held Thursday behind closed doors, following which Kang will pay a call on North Korean President Kim Il-sung.

CAIRO, Egypt (OCT. 17) UPI - The Soviet Union joined Iraq in denying that a compromise to the Persian Gulf crisis had been reached, and the exiled premier of Kuwait said he would not deal out a morsel of the emirate's territory.

''The people of Kuwait have already taken an unequivocal resolution not to make any concessions on Kuwaiti sovereignty, and this people will not surrender even a single inch of land,'' Crown Prince Sheikh Saad al- Abdullah al-Sabah said Tuesday.

His remarks to journalists in Saudi Arabia followed a weekend report of a deal between Iraq and oil-rich Kuwait. The Soviet report indicated President Saddam Hussein was considering withdrawing from the occupied emirate in exchange for two strategic islands and an oilfield.

The Novosti press agency of the Soviet Union based its report on sources close to Soviet envoy Yevgenvy Primakov, who met with Saddam in Baghdad two weeks ago.

Iraq denied the report Sunday. Moscow denied Tuesday that a compromise had been worked out, but refused to give details of the Soviet diplomat's effort.

Saddam earlier sought to link an Iraqi pullout from Kuwait to an Israeli withdrawal from the occupied territories.

Secretary of State James Baker, however, reiterated that the United States would accept nothing less than Iraq's compliance with a U.N. Security Council resolution demanding its complete withdrawal from Kuwait, conquered Aug. 2. The Soviets agree with this stance, he said.

Also ruling out compromise was Syrian Information Minister Mohammed Salman, who told an Abu Dhabi newspaper ''any comprehensive solution to the gulf crisis could only be reached through the withdrawal of Iraqi troops and the restoration of Kuwait's legitimate government.''

Syria has deployed troops to the gulf to help counter further Iraqi aggression.

Despite denials of the reported compromise deal, diplomatic efforts moved forward. Soviet envoy Primakov traveled to Rome on the first stop of a mission to try to find a possible solution to the crisis.

Italian officials said that in his one-hour meeting with Italian Prime Minister Giulio Andreotti, Primakov said that during his visit to Iraq he gained the impression that Saddam would be prepared to negotiate provided there was no ultimatum from the West and no threat of a military operation.

At a brief news conference after the meeting, Primakov said he was not carrying any message from Mikhail Gorbachev.

Italian officials said Andreotti and Primakov agreed on the need to exert ''special'' pressure on Saddam to persuade him to release the foreign hostages held in Iraq.

A spokesman for Andreotti's office said some Arab countries were working in the same direction, including Libyan Foreign Minister Ibrahim Ibshary who told Andreotti that Libyan leader Col. Moammar Gadhafi had made a personal approach to the Iraqi leader in favor of freeing the hostages.

In other developments Tuesday:

-Iraq blasted President Bush, calling him a ''clown'' waging war at the behest of oil companies, the official Iraqi news agency reported. The comments were in response to a speech Monday by Bush, who likened Saddam to Adolf Hitler.

-Bush was heckled by a few people at a rally in Iowa, but told them the U.S. deployment of troops in Saudi Arabia was not to protect oil interests but to counter ''naked aggression.''

-The government in Amman stopped a Jordanian charity from sending 16 trucks packed with milk, food and medicine to Iraq pending approval from the U.N. Security Council sanctions committee. Jordan's Prime Minister Mudar Badran denied that trucks moving between Iraq and Jordan were carrying goods in violation of the U.N. trade embargo, saying they were loaded with furniture of Jordanians returning from Kuwait.

-Honduras said it would send 150 troops to the gulf to join the U.S.- led multinational force against Iraqi aggression.

-Libya's Gadhafi said if fighting erupted he would be forced to mobilize 1 million Libyan troops.

-Turkish President Turgut Ozal conferred with Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak on coordinating their efforts over the gulf crisis in a bid to offset the impact to their economies.

Egypt and Turkey have joined other countries in applying sanctions against Iraq for invading Kuwait Aug. 2. Turkey closed down an oil pipeline and like Egypt is suffering economically because of the crisis.

(OCT. 17) UPI - Detroit Red Wings forward Shawn Burr is becoming a thorn in the side of opponents with his offense as well as his defense.

''I don't think I've scored a goal in my first 10 games for the last four years,'' said Burr, who broke a tie with 5:49 remaining in the third period Tuesday night to give the Red Wings a 3-2 victory over the Chicago Blackhawks.

Detroit, which has three victories and a tie in its last four games, moved into a first-place tie with Chicago in the Norris Division.

''I get a kick out of all my goals, but it feels a little better when it means something,'' said Burr, who established a reputation as a defensive specialist during his first four years in the NHL.

Burr snapped a 2-2 deadlock in the third period of Detroit's 4-2 victory over Hartford last Friday and he scored the tying goal with 58 seconds left in the third period on Oct. 10 when the Red Wings beat Calgary 6-5 in overtime.

''I feel more confident that I can score goals,'' Burr said. ''It helped me to go overseas (for the World Cup) last spring. I realized there wasn't that much difference between me and a 40-goal scorer ... maybe just a little more hard work.''

Burr scored a career-high 24 goals last season and has three in seven games this year.

Burr's winning goal came on a pass from linemate Jimmy Carson. He skated in alone on goalie Ed Belfour and beat him with a wrist shot from close range.

Detroit tied the score at 8:33 of the third period when defenseman Lee Norwood beat Belfour with a low slap shot from just inside the blue line.

''We came from behjnd to beat two real good clubs, Calgary and Chicago,'' saig Detroit Coach Bryan Murray. ''That says a lot for what's happening here, but I don't want to get too high yet.''

Chicago jumped ahead 2-0 on first period goals by Steve Larmer at 2:48 and Mike Peluso at 5:48. Larmer scored after taking a pass on a give-and-go from Michel Goulet during a power play.

Peluso's goal, his first in ine NHL games, came when he swatted in :Troy Murray's rebound while falling to the ice.

Joe Kocur deflected Steve Chiasson's slap shot past Belfour to cut the Blgckhawks' lead to 2-1 at 6:25 of the firut period.

''Detroit took the play to us and some of our key people didn't hlay well,'' saidChicago Coach Mike +eenan. ''Detroit has a few more skilled players this year and they Qdded two experienced defensemen, but everythinghinges on xhe goaltender.''

Red Wings goalie Tim Cheveldae made only 18 stops, but two of them were critical ones on Mike Hudson and Jocelyn Lemieux less than a minute after Norwood scored the tying goal.

The victory put the ed Wings above the .500 mark for the first time since March 31, 1989.

TOKYO (OCT. 17) UPI - A U.S. Marine who died at Yokosuka Air Base Hospital Sunday following a fight against another Marine has been identified as Cpl. Robert B. Hitchcock, 23, of Spokane, Washington, U.S. Forces Japan announced Wednesday.

Hitchcock, attached to Sub-Unit 1, 1st Armored Assault Battalion, Third Marine Division, Camp Fuji, west of Tokyo, was taken to Yokosuka Air Base Sunday following a fight with a Marine from the same unit, the U.S. military earlier reported.

It said the other Marine, whose name was withheld, was in the custody of military authorities.

The incident occurred while the Marine unit, based on Okinawa in the Pacific, was undergoing training at Camp Fuji, it said.

The announcement Sunday said an autopsy conducted by the U.S. Navy at Yokosuka indicated that Hitchcock died from a blunt-force injury to the head.

Hitchcock is survived by his wife Kimberly, the announcement said.

It said the investigation was being conducted by the Naval Investigative Service at Atsugi and the Air Force Office of Special Investigation at Yokota Air Base, both in the suburbs of Tokyo.

BEIJING (OCT. 17) UPI - A former executive at China's state radio who was jailed for more than a year on charges linked to the crackdown on pro-democracy demonstrators has been released to the custody of his father, a vice-premier, Chinese sources said Wednesday.

Wu Xiaoyong, 37, the son of Vice Premier Wu Xueqian, was quietly freed from Qincheng Prison north of Beijing in mid-September in part because of continuing health problems, according to sources familiar with his case who declined to be identified further.

Wu had served as a senior executive for the English-language service of Radio Beijing, the government-run radio network, until he was arrested dtreng the summer of 1989 to be held accountable for an unauthorized broadcast made on the station on June 4, 1989.

The night before, Chinese troops had stormed into Beijing and opened fire on pro-democracy protesters, crushing six weeks of demonstrations for greater freedom and ousting student-led protesters from central Tiananmen Square.

A Radio Beijing announcer went on the air on the morning of June 4 and told listeners that troops had killed hundreds of people in the assault, calling it a ''gross violation of human rights,'' until the broadcast was abruptly cut off.

At least four Radio Beijing employees were cited as responsible, with Wu taking the blame although he was not directly involved. He had been held at the secretive Qincheng Prison, where some intellectuals and students arrested after June 4 remain.

The sources said persistent pleas from Vice Premier Wu, a former foreign minister, and a chronic stomach ailment had contributed to the decision to free the younger Wu, who was released into his father's custody.

They said he remained at a family home but could not communicate with friends or colleagues.

Meanwhile, the sources said, another one of the four implicated in the incident has been confined for at least six months to a government political re-education academy, following his ouster from his post two months ago.

Li Dan, the English service's program director, was sent to the institution north of Beijing after his removal in August in a move the sources linked to last year's incident, despite the time lapse involved.

Communist Party hard-liners have continued to press a campaign to tighten control over propaganda and the media.

Chinese officials have said 355 people arrested after last year's crackdown remain in prison and nearly 900 have been freed. But Western diplomats estimate the number still held is considerably higher.

BANGKOK, THAILAND (OCT. 17) UPI - A bomb exploded in the Burmese Embassy compound in Thailand early Wednesday morning, shattering windows but causing no injuries, police said.

''A TNT bomb exploded inside the embassy at 3 a.m. this morning,'' said Lt. Col Vanich Surapholchai, the district police chief.

''We don't know who is behind the incident,'' he said, adding embassy officials believed that the bombing was carried out by either Burmese ethnic insurgents or student dissidents.

''They (embassy officials) are not willing to cooperate with the police but we think that it is likely that the incident is involved with their internal affairs,'' Vanich said.

He said the bomb exploded just 49 feet from the embassy building, causing no casualities but breaking four windows.

Burmese student dissidents and ethnic minorities have frequently carried out demonstrations in front of their embassy in Bangkok to protest their military government that refuses to hand over the power to an elected parliament.

TOKYO (OCT. 17) UPI - Japan's justice minister sent a letter Wednesday to the congressional Black Caucus apologizing for comparing American blacks to prostitutes after a raid on a red light district, his ministry said.

Details of the letter from Justice Minister Seiroku Kajiyama would not be released until Thursday, a ministry spokesman said.

Later in the day, Prime Minister Toshiki Kaifu told Parliament that although he deplored Kajiyama's remark, he would not dismiss him.

After less than a week in office, Kajiyama set off a storm of criticism by telling reporters on Sept. 21 that the influx of foreign prostitutes into Tokyo was just ''like in America when blacks move in and whites are forced out.''

''Prostitutes ruin the neighborhood the same way,'' he said, commenting on a raid the night before on a red-light district in Tokyo.

Four days later, following an uproar in the United States culminating in a protest from the U.S. State Department, Kajiyama called a press conference where he apologized and retracted the remark.

Kaifu admonished him and warned against such misconduct in the future.

Black Americans in Japan and the United States have continued to protest Kajiyama's remarks, which they view as reflecting widespread prejudice against blacks among Japanese politicians.

Members of the congressional Black Congress have pressed for Kajiyama's resignation.

Kajiyama's remark was the latest in a series of racist comments about American blacks made by leading Japanese politicians.

In 1986, the Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone said that America's average intelligence was lowered by the presence of blacks and Hispanics. He later apologized and said he was referring to the lower educational levels of minorities.

In 1986, Michio Watanabe, who now heads Nakasone's faction in the ruling Liberal Democratic Party, said that American blacks were fiscally irresponsible people who had no compunctions about going bankrupt.

GENEVA (OCT. 17) UPI - Delegates from the United States and other nations Wednesday expressed concern for the success of ongoing global world trade talks after the European Community's failure to present proposals on reducing agricultural subsidies.

''We are extremely disappointed,'' a U.S. delegation official said. ''The possible EC proposal they were discussing was already unacceptable and it seems they now want to make it even weaker.''

The official reiterated the U.S. stance that agriculture must be part of any trade liberalization package at the Uruguay Round talks - begun in 1986 with the aim of cutting trade barriers by 33 percent.

The discussions among 105 nations are scheduled to end at a meeting of trade ministers in Brussels, Belgium, Dec. 3-7, but officials increasingly expect either a failure to reach an agreement or that negotiations would continue into 1991.

Officials at the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, which is the framework for the Uruguay Round, said they were ''deeply concerned'' EC farm ministers failed to present a common position Tuesday night.

''Things are not good, not good at all,'' a GATT official said.

The United States, Canada, and the Cairns Group of other major farming nations that includes Australia and Argentina presented their agricultural proposals Monday, which was the GATT deadline for proposals in the sector.

The proposals called for cuts of ''no less than'' 75 percent in domestic farm supports - prevalent in the United States - and of 90 percent in export subsidies as enjoyed by EC farmers.

EC ministers were unable to agree, however, on a suggested proposal to cut export supports just 30 percent - rejected by other Uruguay Round participants in advance as totally unacceptable.

The EC ministers meet again Friday but even if there is a European proposal, sentiment among delegates is that a compromise in unlikely to be reached before the Brussels meeting.

''If EC ministers can't agree among themselves now it is also difficult to see how they could take the big political decisions needed to compromise in December,'' a GATT official said.

American negotiators have ruled out a compromise and said the U.S. would not consider a reduction below the 75 percent and 90 percent levels, respectively, for farm supports and export subsidies.

Senate-passed civil rights legislation is likely to be debated in the House today. The Senate approved the measure last night... despite President Bush threatening to veto it because he says it contains quotas in hiring and promotions. The Democrats deny the legislation contains quotas. And several senators say Bush would like to sign the bill but is being pressured by his aides.

A child-care package providing tax credits for poor families and grants to states has emerged from White House and Senate negotiations. The House was NOT involved in the negotiations. Key senators say representatives have virtually agreed to the plan. However, NOT all House members are as optimistic. The child-care measure would cover five years and cost 15-BILLION dollars.

Oil officials in Alaska say production from America's largest oil fields is the highest it's been in nearly two years. Crude oil flowing through the trans-Alaska pipeline rose this week to about one-Million 950-thousand barrels a day. Officials are NOT saying production in Alaska increased because of the crisis in the Persian Gulf... but they do say security along the 800-mile trans-Alaska oil pipeline has been increased.

AUBURN HILLS, MICH. (OCT. 17) UPI - Two top Soviet skaters are seeking political asylum in the United States, saying they fear rising ethnic intimidation in their homeland.

Andrei Torossian, 23, and his wife, Irina Kortchach, 27, defected Saturday night after the final performance of the Moscow on Ice show at The Palace of Auburn Hills, north of Detroit.

Speaking through an interpretor, the couple went public with the story of their defection at a news conference Tuesday.

Kortchach, a Soviet Jew, said she and her mother were beaten twice during a two-year period because they look Jewish. She said she had to have surgery after her nose was broken during the second beating, in a market next to her Moscow apartment.

''In view of the rising feeling against ethnic minorities in the Soviet Union, Irina felt she was in danger of her life,'' said Luba Berton of Dearborn, who interpreted for the couple.

Although he is not Jewish, Torossian said he was not allowed to compete internationally with Soviet skating teams because he is Armenian.

Oakland County Prosecutor Richard Thompson said the couple told an unidentified contact in the Detroit area of their wish to defect after the three-day run of their ice show. That person, who contacted Auburn Hills police, sought legal advice from Thompson on Friday.

''They have no money, no family, no friends in the United States, no job, no place to stay,'' Thompson said. ''In fact, the only things these people brought with them were three small bags, which they had at a motel room.''

Torossian and Kortchach, who were married in Moscow on March 31, are the second set of defecting Soviet skaters to end up in the Detroit area this year. In February, four ice dancers and their manager defected in New York but subsequently moved to the Detroit area to teach skating. The former manager works at a Detroit restaurant.

In July, Soviet hockey player Sergei Federov left the Soviet national team at the Goodwill Games in Seattle to play with the Detroit Red Wings.

WASHINGTON (OCT. 17) UPI - The housing industry suffered through another miserable month in September as new construction plummeted 0.6 percent for a record eighth consecutive monthly decline, the government said Wednesday.

Applications for building permits dropped 4.2 percent.

The grim picture of an industry in deep recession was generally in line with forecasts by private economists. In August, housing starts were off 1 percent and building permits tumbled 3 percent.

A Commerce Department spokesman said September's approximately 1.14 million housing starts, adjusted for seasonal factors and calculated at an annual rate was the worst showing since the recession of 1982.

Last month's total of 1 million applications for building permits were also the worst since the last nationwide economic malaise eight years ago.

''During the first nine months of this year, 963,100 housing units were started compared with 1,074,500 units during the same period in 1989,'' the Commerce Department said. ''This is a decrease of 10 percent.''

Building permits, meanwhile, were down by about 12 percent over the same period last year, the department said.

Construction of new apartment buildings of five or more units tumbled 17.8 percent in September, dragging down a 4.3 percent gain in construction of single-family homes and a 16.1 percent surge in apartment buildings containing two, three and four units.

In August, construction of single-family dwellings fell 3.9 percent, while construction of apartments containing two, three and four units advanced 6.9 percent, and construction of larger apartment complexes increased 8.4 percent, the government said.

By region, housing starts fell 11 percent in the Northeast in September after increasing 4.4 percent in August, advanced 3.3 percent in the Midwest after jumping 7.7 percent, gained 3 percent in the South after plunging 10.8 percent and dropped 4.4 percent in the West after increasing 6.5 percent.

LONDON (OCT. 17) UPI - Stock prices were slightly lower in moderate trading at midday Wednesday on the London International Stock Exchange amid some early weakness in the index futures market.

The blue-chip Financial Times 100-stock index, which fell 18.3 points Tuesday, was down 14.8 points to 2,068.8. The narrower top 30 industrial average was down 12.6 points to 1,600.7.

Volume amounted to about 370 million shares compared with 198 million shares traded during the same period Tuesday.

Analysts explained the volume was inflated by a 137.7 million-share block of Premier Consolidated Oilfields sold by merchant bankers Kleinworth Benson.

Kleinworth Benson slipped 11 cents to $5.34 after the transaction amid speculation the bank lost an estimated $59 million on the sale.

Analysts said stocks slipped as the December Financial Times Stock Exchange 100 Index contract fell to 2,106.0 from 2,123.0 pushing the cash markets lower.

Analysts also noted investors were adopting a more cautious stance and searching out high-dividend, low-priced selective blue chip stocks.

Among some of the day's other most widely traded stocks, Thames Water gained 4 cents to $4.37, Allied Lyons added 2 cents to $8.91, North West Water gained 2 cents to $4.33 and B.A.T Industries slipped 9 cents to $10.02.

JERUSALEM (OCT. 17) UPI - The army began Wednesday distributing gas masks to Arab residents of East Jerusalem in case of a chemical weapons attack by Iraqi President Saddam Hussein, an Arab leader most Palestinians strongly support.

About 140,000 Arabs, who live in Jerusalem and are considered Israeli residents by the government, were eligible to pick up the chemical warfare kits at 21 distribution centers.

Last week, the army began its program to distribute gas mask kits to every citizen and resident of Israel. Israel has said the distribution program is a precaution and does not indicate that officials believe hostilities are about to erupt in the Middle East.

Palestinians in the Israeli-occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip will receive the protective gear at a later date and will have to pay for it, because unlike Israelis and Jerusalem Arabs, they have not made national insurance payments to cover the cost, the army said.

Arabs have been warned not to use the masks as protection against tear gas fired by security forces. It is illegal to open the kits unless directed to do so by the army.

At a school in the Arab neighborhood of Beit Hanina, Palestinians picking up the equipment were ambivalent about their position as supporters of Saddam and possible victims if hostilities erupted between Israel and Iraq.

''I think he is a good man because he is thinking about all the people here,'' said Mohammed Abed, 25. ''Fifty percent of the people here would like there to be a war because they want to end the occupation here.''

Saddam has sought to link a resolution of the Israeli-Arab conflict to the Iraqi takeover of Kuwait. Palestinians see the Iraqi president as a strong Arab leader capable of challenging Israel and its Western supporters.

Abed, a resident of Issawiya village which lies within the Jerusalem municipal boundries, however, said he would use his gas mask if there was an attack.

''I will use it if I can. It's my life. Nobody dies for nothing,'' he said. ''But war I think is good for us. Maybe it will finish the occupation.''

Arab men and women registered at tables in the school yard and then went into the school to pick up the equipment. Women in long traditional Palestinian dresses carried out big white plastic bags full of boxed gas masks.

Incubator-like cribs were available for families with infants.

Only a handful of Arabs attended a class on using the kits, held in a kindergarten classroom, located in the school's basement bomb shelter. Videotaped instructions in Hebrew were followed by a demonstration in Arabic given by a soldier.

Last week, in the coastal plain town of Kefar Yona, one of the first Jewish communities to receive gas masks, a much larger percentage of people picking up their kits attended the instruction classes than in Beit Hanina.

At the Beit Hanina school, the atmosphere was unusually calm despite the large number of Palestinians and soldiers mixing. Many of the soldiers were friendly and helpful.

''I never saw soldiers like I did today. I don't believe it,'' Abed said. ''(They are) doing a very nice job. But when I go outside to my village, (the soldier) doesn't know anything. He just knows he is a soldier and I am an Arab person, and he starts to shoot.''

WASHINGTON (OCT. 17) UPI - U.S. industrial production increased 0.2 percent in September mainly on a jump in the output of motor vehicles and parts, the Federal Reserve reported Wednesday.

In August, industrial production increased by a revised 0.1 percent after an initial report of a 0.2 percent decline.

''In September, the output of motor vehicles and parts rose 7.5 percent, boosting the indexes for both consumer goods and business equipment,'' the Fed's monthly report said.

But ''with production of motor vehicles and parts excluded, industrial production edged down in September,'' the Fed said. ''Output of consumer non-durable goods and energy materials rose sharply, but production in most other major market categories declined.''

During the last 12 months, U.S. industrial production has increased 2.2 percent to 110.7 percent of its 1987 annual average.

''On a quarterly average basis, industrial production in the third quarter grew at nearly the same pace as in the second quarter,'' the Fed said. ''However, the average monthly gain during the summer was about one-half of that posted during the preceding quarter.''

Manufacturing production scored its second consecutive 0.2 percent increase in September, on identical gains for both durable and non- durable goods industries, the report said.

Mining production edged up 0.4 percent last month after falling 1.7 percent in August, while the production of the nation's utilities was up 0.9 percent following a 1.3 percent August gain.

WASHINGTON (OCT. 17) UPI - Capacity utilization - the percentage of America's industrial muscle being used - remained unchanged from August at 83.6 percent, the Fed said.

Private economists had anticipated a 0.2 percent decline in the output of the nation's factories, utilities and mines for September and had predicted a capacity utilization rate of 82.9 percent.

The capacity utilization of factories, meanwhile, stood at 82.8 percent in September, while the rate for mines was 89 percent and the rate for utilities was 88.1 percent, the Fed said.

WASHINGTON (OCT. 17) UPI - The housing industry suffered through another miserable month in September as new construction plummeted 0.6 percent for a record eighth consecutive monthly decline, the government said Wednesday.

Applications for building permits dropped 4.2 percent.

The grim picture of an industry in deep recession was generally in line with forecasts by private economists, who expect more bad news through the first part of 1991. In August, housing starts were off 1 percent and building permits tumbled 3 percent.

A Commerce Department spokesman said September's approximately 1.14 million housing starts, adjusted for seasonal factors and calculated at an annual rate was the worst showing since the recession of 1982.

Last month's 1 million applications for building permits were also the worst since the last nationwide economic malaise eight years ago.

''During the first nine months of this year, 963,100 housing units were started compared with 1,074,500 units during the same period in 1989,'' the Commerce Department said. ''This is a decrease of 10 percent.''

Building permits, meanwhile, were down by about 12 percent over the same period last year, the department said.

''I think the bottom is pretty near,'' said David Seiders, chief economist at the National Association of Home Builders. ''We are looking for some further gradual decline into the first quarter of next year.''

But Seiders said his forecast assumes a ''sensible decision'' by Congress and the White House on slashing the federal budget deficit, a gradual easing of interest rates and a stalmate in the military confrontation with Iraq.

Construction of new apartment buildings of five or more units tumbled 17.8 percent in September, dragging down a 4.3 percent gain in construction of single-family homes and a 16.1 percent surge in apartment buildings containing two, three and four units.

Richard Peach, an economist with the Mortgage Bankers Association, attributed the decline in apartment construction in part on developers ''trying to beat the deadline'' on federal regulations requiring expenive modifications to make buildings more accessible to physically disabled people.

The apartment numbers were stronger earlier in the year, Peach noted.

In August, construction of single-family dwellings fell 3.9 percent, while construction of apartments containing two, three and four units advanced 6.9 percent, and construction of larger apartment complexes increased 8.4 percent, the government said.

By region, housing starts fell 11 percent in the Northeast in September after increasing 4.4 percent in August, advanced 3.3 percent in the Midwest after jumping 7.7 percent, gained 3 percent in the South after plunging 10.8 percent dropped 4.4 percent in the West after increasing 6.5 percent.

HOUSTON (OCT. 17) UPI - A former church secretary wants $11 million from the Roman Catholic Church because a priest allegedly seduced her during counseling sessions and fathered her child.

Debbie McCorvey, 34, claims the Rev. Fernando Noe Guzman, formerly a priest at Our Lady of Fatima Church in Galena Park, engaged in professional malpractice and deceit by inducing her to have sex.

Jury selection in the case began Tuesday and continued Wednesday. Prospective jurors were asked to fill out questionnaires on their views on sexual harassment and other topics.

McCorvey is seeking $1 million in actual damages and $10 million in punitive damages from the Roman Catholic Church, Bishops Joseph A. Fiorenza and John E. McCarthy, retired Bishop John L. Morkovsky and the Revs. Daniel Scheel and Bruce Nieli.

The lawsuit claims diocese officials knew of a pattern of sexual misconduct by Guzman but allowed him to continue as a practicing priest without providing counseling or therapy for him.

The suit also claims church officials knew Guzman had sexual relations with a minor when he was assigned to a church in Navasota, and that he fathered two illegitimate children while working as a priest in Mexico.

Church officials deny the allegations in the suit and claim McCorvey knowingly consented to her relationship with Guzman.

But McCorvey claims Guzman fostered her dependence on him after she began seeing him in 1985 for psychological counseling for marital problems and other troubles. She continued seeing him after he assured her their sexual relationship made them ''one with God,'' the suit claims.

McCorvey was fired from her church job in 1987 and Guzman also left the church that year. Guzman, who was not legally served in the case, has not denied he fathered McCorvey's child.

STOCKHOLM, SWEDEN (OCT. 17) UPI - Two American physicists and a Canadian who first detected the universe's tiniest known particles - ''quarks'' - and an American chemist who recreates natural substances in the lab were honored Wednesday with 1990's final Nobel prizes.

Jerome I. Friedman and Henry W. Kendall of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Canadian Richard E. Taylor of Stanford University will share the$700,000 Nobel Prize in Physics.

''I'm totally overwhelmed, surprised and very honored - all those types of things,'' Friedman, 60, said by telephone from Fort Worth, Texas, where he was attending a symposium. ''I never really thought of that as a real possibility.''

''It's starting to sink in. ... I was sort of in a semi-haze. It's very exciting,'' he said.

The $700,000 Nobel in chemistry went to Elias James Corey, 62, of Harvard University for his work advancing the theory and methodology of organic synthesis.

Corey in the 1960s developed ''retrosynthetic analysis,'' a method of breaking down a natural molecule into its component parts to determine how it can be reassembled in the lab.

''In this way, less complicated building blocks were obtained which could later be assembled in the process of synthesis,'' the Royal Swedish Academy of Science said in its award citation.

In particular, the academy said, Corey's achievement was to show how his method lent itself easily to computer programing, starting a process of computer synthetic planning ''which is developing rapidly.''

Friedman, Kendall and Corey were the sixth, seventh and eighth Americans to win 1990 Nobel prizes.

The two MIT researchers were the 54th and 55th Americans to win the physics prize, which has gone to 137 laureates since it was first awarded in 1901. Taylor was the first Canadian. The Nobel to Corey was the 37th of the 115 chemistry awards to go to an American.

The 1990 awards, now all announced, will be presented to the laureates on Dec. 10, the anniversary of the death of Alfred Nobel, the Swedish inventor of dynamite who created the prizes in his 1895 will.

The three physicists were cited for research more than 20 years ago that led to an explosion of understanding of the most fundamental nature of matter.

Their work confirmed the existence of quarks, the building blocks used to form neutrons and protons. Those particles, in turn, comprise the bulk of the atom, the building block of the molecule, the basis of all matter.

''Their discoveries are a breakthrough in our understanding of the structure of matter,'' the academy said in its award citation.

Kendall, 64, said in a telephone interview from Cambridge, Mass., that he was ''overwhelmed'' and had not expected to win.

''I don't think one can ever really expect this sort of thing for sure,'' he said. ''It comes as a surprise. I haven't got my feet on the ground yet.''

''Numb, I guess, is the the closest word,'' said Taylor, 60, in a telephone interview from his home on the Stanford campus in Palo Alto, Calif. ''I certainly didn't expect it. It will probably hit me in a day or two.''

The award was for a series of experiments conducted at Stanford beginning in the late 1960s that provided the first physical evidence of the existence of fundamental particles called quarks. Previously, such particles had only been theorized to exist.

''A model had been proposed, but nobody took it seriously until one got physical evidence for it. We did the experiments that provided the first physical evidence. From that, people took the quark model seriously,'' Taylor said.

''You take electrons and scatter them and observe how they scatter from the proton. Looking at the scattered particles, we saw very tiny nuggets,'' he said.

Quarks are subatomic particles that make up the protons and neutrons that, with electrons, form all matter. The original quark theory postulated there were three types of quarks. There are now believed to be at least six, known as the down quark, the up quark, the strange quark, the charm quark, the bottom quark and the top quark.

''These are the most fundamental particles we have found so far and it would be very logical if there are no smaller particles,'' said Ingvar Lindgren, a member of the Nobel committee.

Lindgren said the research was not just a ''flash of lightning,'' but that the three men had a ''nose for what was interesting and the patience to work on many thought was boring.''

He said there were initially three groups working on the research that led to the quark, ''but the others quit.''

In making the chemistry award to Corey, the Swedish academy said the development of the art of organic synthesis in the past century has led to efficient methods of manufacturing products such as plastics, artifical fibers paints and dyes, biocides and pharmaceutical products.

''All of these products have contributed to the high standard of living and health, and the longevity enjoyed at least in the Western world,'' the academy said.

''Corey ... has produced some hundred important natural products, for example the active substance in an extract from the gingko tree, used in folk medicine in China,'' the academy said in its citation.

Americans Harry Markowitz of City University of New York, Merton Miller of the University of Chicago and William Sharpe of Stanford University received the Nobel economics prize Tuesday. The 1990 medicine prize was awarded Oct. 8 to two Americans, Joseph E. Murray and E. Donnall Thomas.

The Nobel Peace Prize was awarded Monday to Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev. The literature prize went to Mexican writer and poet Octavio Paz on Oct 11.

BOSTON (OCT. 17) UPI - The co-manager of the New Kids on the Block has been barred from using his share of the profits from the highly successful singing group, other than what he needs for living and business expenses, because of a bankruptcy case.

Lawyers for Maurice Starr of Boston and Jeffrey Furst, a Brookline entrepreneur, agreed Tuesday to freeze Starr's profits pending a Nov. 15 hearing.

Furst has filed for bankruptcy and is suing Starr, claiming they are two of four equal partners in the New Kids. As such, Furst is trying to claim part of the millions reaped by Starr from the success of the Boston-based singing and dancing group.

The agreement was entered into Tuesday before U.S. Bankruptcy Chief Judge James Gabriel.

Until the hearing, all profits Starr gets from the New Kids or related businesses will go into a bank account controlled by his lawyers. Starr will only have access for what he needs for business and living expenses, the agreement stipulates.

Furst's estate is seeking to prove he is entitled to a share of the profits, and seeks at least $5 million to pay Furst's debts.

Furst said Starr refused to honor an oral agreement after the group soared to success.

Starr denied there was such a deal.

Starr's lawyer said there ''never was any agreement, oral or written, with Mr. Furst concerning the New Kids on the Block.''

Furst's lawyers, however, insisted there was a spoken agreement.

Furst claims he and a reputed mobster, James Martorano, loaned Starr $137,000 in exchange for a share in the New Kids.

Martorano has previously served prison time for convictions on loansharking and racketeering. Law enforcement officials say he is linked to organized crime.

Martorano's son, James A. Green, is a director of a corporation bearing Starr's and Furst's names.

PARIS (OCT. 17) UPI - UNESCO's Executive Council voted Wednesday to demand that Israel immediately reopen all schools in the occupied territories.

The resolution, passed by acclamation, expressed ''serious concern given the continuing disturbances in the occupied Palestinian territories.''

The resolution ''condemns once again all the violations of academic liberty in all its forms.''

The resolution, which must still be approved by the full United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization, urged the ''immediate re-opening of teaching establishments at all levels in the occupied territories.''

Most of the elementary and secondary schools in the occupied territories have been reopened. Four universities remained closed by military order.

CAMBRIDGE, MA (OCT. 17) UPI - Department heads at Harvard College have been asked to cut their budgets by up to 6 percent to stave off what may be the largest budget deficit ever to hit the nation's most prestigious school, the Boston Globe reported Wednesday.

Harvard's Acting Dean Henry Rosovsky asked for the cuts in an Oct. 5 letter to members of Harvard College's Faculty of Arts and Sciences, the paper reported.

He said the department cuts, regular monitoring of spending and certain actions to increase ''unrestricted income'' could trim $2.8 million from a projected $13.4 million deficit.

The deficit exceeded $11 million in fiscal 1990 and the projected rise to $13.4 million in 1991 is considered ''unprecedented,'' Rosovsky said.

He wrote that while the cutbacks may affect services to students and faculty in such areas as the school's Science Center and Media Services, the salaries of instructors will not be affected.

Rosovsky became acting dean in June, replacing A. Michael Spence, and wrote the letter as an annual financial report to the faculty.

In his letter, Rosovsky blamed part of the deficit on some of Spence's policy decisions. He said $3.5 million of the deficit resulted from Spence's decision to finance campus building renovations by drawing from the university's estimated $5 billion endowment.

''He believed it was sufficiently important to make progress toward the faculty's academic progress toward the faculty's academic goals that he was willing to borrow, so to speak, against future campaign receipts, '' Rosovsky said.

Another $2 million of the deficit came from investments in housing programs and new research programs Spence initiated to try to recruit faculty, he said.

The deficit comes at a time when many of the nation's colleges and universities are grappling with financial problems. Stanford University is cutting staff and administration to try to trim 13 percent from its budget and keep tuition down.

Dartmouth College and Columbia University plan to cut staff and Brown University has instituted a hiring freeze.

ATLANTA (OCT. 17) UPI - The Coca-Cola Co. said Wednesday its earnings rose 9.1 percent to $394.2 million, or 58 cents a share, in the third quarter, compared with $361.7 million, or 51 cents a share, in the same period last year.

Revenues increased to $2.8 billion from $2.2 billion.

For the nine months, earnings climbed 12.5 percent to $1 billion, or $1.60 a share, compared with $967 million, or $1.36 a share last year. Revenues rose to $7.7 billion from $6.4 billion.

Third-quarter results were not as dramatic as the second quarter's, when earnings climbed 19.2 percent to $405.1 million, or 61 cents a share, compared with $339.8 million, or 49 cents a share, on revenues of $2.33 billion.

Net income available to common shareholders rose 9.4 percent to $389.4 million from $356 million in the third quarter, due mainly to a two-for-one stock split announced in May.

Nine-month income available to common shareholders climbed 12.9 percent to $1 billion, excluding non-recurring gains and charges.

During the third quarter, Coca-Cola reported non-recurring gains of about 5 cents a share on its investment in BCI Holdings and 5 cents on the accelerated amortization of software costs and adjustments to the carrying value of fountain equipment.

Coca-Cola, which made nearly 80 percent of its earnings abroad last year, said its international business continued to grow during the third quarter.

Worldwide retail case sales increased 9 percent in the third quarter. Revenues from per-case sales rose more than 10 percent and domestic case sales grew more than 5 percent.

Coke's operating income grew 22 percent in the third quarter, excluding non-recurring charges.

The company said its earnings growth was fueled by higher soft drink gallon sales, significant profit expansion at Coca-Cola Foods and the translation benefits of a 10 percent weaker U.S. dollar against hard foreign currencies.

The Pacific region led Coke's international sectors with a 23 percent growth in per-gallon sales of concentrates and syrups and a 16 percent rise in retail case sales.

Gallon sales grew 17 percent in Japan, led by the continuing momentum of Coca-Cola light, successful marketing and promotional activities for Sprite and the introduction of Sprite lite.

WASHINGTON (OCT. 17) UPI - U.S. industrial production increased a stronger than expected 0.2 percent in September, mainly on a jump in the output of motor vehicles and parts, the Federal Reserve reported Wednesday.

Excluding cars, trucks and vans, production fell 0.1 percent.

Capacity utilization - the percentage of America's industrial muscle being used - remained unchanged from August at 83.6 percent.

Economists anticipated a 0.2 percent decline in the output of the nation's factories, utilities and mines for September and predicted a capacity utilization rate of 82.9 percent.

In August, industrial production increased a revised 0.1 percent after an initial report of a 0.2 percent decline. July's figure was also revised up to 0.2 percent.

''Output has been up for the five past months that is not a recession,'' said Jean Sundrla, an economist at Evans Economics in Washington. ''We are seeing an economy that is plodding along, but not screeching to a halt here.''

As a result of the revisions, Robert Dederick, chief economist at Northern Trust in Chicago, and other analysts questioned whether the recession actually started in the third quarter.

''The earlier signs of deterioration here have been obliterated,'' Dederick said. ''There's been more strength in the industrial sector than we realized.''

But Sundrla cautioned, ''The pace is slow compared to what we've seen for the last eight years, but still no recession.'' She also said if no one buys the cars produced by Detroit, excess inventories could add to an economic downturn as more auto workers are laid off.

The Fed said September's output of motor vehicles and parts leaped 7.5 percent ''boosting the indexes for both consumer goods and business equipment.''

But ''with production of motor vehicles and parts excluded, industrial production edged down in September,'' the Fed said. ''Output of consumer non-durable goods and energy materials rose sharply, but production in most other major market categories declined.''

During the last 12 months, U.S. industrial production has increased 2.2 percent to 110.7 percent of its 1987 annual average.

''On a quarterly average basis, industrial production in the third quarter grew at nearly the same pace as in the second quarter,'' the Fed said. ''However, the average monthly gain during the summer was about one-half of that posted during the preceding quarter.''

Manufacturing production scored its second consecutive 0.2 percent increase in September, on identical gains for both durable and non- durable goods industries.

Mining production edged up 0.4 percent last month after falling 1.7 percent in August, while the production of the nation's utilities was up 0.9 percent following a 1.3 percent August gain.

The capacity utilization of factories, meanwhile, stood at 82.8 percent in September, while the rate for mines was 89 percent and the rate for utilities was 88.1 percent.

PHILADELPHIA (OCT. 17) UPI - When the Procrastinators' Club gathers to select its Procrastinator of the Year, it's usually difficult to make a choice. But this year, the club president said, there was no contest.

The 1990 Procrastinators of the Year are President Bush and Congress for their inaction on the federal budget, said Les Waas, president of the Philadelphia group.

He said Bush and lawmakers were honored for ''outstanding procrastination in making the current budget decisions.''

The federal government has been tied in knots for most of the past month as lawmakers attempt to cut the deficit. Federal agencies have already been shut down once, and a Friday deadline looms for another shutdown if a budget agreement is not finalized.

The club usually puts off making the award until well after each year ends, but Waas said this year there was really no question of who the honoree would be.

''It was one of these situations where it just came to us, rather than having to look for a procrastinator of the year,'' Waas said. ''Usually the committee is lax in getting to the selection, but it was made for us this year.''

Waas said the committee also got around to dispensing a piece of budget advice for Bush and Congress:

''Spend the money first and then determine a budget later - procrastinate until the money has been spent, because then the budget will always balance,'' Waas said.

The group has in the past honored Jack Benny for putting off his 40th birthday the Illinois Central Railroad for a train that left its station in 1903 and never arrived, and the Arizona Republic newspaper for publishing an issue with a Nov. 31 date.

(OCT. 17) UPI - Work on trying to find the tiniest sub-atomic particles known has led to awarding of the 1990 Nobel Prize for Physics to two researchers from the United States and a third from Canada. The research goes back 20 years on what are called ''quarks.'' And it led to major increases in the understanding of the fundamental structures of matter. Sharing the award are Jerome Friedman and Henry Kendall of M-I-T and Canadian Richard Taylor of Stanford University.

And another American has picked up the 1990 Nobel Prize in Chemistry. The award goes to Elias Corey of Harvard University for what are called his ''important contributions to synthetic organic chemistry.'' The awards are worth about 700-thousand dollars to the winners, and the chemistry prize today wrapped up the cycle of 1990 honors.

The Federal Reserve reports a small, two-tenths of one percent increase for industrial production last month, mostly because of increased automobile production. But that was because more auto plants came on line following the traditional summer shutdown ahead of the new model year. The Fed report shows capacity utilization remained unchanged in September from August at 83-point-six percent. It is the figure that shows what part of overall capacity is actually being used.

The home construction industry continues a pullback that has now gone on for a record eight months. The Commerce Department reports a six- tenths of one percent drop in new construction in September following a one percent drop in August. That means fewer new homes will be on the market several months from now when present construction efforts are over. And applications for building permits dropped four-point-one percent last month. They are the first step taken toward eventual construction in the months still to come.

Official Radio Hanoi says long-time Vietnamese Communist leader Le Duc Tho was buried with honors today in a state memorial service and funeral. Tho negotiated a Vietnam peace agreement with then- Secretary of State Henry Kissinger in 1973. He rejected a shared Nobel Peace Prize for his work. Tho died on Saturday at the age of 79.

Convicted killer Wilbert Lee Evans and his attorneys are turning to Virginia Governor L. Douglas Wilder and the U-S Supreme Court in a last- ditch attempt to stop his execution tonight. Evans is to die in the electric chair at the Virginia State Penitentiary in Richmond for the 1981 shooting death of a deputy sheriff. Attorneys for Evans argued unsuccessfully in an appeals court that his life should be spared because he protected prison employees during a 1984 death row break-out.

(OCT. 17) UPI - Union Pacific Corp. of Bethlehem, Pa., one of the nation's major railroad companies, said Wednesday higher freight traffic helped boost third-quarter earnings 17.5 percent, despite rising fuel costs.

Earnings for the quarter reached $161 million, or $1.61 a share, compared with $137 million, or $1.35 a share, for the like 1989 period. Operating revenues rose 17 percent, to $1.85 billion from $1.58 billion a year ago.

Profits at the company's Union Pacific Railroad rose 4 percent to $148 million on the strength of record carloadings, the company said. Profits rose despite a $17 million pre-tax increase in fuel prices, Union Pacific said.

Carloadings rose for all commodities, except forest products.

Higher crude oil prices helped to boost earnings at Union Pacific Resources by 11 percent to $51 million, the company said.

Union Pacific said overall hydrocarbon production rose 21 percent, paced by natural gas production, which rose 36 percent.

Profits at the company's Overnite Transportation unit rose 13 percent before goodwill to $17 million, Union Pacific said.

For the nine-month period ended Sept. 30, company-wide earnings rose 3 percent to $442 million, or $4.41 a share, compared with $428 million, or $3.98 a share, for the same period last year.

Operating revenues rose 13 percent to $5.36 billion from $4.75 billion.

MOSCOW (OCT. 17) UPI - Russian Deputy Prime Minister Grigory Yavlinsky, co-author of the 500-day plan for a transition to a market economy, resigned in protest Wednesday because the central government is intent on implementing a more conservative plan.

The official Soviet news agency Tass said Yavlinsky announced his resignation to a joint session of the Russian Parliament, saying it is unrealistic to expect the 500-day program to be implemented when President Mikhail Gorbachev and the central government do not support it.

Gorbachev, who had earlier voiced support for the 500-day plan, submitted a compromise proposal to Parliament committees Tuesday that maintains many of the conservative aspects and central controls from a rival plan favored by Premier Nikolai Ryzhkov.

The 500-day plan is a blueprint for a quicker, more radical move to a market economy. It was drafted by a commission set up by Gorbachev and Russian leader Boris Yeltsin, with economist Stanislav Shatalin and Yavlinsky its main co-authors.

Russia's Parliament has already approved the more radical plan and many officials and economists have said it would be impossible to form a workable blueprint by combining the two radically different rival plans. Yeltsin compared the effort to ''trying to mate a hedgehog with a snake.''

On Tuesday Yeltsin warned if the compromise plan with its slower move away from central control of the economy is adopted by the Soviet government, the huge Russian republic may be forced to ignore the Kremlin plan and implement the 500-day program - essentially splitting its economy from the Soviet Union.

Yeltsin told a session of the Russian Parliament that Gorbachev had promised him personally he would support the 500-day plan, ''but the sinking union government put pressure on the president and he once more changed his decision.''

The leader of the Russian republic - who gained power as a populist after being kicked out of his Communist Party posts for criticizing the pace of reforms - said the new Gorbachev plan was an attempt ''to preserve the administrative-bureaucratic system.''

The compromise proposal was submitted to parliamentary committees for their consideration Tuesday and will be formally presented to the entire Parliament in a speech by Gorbachev Friday, presidential spokesman Vitaly Ignatenko said.

Viktor Kucherenko, chairman of the Parliament's planning, budget and finance commission, told the official news agency Tass the new plan did not include the strict schedule of privatization that was part of the 500-day plan.

The compromise also maintains central control of many prices, imposing state-set increases rather than allowing market prices as in the Shatalin plan.

While the Gorbachev compromise does envisage eliminating the state monopoly on property and privatizing the economy, the process will be slow and ''it is hardly likely that state property will be sold off within the next few months '' Kucherenko said.

WASHINGTON (OCT. 17) UPI - Lawmakers, in order to keep an eye on the situation in the Middle East, may authorize its leaders to call Congress back into session later this year if needed, House Speaker Thomas Foley said Wednesday.

Under normal procedure, when Congress finishes its work and adjourns only the president can call the lawmakers back into session. This year, however, some members have expressed concern about possible developments in the Middle East where U.S. troops are deployed because of the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait.

Several members have called on President Bush to fully consult with Congress before making any further moves, particularly military action.

Foley was asked about a suggestion from Rep. Dante Fascell, D-Fla., chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, that Congress reserve the authority to reconvene if the situation warrants. He indicated support for the plan.

In previous years, Congress occasionally has passed resolutions providing for the recall of Congress ''by consultation of the speaker and the majority leader of the Senate with the Republican leadership of the House and the Senate,'' Foley said.

Foley said he would tell Fascell that he is ''favorably inclined to the inclusion of such language'' in this year's adjournment resolution.

Congress is trying to finish its work and adjourn some time next week.

PORT ST. LUCIE, Fla. (OCT. 17) UPI - An 80-year-old retired railroad machinist appears to be the second person to die in Florida's encephalitis epidemic, authorities said.

Michael Martin Mulready of Port St. Lucie died at HCA Medical Center Sept. 21.

His widow, Lucy Mulready, said his death certificate lists the cause of death as encephalitis and pneumonia, which he developed after being hospitalized Aug. 30.

Results from an initial encephalitis test were positive, said David Adams with the state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services in Tallahassee.

A sample of spinal fluid was sent to the Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta for a second test. The results were expected back in about two weeks, he said.

On Monday, HRS reported the state's first death from the recent encephalitis outbreak - Alvena Patton, 58, of West Melbourne, who died in a Melbourne hospital Oct. 13, two months after lapsing into a coma.

There have been 35 confirmed cases of encephalitis and 27 presumed cases reported in 15 central and south Florida counties in the recent outbreak, Adams said.

Lucy Mulready said her husband became ill in late August.

''He just complained of a headache, and he says, 'It's something unusual for me to have a headache two days in a row,' so he says, 'I think I'll go to the doctor.'''

He collapsed at home a few days later, was taken to the hospital with a fever, lapsed into and out of consciousness and died on Sept. 21, she said.

Encephalitis is a mosquito-bourne virus that generally causes headache and fever, but it can be fatal to the very young, the very old or the weak.

Health officials have asked residents to stay indoors after dusk, when mosquitoes are most active, or if that is not possible to wear long sleeves and long pants and treat all exposed skin with repellent.

WASHINGTON (OCT. 17) UPI - In their attempts to ward off evil spirits, practitioners of voodoo and similar religions apparently invite into their homes an insidious danger - mercury, a researcher said Wednesday.

A survey of 115 stores that sell ''magical medicines'' and other supplies for practitioners of Latin American and Caribbean religions like Santeria and voodoo found that 99 of the so-called botanicas sold mercury in various forms.

In addition, a ''brief survey'' of botanticas in Mexico, Colombia and the Dominican Republic ''revealed that they too dipense mercury,'' according to a letter published in the British journal Nature.

''Of 28 botanicas visited in New York City, 13 prescribed that mercury be sprinkled on the floor or mixed with soap and water used to mop the floor, to rid the house of evil influences or for other purposes,'' wrote Arnold Wendroff of New York, who conducted the survey.

''Several shopkeepers recommended that mercury should be carried on the person kept in containers in the house, placed in bath water, or mixed with perfume, soap solutions or ammonia and camphor. Others prescribed placing mercury in devotional candles,'' he said.

The use of mercury in those ways could easily release mercury fumes into the air. Mercury can cause a variety of health problems, including brain damage, especially in children and developing fetuses.

''The most likely victims of these practices are young children, exposed to the highest levels of vapor as they sleep, crawl and play on contaminated floors,'' he said.

Wendroff said he contacted New York City health officials, who were investigating the problem.

JAKARTA (OCT. 17) UPI - The industrialized nations have enough oil in commercial storage to weather the winter if the Middle East crisis remains stalemated, an official of the International Energy Agency said Wednesday.

Paul Vlaanderen said that if the present situation did not change, it was anticipated that oil companies would draw about 1.3 and 1.5 million barrels a day of their stocks during the next two quarters to make up for oil lost from the U.N. embargo of Iraq and Kuwait.

The head of the IEA's non-member countries division told an International Energy Conference here that by the end of winter, the oil companies would still have 65 days of consumption in their stocks, a relatively low level.

The IEA is made up of the world's 21 largest oil-consuming, industrialized nations of the Organization for Economic Development and Cooperation and monitors world consumption and production.

Saudi Arabia and other members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, which pumps more than a third of the world's oil, have largely made up for the 4.3 million barrels lost daily through the U.N. embargo.

Vlaanderen estimated at a news conference that the oil-producing countries could add up to 1 million barrels more daily by the end of the year.

His comments were seen as a reply to the call Tuesday by four oil OPEC oil ministers for the industrialized nations to dampen spiraling world prices by releasing crude from their strategic reserves, held in addition to the commercial stocks of oil companies.

The IEA shows that ''world crude oil markets are still adequately supplied, and no product shortfalls have been experienced to date,'' the official said.

He said the present situation was manageable, but not comfortable with prices fluctuating ''based upon fears of war or hopes for peace in the Middle East.''

The IEA and its members have refused several times since Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait to tap the strategic reserves on the grounds that serious shortages did not exist.

There were concerns that the world might be confronted by additional supply interruptions, perhaps from a war in the Middle East, Vlaanderen said, and IEA nations stand ready to meet this contingency.

''The countries of the IEA have - so to say - their fingers on the button - and are ready to undertake stock draws and/or demand-restraint measures immediately if additional shortfalls develop,'' he said.

Asked by reporters at a news conference later in the day about possible cooperation between OPEC and IEA to solve the current market situation, Vlaanderen said ''We think that the cooperation should be done by basically the buyers and sellers. And that kind of cooperation is most fruitful to help us in the future.''

OPEC Secretary General Subroto said the situation highlighted the need for ''trilateral'' cooperation involving producers, oil companies and consuming countries to prevent steep price increases and damaging price fluctuations.

Subroto noted that only the United States so far has announced that it will release a 5 million-barrel trickle in a test of its Strategic Petroleum Reserve, which holds around 590 million barrels.

This is a great pity, and a clear indication that despite OPEC appeals ''the concept of real co-ooperation between producers and consumers for oil market stability still seems to fall on the deaf (ears) of the majority.''

There has been considerable criticism that the doubling of crude oil prices in the last 10 weeks on the oil-trading exchanges has resulted from speculation of a Middle East war rather than actual oil shortages.

Vlaanderen said that there should be a properly functioning market, with producers selling oil at fair prices.

''The dialogue should be between the producers and those who buy their oil. We should all be mindful of our common interest in a functioning market operating without distortions,'' Vlaanderen said.

SAN CLEMENTE ISLAND, Calif. (OCT. 17) UPI - A Marine F/A-18 Hornet fighter-bomber apparently crashed into the sea off San Clemente Island during night carrier-landing training, Marine Corps officials said Wednesday.

Voice and radar contact with the jet was lost around 9:30 p.m. PDT Tuesday, said Lt. Gene Browne, a spokesman for El Toro Marine Air Station in Orange County.

No wreckage from the single-seat jet was spotted and there was no sign of the pilot, Lt. Mark J. Gelgean.

''Ground control approach lost radar contact ... during field carrier-landing practices,'' Browne said.

The Coast Guard dispatched a Falcon jet and two helicopters from San Diego along with the 82-foot cutter Point Stewart to an area four miles northeast of San Clemente Island, about 60 miles northwest of San Diego, said Coast Guard spokeswoman Brenda Toledo. Two Navy vessels and two helicopters were also involved in the search.

The aircraft was assigned to a training squadron at El Toro.

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (OCT. 17) UPI - America West Airlines Inc. has won U.S. Department of Transportation approval to operate flights from Nagoya, Japan, to Las Vegas with one stop in Honolulu, county officials announced Tuesday.

Clark County Commission chairman Bruce Woodbury said the service, the first regularly scheduled foreign flight into McCarran International Airport, would make Las Vegas more accessible to a sizeable number of Japanese tourists.

American West plans to inaugurate the flights in early 1991 with 381-passenger, B747-200 aircraft, officials said.

Woodbury said some figures indicate one daily non-stop, wide-body flight to a U.S. city from Japan can generate more than $700 million in economic impact on a community.

Flights from Nagoya to Las Vegas will stop in Honolulu, but return flights will require a connection in Phoenix, Ariz., before returning to Nagoya by way of Hawaii.

WASHINGTON (OCT. 17) UPI - Senate and House negotiators agreed Wednesday on a $288.3 billion military authorization bill that limits the B-2 stealth bombers to a fleet of 15 previously approved by Congress.

The compromise, worked out during lengthy negotiations, denied funds for any additional planes in fiscal 1991 or the future but includes $1.8 billion for research and development.

The compromise Pentagon authorization bill must pass the Senate and the House before it can be sent to President Bush for his approval.

The negotiators also agreed on $2.9 billion for ''Star Wars'' - the strategic defense initiative - that is about $900 million less than approved last year. It marks the first time since 1986 that the authorization for SDI has dipped below $3 billion a year.

The stealth bomber is a futuristic plane that can penetrate enemy radar and take a nuclear payload to its target. The Pentagon has envisioned a fleet of 75 planes.

Strong opposition to the B-2 bomber has increased with the end of the Cold War and the economic breakdown in the Soviet Union. The projected cost of 75 planes has been put at $65 billion.

The compromise agreement not to build more planes but to continue research and development means that Congress will have to fight over the fate of the bomber again next year.

Chairman Les Aspin, D-Wis., of the House Armed Services Committee, said the bill ''overall is still dominated by the fading Soviet threat but it takes the first steps toward providing a new defense for the new, post-Cold War era.

''One thing that means is less emphasis on strategic weapons and more on handling crises like the one we have now in the Persian Gulf,'' Aspin said.

The bill eliminates authorization for new planes or advance procurement for new planes in fiscal 1991, although it contains $2.3 billion for procurement.

Nearly all of the $2.3 billion will be absorbed by cost overruns identified by the Air Force. Further overruns for the 15 planes are expected to consume the rest.

The House voted to provide no procurement money for the B-2 and to terminate the program after production of 15 planes. The Senate authorized two new planes and provided $2.7 billion in fiscal 1991 toward a full fleet of the stealth bomber.

''The Senate got most of its dollars,'' Aspin said. ''We kept the program at 15 planes.''

The negotiators also rejected the administration's request to kill the V-22 Osprey, a horizontal-vertical warplane for the Marine Corps, designed to move more toops farther and faster than the largest troop- carryingg helicopters.

The Senate-House conferees approved $365 million for advance procurement of long-lead items for prototypes used in operational tests and $238 million for research and development.

In addition, the negotiators settled on a $680 million pool for research and development on competing inter-continental ballistic missile systems - the rail-based MX and the Midgetman. The conferees agreed that no more than one mobile ICBM should be deployed.

NAIROBI, Kenya (OCT. 17) UPI - The giant central African state of Zaire, in a surprise move Wednesday, withdrew troops it deployed to Rwanda two weeks ago to help its smaller neighbor fend off invading rebels, the official Zairean news agency reported.

On the diplomatic front, Belgian Prime Minister Wilfried Martens traveled to Uganda and met with President Yoweri Museveni to pressure him into helping stop the 17-day-old civil war in neighboring Rwanda. Museveni later flew to Tanzania to meet with Rwandese President Juvenal Habyarimana.

Official Radio Rwanda, monitored in Nairobi, said the shooting war continued in the northeast part of Rwanda between rebels mostly of the minority Tutsi tribe against government forces, primarily of the majority Hutu tribe. The radio said rebels had begun infiltrating the capital Kigali.

Zaire's 500 troops had been fighting alongside Rwandese soldiers for about two weeks - since shortly after some 2,000 Rwandese rebels invaded from neighboring Uganda on Sept. 30 in a bid to overthrow President Juvenal Habyarimana.

The Zaire news agency AZAP said Zaire's troops were taking part in a military operation against rebels within about a mile of the Ugandan border when they were ordered to return to Goma in western Zaire to await developments.

While Zaire gave no immediate explanation for the withdrawal, it appeared to mark irritation at the Belgian initiative and attempts to involve the U.N. Security Council.

''It is believed that the Zairean authorities took this action in the political and diplomatic climate that has developed .. including what some observers call 'scheming','' AZAP said, adding previous regional problems had been solved without outside interference.

Zaire and Rwanda's southern neighbor Burundi declined to attend talks initiated by Belgium, the former colonial power in all three countries.

Martens began a peace-seeking mission to the region Sunday on behalf of Rwanda a former Belgian protectorate. He was accompanied on the trip to Uganda by foreign minister Mark Eyskens and defense minister Guy Coeme.

The Belgian premier met an hour with Museveni, but would not comment later on the talks, saying only ''an initiative will be taken to calm the insurgency in Rwanda.''

Museveni flew immediately after the talks to Tanzania to meet Habyarimana and Tanzanian President Ali Hassan Mwinyi at Mwanza, on Lake Victoria, 530 miles northwest of Dar Es Salaam. His foreign minister Paul Semogerere told journalists Museveni assured the Belgians of his commitment to settling the problem and pledged assistance to Habyarimana.

Habyarimana meanwhile planned to fly Thursday to Paris to meet President Francois Mitterrand, who along with Belgium sent troops two weeks ago to protect Europeans in Rwanda.

According to Rwandese ambassador to Kenya, Cyprien Habimana, the rebels in his country now number as many as 20,000, despite a Ugandan pledge to seal its southern border and Museveni's assertions he was ignorant of rebel plans.

''If he (Museveni) wants to, he can stop the war the same day,'' Habimana said. ''He holds the key. They can't fight a war if they have no food. They can't fight a war if they have no weapons. It's a question of recruitment, weapons, training and logistics.''

''If he keeps his promise to seal the border, the fighting can stop,'' he said.

There are 80,000 Rwandese refugees in Uganda alone, and about 300,000 scattered across other countries in the area. They are mostly long-term fugitives from tribal massacres in the 1960s.

The rebel Rwandese Patriotic Front has said its war is partly motivated by Rwandese intransigence about accomodating returning refugees.

(OCT 17) UPI - U.N. Secretary General Javier Perez de Cuellar said in an interview published Wednesday that military intervention against Iraq would be legitimate if sanctions failed to budge Iraqi troops from occupied Kuwait.

Iraq reiterated its uncompromising stance even though Saddam Hussein earlier had sought to link an Iraqi pullout from Kuwait to an Israeli withdrawal from occupied Arab territories.

''There is no change in Iraq's stand on current national and pan-Arab issues '' an Iraqi information ministry spokesman told Baghdad Radio.

''Kuwait became an eternal part of Iraq on August 8 ... no Iraqi official has ever said that the whole of Kuwait is not Iraqi,'' the spokesman added.

Perez de Cuellar said in remarks published Wednesday in the German weekly magazine Stern that ''the members of the U.N. Security Council will have to wait a little and see whether sanctions will after all show some effect.''

He said if the economic sanctions do not work, military action against Iraq ''would be perfectly legitimate'' should the Security Council decide to sanction such a move.

Perez de Cuellar added if the U.N. managed to resolve the crisis, ''we will then have to immediately make efforts concerning the Palestinian problem.''

The Soviet Union hinted earlier this week that Saddam might be willing to soften his position if he received pledges the United States would not attack him but Moscow on Tuesday denied any compromise formula had been worked out.

Kremlin diplomatic trouble-shooter Yevgeny Primakov had given the first indication of a possible weakening in Iraq's resolve after meeting Saddam in Baghdad.

And King Hussein of Jordan told Amman Radio Wednesday that Iraq had considered pulling out of Kuwait 48 hours after his Aug. 2 invasion provided the Arab League gave him full backing. But the Arab League failed to do so and Saddam incorporated Kuwait into Iraq a few days later, the radio quoted Hussein as saying.

During talks with Italian Premier Giulio Andreotti in Rome Tuesday Primakov said his country still remained optimistic that a peaceful solution to the Gulf crisis could be worked out. The Soviet envoy was scheduled to meet French President Francois Mitterrand in Paris later on Wednesday.

In advance of President Bush's scheduled meeting with Primakov, White House press secretary Marlin Fitzwater said the administration had already heard some of what the Soviet envoy had to report but looked forward to a first-hand account.

Asked if Bush was encouraged by what he heard, Fitzwater said, ''no,'' adding that the conversations between Saddam and Primakov had evidently produced ''no real change'' in the standoff.

At the same time, Fitzwater said the administration had ''no reason'' to believe that the Soviets were more willing than the United States to accept a partial solution to the crisis.

Recent talk of a possible compromise prompted exiled Kuwaiti leaders in Saudi Arabia to vow Tuesday that they would not surrender ''even an inch'' of their country's territory to Saddam in any settlement. Syria, which together with Egypt and Morocco has sent troops to Saudi Arabia, said Iraq must withdraw from the emirate and restore its legitimate government.

In other developments Wednesday:

-Defense Secretary Dick Cheney arrived in Moscow for talks with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev and other Soviet officials. Cheney's talks with Gorbachev were expected to touch on the Persian Gulf crisis but a Soviet official denied the Soviet leader intended to share information about Iraq, a close ally of Moscow before its invasion of Kuwait.

WASHINGTON (OCT. 17) UPI - Senate and House negotiators agreed Wednesday on a $288.3 billion military authorization bill that limits the B-2 stealth bombers to a fleet of 15 previously approved by Congress.

The compromise, worked out during lengthy negotiations, denied funds for any additional planes in fiscal 1991 or the future but includes $1.8 billion for research and development.

The compromise Pentagon authorization bill must pass the Senate and the House before it can be sent to President Bush for his approval.

The negotiators also agreed on $2.9 billion for ''Star Wars'' - the strategic defense initiative - that is about $900 million less than approved last year. It marks the first time since 1986 that the authorization for SDI has dipped below $3 billion a year.

The stealth bomber is a futuristic plane that can penetrate enemy radar and take a nuclear payload to its target. The Pentagon has envisioned a fleet of 75 planes.

Strong opposition to the B-2 bomber has increased with the end of the Cold War and the economic breakdown in the Soviet Union. The projected cost of 75 planes has been put at $65 billion.

The compromise agreement not to build more planes but to continue research and development means that Congress will have to fight over the fate of the bomber again next year.

Chairman Les Aspin, D-Wis., of the House Armed Services Committee, said the bill ''overall is still dominated by the fading Soviet threat but it takes the first steps toward providing a new defense for the new, post-Cold War era.

''One thing that means is less emphasis on strategic weapons and more on handling crises like the one we have now in the Persian Gulf,'' Aspin said.

The bill eliminates authorization for new planes or advance procurement for new planes in fiscal 1991, although it contains $2.3 billion for procurement.

Nearly all of the $2.3 billion will be absorbed by cost overruns identified by the Air Force. Further overruns for the 15 planes are expected to consume the rest.

The House voted to provide no procurement money for the B-2 and to terminate the program after production of 15 planes. The Senate authorized two new planes and provided $2.7 billion in fiscal 1991 toward a full fleet of the stealth bomber.

''The Senate got most of its dollars,'' Aspin said. ''We kept the program at 15 planes.''

The negotiators also rejected the administration's request to kill the V-22 Osprey, a horizontal-vertical warplane for the Marine Corps, designed to move more troops farther and faster than the largest troop- carrying helicopters.

The Senate-House conferees approved $365 million for advance procurement of long-lead items for prototypes used in operational tests and $238 million for research and development.

In addition, the negotiators settled on a $680 million pool for research and development on competing inter-continental ballistic missile systems - the rail-based MX and the Midgetman. The conferees agreed no more than one mobile ICBM should be deployed.

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (OCT. 17) UPI - President Vaclav Havel fired Defense Minister Miroslav Vacek on Wednesday and gave temporary control of the armed forces to Prime Minister Marian Calfa.

Havel's office's declined comment on the reasons for the dismisal. Vacek, who served as army chief of staff under Czechoslovakia's former communist government, recently had been criticized for delays in carrying out reforms of the armed services.

Vacek also had come under fire for the army's alleged reluctance to surrender documents to a presidential commission investigating an alleged military plot to take over radio and television stations and suppress the anti-communist uprising in November.

''Havel appreciated the fact that in his function Vacek prevented any misuse of the army against the people, that he fulfilled all orders in a very loyal way and that he began the process of rebuilding the Czechoslovak army,'' Havel's office said in a statement announcing the sacking.

Vacek was quoted by local news media as having offered to resign in a Oct. 3 speech to the Federal Assembly. But the next day, a defense ministry spokesman said Vacek had been misquoted.

(OCT. 17) UPI - AMR Corp., parent of American Airlines, posted significantly lower third-quarter profits Wednesday and warned that rising fuel costs could result in a record loss for the fourth quarter and red ink for the whole year.

''Unless we see a dramatic decrease in fuel prices, we will almost surely suffer a record loss for the fourth quarter, which could possibly be large enough to create a loss for the entire year,'' said AMR chairman Robert L. Crandall.

AMR, based in Fort Worth, Texas, said its profit for the quarter fell by 52 percent to $65.6 million, or $1.05 a share, compared with $137 million, or $2.16 a share, for the same period a year ago.

Operating revenues rose 12 percent to $3.1 billion from $2.73 billion.

The company said a 53 percent rise in average fuel costs during the quarter drove down earnings. The average price of jet fuel rose from 59 cents a gallon in July to 90 cents in September, the carrier said.

Each penny increase adds $2 million to the company's monthly expenses.

Julius Maldutis, an airline analyst with Salomon Brothers, said he expects American to outperform the nation's other major airlines, which have yet to report third-quarter results.

The nation's major airlines have imposed two across-the-board fare increases since August totaling about 10 percent, but spokesman have said those higher fares have failed to fully offset the steeper cost of fuel.

Northwest Airlines and Continental Airlines said Tuesday they would raise fares this month by 5.8 percent and 8 percent respectively. Other carriers were expected to follow suit.

American's earnings for the nine-month period ended Sept. 30 fell 58 percent to $175.5 million, or $2.80 a share, compared with $415.9 million, or $6.59 a share, for the same period last year.

Operating revenues rose 10 percent to $8.7 billion from $7.9 billion.

LAHORE, Pakistan (OCT. 17) UPI - President Ghulam Ishaq Khan filed two new corruption charges against ousted Prime Minister Benazir Bhutto Wednesday.

The president charged Bhutto used intelligence bureau funds amounting to more than $3 million to buy the votes of members of the National Assembly in a crucial no-confidence vote last year, and that she used a Pakistani air force plane to transport the legislators.

Bhutto narrowly survived the Nov. 1 vote, but charges of horse- trading were leveled by both sides in parliament.

Ishaq Khan filed the charges in the special disqualification court in the northeastern city of Lahore, which will decide Oct. 20 whether to admit the cases.

Bhutto is already facing four other corruption charges before the special courts, which were set up by Ishaq Khan in an attempt to bar her and members of her administration from Oct. 24 elections.

Bhutto, 37, has denied the charges, but if found guilty she could be barred from politics for seven years.

Ishaq Khan dismissed Bhutto's 20-month-old government on Aug. 6, accusing it of corruption and nepotism and of failing to control law and order. He appointed opposition leader Ghulam Mustafa Jatoi as head of an interim government until the elections.

Bhutto's husband, businessman Asif Ali Zardari, was arrested last week on charges of kidnapping and extortion and remanded into custody until Oct. 24.

LONDON (OCT. 17) UPI - A.S. Byatt, a 54-year-old teacher of English literature, has won Britain's prestigious 1990 Booker award with her fifth novel, ''Possession,'' an intrigue set in the academic world.

The book was praised for its blend of intellectual fireworks and readability by the panel of judges. The award was made at a London dinner late Tuesday.

''Possession,'' published by British publishers Chatto and Windus, concerns two academics who set out in pursuit of the truth about two Victorian poets who may have been romantically involved.

Included in the book are the imaginary poems written by the poets, adding to its appeal, according to reviewers.

Byatt was educated at Cambridge University and Bryn Mawr University in Pennsylvania. She has written four previous novels and teaches English literature in London.

The prize carries an award of $38,000.

Other books shortlisted for the award were ''The Gate of Angels'' by Penelope Fitzgerald, ''An Awfully Big Adventure'' by Beryl Bainbridge, ''Amongst Women'' by John McGahern, ''Lies of Silence'' by Brian Moore, and ''Solomon Gursky Was Here'' by Mordechai Richler.

More than 100 novels were originally nominated for this year's award, officials said.

WASHINGTON (OCT. 17) UPI - It was another one of those ''read our lips, read our minds'' kind of days at the White House Wednesday, this time over President Bush's resolve to shut down the government in the absence of a deal on the deficit.

White House press secretary Marlin Fitzwater was peppered with questions about what the president said and what the president meant after the emergence of more mixed - or at least hazy - signals of White House budget strategy.

In a round of Congress-bashing Monday and Tuesday, Bush told GOP campaign audiences in five states that Friday night, the current deadline for action on the deficit, would be a final make-or-break point in the budget showdown.

Over the last 10 years, he noted, Congress has managed to slip by such deadlines 37 times by passing stopgap money bills - known as ''continuing resolutions'' - to keep the federal government operating until agreement could be reached on contentious budget matters.

But after reluctantly signing a two-week spending bill Oct. 5 to give the budget process more time, Bush indicated a 38th continuing resolution to keep the government in business past midnight Friday was out of the question.

''Twice now this year, I've signed emergency legislation to add more time to the clock,'' he told one such audience in Dallas. ''Well, this Friday, time's up. The American people deserve more than this stopgap government.''

The tune, if not the words, were the same at campaign stops in Nebraska, Iowa, Illinois and Michigan. ''Enough is enough!'' Bush declared, his patience seemingly gone. ''We can't afford business as usual.''

The threat to veto another stopgap bill seemed firm, which was all the more reason for curiosity Wednesday after White House chief of staff John Sununu hinted Bush might indeed be willing to give Congress more time to complete a budget agreement.

If Congress passed a continuing resolution with ''a really significant reduction in the deficit'' built into it, he said, ''I'm sure the president would, you know, consider that as a good faith extension.''

Bush had said nothing about proof of ''good faith'' Monday or Tuesday, in his demands for passage of a budget agreement on time. Did Sununu's comments, made on the NBC ''Today'' program, signal a certain, limited degree of flexibility?

At the White House, where moves in the budget game have been cloaked in ambiguity and at times confusion, press secretary Marlin Fitzwater would not say. Sununu, he said, ''was simply saying we have to wait and see what we get.''

It was, for the most part, a classic example of ''inside the beltway'' Washington politics, the kind Bush had on one hand deplored and on the other practiced over the previous two days.

The intent: to keep Congress wondering whether failure to produce a $500 billion deficit-reduction plan would plunge the government into chaos, an outcome Bush for which Bush would try to blame the Democrats in the remainder of the fall campaign.

''We've done it once,'' Fitzwater said. ''We're not afraid to do it again.''

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (OCT. 17) UPI - A senator and candidate for governor in the northwest state of Rondonia was shot to death in front of his office by two unknown assassins, police said Wednesday.

Olavo Pires, 52, who was the favorite for Nov. 25 runoff elections in the remote jungle state, was killed Tuesday evening in a hail of machine gunfire in Porto Velho, 2,250 miles northwest of Rio de Janeiro.

Police said Pires was shot about 60 times as he got out of his car and that a woman, one of several teachers Pires was scheduled to meet with at his office, was shot and wounded in the legs.

The assassins escaped and Police Chief Jose Elias dos Santos said there were no suspects.

Pires was the second and highest-ranking politician to be assassinated during Brazil's nationwide election campaign for congressional, state and municipal offices.

Francisco da Silva, a candidate for the state assembly in Sao Paulo, was shot to death Sept. 30, three days before the general elections, outside a dance hall he owned in the city of Sao Paulo. Another gun attack at a political rally in Campinas, 60 miles west of Sao Paulo, left a street vendor dead and his 12-year-old son wounded.

Pires, a senator for the Brazilian Labor Party, gained the most votes in the Oct. 3 gubernatorial contest, but because he did not win an absolute majority he was forced into a runoff election with the second- place candidate, Valdir Raupp of the National Reconstruction Party, the party of President Fernando Collor de Mello.

The president of the Superior Election Tribunal, Sidnei Sanches, said he would await word on the results of the police investigation before deciding whether to call another election. According to Brazilian elections rules, he said, a new election would be called if it were determined the crime was politically motivated.

Dos Santos said police were looking into possible political motives for the attack but were not ruling out other motives. He said Pires was the subject of a police investigation in 1988 into possible links to Colombia's notorious Medellin drug cartel.

Rondonia, which borders Bolivia and the Brazilian state of Amazonas, is one of 16 of Brazil's 27 states that will stage runoff elections Nov. 25.

FREETOWN, Sierra Leone (OCT. 17) UPI - France will send substantial food aid to war-ravaged Liberia, a French Embassy spokesman said Wednesday.

The spokesman said a recent French fact-finding mission found food shortages in Liberia had reached a critical stage.

''The food situation in Monrovia is so serious that the French government has decided to do something. The condition of the people is very sad and they are virtually starving. It is now time to send some food aid,'' he said.

An estimated 2,300 tons of rice destined for Liberia is sitting on a Freetown dock while ship crews refuse to sail to Liberia, a neighboring country on the West African coast. The crews apparently fear for their safety in Liberia, where a civil war has raged since December.

(OCT. 17) UPI - Three Americans and a Canadian won the final Nobel Prizes of the year today. Jerome Friedman and Henry Kendall of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Richard Taylor of Stanford University will share the physics prize for their work in detecting ''quarks''- the tiniest particles known in the universe. Their work confirmed the existence of quarks, the building blocks used to form neutrons and protons that compose atoms. The reseachers will divide a 700-thousand-dollar award.

Harvard University professor Elias Corey was awarded the Nobel Chemistry prize for his work over two decades advancing the theory and methodology of organic synthesis. In the 1960's, Corey developed a method of breaking down a natural molecule into component parts to determine how it can be reassembled in the laboratory. The 1990 Nobel Prizes will be presented to the laureates in Stockholm on December 10th, the anniversary of the death of Alfred Nobel, the Swedish inventor of dynamite.

(OCT 17) UPI - Astronomers have discovered a tiny, rapidly rotating neutron star that appears to be murdering a companion sun in a case of celestial fratricide that promises to shed light on stellar evolution and death, scientists reported Thursday.

The ''eclipsing millisecond pulsar,'' the massive remnant of an exploded sun, and its companion white dwarf star are located in Terzan 5, a globular star cluster near the center of the Milky Way galaxy at a distance of some 24,000 light years.

A light year is the distance light, traveling at 186,000 miles per second, travels in one year. Terzan 5 is so far away that light, or radio energy, takes 24,000 years to reach Earth.

The newly discovered pulsar, known as PSR 1744-24, and its white dwarf companion whirl about each other every 109 minutes at a distance of just 18,600 miles - about one-thirteenth the distance from the Earth to the moon, according to a letter in the British science journal Nature.

The pulsar, about 6 miles wide, has 1 1/2 times the mass of Earth's sun. The white dwarf, a small star in the final stages of its life, is about the size of the Earth. The two stars are so close to each other that the pulsar's intense radiation is blowing away the atmosphere of the white dwarf.

The pulsar is ''irradiating it with a very hard, energetic radiation, '' said Miller Goss of the Very Large Array telescopes at the National Radio Astronomy Observatory in New Mexico. ''It's just boiling it away.

''It's going to cause this poor little star, the one that's being murdered, to disappear someday, it's just going to evaporate,'' he said in a telephone interview.

Working with radio telescopes in Australia, Britain and the United States, Goss and other astronomers were able to determine the nature of the strange binary star system by studying intermittent radio signals from the pulsar.

Because of the periodic nature of the signals, scientists concluded the pulsar and another star were in orbit around each other and that the companion star periodically blocked the radio signals from the pulsar as seen from Earth.

How fast two objects orbit each other is a function of their mass and the distance between them. Repeated observations allowed astronomers to compute the orbital parameters of the Terzan 5 pulsar.

But the eclipses of PSR 1744-24 are extremely variable and ''there is no doubt that the eclipses are due to a wind emanating from the companion,'' the scientists wrote.

PSR 1744-24 is the second such eclipsing pulsar ever discovered. But the stars in the first such duo are much more widely separated.

''In that case, the orbit is about eight or nine hours and the eclipse is only occurring for say 40 or 50 minutes,'' Goss said. ''In this new one, the orbit is a little bit less than two hours and the eclipse is occurring about half the time. And the eclipse is very variable.''

PSR1744-24 is unique ''in the sense that the two stars are much closer, by a very large factor,'' he said. ''That's why this very severe eclipsing occurs.

''It's as if this pulsar is existing in kind of the weather of the debris of the other star that it's evaporating. This poor little star here is being murdered by the pulsar.''

Studying such a star system will shed insights into how the tightly packed suns in massive globular clusters interact and evolve.

''We're learning a lot about stellar evolution and the whole way that stars interact,'' Goss said.

During a supernova explosion, the core of the doomed star can collapse on itself with such force that positively charged protons and negatively charged electrons are crushed together, creating a sphere of uncharged neutrons.

Despite their small size, they retain enormous mass and thus tremendous gravity.

Spinning neutron stars are known as pulsars because they emit bursts of radiation as they rotate. In the case of PSR 1744-24, radiation bursts occur 100 times per second.

MOSCOW (OCT. 17) UPI - Ukrainian Premier Vitaly Masol agreed to resign Wednesday, meeting one of the demands of students who have been staging a hunger strike and daily demonstrations in Kiev, Soviet news reports said.

Ukrainian President Leonid Kravchuk told the republic's Parliament that Masol had agreed in a conversation with him to resign, but the resignation had not yet been submitted, the official Tass news agency said.

Students are in the 16th day of a rotating hunger strike in the main square of Kiev and thousands of demonstrators marched through the city Tuesday.

On Monday students seized the main building of Kiev University to begin a sit-in strike, the independent Interfax agency said.

The protesters are demanding that the republic not sign a new union treaty with the Soviet Union in addition to calling for Masol's resignation and new elections for Parliament.

Interfax said the Central Committee of the Ukranian Young Communist League had passed a special resolution supporting the demands of the hunger strikers, saying Masol ''does not enjoy public support.''

Students at the state university in Kharkov, the Ukraine's second- largest city, began a boycott of classes Wednesday to support the demonstrators in Kiev, Interfax said.

HOUSTON (OCT. 17) UPI - A non-profit coalition of scientists and engineers announced plans Wednesday for a lunar mapping satellite that would be launched atop a Soviet rocket in 1992 and become an outer space billboard for a major corporate sponsor.

The Lunar Prospector Project created by Lunar Exploration Inc. would represent America's return to the moon after a 20 year absence, and would be the first lunar mission not funded by the American or Soviet governments.

"What we're trying to do here is use existing technology, off-the-shelf equipment and tried-and-true techniques that have been done in the past," said Alan Binder, a Lockheed Engineering & Sciences Co. scientist serving as project manager for the project.

"We are using a very small spacecraft. We want to demonstrate the utility of such a small spacecraft, the low cost and that it can be done in a very short period of time. This is the first non-government mission. We are representing the first attempt at the commercialization of space."

LEI is a group of scientists, engineers, marketing specialists, attorneys, even housewives, who have volunteered their time - working primarily at night and on weekends - to create the lunar prospector. Most of the people involved in the project are NASA workers or employees of NASA subcontractors in the Houston area.

LEI has secured a "firm commitment" from the Soviet space agency to launch the satellite in 1992, although no contract has been signed, said project engineer Preston Carter.

The project cost, excluding launch, is about $11.7 million, although most of that has come in the form of donated equipment. With donated time added, the cost would increase to about $30 million, Binder said. LEI has raised $2 million so far.

"I am extremely confident that in two years we will have a spacecraft in orbit " Binder said. The satellite will carry out at least a one-year mission mapping the lunar surface, searching for deposits of ice, and measuring the moon's magnetic field at both the surface and orbital altitudes.

The probe's three instruments also will determine the frequency and locations of gas releases from the moon and produce the first complete map of the lunar gravity field, Binder said. The instruments will gather infomation vital to the establishment of a lunar base, he said.

"The data we get back will directly impact the location of a lunar base," he said. "We will impact on how we go back to the moon. It will make following missions more economical."

Instruments for the satellite, which has not yet been built, largely have been donated. NASA has provided an Apollo-era gamma-ray spectrometer that will map the chemical properties of the moon's surface.

The Soviet space agency has pledged to provide a rocket, free of charge, although LEI will pay some costs associated with the launch, Carter said. He declined to specify what services the company will pay for or how much it will cost.

To support those costs, LEI is turning to corporate America, seeking one or more major sponsors that will be allowed to use the lunar prospector as a space-going billboard. Organizers are touting their plan of bringing non-aerospace corporations into the space industry for the first time.

"We are looking for participation from one, or several, corporations to allow them to expose their product through this launch," said John Reed of Space Marketing Concepts of Atlanta. That exposure could include plastering the company's logo on the side of the lunar prospector.

"It's very well received," Reed said of LEI's contacts with possible sponsors. "Space is the place we haven't been commercially. Corporations are very interested."

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (OCT. 17) UPI - A new dispute between the rival Serbian and Croatian republics delayed the presentation Wednesday to Parliament by President Borisav Jovic of recommendations on the nation's future political structure.

The wrangling involved a Croatian demand that Jovic's speech await the confirmation by the bicamercal legislature of former Croatian prime minister Stipe Mesic, a senior leader of the nationalist Croatian Democratic Union, as the republic's new representative on the eight-man federal presidency.

Communist-ruled Serbia objected to the demand, contending that Mesic's nomination could not be considered until Friday, the end of a 10-day period required by parliamentary procedure between the listing of an issue on the agenda and the actual vote.

Parliamentary officials said legislative and government leaders had met all day behind closed doors in an attempt to resolve the issue. But they apparently failed as the debate resumed when the Federal Chamber, one of Parliament's two houses, convened in the evening, 40 minutes later than scheduled.

It was not known if Jovic would deliver his speech. Croatian delegates urged that it be delayed until Friday afternoon, after the vote on Mesic.

Meanwhile, the Croatian delegation stormed out of the Chamber of Republics and Provinces after it was announced Jovic was about to speak to the federal house without a vote on Mesic being taken.

The Serbian use of procedural rules to obstruct the Croatian demand follow months of tensions between the two republics fanned by politicians seeking to exploit long-standing frictions between Yugoslavia's 8.5 million-strong Orthodox Serbian majority and the 4.6 million Roman Catholic Croats.

Tensions rose sharply after clashes late last month in Croatia between Serbs and Croatian police. Croatian-Serbian emnity is regarded as the most serious of several ethnic problems that threaten civil war in the Balkan nation of 23 million.

The parliamentary session was further overshadowed by the failure of the Yugoslav federal presidency to resolve differences over whether Jovic should recommend constitutional reforms that would maintain Yugoslavia as a federation or make it a confederation of independent states.

Officials said Janez Drnovsek, the Slovenian member of the presidency, walked out of a meeting of the collective head of state Tuesday because of Jovic's preference for the federation plan, despite the lack of the traditional consensus among the representatives of the six republics and two provinces.

They said Drnovsek planned to boycott the speech by Jovic, Serbia's representative on presidency and the current holder of the body's annually rotating chairmanship. The boycott would be unprecedented.

Jovic's recommendations are to be used as the basis for a new constitution that would embody Western-style political and economic reforms and replace a Marxist document enacted in 1974. It would be implemented after multi-party parliamentary elections due before the end of the year.

Serbia, the last major bastion of communist power, its province of Vojvodina and the allied Republic of Montenegro favor a plan that calls for strengthening the federal system and giving more power to the central government, which currently has no real authority.

Croatia and Slovenia, fearing domination of a federation by majority Serbs, co-authored a plan for a confederation of independent states with separate militaries, currencies and foreign policies, but linked by a common market.

The Slovenian and Croatian governments, elected in April in Yugoslavia's first multi-party assembly polls since the end of World War II in 1945, have threatened to secede if the federation plan is eventually adopted.

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (OCT. 17) UPI - Jurors in the obscenity trial of 2 Live Crew furrowed their brows and strained to make out the words Wednesday on a scratchy, unintelligible recording of the rap band's controversial concert.

Earlier, defense attorneys twice demanded that Broward County Judge June Johnson declare a mistrial after the prosecution's first witness made references to inadmissible evidence.

Johnson said she would rule on the motions later.

Luther Campbell, leader of the Miami group, and band members Christopher Wongwon and Mark Ross were charged with giving an obscene performance following the June 10 concert, which was held two days after a federal judge declared the group's album, ''As Nasty As They Wanna Be, '' obscene.

If convicted, each defendant would face a maximum sentence of a year in prison and a $1,000 fine.

The tape recording was constantly stopped and restarted while prosecution witness Eugene McCloud, the undercover sheriff's detective who made the recording on a hidden mini-cassette recorder, described what he saw on stage and gave his interpretation of the lyrics.

Hoots and shouts as well as bits and pieces of sexually explicit lyrics could be heard in the largely unintelligible tape that jurors visibly strained to decipher.

In one song, McCloud said, ''What Mr. Campbell is saying at that point is, 'Drop your drawers. Drop, drop your drawers.'''

During McCloud's testimony, Campbell could be heard telling his attorney, Bruce Rogow, ''I didn't say that,'' as Wongwon and Ross shook their heads and exchanged incredulous glances.

McCloud, a portly 38-year-old black who was born and reared in the Fort Lauderdale area, stammered and halted as he described the movements of three young women dancers who wore body stockings and accompanied the band on the stage of Club Futura in Hollywood.

''They were dancing - uh - they were throwing their little - uh - I'm very embarrassed,'' McCloud said.

Assistant State Attorney Leslie Robson responded, ''Eugene, we're all grown-up adults here.''

''They were dancing as though they were screwing, having sex,'' McCloud said.

Rogow asked for a mistrial when McCloud made reference to a concert for minors that was given before the adults-only performance. Johnson had ruled Tuesday that the earlier concert was not to be mentioned because it was not related to the obscenity charge.

Prosecutors had argued that the so-called ''clean version'' showed that the group planned to give an obscene performance later that evening.

Rogow asked for a mistrial again when McCloud referred to a government-prepared transcript of the controversial concert that Johnson ruled Tuesday was inadmissible.

Johnson had ruled the transcript would distort the jury's perception of the performance because it contained added information, including descriptions of what was happening on the stage, and cautioned that graphic language would follow.

Earlier in the day jurors, who have been sequestered since testimony began Tuesday, complained of their boredom during their first night in a local hotel.

One juror said he read the entire Holiday Inn directory, while another, David Garsow, 24, of Miramar, told Johnson, ''I felt like a prisoner.''

The judge said she would consider providing jurors with videotapes and books.

NEW YORK (OCT. 17) UPI - Mayor David Dinkins Wednesday was meeting separately with officials from Moody's Investor Service and Standard & Poor's Corp., two major investment rating firms that last week warned the city to get its financial house in order.

The mayor called them to City Hall to try to reassure them he has things under control and was working on a comprehensive plan to rein in the widening budget gap.

He told city agencies Tuesday to prepare for massive cuts to slash more than $1.1 billion in city program spending in the next 20 months. Last week he told agencies to plan to slash $2.3 billion from construction and repair project budgets over the next 3 1/2 years.

Officers from S&P's and Moody's, meanwhile, were to explain to the mayor the reasoning behind their actions of last week, which came amid signs of increasing nervousness among investors in city bonds.

S&P's put the city on a negative "credit watch" Oct. 9 and said it might lower the city's A-minus rating on its bonds if the administration failed to develop a program to deal with rising costs and declining revenues.

S&P's said it made its move in the wake of what it called conflicting signals from City Hall the first week of October - a 5.5 percent contract settlement with teachers, a proposed $1.8 billion anti-crime plan and announcement of the possible need to lay off 15,000 city workers because of a drop in revenue. Moody's also expressed strong concern about the city's financial outlook.

Dinkins recently met with members of the state Financial Control Board, who were worried by the city's economic picture. Board members later said they were supportive of the mayor's efforts.

The city budget office's cost-cutting plan calls for a combination of major service reductions, attrition, increased productivity and "a lot" of layoffs.

If carried out it could lead to the closing of firehouses, rundown parks and garbage-strewn streets.

The Dinkins administration two weeks ago ordered a hiring and promotion freeze to cut $115 million in costs for the current fiscal year. The cost-cutting plan would slash city spending by another $330 million in the current fiscal year.

It also would cut $840 million in city spending for the next fiscal year, which begins July 1, to move toward closing a projected deficit of some $1.4 billion. It also calls for a contingency plan to make another $195 million in cuts.

Most agencies were asked to identify ways of cutting costs by four percent now ten percent next year, plus another 2 1/2 percent for the contingency plan.

The Board of Education, the Health and Hospitals Corporation, the City University system and the Fire Department were asked to cut spending by two percent now, five percent next year and 1 1/4 percent under the contingency plan. Criminal justice programs will be spared cuts but must achieve major savings through increased productivity. None of the figures were final, however.

Budget Director Philip Michael said the agencies have to come up with a plan but not all of the cuts will be carried out depending on their impact on city life.

Michael refused to spell out how specific agencies could be affected. But he said, "there will be massive cutbacks in agency services. You will see that across the board."

DALLAS (OCT. 17) UPI - Thrift king Don Dixon said Wednesday he hopes for a fair trial on federal charges that he spent savings and loan funds on cruises, hunting trips, political contributions, and prostitutes.

Dixon, dressed in a tan suit, was stopped by reporters as he entered the federal courthouse. Asked if he thought he would get a fair trial, he responded, "I hope so; I don't have any choice."

U.S. District Judge Joe Fish began qualifying the prospective jurors at 11:13 a.m. CDT. Reporters were to be removed from the courtroom when lawyers began questioning the panel later Wednesday.

Federal authorities claim the collapse of Vernon Savings and Loan Association under King's ownership cost the government $1.2 billion. "We're talking about a man with a golden appetite," said an investigator close to the case. "He may not have been the biggest thrift (owner), but he was certainly the most flamboyant."

A convicted madam has agreed to testify to that point, flying in Saturday at the behest of prosecutors to appear at Dixon's trial, which was to begin Wednesday with jury selection. Karen Wilkening, serving a 44-month sentence for prostitution, said in affidavits Dixon often engaged the services of her San Diego call-girl ring.

Judge Fish, who has placed prosecutors under a gag order, authorized officials at the California Rehabilitation Center in Norco to release Wilkening to the custody of the FBI so she could be flown to Dallas.

Dixon is charged with misapplying funds of the Vernon S&L, leading to the thrift's collapse in 1987. The now-defunct Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corp. estimated the loss from the collapse at $1.2 billion.

"He used the (call girls) to entertain clients and encourage them to invest," said the investigator, who asked to remain anonymous. "Pretty women became an ornament at his parties."

There were other ornaments. According to industry regulators, Dixon was a Dallas developer who purchased a small, well-run S&L in Vernon, Texas, and rapidly built a thrift empire with branches and assets in Texas, Florida, and California.

In the process Dixon amassed a collection of six aircraft including three baby-blue jets - the largest, a Falcon 50 jet, looks like a replica of a Boeing 727. He kept six pilots and several flight attendants on the thrift's payroll.

In addition, Dixon owned through Vernon a helicopter and a 112-foot yacht - the High Spirits - berthed on the Potomac to entertain influential Washington politicians.

The government has accused Dixon of using several California "holiday" homes - written off as business expenses - to reward clients and high-yield employees with liquor and sex. One contractor who did work at one of Dixon's homes said it was "wall-to-wall hookers" during the party season.

Dixon was well-known in other parts. Because of large contributions to the Roman Catholic diocese of San Diego, Dixon was given an audience with Pope John Paul II in 1985. At that audience, he presented the pontiff with a $40,000 impressionist painting paid for by Vernon's depositors. "I felt I was in the presence of someone very special," Dixon was quoted as saying later.

CLEVELAND (OCT. 17) UPI - The perceived problem of Americans not saving enough may be solved as people age and need less money for their daily needs, a Federal Reserve Bank study said Wednesday.

A report released Wednesday by economist Michael Bryan and researcher Susan Byrne points out that younger wage earners typically borrow money in anticipation of making more money in the future but tend to save more as they become older and the prospect of increased earnings decreases.

''Because of these different patterns of incomes and spending over the course of a life cycle, younger workers tend to have high levels of spending and debt relative to their current income, while middle-aged workers are inclined toward relatively low levels of spending and indebtedness.''

Personal savings as a percent of national income fell from 8 percent in 1975 to 3 percent in 1987, triggering many comments that Americans need to learn to save more. But during the same time, the age of the work force became younger.

Personal income typically levels off at about age 40 and by 1986 the oldest members of the baby-boom generation celebrated their 40th birthdays.

''Since then, the lifetime earnings potential of the labor force has fallen abruptly relative to current income,'' their report said. ''This reflects a labor force near the peak of its age-earnings profile, with an average age that has been rising.

''Consistent with these trends, the rate of personal savings has escalated and we have begun to reduce our dependence on foreign capital.''

The report points out that since 1987 the personal savings rate has increased from 3 percent to 5 percent of national income.

The Census Bureau is projecting the 20- to 34-year-old age group will fall from 43 percent of the working-age population to about 35 percent within 10 years.

''This trend will likely exert upward pressure on personal savings rates and downward pressure on real U.S. interest rates, discouraging foreign capital inflows in the process,'' the report said.

(OCT. 17) UPI - House Speaker Thomas Foley says Congress may authorize its leaders to call lawmakers back into session if the situation in the Middle East heats up after adjournment. Usually only the president can re-convene Congress after it has completed its work and left town. But some members worried about the tense Persian Gulf are calling on President Bush to fully consult with Congress before he makes any further moves, particularly military action.

U-N Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar told a German news magazine that military action against Iraq would be legitimate if United Nations sanctions don't work. The U-N chief says that if sanctions managed to resolve the Kuwait crisis the U-N ''will then have to immediately make efforts concerning the Palestinian problem.''

A German newspaper says an alleged spy now under arrest may have provided Iraq with details of secret NATO consultations and analyses of the gulf situation that may have influenced Saddam Hussein's decision to invade Kuwait. The German news agency says intelligence sources in Bonn believe the spy gave Iraq a complete American assessment of the gulf before the U-S military build-up in Saudi Arabia.

Plans to radically change the Soviet economy have run into problems over what course to take. The deputy Russian prime minister who co- authored the 500-day transitional plan has resigned in a dispute with the Kremlin. Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev endorsed the original plan but the one he sent to Parliament committees yesterday was different in its tone. The compromise keeps many of the tight central controls that have been in place for years in the Soviet Union and that led to the resignation.

Research done more than 20 years ago into the tiniest known particles in the universe has led three scientists to share in the 700-thousand- dollar Nobel Prize in Physics. This year's honor goes to physicists Jerome Friedman and Henry Kendall of M-I-T and Canadian Richard Taylor of Stanford University. The two M-I-T researchers are the 54th and 55th Americans to win the physics prize. Taylor is the first Canadian. Their work confirmed the existence of sub-atomic ''quarks,'' the building blocks of neutrons and protons.

Harvard's Elias Corey won the Nobel Prize in Chemistry for his work in the 1960's in tearing a natural molecule down to its components to find out how it can be reassembled in the lab. The Nobel citation calls his pioneering work the beginning of a process of computer synthetic planning that is still developing.

The budget crunch facing many Americans has now expanded to include Harvard College in Cambridge, Massachusetts. Department heads of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences have been told to cut budgets by up to six percent or face what could be a 13-point-four-Million-dollar budget deficit. Cutbacks may involve services to students and faculty but salaries of Harvard instructors will NOT be touched.

BEIRUT, Lebanon (OCT. 17) UPI - Lebanese President Elias Hrawi, the winner in a power struggle with Christian Gen. Michel Aoun, pledged Wednesday to disband militia groups within six months.

''We have a period of six months to disband all militias completely and if things go normally we will speed up the implementation of this process,'' Hrawi told United Press International.

''The next stage will be very critical and we will move from a state of war and disintegration to a state of peace and unity,'' he said.

A combined force of Syrian and Lebanese troops loyal to Hrawi ousted Aoun in a blitz last Saturday that left more than 600 people dead. Since then, Aoun has taken up refuge at the French Embassy on the eastern outskirts of Beirut.

Aoun had refused to relinquish his authority and to recognize the leadership of Hrawi, who was elected president following a peace accord approved by the Lebanese parliament in Taif, Saudi Arabia, last October.

In line with the Taif agreement, the Lebanese parliament approved last month constitutional reforms that gave Moslems a greater share of power. Militias were to be dissolved within six months after the ratification of the reforms, according to the accord.

''In order to achieve peace and unity, we should start implementing the Taif accord regarding the reunification of the army that has been divided under Aoun and dissolving armed militias,'' Hrawi said.

Some 15,000 troops loyal to Aoun surrendered at his urging lat week and joined the command of the pro-Syrian army commander, Gen. Emile Lahoud. That increased the size of a unified Lebanese regular force to at least 35,000 but thousands of Moslem and Christian militiamen still control sectors of Beirut.

Many gunmen of the Syrian Social National Party and the breakaway Christian Lebanese Forces militia of Elie Hobeika have sneaked into east Beirut and opened offices.

The militia movements were widely condemned by Christian political and religious leaders, including George Saadeh, minister of telecommunication and head of the Phalange Party, as well as Lebanese Forces commander Samir Geagea.

Geagea and Saadeh called on Hrawi to stop the spreading of pro-Syrian militiamen into the Christians' heartland.

Hrawi's statement apparently was intended to give assurances that the recent militia deployment will be suppressed soon.

''We have dealt with all parties in a very realistic way,'' Hrawi said.

''Those who approved the Taif accord will play a political role after abandoning military (militia) activities.''

The president emphasized that his government would be a democracy, allowing all parties to engage in political activities, particularly the groups that opposed the Taif accord.

''For those who oppose the Taif agreement, the door will be opened for opposition through political means because we are holding on to our democratic system,'' Hrawi said.

Geagea, whose Christian hardline followers control a ghetto in east Beirut and regions northeast of the capital, had expressed support for the Taif agreement.

The pro-Iranian Moslem fundamentalist Hezbollah group that patrols Beirut's teeming southern suburbs had rebuffed the pact. But Hezbollah clerics hinted that they would not obstruct a security plan to establish a free-militia zone in unified Beirut.

Hrawi said that he was seeking to rehabilitate and rebuild the fractured Lebanese army to enable it ''expand government authority on all Lebanese territories.''

WASHINGTON (OCT. 17) UPI - Middle-class taxpayers would be hit with about $300 a year in higher income taxes in the unlikely event that the House-passed deficit reduction plan becomes law over a certain veto by President Bush.

The new middle class income tax increase - not included in a separate deficit cutting plan the Senate began debating on Wednesday - would come from a one-year delay in the annual adjustment ensuring that income tax rates and personal exemptions keep pace with inflation.

A one-year freeze of that inflation adjustment would raise $4.1 billion in fiscal year 1991, which began Oct. 1, and $36 billion over five years - money that would help shrink the deficit.

Freezing the inflation adjustment could cost middle class taxpayers about $300 a year, according to Republicans who oppose the provision that was crafted by Democratic members of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee and adopted by the House on a mostly party-line vote on Tuesday.

A family of four with a combined income of $46,000 a year would have a taxable income of $32,200, after taking the standard deduction of $5,400 and four personal exemptions which, after being indexed for inflation next year, would be worth $8,400. That $32,200 in taxable income would be taxed at 15 percent, for a total tax bill of $4,830.

Under current law, the point at which the 15 percent tax rate rises to 28 percent would be adjusted for inflation and moved from the current $30,950 a year to $32,500 a year.

But under the House-passed plan, that inflation adjustment would not take place. And the four personal exemptions also would not be adjusted for inflation, making them worth $8,000 instead of $8,400.

So the same family of four would have a taxable income of $32,600 under the Democratic plan - $46,000 income less the $5,400 standard deduction and the $8,000 in non-adjusted personal exemptions.

Of that $32,600 in taxable income, $30,950 would be taxed at 15 percent with the difference between $30,950 and $32,600 taxed at 28 percent, for a total income tax hit of $5,104.50 - an increase of $275 due solely to a the one-year freeze in the inflation adjustment.

In another example, using Treasury Department figures, a single taxpayer with no dependents who has $21,000 in taxable income this year would pay an extra $151.50 in income taxes under the Democratic plan passed by the House. And a family of four with a taxable income of $34,000 in 1991 would pay $313.50 more in income taxes next year under the House-passed plan.

Bush on Tuesday vowed to veto the measure because, he said, he was "determined that the budget of the United States not be balanced on the back of working Americans." The Senate deficit reduction plan would not raise income tax rates or freeze the annual inflation adjustment for rates and exemptions.

DUMFRIES, Scotland (OCT. 17) UPI - Two passengers on a Pan Am jet that was destroyed by a terrorist bomb may have survived their 6-mile fall to earth if they had received immediate medical treatment, a doctor said at an inquiry Wednesday.

Dr. Anthony Busuttil, head of the pathology team that did postmortem examinations on the 270 people who died in the disaster 21 months ago, said the two passengers would have been unconscious during the short time they lived after the blast.

''The chances are that even if they survived they would have been deeply unconscious after sustaining their injuries,'' Busuttil said.

''There is a possibility, and indeed if resuscitation was available immediately with access to medical facilities, there could have been survival.''

The names of the two passengers were withheld by the request of relatives.

Busuttil, who holds the chairmanship of forensic medicine at Edinburgh University, also said some of the 243 passengers on the jumbo could have been conscious for at least part of their freefall.

Another member of the pathology team gave a chilling description of what it would have been like for those passengers who were conscious while falling.

Oxygen would have been lost within five seconds of the explosion, he said.

''I think everything will go misty from condensation. Everything will be blown about. There will be noise, confusion, darkness, perhaps rather like a nightmare ... a weird sensation.''

The temperature would have been about minus 58.

Busuttil said 201 of the passengers were instantly killed by multiple injuries. Another 19 were less severely injured but would also have died outright or very quickly.

In a third category were the two whose injuries were less severe and who could have lived for a short time.

Asked by the Scottish lord advocate, Lord Fraser of Carmyllie, if they would have been conscious, Busuttil said, ''It is a possibility but I cannot put it in a definite category.''

He said that all three members of the flight-deck crew and 13 members of the cabin crew had sustained unsurvivable injuries.

Those aboard would have fallen to the ground at about 120 miles an hour - faster if attached to a heavy piece of the plane and slower if attached to a part that fluttered like a leaf, Busuttil said.

A fall of 31,000 feet would take 2 1/2 minutes, he said.

The inquiry is considering the circumstances of the Dec. 21, 1988 bombing and is not seeking those who committed the crime. Police in Scotland and elsewhere are conducting a criminal investigation.

UNITED NATIONS (OCT. 17) UPI - Iraq has denied Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar's request that it allow a charter plane to fly to occupied Kuwait with medicines for hospitals, a U.N. spokesman said Wednesday.

The request was transmitted to the Iraqi government last Friday on behalf of Kuwait's U.N. ambassador, Mohammad Abulhassan, who said Kuwaiti as well as foreign patients were dying for lack of medicines in hospitals that are now occupied by Iraqi troops.

U.N. spokesman Francois Giuliani said the government in Baghdad - which claims to have annexed Kuwait - replied Tuesday ''in the negative'' and gave no reasons for the refusal.

''I believe they only gave a negative answer,'' he said. ''I think the answer was quite clear: The government of Iraq will not allow that plane to go to Kuwait for reasons that don't need to be explained. Their position is very clear on this issue.''

Abulhassan told reporters last week that the needed medicines would be distributed by the International Committee of the Red Cross and would be paid for by his government-in-exile.

Abulhassan said Kuwait had a reserve of medical supplies for at least six months at the time Iraqi troops invaded that country on Aug. 2. He said the supplies were taken by the Iraqis and information received by his government showed that sick Kuwaitis and foreign nationals were dying because of a lack of medicines like plasma, insulin and some antibiotics.

The U.N. Security Council has exempted medicines and food for humanitarian circumstances from the trade embargo imposed to punish Iraq for invading and annexing Kuwait.

PARIS (OCT. 17) UPI - Automaker Regie Nationale des Usines Renault said Wednesday it had temporarily laid off 22,000 workers because a strike by Spanish truck drivers that has closed the French-Spanish border led to a shortage of necessary equipment.

It was also learned Wednesday that automaker Peugeot SA closed its factory in Villaverde, Spain, because it has not received parts made in France necessary for the construction of the 205 and 309 models.

Renault said it had used boats between Portugal and France and leased 10 airplanes and helicopters to transport automobile parts between France, Spain and Belgium.

''These measures have not been sufficient to make up for the loss of the truck traffic,'' a Renault spokesman said.

More than 1,000 trucks are blocked on both sides of the border because of a protest by Spanish drivers, who are demanding higher social benefits to make up for the higher price of gasoline because of the Gulf crisis.

HALIFAX (OCT. 17) UPI - A tanker ran aground Wednesday off Quebec's Ile d'Anticosti in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, but officials said its 21 crew members remained on board and were trying to refloat the vessel.

Canadian Armed Forces Capt. Robert Curran, at the Coast Guard's Rescue Coordination Center, said the asphalt-filled tanker - Rio Orinoco - had developed engine problems two days ago.

Curran said the tanker was anchored to allow the crew to work on the engines, but strong currents dragged the anchor to shallower water. At that point, the engine room flooded and the tanker settled on the bottom.

Curran said double-hulled tanker was not leaking any of its cargo.

Ile d'Anticosti lies off the coast of the Quebec mainland near the mouth of the St. Lawrence River in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, which is formed by Quebec, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland.

The Coast Guard has three pollution and safety ships in the area and inspectors boarded the tanker to help the crew determine how to refloat it, Curran said.

Curran said the tanker was believed to be registered in the Cayman Islands and was en route from the Dutch Antilles to Montreal when the trouble occurred.

''We are keeping our eye on it,'' Curran said, adding he expected it to be several days before the ship could be refloated. He said the engine room would have to be pumped, the engines restarted and the cargo reheated and perhaps transferred to another vessel.

NEW YORK (OCT. 17) UPI - Consumer demand for gasoline at the pump apparently slackened last month as a result of the rise in prices triggered by Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of oil-rich Kuwait, the oil industry reported Wednesday.

''We believe that some demand response to higher prices may be apparent for gasoline,'' as a result of the rise in retail prices of 25 cents, or 20 percent, since July, the American Petroleum Institute said.

Some of September's 1.5 percent decline in refinery deliveries from a year ago could be explained by normal variations in monthly data, the API said in its monthly statistical report. September daily deliveries averaged 7.1 million barrels, or 294.2 million gallons, it said.

There is no direct method of measuring consumption precisely since unknown quantities of deliveries wind up in the storage tanks of refiners, wholesale distributors and station owners.

But based on historical data, ''we estimate that the increase in retail prices over the past two months would have led to a short-term response in consumption amounting to a 0.5 to 1 percent decline,'' the report said.

September's 1.5 percent drop in deliveries also exceeded the 0.9 percent year-to-year average monthly 1990 decline through July, it noted.

In addition, September gasoline deliveries were 8 percent less than August compared to the normal 5-6 percent seasonal monthly decline at the end of the summer driving season, the API reported.

The consumer's response to higher prices probably also involved the buying of cheaper grades of gasoline, the institute said.

''Premium unleaded, which had accounted for 22 percent of gasoline sales in July, has likely lost a point or two of market share to other grades,'' it said.

Some oil companies have said the shift involves more than a few percentage points, Ron Planting, API editor of the monthly report, told United Press International.

Airlines have been complaining that spiraling prices of jet fuel are sending them into the financial doldrums and have forced them to raise passenger fares.

The API monthly survey found that September deliveries of kerosine jet fuel rose 4 percent over a year ago to 1.369 million barrels a day. Each barrel equals 42 gallons.

It said nearly two-thirds of the increase in deliveries was accounted for by ''above normal military deliveries apparently used to replenish stocks drawn down during the August airlift (of U.S. troops and equipment) to the Persian Gulf.''

Despite the fare increases, many airlines offered ''an assortment of discounts for immediate travel '' ... and ''preliminary industry data on miles flown show growth at about 7 percent to 8 percent in September,'' API said.

There has been anecdotal evidence cited by oil traders that U.S. refiners have been exporting gasoline and other products to take advantage of the higher retail prices in Europe and elsewhere.

API reported that September exports jumped 14.4 percent from 655,000 barrels daily a year ago to 749,000 barrels daily this year.

Despite the rise in deliveries of gasoline and jet fuel, total September oil deliveries climbed a scant 0.2 percent over a year ago to 17.486 million barrels a day, the report said.

Industry statistics also indicated that wholesale distributors continued to stock up on home heating oil in September, which is usually one of the lowest months for deliveries of distillates - heating oil and diesel fuel, API said.

September distillate deliveries of 2.958 million barrels daily were 2.7 percent higher than September 1989 compared with a 0.8 percent rise for the year to date.

''This suggests that the additions to storage by distributors and end users indicated in August's data may have continued in September,'' the institute said.

September imports of crude oil rose 0.9 percent to an average of 6 million barrels daily from a year ago, it found, despite the the decline in Middle East oil that began to be felt around the middle of the month.

U.S. refineries processed 14.15 million barrels of crude daily, 2.6 percent more than in September 1989, the industry survey found.

PARIS (OCT. 17) UPI - Soviet emissary Yevgeny Primakov, who met with Iraqi President Saddam Hussein earlier this month, said Wednesday he believed that a softening of the Iraqi position on the Persian Gulf crisis was still possible.

''I can tell you that in a diplomatic manner I do not dismiss the possiblity that the Iraqi position could be more flexible,'' Primakov said following a 45-minute meeting with President Francois Mitterrand at the Elysee Palace.

Declaring himself a ''prudent optimist,'' he said President Mikhail Gorbachev had given him the mission to ''utilize all the political possibilities possible as long as the situation has not degenerated towards a military route.''

''It is not a matter of a pacifist action or of the acceptance by the international community of the annexation of Kuwait or of any other actions that would be in contradiction with the principles on which we should build a new world,'' he said.

''I think politicians should play their role as long there exist possibilities of a negotiated settlement,'' Primakov added.

The emissary, a member of Gorbachev's presidential council who met Iraqi leader Saddam Hussein in Baghdad Oct. 5, arrived in Paris from Rome Wednesday.

Italian officials said that in a one-hour meeting Tuesday Primakov told Italian Prime Minister Giulio Andreotti that during his visit to Iraq he gained the impression that Saddam would be prepared to negotiate provided there was no ultimatum from the West and no threat of a military operation.

At a brief news conference after the meeting, Primakov said he was not carrying any message from Gorbachev. But he said the Soviet leader attributes great importance to the Gulf situation and is very concerned about it.

''We are optimistic, despite everything, otherwise I would not be here'' Primakov said.

He said the Soviet Union is committed to finding a political and peaceful solution to the gulf crisis and in principle ''this approach coincides with the Italian position.''

Before Primakov left Moscow for Rome, Gorbachev's spokesman Vitaly Ignatenko denied a report by the Soviet Novosti press agency that Saddam had softened his position during his meeting with Primakov and may have offered a compromise.

Also Wednesday, Defense Minister Jean-Pierre Chevenement said after a Cabinet meeting that France will make ''a slight increase'' in its contingent in the gulf.

SAN FRANCISCO (OCT. 17) UPI - The first anniversary of the Northern California earthquake that toppled buildings and roadways and claimed 62 lives was marked Wednesday with songs celebrating life and silence commemorating the dead.

Some civic leaders praised the region's efforts to repair the physical, emotional and economic damage. Others soberly pointed to the inevitability of another major quake in the not-so-distant future.

The most recent data put together in the aftermath of the Loma Prieta quake showed there are almost two out of three chances - or a 63 percent probability - of another major quake hitting the region within the next 30 years.

In some quarters Wednesday, the song ''San Francisco'' - the earthquake anthem for the city - rang out. Elsewhere, gospel music and prayer marked the passing of 62 people who died when the 7.1 temblor struck at 5:04 p.m. on Oct. 17, 1989, and jarred the earth from Santa Cruz to San Francisco.

The day represented the most dramatic anniversary in the lives of many San Francisco Bay Area residents, but conversation around town was dominated by the Oakland Athletics' 7-0 loss to the Cincinnati Reds in the first game of the World Series.

Newspapers assigned bigger headlines to their front-page game stories than to their quake retrospectives, although they tended to take advantage of handy quake metaphors.

''Bay Area rocked by a 7-0,'' trumpeted the San Francisco Examiner over its World Series story.

Artists unveiled sculpture made out of quake rubble at a streetside arts fair. Flags were raised on previously toppled poles. The San Francisco Opera chorus sang at a special ceremony and the Chamber of Commerce honored quake heroes. Some restaurants turned off their lights and served dinner by candlelight.

A handful of people left town.

But survivors mostly talked about their ''where-were-you-when-it-hit'' earthquake experiences, despite the growing number of T-shirts reading ''Thank you for not sharing your quake story.''

San Francisco Mayor Art Agnos declared that the city had recovered.

''Our city has bounced back in terms of physical rehabilitation very quickly '' Agnos said in an interview on NBC's ''Today'' show.

''First of all, there are only ... certain places that were badly damaged. The Marina was one ... but the visitor places weren't damaged because of our seismic upgrading of modern buildings.''

Agnos said that tourists - vital to the city's economy - have returned.

''As a matter of fact, tourism statistics, the latest ones we have for June and July, which are our peak months, show that it was better than it was before the earthquake,'' he said.

Assemblyman Rusty Areias, interviewed on ''Today'' from Santa Cruz, warned against heeding the lessons of the Loma Prieta quake.

''If you live in California, you live in peril. You live in one of the most seismically active of the 50 states and I think there is a thickening curtain of apathy, which is prevailing,'' he said.

Democratic gubernatorial candidate Dianne Feinstein took the opportunity to pose at Candlestick Park and issue a 3 1/2-page broadside on what she would do to improve earthquake preparedness statewide.

Her opponent, U.S. Sen. Pete Wilson, was in Washington.

BOSTON (OCT. 17) UPI - Massachusetts researchers dominated the Nobel Prize list this year, with winners of medicine, physics and chemistry awards from the state's top two universities in scientific research.

Harvard University and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology each garnered two Nobel Prizes, adding to their long lists of previous winners.

Harvard boasts 33 Nobel laureates on its faculty dating back to 1914, including 18 current faculty members. MIT's Nobelists include nine current or emeritus faculty members, an MIT physician and 10 alumni.

Wednesday's announcement of the final Nobels - for physics and chemistry - named three Massachusetts researchers as winners.

At MIT in Cambridge, Jerome I. Friedman and Henry W. Kendall shared the $700,000 Nobel Prize in Physics with Canadian Richard E. Taylor of Stanford University.

They were cited for research more than 20 years ago that confirmed the existence of quarks, building blocks used to form the neutrons and protons that comprise the bulk of the atom.

One mile down the road, the nation's oldest university also enlarged its collection of Nobel Prizes.

Harvard professor Elias James Corey, 62, received the Nobel in chemistry Wednesday for his method of breaking down a natural molecule into its component parts to determine how it can be reassembled in the lab.

''Harvard is delighted to have our 33rd Nobelist,'' Harvard spokesman Peter Costa said. ''As professor Corey said, to him teaching is as important as research. We are gratified by that remark - that his brilliance and accomplishments are also displayed in the classroom.''

Last week, former Harvard professor Joseph E. Murray split the Nobel Prize in Medicine with E. Donnall Thomas, of the Fred Hutchinson Cancer Research Center in Seattle.

Murray, a researcher and physician at Boston's Brigham and Women's Hospital, won the prize for his discovery that rejection following organ transplantation to humans could be overcome.

Even this year's winner of the Nobel Memorial Prize in Economic Science had ties to the Ivy League school.

University of Chicago business professor Merton Miller - who earned his bachelor's degree from Harvard in 1944 - shared the prize with Harry Markowitz of City University of New York and William Sharpe of Stanford University.

''Having fostered so many outstanding scientists and people who have won the Nobel Prize is a great source of pride and honor for the university,'' MIT's chief science writer, Dr. Gene Mallove said.

The 1990 awards will be presented to the laureates on Dec. 10, the anniversary of the death of Alfred Nobel, the Swedish inventor of dynamite who created the prizes in his 1895 will.

DALLAS (OCT. 17) UPI - A government attorney said Wednesday that prosecutors were not trying to make thrift king Don Dixon a scapegoat but hold him responsible for his own conduct in the $1.2 billion failure of his savings and loan.

Earlier, speaking to reporters before entering the federal courthouse, Dixon said he hoped for a fair trial on charges he spent thrift funds on cruises, hunting trips, political contributions, and prostitutes.

During jury selection, Assistant U.S. Attorney David Jarvis said the government's case was not designed to find ''a scapegoat for the S&L crisis'' nor to explain why Vernon Savings and Loan failed.

''We're simply trying to hold Don Dixon responsible for his conduct,'' Jarvis said.

Jarvis compared the case to that of a rape.

''When you feel outraged about a particular crime as a juror you are asked to set aside your feelings and give the defendant a fair trial,'' he said. ''This is the same as a rape case in the sense I'm asking for your objective opinion based on evidence.

Jarvis estimated the trial would last about four weeks. He also said a portion of the trial would deal with political contributions and asked the juror candidates if any of them objected to federal campaign laws which make it illegal for companies to directly contribute to candidates.

''Our indictment does not allege direct contributions. It alleges indirect contributions - officers of Vernon who contributed to candidates and then were reimbursed,'' he said.

Dixon, dressed in a tan suit, was stopped by reporters as he entered the federal courthouse. Asked if he thought he would get a fair trial, he responded, ''I hope so; I don't have any choice.''

U.S. District Judge Joe Fish began qualifying the prospective jurors at 11:13 a.m. Reporters were to be removed from the courtroom when lawyers began questioning the panel later Wednesday.

Federal authorities claimed that the collapse of Vernon Savings and Loan Assn. under Dixon's ownership cost the government $1.2 billion.

''We're talking about a man with a golden appetite,'' said an investigator close to the case. ''He may not have been the biggest thrift (owner), but he was certainly the most flamboyant.''

A convicted madam has agreed to testify to that point, flying in Saturday at the behest of prosecutors to appear at Dixon's trial, which was to begin Wednesday with jury selection. Karen Wilkening, serving a 44-month sentence for prostitution, said in affidavits that Dixon often engaged the services of her San Diego call-girl ring.

Judge Fish, who has placed prosecutors under a gag order, authorized officials at the California Rehabilitation Center in Norco to release Wilkening to the custody of the FBI so she could be flown to Dallas.

Dixon was charged with misapplying funds of the Vernon S&L, leading to the thrift's collapse in 1987. The now-defunct Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corp. estimated the loss from the collapse at $1.2 billion.

''He used the (call girls) to entertain clients and encourage them to invest '' said the investigator, who asked to remain anonymous. ''Pretty women became an ornament at his parties.''

There were other ornaments. According to industry regulators, Dixon was a Dallas developer who purchased a small, well-run S&L in Vernon, Texas, and rapidly built a thrift empire with branches and assets in Texas, Florida and California.

In the process Dixon amassed a collection of six aircraft including three baby-blue jets - the largest, a Falcon 50 jet, looks like a replica of a Boeing 727. He kept six pilots and several flight attendants on the thrift's payroll.

In addition, Dixon owned through Vernon a helicopter and a 112-foot yacht - the High Spirits - berthed on the Potomac to entertain influential Washington politicians.

The government has accused Dixon of using several California ''holiday'' homes - written off as business expenses - to reward clients and high-yield employees with liquor and sex.

One contractor who did work at one of Dixon's homes said it was ''wall-to-wall hookers'' during the party season.

Dixon was well-known in other parts. Because of large contributions to the Roman Catholic diocese of San Diego, Dixon was given an audience with Pope John Paul II in 1985. At that audience, he presented the pontiff with a $40,000 impressionist painting paid for by Vernon's depositors.

''I felt I was in the presence of someone very special,'' Dixon was quoted as saying later.

If convicted on all 38 counts, Dixon could face a maximum sentence of 190 years in prison and be fined as much as $9.5 million.

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (OCT. 17) UPI - Anglican Archbishop Desmond Tutu called Wednesday for an urgent summit of black leaders that would include an unprecedented meeting of rivals Nelson Mandela and Mangosuthu Buthelezi and warned those who refuse to accept face branding as ''enemies of liberation.''

Many observers believe such a meeting is crucial before their respective supporters end bloody fighting that first exploded in 1987 in the Indian Ocean province of Natal and spread two months ago to black townships surrounding Johannesburg. In six weeks of fighting that largely ended in mid-September in the Johannesburg area, nearly 800 blacks died.

Since Mandela's release from 27 years imprisonment in February, all attempts to arrange a meeting between the African National Congress leader and Buthelezi, who heads the chiefly Zulu movement Inkatha, have failed.

In a major address to a synod of the Anglican diocese of Cape Town, the 1984 Nobel peace laureate unveiled what appeared to be a failsafe plan to bring Mandela and Buthelezi together for the first time.

The summit would include talks on black unity in advance of power- sharing negotiations with the government of President Frederik de Klerk, Tutu told the synod, which meets once every three years.

Tutu also called on de Klerk to sack Defense Minister Magnus Malan over the existence of a secretive military unit that assassinated anti- apartheid activists in the 1980s and urged him to accept demands for a constituent assembly to write a post-apartheid charter.

He called for a purge of right-wing forces from the military and insisted the government disarm the neo-Nazi Afrikaner Resistance Movement (AWB) and enforce the law that ''forbids inciting racial animosity.''

Referring to de Klerk's rapidly unfolding racial reform program, Tutu said, ''We have experienced a euphoria at the speed of events, but we have also touched the nadir of despair at the mindless violence that has taken place in Natal and the Transvaal.''

''The political leaders of blacks need to meet urgently to plan a joint strategy on negotiations, to adopt a code of conduct in political dealings and to decide on how to handle the factional violence and to promote unity and peace,'' he added.

Tutu said the church had a ''special responsibility'' and he proposed to use his office of political neutrality to call for a summit ''soon'' to be held at Bishopscourt, the official residence in Cape Town of the Anglican Archbishop. He said leaders of ''all substantial black political movements'' would be invited.

''The aim would be for a black political summit, the importance of which would be undisputed, so that our people would judge leaders who refused to attend as enemies of unity, peace and liberation,'' Tutu said.

The church leader never once mentioned Mandela or Buthelezi in his prepared text in connection with the proposed summit, but his intention was clear. There are only a handful of blacks regarded as leading substantial political movements.

Buthelezi has long demanded a meeting with Mandela, but the ANC has previously warned such a summit would accord the Zulu chief and his Inkatha organization undeserved status of equality with the ANC, the country's largest anti-apartheid movement.

Mandela's senior aides this year prevented him from meeting Buthelezi in Natal province.

This month, ANC officials invited Buthelezi to a meeting at Mandela's house that included leaders of several of South Africa's black homelands. Buthelezi, chief minister of the self-governing Zulu territories of Natal, refused to attend largely because he had demanded a private meeting with Mandela and recognition as leader of Inkatha.

BOGOTA, Colombia (OCT. 17) UPI - The army raided a huge cocaine production complex under control of commnunist guerrillas, one of the biggest laboratory busts since a famous 1984 raid.

The secret police also were investigating the possible infiltration by the Medellin cartel of cocaine traffickers in the agency.

Members of the army's Special Command raided the complex Tuesday on the southern border of Colombia and Ecuador in the jungle of the Amazon River basin, the Defense Ministry said.

The complex had been under control of the Revolutionary Armed Forces of Colombia guerrilla group, the ministry said. It was capable of producing from 6 to 8 tons of cocaine per month, according to officials.

The action was one of the biggest raids since a 1884 operation against a jungle cocaine complex known as Tranquilandia, where 18 metric tons of cocaine was found.

The new complex discovered in the Putumayo region of Colombia's southern border had housing for 200 people, the Defense Ministry said. It had its own electrical plant, swimming pool and dining facilities.

The secret police, known as the Administrative Security Department, arrested Guillermo Gomez, accused of heading the team that carried out the Dec. 6, 1989 bombing of the agency's headquarters, killing more than 50 people.

Gomez was arrested along with his companion, Diana Fonseca, a former employee of the secret police. She was under investigation for possibly passing on information to the Medellin cartel, the agency said.

The newspaper La Prensa reported at least five other secret police officials were under investigation for possible links to the cartel. The agency has denied the report.

DETROIT (OCT. 17) UPI - Sen. Donald Riegle Jr., D-Mich., continued to meet with now-jailed savings and loan executive Charles Keating in 1987 and 1988 - even though he knew that federal officials were seeking a criminal investigation of Keating, published reports said Wednesday.

The Detroit Free Press and the Detroit News said the meetings, which had not been previously disclosed, are shown in appointment books that Keating kept of his lobbying effort involving some of the highest officials of Congress and the federal government.

Excerpts from Keating's appointment logs were first published Monday in the National Mortgage News, a trade publication. The Free Press said a person involved with Keating investigations who has a copy of the logs confirmed the accuracy of the excerpts.

Riegle, chairman of the Senate Banking Committee, was scheduled to appear Wednesday before the Senate Ethics Committee in a closed-door session in Washington.

The panel could vote as early as this week on how to proceed on its investigation into whether Riegle and four other senators acted improperly by meeting with regulators on Keating's behalf.

Keating arranged $1.3 million in political donations to the lawmakers, dubbed the Keating Five. The other four lawmakers were Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio; Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif.; Sen. Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz.; and Sen. John McCain, R-Ariz.

Riegle, who has consistently denied any wrongdoing in his dealings with Keating, had no comment Tuesday, citing the committee's confidentiality rules.

The Keating logs, under court seal, indicate that Keating met with Riegle several times before the April 9, 1987, meeting in which the senator and four colleagues discussed Keating's concerns with thrift regulators.

Keating was alleging that regulators were harassing and trying to drive his Lincoln Savings & Loan Association of Irvine, Calif., out of business. The regulators were maintaining that Keating was looting Lincoln, possibly criminally.

After that meeting, the logs show Keating scheduled meetings with Riegle on Sept. 24, 1987, and Jan. 26 and Feb. 4, 1988.

Keating is in jail in California awaiting trial for alleged bond fraud stemming from the $2-billion Lincoln S&L failure. Riegle has returned $78,250 in campaign contributions that Keating arranged.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (OCT. 17) UPI - The Chapter 11 bankruptcy filing by the parent company of P-I-E Nationwide Inc., one of the nation's top trucking companies, will likely result in employee layoffs, a P-I-E spokesman said Wednesday.

The trucking company, which employs 7,800 workers nationwide including 600 in Jacksonville, Fla., notified employees of the bankruptcy filing late Tuesday, P-I-E spokesman Russ Dixon said.

''I can anticipate there would be a change in the work force, but it would be too early to determine how many would be affected,'' Dixon said. The majority of the company's workers are represented by the International Brotherhood of Teamsters.

Olympia Holding Corp., which acquired P-I-E in April for an undisclosed amount filed for Chapter 11 reorganization Tuesday, Dixon said.

The trucking company, which ranks as one of the nation's top 10 less-than-truckload carriers, has experienced financial troubles for a number of years, Dixon said.

''In the last five years, there have been four ownership changes, and there have been operating losses,'' he said.

The privately held concern does not disclose its earnings. However, Dixon said P-I-E has annual revenues of about $500 million.

The company owns about 12,000 trucks and trailers, and operates 230 freight terminals throughout the nation. Some consolidation of those terminals is expected in the wake of the filing, Dixon said.

As part of the reorganization, P-I-E also will change its name to P- I-E International.

''P-I-E International has been created from P-I-E Natiowide. We go forward from today as an new ongoing concern,'' he said. ''From a marketing point of view, it is certainly a good idea to identify P-I-E as something new.''

The company said it is currently operating at better than a break- even level.

AUSTIN, Texas (OCT. 17) UPI - The nation's growing demand for electricity will soon force it to decide between new coal-fired or nuclear power plants, an expert on nuclear energy said Wednesday.

Dale Klein, associate dean for research at the University of Texas's College of Engineering, said the problems with nuclear power in the United States are more political than technical.

''The world will go nuclear - it's just a matter of whether the U.S. will follow,'' he said.

Klein said the growth in electrical needs means the United States must choose between five existing and technically feasible sources - oil, natural gas, coal, hydroelectric or nuclear.

Since the nation is in the grip of an oil crisis and because hydroelectric generation is not possible in all parts of the country, Klein said the choice is actually only between nuclear and coal-fired plants.

''The problem is that no one wants a coal plant or a nuke in their back yard '' he said. ''But they all want electricity and they want it cheaply.''

Klein said economic factors rule out solar and wind power, although they could be future sources of large-scale electrical generation.

''The disadvantages of coal are greenhouse gases, acid rain, other pollution, stip mining and ash disposal,'' he said. ''Nuclear power compares very favorably to coal from an environmental standpoint.''

But Klein said if he headed a utility company he would not order construction of a nuclear plant until the federal government develops ''a one-step licensing process and a standardized plant.''

Klein said the government's licensing process is largely responsible for delays and cost overruns in the construction of nuclear power plants in Texas and other areas.

''With the one-step licensing process, if you started a plant in 1990, you'd have it ready by 1996,'' he said.

The standardization of plant design would also boost the nuclear power industry, said Klein.

''It should be like building airplanes - you don't license each airplane as if it were the only one of its type,'' he said. ''You certify many airplanes of identical design under a uniform procedure.''

SEATTLE (OCT. 17) UPI - The state's Labor and Industries Department said Wednesday it will consider further legal action against Nordstrom Inc. because the retailer refused to negotiate an agreement that would settle charges that Nordstrom violated wage and labor laws.

However, Nordstrom quickly questioned the press release sent to news media by the state, with company spokesman Tim Doke saying the state of Washington was ''posturing on behalf of the union'' representing about 2,000 Puget Sound area Nordstrom employees.

The United Food and Commercial Workers union began a negative publicity campaign in the summer of 1989 after its contract with Nordstrom expired. One of the union's many claims has been that Nordstrom pressured employees to perform duties ''off the clock'' without proper compensation.

At the request of the union, the Labor and Industries Department investigated Nordstrom and last Feb. 15 issued a finding stating Nordstrom had violated state law in areas involving time keeping methods and payment of overtime.

The state had been working with Nordstrom attorneys on a consent decree that would have settled the finding, but talks broke down in August when Nordstrom questioned the legality and status of the state's finding. The retailer also contended that it was never given the proper opportunity to respond to the state charges.

During an Oct. 5 hearing in King County Superior Court Nordstrom lawyers implied they would consider filing a lawsuit against the state agency for damages done to the retail chain because of the negative publicity generated by the state's February finding.

''We believe Nordstrom broke the law, and now it appears the company wants the taxpayers of Washington to pay for it. That's absurd,'' Labor and Industries Director Joe Dear said.

He said the department had been willing to work as much as possible to reach a satisfactory settlement with Nordstrom, ''but what pushed our buttons was when they threatened us with a lawsuit.''

He also said Labor and Industries was tired of waiting to hear from Nordstrom after talks broke down in August.

Dear did not outline what actions the state would take to force Nordstrom to comply with its findings, which demanded that the retailer compensate current and former employees for back wages and change its timekeeping practices.

However, he said the state would consider a complete refusal to negotiate any more with Nordstrom, and said his agency might take action through the courts.

Nordstrom spokesman Doke said Nordstrom was confused over the reasons behind the state agency's latest action.

''What really baffles us is why the state would do this, unless it is under incredible pressure from the United Food and Commercial Workers,'' Doke said. ''Their release says nothing, except to further the union's objectives of embarrassing the company.''

NEW YORK (OCT. 17) UPI - Tough words on Iraq from Secretary of State James Baker gave the dollar a modest lift in New York dealings Wednesday, providing added momentum to what dealers described as a slight technical rebound.

Currency traders said Baker's comments in a Senate hearing raised the specter of a full-scale conflict in the Gulf, prompting some buying of the dollar to cover short positions, or earlier commitments to sell the unit.

Baker said the quest for peace in the Mideast depended on ''reversing (Iraq's) capacity for future aggression.'' His words seemed tougher than the established U.S. position of demanding Iraq's total withdrawal from Kuwait.

The secretary's remarks ''were a reason to buy some dollars,'' said Bayerische Hypotheken-und Wechsel Bank vice president Carl Amendola. The spate of buying mainly gave the dollar a lift against the German mark.

In late New York dealings, the dollar was quoted at 1.5120 marks, ahead from 1.5110 marks Tuesday, and 125.40 Japanese yen, down from 126.65.

Baker's hawkish comments followed better-than-expected economic figures from Washington that helped the dollar stabilize. Industrial production rose 0.2 percent in September, against 0.1 percent in August.

But few players thought the dollar had hit the floor and Amendola said it could settle around 1.45-1.50 marks and 115-120 yen. What concerned most participants was when the U.S., German and Japanese authorities would intervene.

''We are on the alert for intervention by the central banks, especially if the dollar consolidates,'' wrote Carl Weinberg, chief economist of High Frequency Economics, a New York firm that publishes a daily advisory.

Central bankers might wait for the dollar to pause, then purchase it in a bid to reverse its decline. ''The banks and governments have learned better than to buck a strong market's direction,'' Weinberg said.

Other New York dollar rates: 1.2712 Swiss francs, off from 1.2755; 5.0665 French francs, up from 5.0600; and 1,132.50 Italian lire, off from 1,131.50.

The pound slipped to $1.9620 from $1.9650.

In Europe, the dollar moved down against the main units as players followed through on comments from U.S. economic authorities saying the U.S. currency should drop even lower against the mark and yen.

Martin Feldstein, president of the U.S. National Bureau of Economic Research, said Tuesday the U.S. unit should fall 10 percent to 15 percent against the major currencies and even more against the German and Japanese units.

The dollar slipped in Frankfurt to 1.5095 German marks vs. 1.5140 Tuesday. It also eased in Zurich to 1.2710 Swiss francs vs. 1.2815.

In London, the pound gained slightly against the U.S. unit, ending at $1.9650 against $1.9570.

The dollar also closed lower in Paris and Brussels, at 5.0465 French francs vs. 5.1153, 31.08 Belgian francs against 31.26. In Milan it hit 1,128.20 Italian lire vs. 1,143.90 - its lowest point since May 1981.

In Tokyo, the dollar hit a 20-month low against the yen after U.S. Treasury Secretary Nicholas Brady made remarks tolerant of the dollar's weakness. The unit ended at 125.80 yen, off 2.25 yen from 128.05 Tuesday.

Foreign exchange dealers said Brady's comments led institutional investors to sell dollars heavily.

In Zurich, gold closed higher at $367.50 vs. $364 per ounce. It was also off in London, at $366.75 an ounce vs. $362.50.

Republic National Bank in New York closed cash gold at $367.25 an ounce, up from $362.75 Tuesday. The New York Commodity Exchange settled contract gold at $366.70 an ounce, ahead from $362.

Silver was unchanged in Zurich at $4.20 an ounce, and was also unchanged in London at $4.21 an ounce.

Republic closed cash silver at $4.225 an ounce, up from $4.17. Comex silver finished at $4.198 an ounce, up from $4.142.

MOSCOW (OCT. 17) UPI - U.S. Secretary of Defense Dick Cheney and President Mikhail Gorbachev marveled Wednesday at the improvement in U.S.-Soviet relations, but Cheney later sparred with Soviet lawmakers over remaining differences.

Cheney discussed the fundamental reorientation of the two superpowers' relationship in meetings with Gorbachev and Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze.

''We value the understanding by U.S. President George Bush and other Americans of the importance of what the Soviet Union is going through,'' Gorbachev told Cheney. ''We are optimists, and we believe we will succeed.''

Cheney responded that the United States is interested in a stable, prosperous and democratic Soviet Union.

Cheney informed Shevardnadze that the United States expects to cut its military budget by $180 billion over the next five years and reduce its troop strength by 20-25 percent as part of a basic redirection of American defense policy, the official Tass news agency said.

The two men also discussed the Persian Gulf crisis, agreeing that it is important for their governments to proceed from common positions at the United Nations.

Gorbachev said that the Middle East crisis spawned by Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait has tested the growing strength of U.S.-Soviet relations.

In a packed schedule on his first full day in Moscow, Cheney brought personal congratulations to Gorbachev for receiving the 1990 Nobel Peace Prize.

Cheney, who arrived in Moscow Tuesday, addressed two parliamentary committees after separate meetings with Gorbachev and Shevardnadze. He hosted a dinner in the evening at the U.S. Embassy for Defense Minister Dmitri Yazov.

Before beginning their formal talks, Cheney congratulated Gorbachev on his being awarded the Nobel Peace Prize Monday, the official Tass news agency said.

Gorbachev thanked Cheney then joked that it was ''unusual'' for the recipient of such a peace prize to be congratulated by ''the leader of a military department,'' Tass said.

''I am really glad to hear the congratulations, especially from the secretary for military affairs,'' Gorbachev said with a laugh.

''It is really amazing that over the last few years, we have made a norm of such visits by our defense ministers'' and other military officials, Gorbachev added. ''This has really become something in our dialogue.''

Cheney later expressed similar sentiments in an address to the Soviet Parliament's committees on national security and foreign affairs.

''Our old strategy was based on fighting a global conflict with the Soviet Union on short notice,'' Cheney told the deputies.

But the lawmakers, in a lively question-and-answer session after the speech, showed that differences remain between the two erstwhile enemies.

Cheney told the legislators that the United States welcomes new ''Soviet intentions'' evidenced in arms control talks and troop withdrawals from Eastern Europe and Afghanistan.

He added, however, ''We are still concerned with Soviet capabilities, '' and claimed that Moscow last year bought or produced significantly more tanks and ballistic missiles than Washington.

Deputies asked Cheney why the United States is continuing to aid Afghan rebels despite the Soviet pullout and why it has resisted Moscow's calls for a ban on nuclear weapons testing.

Cheney responded that the Soviet Union is still supplying arms to Afghan President Najibullah, and that Washington believes that nuclear tests maintain the security of existing stockpiles.

(OCT. 17) UPI - World crude prices tumbled $2 a barrel in hectic selling Wednesday with markets positioned for further declines as traders refocused on the possibility of peace negotiations in the Middle East.

The U.S. benchmark West Texas Intermediate crude for November delivery plunged $2.17 to $36.72 a barrel on the New York Mercantile Exchange as prices plummeted through a key $37.15 support level in the last 10 minutes of trading.

The Merc decline appeared to help the price of stocks on the New York Stock Exchange where the Dow Industrials average of blue chip companies climbed 6.68 points to 2387.87.

''We broke through $37.15 around 3:00 (p.m. EDT) and then dropped nearly $1 in the final 10 minutes of trading to a low of $36.25 before the exchange settled its books for the day at $36.72 a barrel,'' said Tom Bentz, director of trading at New York's United Energy Inc.

Breaking through the key support level indicated prices ''are going down further. I'm going with my $34 a barrel level (the lowest price in recent weeks),'' Bentz said.

''There's a feeling in the market that peace negotiations are being given a chance to work,'' the trader said.

''The market's down because of the possibility of negotiations with Iraq,'' said Ann-Louise Hittle, senior oil analyst with Shearson Lehman Brothers in

New York. ''This kind of talk has taken the edge off the market.''

WTI had dropped $1.74 Monday after weekend reports that Iraqi President Saddam Hussein was in ''a conciliatory mood'' and was willing to talk about a partial withdrawal from Kuwait, occupied since his Aug. 2 invasion.

Kremlin diplomatic trouble-shooter Yevgeny Primakov had given the first indication of a possible weakening in Iraq's resolve after meeting Saddam in Baghdad.

During talks with Italian Premier Giulio Andreotti in Rome Tuesday Primakov said his country still remained optimistic that a peaceful solution to the Gulf crisis could be worked out. The Soviet envoy was scheduled to meet French President Francois Mitterrand in Paris later on Wednesday.

In advance of President Bush's scheduled meeting with Primakov, White House press secretary Marlin Fitzwater said the administration had already heard some of what the Soviet envoy had to report but looked forward to a first-hand account.

Secretary of State James Baker, who rejected the idea of a partial Iraqi pullout Tuesday, was reported as telling a congressional that the U.N. embargo against Iraq was ''very effective'' and he did not believe any immediate military action would be required.

Both Republican and Democratic members of Senate Foreign Relations Committee expressed concern that President Bush could order an attack on Iraq without a formal declaration of war after Congress adjourns, in the next few weeks, until early next year.

Baker said the administration ''would expect to consult with Congress, but we don't know what's going to happen.'' He added, ''We should not rule out the use of force.''

Prices might have been expected to rise in response to a weekly report by the American Petroleum Institute late Tuesday after the Merc closed that U.S. crude supplies dropped 6.2 million barrels last week bringing the five-week loss to 30.2 million barrels.

The cushion of extra supplies, which totaled 56.2 million barrels over last year prior to the Iraqi invasion, has been virtually eliminated as a result of the drop in Middle East imports starting in mid-September.

The report was apparently largely discounted Tuesday before it was made public.

''A lot of (the API report) was built into the market yesterday. A lot of yesterday's rise was in anticipation of the API report,'' said Bob Jonke, a trader with Cargill Investor Services in New York.

Jonke said, ''The weakness in the products is carrying us down.''

On the Merc, home heating oil for November delivery tumbled 5.75 cents from Tuesday's close to 98.25 cents a gallon, while November unleaded gasoline plummeted 4.88 cents to 93.4 cents a gallon.

On the European spot market, where crude is bought and sold for cash, Britain's widely traded North Sea Brent lost $2.25 from Tuesday to $36.65 a barrel.

United Arab Emirates' Dubai Light - the key OPEC crude from the Middle East shipped mainly to the Far East - declined $1.80 to $32.50 a barrel.

On the U.S. Gulf Coast spot market, prompt delivery WTI crude fell $2.15 to $36.70 a barrel.

Sun Co., Radnor, Pa. and Marathon Oil Co., the Findlay, Ohio, unit of USX Corp. reduced the posted price they will pay for crude at the wellhead by $2.25 a barrel to $35.50 a barrel for WTI.

NEW YORK (OCT. 17) UPI - Stocks closed mixed Wednesday as a drop in oil prices bolstered the Dow industrials, but the gains in the blue chips faded late in the day on persistent concerns about the economy and corporate earnings.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which sank 35.15 Tuesday, rose 6.68 to close at 2387.87.

Among broader market gauges, the New York Stock Exchange composite index dipped 0.05 to 163.59 and Standard & Poor's 500-stock index fell 0.16 to 298.76. The price of an average share lost 1 cent.

Declines led advances 832-661 among the 1,967 issues crossing the NYSE tape. Big Board volume totaled 161,260,000 shares, up from 149,570, 000 traded Tuesday.

Losing issues led gainers for most of the day with advances pulling ahead just slightly for brief spurts of time. But the Dow industrials attracted some buying, peaking with a gain of almost 25 points in the early afternoon.

Analysts said an unexpected rise in oil prices and comments from Secretary of State James Baker, who spoke before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, sparked a blue-chip rally after midday.

Oil prices were expected to rise Wednesday after the American Petroleum Institute reported late Tuesday that inventories of crude fell for the fifth straight week, which would be bullish for oil prices. Prices fell, though, and closed down $2.17 to $36.72 a barrel.

Some analysts said the remarks by Baker before a Senate panel helped push oil down and the Dow up around midday.

Baker said he did not think any immediate military action would be required in the Persian Gulf and added that the economic sanctions on Iraqi exports were very effective.

But the gains failed to hold for the most part and the Dow closed slightly higher as persistent concerns about the economy and corporate earnings prompted selling late in the day.

''Lower oil prices and Baker's comments helped the market at about midday,'' said Ricky Harrington, director of investment policy and asset management at Marion Bass Securities in Charlotte, N.C.

''But there's still so much concern about earnings, the Treasury refunding next month, and talk of a recession that they won out in the end and the positive influence of oil and Baker was offset by these other concerns,'' he said.

Overall, said Harrington, the market's performance Wednesday was not very good and he predicted more weakness before the end of the week.

He also noted that Friday will see the monthly ''double-witching hour'' expirations of stock-index futures and options, and pointed out that there was weakness leading into the expirations in August and September.

''Also, with only the Dow stocks higher and the rest of the market down, I'd say it probably means more weakness Thursday and Friday,'' he said.

On the trading floor, Citicorp was the most active issue, down 1/4 to 12 3/4 after Tuesday reporting a sharp drop in third-quarter earnings.

Elsewhere in the banking sector, First City Bancorp plunged 2 3/4 to 5 7/8 after reporting a large third-quarter loss Tuesday. It is said to be eyeing a dividend cut.

Sallie Mae followed, down 3/4 to 35 3/4, extending Tuesday's plunge, which came on concerns about a suit filed by two former managers charging that the purchaser of student loans engaged in loan fraud and a cover-up.

Reports said federal officials have begun investigating the agency's office in Lawrence, Kan., but Sallie Mae late Tuesday denied the allegations.

PepsiCo was third, falling 7/8 to 22 3/4. Salomon Brothers was said to have downgraded its rating on the stock.

Among the blue chips, AT&T fell 3/4 to 30 7/8, IBM added 1 3/8 to 100 3/4, General Electric gained 1 1/8 to 52 5/8 and Merck rose 1/2 to 78 3/8 after reporting a sharp rise in earnings Tuesday. American Express tumbled 1 1/8 to 17 1/2, swept up by the weakness in financial stocks.

Volume of NYSE-listed issues, including trades in stocks on regional exchanges and in the over-the-counter market, totaled 199,591,530 shares, compared with 182,418,430 shares traded in the previous session.

Prices closed lower in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange.

The Amex Market Value index skidded 1.19 to close at 289.13. Declines led advances 296-227 among the 775 issues traded. The price of an average share lost 1 cent. Composite volume totaled 11,987,510 shares vs. 12,903,150 traded Tuesday.

Hillhaven led the Amex issues, unchanged at 1 1/2.

The National Association of Securities Dealers composite index rose 1.34 to close at 326.78.

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (OCT. 17) UPI - Parliament forced President Borisav Jovic to postpone a speech Wednesday on Yugoslavia's worst post-war constitutional crisis, but Communist-ruled Serbia circumvented the decision and had the speech read on state-controlled television.

The raw display of defiance by the largest Yugoslav republic came only minutes after the Federal Chamber of Parliament passed a Croatian motion to reschedule the speech to Friday and was certain to exacerbate already high political tensions.

Serbia opposed the delay, which was approved by a 125-46 vote, with deputies from Slovenia, Bosnia-Hercegovina and Macedonia agreeing with Croatian colleagues that the speech should follow consideration of the nomination of former Croatian Prime Minister Stipe Mesic as a member of the eight-man Yugoslav presidency.

The nomination, which has lingered for almost two months, could not be considered Wednesday because of a procedural rule.

Apparently hoping to reverse its serious loss of face, the Serbian government had state-run Television One devote almost its entire evening news program to reading Jovic's 45-minute speech as his pictures were flashed on the screen.

In it, Jovic, Serbia's representative on the federal presidency, claimed that the collective head of state backed a Serbian-favored plan to maintain Yugoslavia as a multi-ethnic federation of six republics of 23 million people.

The federation concept, however, had been strenously opposed by Croatia and Slovenia, which fear domination by the 8.5 million-strong Serbian majority, and the two republics co-authored a plan for a confederation of independent states with separate foreign policies, currencies and militaries, but linked by a common market.

The presidency, composed of representatives of the republics and two provinces Tuesday failed to reach a consensus on which plan would be recommended to Parliament by Jovic, the current holder of its annually rotating chairmanship.

''The Yugoslav federation should be safeguarded. It is impossible without serious conflicts to divide the Yugoslav people by borders,'' Television One quoted Jovic's address as saying. ''National conflicts would lead to civil war.''

Jovic's recommendations are to be used as the basis for a new constitution that would embody Western-style political and economic reforms and replace a Marxist document enacted in 1974. It would be implemented after multi-party parliamentary elections due before the end of the year.

The Slovenian and Croatian governments, comprising nationalist parties that trounced Communists in April in Yugoslavia's first multi- party assembly elections since the end of World War II in 1945, have threatened to secede if the federation plan is adopted. Serbians vote in December in their first multi-party assembly elections since the war.

Serbia, the last remaining major bastion of Communist power in Yugoslavia, has refused to opt for confederation unless its borders are expanded to include Serbian-inhabited areas of other republics, a demand that could ignite civil strife.

The Communists' position is apparently designed to attract Serbian nationalist votes in the December elections.

Legislative and government leaders failed to resolve the dispute over Jovic's speech in daylong closed doors meetings, and the debate resumed when the Federal Chamber, one of Parliament's two houses, convened in the evening 40 minutes later than scheduled.

Serbian opposition to the Croatian demand follows deteriorating relations between the two republics fanned by politicians seeking to exploit long-standing frictions between Orthodox Serbs and Yugoslavia's 4.6 million Roman Catholic Croats.

The Serbian-Croatian tensions are the most serious of several ethnic disputes that many Yugoslavs fear could ignite civil war.

(OCT 17) UPI - Ashton-Tate Corp., buoyed by the July upgrade of its flagship software product, reported a third-quarter profit of $1.1 million, or 4 cents a share Wednesday, compared with a loss of $19.3 million during the same period last year.

Sales for the quarter, which were boosted by the July 31 shipment of its database program dBASE IV version 1.1, increased 12 percent to $60.4 million, up from $53.9 million during the third quarter of 1989.

However, for the nine months ended Sept. 30, the Torrance, Calif., company reported a loss of $12.5 million on sales of $165.5 million. That compared with a loss of $27.6 million on revenues of $203.2 million during the first nine months of last year.

''We are very pleased with the progress we've made on dBASE IV version 1.1,'' said company President Bill Lyons. ''We have shipped more than 350,000 units, including free upgrades, channel stock balancing and full-system sales. The product has been favorably reviewed in the industry press, and our customers are confirming that it is stable and reliable.''

Ashton-Tate management has been harshly criticized by industry analysts for bungling its once-clear lead in providing a database program for personal computer users. Its market share has been eroded by bug-filled upgrades of dBASE and aggressive marketing by competitors.

Trouble with upgrades also has plagued Lotus Development Corp., the Cambridge, Mass.-based manufacturer of 1-2-3, the leading PC spreadsheet program.

Lotus reported third quarter earnings Tuesday of $8.6 million, or 20 cents a share, on sales of $157.3 million. That was well down from earnings of $22.9 million, or 54 cents a share, on revenues of $153.9 million in the same period last year.

On a brighter note, Lotus reported Wednesday it would receive $500, 000 in an out-of-court agreement stemming from a copyright infringement lawsuit the company brought against Paperback Software International of Berkeley, Calif.

Paperback had been found to be violating copyright protection Lotus had on its best-selling 1-2-3 spreadsheet software.

The Ashton-Tate and Lotus earnings stood in sharp contrast to those reported Tuesday by Microsoft Corp. of Redmond, Wash., which said its fiscal first-quarter income jumped more than 76 percent to $87.6 million, or 71 cents a share. Microsoft's sales for the quarter were $369.4 million, up 57 percent from $235.2 million during the first quarter of fiscal 1990.

WASHINGTON (OCT. 17) UPI - Senate leaders began fighting several proposed amendments Wednesday that could undercut a bipartisan deficit reduction plan and the Bush administration threatened to veto the measure unless several provisions were removed.

Among the expected early test votes on the plan was an amendment to remove a 9.5 cents-a-gallon gasoline tax increase from the package, which would eliminate $42.6 billion in deficit reduction over five years. Also facing a test was an amendment raising income taxes on the rich, scaling back the gas tax hike, and easing proposed cuts in farm programs and Medicare.

Senate debate on the deficit-cutting measure began a day after the House approved, mostly along party lines, a plan crafted by Democrats. The House-passed bill includes tax rate increases on the rich and the middle class that the Senate's bipartisan measure lacked.

Without agreement on a deficit-cutting budget plan, the government faces the possibility of another shutdown at midnight Friday, since President Bush has said he would not sign another stopgap spending measure without a budget accord in place.

Bush said Tuesday he would veto the House bill and expressed support for the Senate version. But on Wednesday, the administration released a statement saying Bush's advisers would recommend a veto of the Senate bill unless two provisions were removed.

Those provisions reauthorized the Federal Aviation Administration with language dealing with labor protection, aviation noise reduction and landing rights that Bush opposed. It also increased fines federal health and safety agencies could impose for violations.

The administration also expressed ''serious concerns'' about 10 other minor provisions of the Senate bill.

Sens. Kent Conrad, D-N.D., and Max Baucus, D-Mont., offered an amendment to raise income tax rates for the rich to 33 percent from the current 28 percent, impose a 10 percent surtax on annual income over $1 million, hold the gas tax increase to 5 cents a gallon, and limit the increase in the Medicare deductible to $100, up from the current $75 but less than several other plans.

It would also reduce the bipartisan bill's proposed cuts in farm programs by ''something over 40 percent,'' said Conrad, who said his amendment shifted priorities without changing the bill's level of deficit reduction.

''It is more fair to middle income (Americans), more fair to elderly sick and more fair to the farmers,'' he said.

Sen. Steve Symms, R-Idaho, proposed stripping from the bill the 9.5 cent gas tax increase, arguing that ''raising the gas tax on working Americans is not the solution'' to the deficit problem.

''The price of gasoline has already gone up 30 or 40 cents and now we have the temerity to raise it another 9 cents,'' said Sen. Gordon Humphrey, R-N.H., a gas tax opponent.

Senate Democratic leader George Mitchell of Maine and Republican leader Bob Dole of Kansas joined in fighting the Symms amendment, saying its adoption could devastate efforts to cut the deficit this year.

Eliminating the gasoline tax would strip $42.6 billion in new revenue from the deficit reduction bill over five years and cut the total savings below the $500 billion level demanded by Bush.

''It's a test of the individual members of the Senate and it's a test of the Senate as an institution,'' Mitchell said. ''Do we have that minimum level of courage that is necessary to do something that is necessary, unpleasant and unpopular?''

''Do we want to be responsible for destroying the first serious deficit reduction effort in these United States in 10 years? We cannot in the name of our nation's future permit that to happen,'' he said.

Dole called the gasoline tax vote ''the moment of truth'' for deficit reduction and said if the Symms amendment passed ''we should wrap it up'' and forget about passing a deficit cutting bill.

NEW YORK (OCT. 17) UPI - Average yields for money-market mutual funds were lower in the latest reporting week, while rates at competing savings and loan institutions were unchanged or lower, organizations that track the information said Wednesday.

The Donoghue Organization, of Holliston, Mass., said average seven- day simple yields were 7.44 percent, down from 7.48 the previous week, and 30-day simple yields also were down at 7.46 percent vs. 7.47.

The average maturity of fund portfolios held steady at 45 days.

The Bank Rate Monitor, of North Palm Beach, Fla., gave average rates as follows: money-market deposit accounts, 5.86 percent, unchanged; Super-Now accounts, 4.94 percent, down from 4.95; six-month certificates of deposit, 7.47 percent, off from 7.48; 1-year CDs, 7.57 percent, down from 7.58; 2 1/2-year CDs, 7.65 percent, down from 7.66; and five-year CDs, unchanged at 7.80 percent.

WASHINGTON (OCT. 17) UPI - The Soviet Union, in its first purchase of U.S. corn since last May 15, bought 350,000 metric tons of corn from U.S. exporters the Agriculture Department reported Wednesday.

The corn was worth about $31.5 million, based on Chicago prices. It will be delivered later this marketing year.

Soviet officials virtually cut off grain purchases last summer in anticipation of a huge domestic crop. The Agriculture Department estimated the Soviet crop will be 235 million tons, only 2 million tons short of the record.

As a result, Soviet imports were projected at 30 million tons for the current marketing year, leaning heavily on wheat, which is selling at low prices. The Kremlin bought 20.3 million tons of U.S. corn and wheat in fiscal 1990.

The Soviets purchased 350,000 tons of soybean meal in the past two weeks.

WASHINGTON (OCT. 17) UPI - Despite some misgivings, President Bush said Wednesday he will allow a landmark bill limiting advertising on children's television shows to become law without his signature.

The bill, which will become law automatically Thursday, is designed to increase the amount and quality of children's television as a condition of license renewal.

President Reagan vetoed a similar measure in his final year in office, November 1988.

''I have decided to withhold my approval from the Children's Television Act of 1990, which will result in its becoming law without my signature,'' Bush said in a statement. ''In an effort to improve children's television, this legislation imposes content-based restrictions on programming.''

Bush said he ''wholeheartedly'' supports the goals of the legislation, but he took issue with the ''inappropriate means'' chosen by Congress to enforce them.

''The advertising limits imposed by this legislation cannot reasonably be expected to advance their intended purpose,'' he said. ''To the extent that children's programming is financed by the revenue from advertising ... restrictions on the amount of advertising will tend to diminish, rather than enhance, the quantity and quality of children's programming.''

The legislation, nearly a decade in the making, directs the Federal Communications Commission to require television broadcasters to limit commerical advertising during children's programming to no more than 10.5 minutes per hour on weekends and 12 minutes per hour on weekdays.

Commenting shortly before the president's decision was announced, Peggy Charren of the Action for Children's Television, a longtime champion of the legislation, praised it as a ''nifty gift to America's families.''

But, Charren added, ''It's too bad that this bipartisan bill had to become law without George Bush's signature.

''One would have though that the 'education president' would embrace a measure that gives the TV industry an incentive to become a partner in the education of this nation's young people.''

WASHINGTON (OCT. 17) UPI - Senate and House negotiators agreed Wednesday on a $288.3 billion military budget for 1991, but the chief bargainers for each chamber disagreed on what the deal means for the immediate future of the B-2 stealth bomber.

Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, said the authorization bill stops short of terminating the B- 2 program, but insisted it precludes production of the aircraft beyond the fleet of 15 previously approved by Congress.

However, Sens. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., and John Warner, R-Va., the chairman and ranking Republican of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said any money left over from production of the first 15 bombers could go toward buying additional planes.

The Bush administration has sought approval to build two planes beyond the 15 already authorized.

The futuristic bomber is designed to evade enemy radar and carry a nuclear payload to its target. The Pentagon has envisioned eventually building a fleet of 75 planes at a projected cost of $65 billion.

Aspin, acknowledging the difference of interpretation over the compromise, said, ''We understood that they (Senate negotiators) would describe it differently than we would describe it.''

But Aspin said he was willing to accept some ambiguity for now in the belief that ''my bargaining position will improve'' when lawmakers are forced to wrestle with the fate of the plane again next year.

''Time is on our side,'' Aspin said, noting waning support in Congress for large strategic weapons programs since the Cold War ended and the threat of a superpower confrontation virtually disappeared.

''As far as we're concerned, the B-2 is dead,'' said Rep. Ron Dellums, D-Calif., predicting that he and other staunch opponents of the bomber would ultimately prevail in ending the program.

The bill authorizes $4.1 billion for the B-2 program in the fiscal year that began Oct. 1 - $2.83 billion for procurement and $1.8 billion for research and development. Aspin said cost overruns would absorb most of the total, with none left for additional bombers even if the bill allowed it.

''They're going to need more than $4.1 billion just to build the 15,'' he said.

The original House bill would have allowed $1.5 billion in continued research and development and terminated the program after production of 15 planes. The Senate had voted to authorize a total of $4.5 billion, including the procurement of two new planes in fiscal 1991.

The negotiators also agreed on $2.9 billion for the Strategic Defense Initiative, the space-based missile defense system popularly known as ''Star Wars.'' That is about $900 million less than approved last year and marks the first time since 1986 the authorization for SDI has dipped below $3 billion a year.

Aspin said he expected the SDI accord to draw strong objections from the Pentagon.

The authorizing legislation, which must clear the House and Senate before it can be sent to President Bush for his signature, sets upper limits on the amount of money that can be allocated for particular defense programs. But exact spending levels will be determined by a companion appropriations bill now working its way through Congress.

Overall the authorizing bill ''begins the process of implementing a new military strategy to meet our national security challenges in an era of constrained resources,'' Nunn said.

''One thing that means is less emphasis on strategic weapons and more on handling crises like the one we have now in the Persian Gulf,'' Aspin said.

The negotiators rejected the administration's request to kill the V- 22 Osprey a tilt-rotor warplane for the Marine Corps, designed to move more toops farther and faster than the largest troop-carrying helicopters.

The Senate-House conferees approved $165 million for advance procurement of prototypes used in operational tests and $238 million for research and development.

In addition, the negotiators settled on a $680 million pool for research and development on competing inter-continental ballistic missile systems - the rail-based version of the 10-warhead MX and the mobile single-warhead Midgetman. The conferees agreed that no more than one mobile ICBM should be deployed.

DALLAS (OCT. 17) UPI - A federal district judge Wednesday denied a motion by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. to dismiss a $1.3 billion lawsuit brought against it by creditors of First RepublicBank Corp.

The lawsuit charged that in 1988, the federal bank regulatory agency unlawfully forced the closure and the subsequent sale of 41 solvent banks owned by First Republic and its subsidiary, IFRB Corp., to offset the FDIC's insurance costs to deal with the insovency of two other First Republic banks in Houston and Dallas.

The complaint claimed the seizure of the banks led the bankruptcy filing of the two holding companies.

The FDIC's motion to dismiss the suit was denied by U.S. District Court Sydney Fitzwater, which in effect allowed the creditors' lawsuit to proceed in his court.

Fitzwater's decision followed another ruling in June in favor of First Republic.

In June, a decision by U.S. Bankruptcy Judge Steven Felsenthal prevented the FDIC from voting its counter-claim of $1 billion against First Republic in the company's plan of reorganization. The claim arose from the $1 billion loan made by the FDIC to First Republic's Houston and Dallas banks to stem a run on their deposits.

Felsenthal's ruling, which has been appealed by the FDIC to Judge Fitzwater, was based on his opinion that First Republic's creditors were likely to defeat the $1 billion claim. Fitzwater had yet to act on that appeal.

After seizing the 41 banks, the regulators sold them to other buyers including NCNB Corp. of Charoltte, N.C.

In the bankruptcy filings, First Republic listed assets of $384 million. Its creditors, mostly bondholders, were owed more than $1 billion.

Wednesday's ruling was termed another victory by First Republic's officials.

''Today's ruling strongly supports our efforts to confirm reorganziation plans for these companies,'' said Susan Brown, chief executive officer of First Republic.

A reorganization plan could go against FDIC because the plan would also allow the creditors' lawsuit against the FDIC to go forward.

''The court's decision today represents a major step in our efforts to recover for the many First Republic creditors their fair share of the monies wrongfully taken away from them over two years ago,'' said Jeffrey Martin, attorney for the creditors.

BOSTON (OCT. 17) UPI - Nearly half the high school students in a national survey released Wednesday have either joined in a racial or religious attack against peers or believed the victims got what they deserved.

The survey of a cross-section of 1,865 high school students in the 10th, 11th and 12th grades also found that one in four students have suffered racial or religious bias.

Four in 10 who saw someone of another race doing something they did not like said they were tempted to ask, ''What else can you expect from those types of people?''

But the survey, conducted by Louis Harris and Associates for the Reebok Foundation and Northeastern University's Center for the Study of Sport in Society, also found that 30 percent of the students were prepared to stop or condemn a racial or religious attack.

And three in four believed human rights extend far beyond what is guaranteed by law and half the students said they would like to help those less fortunate themselves.

The survey, taken between Aug. 31 through Sept. 18, prompted a national human rights initiative for youth launched Wednesday by Northeastern and Reebok International Ltd, the Massachusetts-based athletic shoe company.

Project TEAMWORK will begin in Boston, where a group of former celebrity athletes will visit high schools to educate teens on racism and religious discrimination, and form student Human Rights Squads of student athletes to put that education into practice.

''What we want is for students to become a core of activists, to lobby for whatever changes they want in their school and community,'' said Richard Lapchick, director of the Northeastern center.

The celebrity team consists of former Boston Red Sox pitcher Luis Tiant, former Chicago Bulls guard Norm Van Lier; Olympic rowing gold medalist Holly Metcalf; former New England Patriots running back Robert Weathers; and Bob McCabe, a member of the Olivais Basketball Club in Portugal.

The team will travel to New York, Los Angeles and Washington high schools this year, 10 more schools next year and 13 in the following year, Lapchick said.

LOS ANGELES (OCT. 17) UPI - Fifty-one people, including the alleged leaders of two of the largest automobile insurance fraud rings in Southern California, have been charged following the biggest roundup of its kind in the nation's history, authorities said Wednesday.

District Attorney Ira Reiner said the charges, stemming from four separate cases pieced together by an auto insurance fraud task force, represent a loss of more than $45 million to car insurance policyholders in Southern California.

He called Los Angeles ''the auto insurance fraud capital of the United States'' and said more than 100 other suspects in about 30 other auto insurance fraud rings remain under investigation, with more charges and arrests expected in coming months.

''Automobile insurance fraud is a billion-dollar underground industry,'' Reiner said at a news conference. ''It is dominated by cappers and ringleaders who stage phony accidents, organize and train people to fabricate non-existent injuries and enlist new recruits into their organizations.''

Reiner said 20 of 24 defendants accused of participating in the so- called Crenshaw Cafe Ring, believed to be the oldest of its type in Los Angeles, were arrested Tuesday.

Arrested Wednesday were 18 of 20 people charged in connection with the so-called Eighth Street Gang Ring, which ran an insurance fraud operation believed to have caused losses to policyholders of more than $15 million, Reiner said.

Among those arrested in that case was Dr. Francisco Recalde, 46, who operated one of two medical clinics set up by the defendants to help them push phony insurance claims through.

The third case involves Century City physician Gershon Hepner, 52, who Reiner said is believed responsible for losses to policyholders of up to $8 million in connection with submission of fraudulent insurance claims. Hepner and two associates were indicted earlier this month.

The fourth case involves a former attorney, Jack Zaret, 40, who gave up his membership in the California State Bar during the course of the investigation. Reiner said that the Zaret fraudulent claim operation was run on a smaller scale than the others, but still is believed responsible for hundreds of thousands of dollars in losses to policyholders.

Zaret and three of his associates surrendered Tuesday in Municipal Court.

Reiner said all four rings staged traffic accidents and even more sophisticated ''paper accidents'' in which no automobiles were involved.

The key behind the success of the rings, Reiner said, was that they were able to recruit a steady stream of phony claimants, usually from the neighborhoods where they operated.

The leaders of the rings also recruited crooked doctors, medical technicians, lawyers and others who would assist in filing the fraudulent claims with insurance companies, Reiner said.

''Without crooked doctors and crooked lawyers, these rings cannot operate,'' he said.

Reiner said the rings were able to get away with hundreds of fraudulent claims because they all involved relatively small amounts of money - less than $50,000 - and were quickly settled by insurance companies for equally small amounts, up to $25,000, to avoid lengthy and costly litigation.

The key to breaking the rings was the use of undercover agents from the various agencies who were able to infiltrate the operations, Reiner said.

DETROIT (OCT. 18) UPI - Audi of America Inc. put its defenses into high gear Wednesday, charging that crash tests done under the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration on the Audi 80 sedan under its New Car Assessment Program were improperly conducted and are misleading.

Audi, whose sales were decimated several years ago by reports of unintended acceleration that were never substantiated, issued a tersely worded statement from its Troy, Mich., headquarters, saying a 1989-model Audi 80 was tested instead of a 1990 model, which has a driver-side air bag as standard equipment.

NHTSA findings, highlighted at a press conference Wednesday by three consumer safety groups in Washington, showed that in 35 mph crash tests, the driver dummy in the 1989-model Audi 80 - equipped with three-point automatic shoulder belts only - struck its head on the steering wheel rim upon impact.

''The implication, of course, was that such an event automatically carried dire consequences for the hypothetical driver,'' Audi said. ''What these safety groups failed to mention, in this attack on cars without air bags, is that the Audi ... should not even have been included in the non-air bag category.

Audi spokesman Joseph Bennett said the company ''has no intention of sitting back and quietly listening to this.

''We have had more than our fair share of this, and frankly, we're fed up,'' Bennett said.

NHTSA's findings were empahsized in connection with a news conference by three safety activist groups - Motor Voters, the Center for Auto Safety, and the U.S. Public Interest Research Group - which charged Japanese automakers with lagging behind other manufacturers in installing air bags as standard equipment.

The groups asked Japanese carmakers to install the balloon-like safety devices on all models by 1992.

Consumer advocate Ralph Nader charged that 7,500 Americans will die and another 125,000 will suffer needless injury because Japanese automakers have lagged behind other manufacturers in offering air bags, which are effective only in a front-end collisions.

Out of 42 1990 models crash tested at 35 mph using available seat belt systems only and no air bags, 92 percent, or 39 vehicles had driver dummies which struck their heads against the steering wheel rim, the safety groups said in issuing NHTSA's findings.

An additional 13 cars were tested using manual seat belts and air bags combined. Among those cars, 100 percent of the driver dummies' heads contacted air bags and did not strike the steering wheel.

But Audi's Bennett noted that 16 of the 42 cars in the first group were in fact 1989 models instead of 1990 versions.

Automakers that currently equip all of their models with airbags include European companies Audi, BMW, Mercedes-Benz, Porsche, Saab and Volvo, with Isuzu the only Japanese company to do so.

Chrysler Corp. leads American automakers by offering air bags in 93 percent of its models, including all its cars made in North America. Ford Motor Co. has air bags in 45 percent of its cars, while about one third of General Motors Corp.'s cars have the devices.

Under federal rules, all cars sold in the United States after Sept. 1, 1993 must have either air bags or automatic safety belts in both the driver and front passenger positions.

BANGOR, Maine (OCT. 17) UPI - A deer hunter who shot and killed a mother in her backyard after mistaking her white mittens for a deer's tail was found innocent Wednesday of manslaughter by a Superior Court jury.

Donald Rogerson, 47, of Bangor, was charged with manslaughter in the Nov. 15, 1988, shooting of Karen Wood, 37, a mother of infant twin girls from Hermon.

After nine hours of deliberations over Tuesday and Wednesday morning, the Penobscot County jury reached the innocent verdict shortly before 11 a.m.

Members of the Rogerson family jumped out of their seats in the courtroom when the verdict was announced.

Rogerson, a local Boy Scout leader, said he was ''overwhelmed'' and that his heart went out to the Wood family. He said he hoped God would give strength to the victim's family.

Karen Wood's husband, Kevin, hung his head and walked out of the courtroom after hearing the verdict. He later said he was shocked by the verdict and felt sorry for the Bangor community, which he said the jury represented.

Rogerson claimed he mistook Wood's white mittens for a deer's tail and shot her while she stood in her back yard, barely 100 feet from her house.

The issue in the trial was whether Rogerson was criminally negligent and the shooting opened a bitter dispute over Maine's traditional support of hunting.

Rogerson, a supermarket produce manager, told a packed courtroom Tuesday he did not realize how close he was to Wood's home in Hermon. He said he saw a deer and fired two shots. The second shot struck Wood in the chest.

Game wardens said they found no evidence of deer in the area where Rogerson was aiming.

The prosecution had argued Rogerson was criminally negligent because he did not verify what he was shooting at.

WASHINGTON (OCT. 17) UPI - Farmers are likely to make only modest changes in their mixture of crops if Congress goes ahead with a plan to reduce sharply the amount of land eligible for subsidies, studies indicated Wednesday.

The reduction would be a result of the so-called triple-base plan, a key money-saving component in the new farm policy bill. It would make 15 percent of the wheat, feed grains, cotton and rice land ineligible for support payments, but give farmers great freedom to decide what to grow on the land.

Because triple base never has been tested, there is concern on Capitol Hill and among farm organizations about its impact. Some worry it will mean abrupt changes in crop production, as well as meaning a smaller government safety net.

Agriculture Department analyses foresee relatively small changes in acreage. Economist Keith Collins said over the five-year life of the farm bill, soybean acreage was projected to rise 2-4 percent, corn acreage to drop 2-3 percent, wheat acreage to be relatively unchanged and cotton to go up 4-8 percent.

The figures were similar to the conclusions made in a mid-May analysis by the department.

''Those are fairly modest shifts,'' Collins said, considering that 20 million to 25 million acres might be eligible for shifting under the triple base.

Wheat, corn, sorghum, barley, oats, cotton and rice are the major crops covered by the farm program. Farmers planted 196 million acres of those crops this year, plus 57.7 million acres of soybeans, which are not part of the farm program.

Private analysts have said soybean acreage was most likely to increase in the Midwest and to drop in the South, where yields are lower, under the triple base.

A consultant familiar with the so-called minor oilseed crops, such as canola, sunflowers and safflowers, said triple base should mean an opportunity for those crops to expand acreage. The farm bill includes marketing loans for soybeans and other oilseeds.

The rate is too low to ''provide anyone a profit but it will provide insurance against a large loss,'' he said, which could spur farmers to look at alternate crops. He named wheat farmers as one segment that might show new interest in oilseeds.

WASHINGTON (OCT. 17) UPI - The pork industry, which has seen chicken and seafood blossom in popularity with health-conscious Americans, unveiled a study Tuesday showing pork contains less fat than several years ago.

The reductions were due to efforts to produce leaner hogs and steps by packing plants and grocers to trim fat from the cuts that are being sold.

Chicken and fish still showed generally lower figures for fat and cholesterol but pork officials celebrated the improvements notched by their products.

The University of Wisconsin study, based on cuts of pork purchased at stores in 15 cities, showed 31 percent less fat, 17 percent fewer calories and 10 percent less cholesterol than officially attributed to pork in government handbooks issued in 1983.

The Agriculture Department is expected to publish a new handbook for pork next spring. It will take into account recent research on nutrient content in pork, including the University of Wisconsin study.

''This study confirms lean pork cuts can be part of healthy eating habits,'' said Johanna Dwyer, a Tufts University professor who reviewed the study.

Results were announced jointly in Washington and Denver, where the author of the study, D.R. Buege, Dwyer and Indiana farmer John Hardin sat in front to posters showing the portly porkers of the 1940s and the svelte hog of today.

Buege said most of the reduction in fat was due to leaner meat, rather than just more diligent trimming of fat. However, grocers are selling cuts that are much more closely trimmed with one-eighth of an inch of fat on average, compared to one-quarter inch a decade ago.

Per capita pork consumption has held steady in recent years while chicken has soared and seafood turned in solid gains in popularity. Americans were forecast to consume an average of 67.4 pounds of beef, 60.5 pounds of pork and 69.7 pounds of chicken this year.

TAIPEI, Taiwan (UPI) - Microsoft Corp. said Wednesday that along with Taiwanese authorities, it has taken action against a counterfeit operation that may have been responsible for introducing more than 30, 000 counterfeit copies of the Microsoft MS-DOS operating system into the Taiwan, North American and European markets.

The Redmond, Wash.-based software company said it was working with the Taiwanese national police and the anti-counterfeit agency of the Ministry of Economic Affairs on the anti-piracy campaign.

A surprise police search of Data State Corporation, a trading company based in Taipei, revealed a significant number of unauthorized copies of Microsoft MS-DOS operating system versions 3.3 and 4.01 software and documentation. Microsoft is seeking criminal prosecution in the case.

Based on a preliminary estimate, the counterfeits involved in the recent seizure, and those revealed in business records obtained during the seizure, could have displaced legitimate sales to end users with a value of more than $4.5 million, based on the average retail price. As part of an ongoing effort against software piracy, the seizure was the largest against a single company counterfeiting Microsoft software in Taiwan. Last summer, Taiwanese newspapers reported that after Business Software Alliance raids, sales of legitimate software rose dramatically. Microsoft expects a similar situation with MS-DOS software in Taiwan.

Seizure orders were issued in connection with a criminal complaint filed by Microsoft. On Oct. 16, the orders were executed at five separate locations - an office, warehouses, a printing house and book bindery associated with Data State. In the search, approximately 5,500 complete counterfeit copies of MS-DOS versions 3.3 and 4.01 were found. In addition more than 18,000 bound manuals, numerous duplication machines and thousands of components to be used in assembling counterfeit copies of MS-DOS software packages were also seized by the police.

Data State is believed to have sold counterfeit copies of the MS-DOS operating system to small OEMs, or original equipment manufacturers, distributors and resellers in Taiwan, North America and Europe. The bogus MS-DOS packaged product appears at first glance to be identical to legitimate copies of the MS-DOS operating system bearing only the Microsoft logo. Legitimate products bearing the Microsoft logo are manufactured exclusively by Microsoft.

(OCT. 17) UPI - Three former South American presidents are plagued by scandals involving questionable use of public funds. In Chile, General Augusto Pinochet is being asked about three large army checks allegedly cashed by his oldest son. Venezuela's Jaime Lusinchi is accused of using government money to buy jeeps he gave to his associates. And, Alan Garcia of Peru is fighting charges stemming from real estate dealings.

Congress' armed services committee chiefs are squaring off on the future of the B-2 stealth bomber as it relates to a military budget. A 288-point-three-BILLION dollar authorization bill approved today by Senate and House negotiators does NOT give any money for new stealth bombers in fiscal 1991. But the Senate Armed Services leader insists any money left over from production of earlier approved planes can go towards buying additional ones.

Lawmakers are closer to an agreement on a clean air bill... following a tentative accord reached today between House and Senate negotiators. The negotiators came to terms on requirements for businesses to cut toxic and cancer-causing chemical pollution. That leaves only one major issue to tackle... acid rain. The lawmakers are expected to meet again tomorrow.

President Bush had misgivings, but he did NOT veto a bill limiting advertisements during children's televison shows. The measure becomes law tomorrow. Under the law, ads during children's programing are limited to 10-and-a-half minutes an hour on weekends and 12 minutes an hour on weekdays. President Reagan vetoed a similar bill in 1988.

BEAVERTON, OR (OCT. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - Sequent Computer Systems Inc. Thursday reported revenues of $66.5 million for the third quarter, which ended Sept. 29, 1990.

This represents a 65 percent increase over the $40.4 million in revenues in the third quarter of 1989. Net income for the quarter was $6.0 million ($.25 per share), compared to $5.2 million ($.25 per share) for the corresponding 1989 quarter.

Net income for the third quarter of 1989 included an extraordinary credit of $1,040,000 ($.05 per share) from the utilization of net operating loss carry-forwards. Excluding this credit, third quarter 1990 income increased 44 percent and earnings per share increased 25 percent on a year-to-year basis.

Revenues through the first three quarters of 1990 totaled $175.5 million, up 80 percent from $97.7 for the corresponding period in 1989. Net income for the same period in 1990 was $16.3 million ($.71 per share), compared to $11.0 million ($.58 per share) in 1989.

Scott Gibson, Sequent's president, attributed the company's solid third quarter performance to strong customer demand for open computing solutions. ''Throughout the world and across virtually all industry segments, leading companies are embracing UNIX and open systems to improve productivity, enhance their competitive positions and escape their dependence on proprietary vendors.''

Sequent has pioneered the development of open systems solutions for mainstream applications since the company was founded in 1983. ''As a result, we are leading a movement that is bringing affordable computing to a wide range of companies and changing the way they automate their business,'' said Gibson.

Sequent's acknowledged leadership in UNIX-based open systems came into sharp focus during this quarter. AT&T's UNIX System Laboratories chose the company as its primary development partner for the symmetric multiprocessing version of UNIX System V, Release 4 to be released in 1992.

Based on Sequent's DYNIX/ptx operating system, UNIX System V, Release 4 will also incorporate technology from a number of other UNIX vendors. ''We believe the result will be a UNIX system product of very high performance and quality, and one which the industry will acknowledge as the premier commercial computing standard,'' Gibson said.

Sequent Computer Systems Inc. (NASDAQ:SQNT) is a leading provider of open systems computing solutions for the commercial OLTP market. The company, which employs more than 1,600 people, reported 1989 revenues of $145.6 million and second quarter 1990 revenues of $58.2 million.

OMAHA, NE (OCT. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - Data Transmission Network Corp. (NASDAQ:DTLN) announced Thursday record earnings and revenues for the third quarter and nine months ended Sept. 30, 1990.

The third quarter was also the 13th consecutive quarter of improved operating cash flow results.

The company's net income increased 346 percent in the third quarter and 116 percent in the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1990, compared to the same periods in 1989. Net income was $460,000, or 14 cents per share, in the third quarter of 1990 compared to $103,000, or 3 cents per share, in 1989. For the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1990, net income was $937,000, or 28 cents per share, compared to $435,000, or 13 cents per share, in the same period in 1989.

For the quarter and nine months ended Sept. 30, 1990, revenues increased 23 percent to $4,562,000 and 28 percent to $13,092,000 respectively, compared to the same periods in 1989. The growth in revenues was the result of an increase in the company's total subscribers, from 42,700 at Sept. 30, 1989 to 51,600 at Sept. 30, 1990, as well as from higher advertising and additional services revenues.

Net income before depreciation expense increased 72 percent in the third quarter and 59 percent during the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1990, compared to the corresponding periods in 1989. Operating cash flow margin (income before depreciation and interest expense as a percentage of total revenue) improved to 40 percent in the third quarter of 1990, up from 31 percent during the third quarter of 1989.

The improvement in operating results during the first nine months of 1990 was due to wider margins between operating revenues (subscriptions, advertising and additional services) and marketing, general and administrative expenses measured on a per susbscriber per month basis. During the first nine months of 1990, margins per subscriber widened 38 percent to $9.99, compared to $7.23 in 1989, and revenues per subscriber per month increased 7 percent to $26.02 while operating expenses per subscriber decreased 6 percent to $16.03.

PORTLAND, ORE. (OCT. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - Portland General Corp. (NYSE:PGN) reports earnings of $32 million, or 69 cents per share, for the three months ended Sept. 30, 1990, on revenues of $188 million.

Included in third quarter earnings is a one-time gain of $16 million, or 35 cents per share, from a regulatory settlement reached in July with the Oregon Public Utility Commission (PUC).

Without the one-time gain, earnings would have been $16 million or 34 cents per share. This compares with earnings of $4 million, or 9 cents per share, on revenues of $181 million in the third quarter of 1989.

Third quarter 1990 operating revenues increased more than $7 million, or 4 percent, over the prior year. Revenues from sales of electricity to PGE's retail customers rose $7 million on a 5 percent increase in kilowatt-hours sold. PGE added 3,600 new residential customers during the period and currently serves 579,000 retail customers.

Portland General's operating expenses decreased $11 million before taxes, primarily due to reduced purchased power costs at PGE. The utility bought 13 percent less power during the 1990 quarter. Power production from PGE's own plants, particularly the Trojan Nuclear Plant, increased 40 percent.

Trojan provided 31 percent of PGE's retail customers' electricity needs during the third quarter of 1990, compared with 15 percent in the comparable 1989 period. PGE's Boardman Coal and Beaver Combustion Turbine plants, brought back on line in 1990 after PGE secured more economic fuel and fuel transportation contracts for them, also contributed to the increased internal power production.

In the regulatory settlement reached in July, PGE agreed to dismiss its appeal of two PUC decisions - one regarding a refund of interim revenues received in 1986 and 1987, and one in which the PUC denied PGE's plan to amortize over five years certain investment tax credits (ITC). PGE is continuing to appeal the PUC's treatment of gains from the sale of a portion of the Boardman Coal Plant.

Earnings for the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1990, were $71 million, or $1.53 per share, on revenues of $613 million compared with $42 million, or 91 cents per share, on revenues of $574 million in the 1989 period.

This program is offered to customers across the company's 33-state trade territory.

The AST systems will be used as workstations for the Japanese exchange's traders based in Tokyo. The International Commodities Clearing House (ICCH) in London developed special software for the Japanese exchange and assisted in the selection of the computers.

ICCH recommended AST's systems after examining several personal computer manufacturers.

''AST's Premium 486 line provides the high performance required by the Tokyo Exchange,'' said Jim Ashbrook, senior vice president of marketing.

''AST's policies regarding quality and worldwide support also were key factors in the selection of the Premium 486/33 systems.''

The contract will be supported by Mitsui Trading Group's London office.

Founded in 1980, AST reported record sales of $533 million for fiscal year 1990, ended June 28, 1990. AST rated third in sales of 486-based computers, according to a recent InfoCorp market survey. MUSKEGON, MI (OCT. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - SPX Corp. (NYSE:SPW) Thursday reported sales and earnings for the third quarter and first nine months of 1990.

Sales for the July - September third quarter rose 14 percent to $177 million, as compared to sales of $154.7 million in the same quarter one year ago.

Net income in the third quarter was $4.5 million, or 33 cents per share. This compared with $6.3 million from continuing operations, or 41 cents per share, in the third quarter of the prior year when these results included a pretax gain of $4.3 million ($2.7 million aftertax or 18 cents per share) from the sale of a small non-core business.

Third quarter sales to the Service Product Sector increased 19 percent to $151.6 million and accounted for 86 percent of Company revenues. In this sector, sales of specialty repair tools and equipment rose 26 percent to $109.8 million, and revenues from sales 3/8f aftermarket repair parts grew modestly to $41.8 million. Sales of products for the Industrial Products Sector grew to $25.4 million, and accounted for the remaining 14 percent of the quarter's revenues.

For the first nine months of 1990, sales were $545.9 million, an increase of 13 percent over first nine months 1989 sales of $482.6 million. Earnings for the January - September period were $18.6 million, or $1.35 per share, This compared to first nine months 1989 earnings of $21.6 million from continuing operations, or $1.53 per share, when results included a pretax gain of $6.2 million ($3.8 million aftertax or $.27 per share) from the sale of four small non-core businesses.

Commenting on the company's performance, Dale A. Johnson, president and chief executive officer of SPX, said ''The increase in third quarter revenues was largely due to sales of new environmental products and strong performance by our program tooland equipment businesses. These positive contributions were partially offset by soft conditions in the markets for vehicle performance test and wheel service equipment, window and door hardware and industrial hydraulic products. Those conditions further softened during September.''

Johnson also said that ''As we look toward the fourth quarter and into 1991, our environmental products and program specialty tools and equipment products should continue their important contribution to revenues and earnings. The Company will also benefit from the start up of new globally based dealer equipment programs. Short term, our businesses are aggressively responding to softness in key markets with programs of targeted marketing and cost containment.''

SPX Corp., a Fortune 500 company, is a world leader in the production and distribution of specialty repair tools and equipment and repair parts to the motor vehicle service industry.

SAN DIEGO (OCT. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - Datatronix Financial Services (OTC) Thursday announced third-quarter 1990 earnings of $38,000, or 11 cents per share, compared with earnings of $70,000, or 19 cents per share, in the third quarter of last year.

Total revenues for the quarter were $2.24 million compared with $1.68 million reported in the third quarter of 1989.

Earnings for the first nine months of 1990 were $218,000, or 61 cents per share, compared with earnings of $237,000, or 66 cents per share, for the first nine months of 1989.

Year-to-date revenues were $6.10 million compared with revenues of $4.80 million in the first nine months of 1989.

Michael Trefero, president of Datatronix, said: ''We are investing a portion of our current earnings to achieve maximum growth. Our third-quarter revenue increase of 34 percent and our nine-month revenue increase of 27 percent demonstrate that the rapid expansion of our business base is going according to plan.''

Trefero said the company will continue to make investments that fulfill Datatronix's growth strategy.

''At the same time,'' Trefero said, ''we expect to remain profitable and will continue to do so. Earnings in the quarter were somewhat lower than last year due to expenses associated with bringing on-line the new business we acquired from Data Line Service Co. as well as the preliminary expenses required to open our Northern California office.

''These expenses were necessary to bring our revenues and eventually our profitability to a much higher level.''

Trefero said the company's three centers in San Diego, Costa Mesa and Glendale are now processing more than 10 million items every month.

Datatronix Financial Services is an item-processing company serving financial institutions throughout Southern California. With headquarters in San Diego, Datatronix operates check-processing facilities in San Diego, Costa Mesa and Glendale.

The company's Northern California office in San Leandro will open Dec. 1. Initially, that office will provide check-clearing services to 80 credit unions that are currently being served by San Francisco- based Bank of the West. The multiyear Bank of the West contract was awarded to Datatronix in September.

DENVER (OCT. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - United Banks of Colorado Inc. (NASDAQ:UBKS) Thursday reported net income for the quarter ended Sept. 30, 1990, of $13.6 million, or 83 cents per share.

Those earnings reduced the company's net loss for the nine months ended Sept. 30 to $71.5 million, or $4.76 per share.

N. Berne Hart, chairman and chief executive officer of United Banks, said, ''Our performance in the third quarter is a direct benefit of the actions taken in the second quarter. As we indicated then, the special provision and OREO write-downs we took would strengthen our balance sheet and allow a return to a more normal provision and greater profitability from ongoing operations.

''However, the fragile Colorado economy, particularly in the real estate industry, remains our primary concern. The impact on our business was a slight reduction in assets, loans and deposits from the second quarter of this year; assets and deposits, however, were higher than a year ago.

''The Persian Gulf crisis and resultant higher energy costs do not bode well for the economic growth outlook in Colorado in the months to come.''

''An area of continuing concern,'' Hart added, ''is our non-performing assets. They were $156.4 million as of Sept. 30, down considerably from the level of a year ago but up almost $12 million from June 30, 1990.

At the end of the third quarter, United Banks' capital ratios remained strong. The ratio of primary capital to assets was 7.64 percent and the ratio of total capital to assets was 8.27 percent.

United Banks' total assets on Sept. 30, 1990, were $6.1 billion with total loans of $3.1 billion and total deposits of $5.1 billion. In 1989, United Banks reported net income of $5.3 million, or 31 cents a share, for the third quarter and $13.8 million, or 79 cents per share, for the nine months.

A year ago, the company had assets of $5.7 billion, loans of $3.2 billion and deposits of $4.6 billion.

WOBURN, MA (OCT. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - Alpha Industries Inc. (AMEX:AHA) Thursday reported improved results for the second quarter of FY'91.

Alpha earned $0.06 per share on earnings of $428 thousand for the second fiscal quarter ended Sept. 30, 1990. The company earned $211 thousand or $0.03 per share for the comparable period of the prior year; however, a fourth quarter restructuring provision resulted in a FY'90 loss.

The microwave technology and manufacturing company reported sales for the quarter totaled $14.9 million while sales of $16.7 million were recorded for the comparable period last year. $19.4 million of new orders were received during the quarter and backlogs stood at $37.1 million, essentially unchanged from a year ago.

Commenting on the results, Alpha President M. J. Reid said, ''Defense business was below year ago levels although the decrease was offset in part by the continued growth in commercial volume which now represents a majority of company sales.

''Regarding commercial business, the ever growing markets for cellular telephone and personal telephone networks (PCN) fit very nicely with Alpha's microwave ceramic, microwave integrated circuit, and discrete device product businesses and I see continuing opportunities for Alpha in this sector, both domestic and international.''

Reid noted that,''The decisive actions to restructure the company's cost base together with productivity improvements in the semiconductor and ceramics businesses were the reasons for the improved profitability.

''I expect that cost performance and sales advances will push continued earnings advances in the third quarter and for the full year.''

Alpha is a leading supplier of microwave semiconductor, ceramic, and ferrite devices, microwave and millimeter wave components, and multifunction subsystems that are sold to manufacturers of sophisticated electronic systems.

CLEVELAND (OCT. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - Oglebay Norton's third-quarter net income was $3,755,000 or $1.47 per share on sales and revenues of $59,347,000 as compared to net income of $1,459,000 or 55 cents per share on sales and revenues of $52,210,000 for the like period in 1989.

Net income for the first nine months of 1990 was $3,431,000 or $1.34 per share on sales and revenues of $134,051,000 as compared to net income of $2,917,000 or $1.13 per share on sales and revenues of $126,209,000 for the like period in 1989.

The comparative unaudited results for the third quarter ended Sept. 30, 1990 and 1989, and for the year to date are set forth on the attachment hereto.

Demand for our products and services has strengthened over 1989 levels. All operating segments, with the exception of iron ore, have achieved an increase in profit for the first nine months of 1990 as compared to the like period of 1989.

Although pricing remains very competitive, demand for the Company's Great Lakes vessel transportation services has increased over 1989 levels and remains strong. As previously reported, the Company has agreed, subject to obtaining satisfactory financing, to purchase two Great Lakes self-unloading vessels from Bethlehem Steel Corp.

The purchase of these vessels, expected to be completed before year-end, will make Oglebay Norton's combined Columbia Transportation Division and Pringle Transit Co. operations the largest U.S.-flag bulk carrier on the Great Lakes.

The Company's coal and industrial minerals segments continue to perform at levels above 1989. Acquisition of the operating assets of a Texas silica producer earlier this year expanded fracsand sales and provided entry into the foundry sand market.

Profit from the Company's manufacturing segment increased significantly over the prior year as a result of improved product mix and cost-reduction efforts.

The Company continues to pursue iron ore sales but does not expect to equal 1989 levels. In its other business segments, the Company anticipates that the improved demand in the third quarter of 1990 will continue through the balance of the year.

SAN JOSE, CA (OCT. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - KLA Instruments Corp. (NASDAQ/NMS:KLAC) reported financial results for its first fiscal quarter ended Sept. 30, 1990.

The company reported sales of $37,716,000, net income of $371,000, and earnings per share of 2 cents for the current perod compared to sales of $43,166,000, net income of $2,554,000, and earnings per share of 14 cents for the comparable prior year's first fiscal quarter.

As the company announced in a press release on Oct. 2, 1990, the most recent quarter's results were adversely impacted by capital investment delays on the part of U.S. semiconductor manufacturers which, in turn, are largely due to escalating fears of a slow down in the domestic economy.

DENVER (OCT. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - On Sept. 14, 1990, COM-TEK Resources Inc. and Crescent Oil & Gas entered into a merger agreement whereby, subject to shareholder approval, Crescent shall be merged with a wholly owned subsidiary of COM-TEK.

Upon execution of the merger agreement, COM-TEK and Crescent effected a share exchange whereby COM-TEK received 58,749,092 shares of Crescent common stock (51 percent of Crescent's issued and outstanding common stock) in exchange for 5,600,000 shares of COM-TEK common stock (13 percent of COM-TEK's issued and outstanding common stock).

The acquisition of a controlling interest in Crescent is the initial step in the acquisition of Crescent by COM-TEK pursuant to the proposed merger.

Under the terms of the proposed merger, each issued and outstanding share of Crescent common stock, other than shares of Crescent common stock held by

COM-TEK, will be converted into 0.19 shares of COM-TEK common stock, resulting upon completion of the proposed merger, in the issuance of a total of approximately 10,687,672 shares of COM-TEK common stock which will represent 23 percent of COM-TEK's issued and outstanding common stock.

The proposed merger will be submitted to a vote of Crescent's shareholders and is expected to be completed in January 1991.

The merger, when completed, will result in an enlarged company with positive cash flow from its current operations, virtually no debt, and substantial economies of scale at an administrative level.

Two Crescent directors will join the merged company: Alan R. Ramer, president of Crescent, who is a geologist with 23 years of oil and gas industry experience, will continue as president of Crescent after its acquisition by COM-TEK. Ronald L. Grooms, who is a financial services industry executive with 20 years of accounting and financial management experience, will become a director of COM-TEK. Crescent's major asset consists of proved reserves of approximately 5 billion cubic feet (BCF) of gas, and over 8,000 undeveloped net acres of land holdings in Montana. It is anticipated that these will provide the company with the opportunity to participate in numerous development wells.

Significant shut-in reserves, owned by Crescent and waiting on pipeline, together with the development wells mentioned above add an additional two BCF of probable reserves to those of Crescent.

SACRAMENTO, CA (OCT. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - McClatchy Newspapers Inc. (NYSE:MNI) Thursday reported third-quarter earnings of $7.5 million, or 26 cents per share, compared with $8.8 million, or 31 cents per share, in the 1989 quarter.

Earnings for the nine months were $17.7 million, or 62 cents per share, vs. $23.6 million, or 83 cents, last year.

The downturn in earnings for 1990 had been anticipated by the company as it began recognizing costs related to recent newspaper acquisitions and start-up losses from a newsprint mill partnership. Excluding these items, earnings for the quarter were slightly above the comparable quarter in 1989 at 32 cents and were 81 cents for the nine months.

Led by the Sacramento and Modesto Bee newspapers, total revenues grew 12.8 percent in the third quarter to $107 million. Advertising revenues were up 13.2 percent and circulation revenues 12 percent over the prior year. Excluding the newly acquired newspapers, total revenues were $102.8 million, an 8.3 percent gain over the 1989 quarter.

Total revenues for the nine months were $309.7 million, up 11 percent. Advertising revenues were $246.1 million and circulation revenues were $52.6 million. Excluding the new newspapers, total revenues increased 6.5 percent to $297.4 million.

Operating income grew 9.6 percent to $15.1 million for the three months. Operating income for the nine months was up 1.4 percent and cash flow generated from operations continued to outpace the previous year.

Commenting on third-quarter earnings, Erwin Potts, chief executive officer said: ''While earnings have been reduced by a generally poor retail advertising environment and costs of strategic investments, we are pleased with the growth in operating income.

''Even with higher depreciation and amortization because of the new newspapers operating income improved substantially in the quarter and was up for the nine months.

''Retail advertising continues to be soft but August and September showed strong gains in classified linage. Excluding our new operations, classified linage grew 6.6 percent over the 1989 quarter, offsetting the retail decline.''

MILWAUKEE (OCT. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - Firstar Corp. Thursday announced third quarter earnings of $25.2 million, or $1.04 per common share, up from $22.2 million, or 95 cents per common share a year earlier.

This represented a 9 percent increase in earnings per share. For the quarter, return on equity was 16.34 percent and return on assets was 1.15 percent.

Total earnings for the first nine months of 1990 were $72.8 million, or $3.08 per share, up 12 percent from $2.76 per share last year. For the first nine months, return on equity was 16.61 percent and return on assets was 1.15 percent.

''Firstar continues to benefit from a Midwest economy that is more stable than many other regions of the country, and from steps taken by our banks over the past two years to improve credit quality and operating efficiency,'' said Firstar Chairman John H. Hendee, Jr.

Growth in commercial and consumer loans contributed to a total asset level of $8.9 billion at the end of the third quarter. Total assets were up 4 percent for the quarter and 11 percent over a year earlier. Commercial loans were 5 percent higher than a year ago and consumer loans were up 17 percent.

Nonperforming assets increased slightly during the third quarter from $97.3 million to $98.6 million. However, because of loan growth, nonperforming assets as a percent of loans and ORE declined from 1.77 percent on June 30 to 1.72 percent on Sept. 30. Reserves for loan losses were strengthened from 1.84 percent of outstanding loans on June 30 to 1.88 percent on Sept. 30. TULSA, OK (OCT. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - ONEOK Inc. (NYSE/MSE:OKE), a Tulsa-based energy company, today reported earnings of $1.21 per share of common stock for the 1990 fiscal year ended Aug. 31, 1990. This compared with $1.29 per share for the previous year.

Consolidated net income for ONEOK Inc. was $33.0 million in 1990, vs. $36.6 million in 1989. Total operating revenues were $668.0 million and $618.3 million, respectively, for the same periods.

J. D. Scott, chairman, president and chief executive officer, said the Oklahoma Natural Gas utility division net income was $35.8 million for 1990, compared with $37.4 million in 1989. The decrease was due to warmer weather and increased operating expenses.

Weather in the utility service territory was 3.7 percent warmer than last year and 6.8 percent warmer than normal.

Scott said net utility division revenues (revenues less gas purchase costs) increased during 1990 to $219 million, compared with $214 million in 1989, reflecting more than 13,500 additional customers. Total utility volumes of gas sold or delivered under the company's various special marketing plans in 1990 increased to 240.1 billion cubic feet from 227.8 billion cubic feet in the previous year.

The non-utility Energy Companies of ONEOK division incurred a loss of $1.4 million in 1990 compared with net income of $400,000 in 1989. Increased gas liquids product prices were offset by continued depressed prices for oil and gas and increased costs in oil and gas exploration activities.

Scott said during 1990 the company embarked upon a more aggressive exploration strategy requiring the pursuit of higher risk prospects with greater reserve potential.

He also said that reserve additions were 131 percent of production with proved reserves of 46.8 billion cubic feet of natural gas and 1.1 million barrels of oil at year end. The 1990 exploration activities have provided development opportunities for 1991.

Scott also said that take-or-pay problems continue to be manageable and the amount of pending and potential claims continues to decrease.

ONEOK Inc. is a diversified energy company engaged in natural gas transmission and distribution, oil and gas exploration and production, contract well drilling, and natural gas processing.

The company's stock is traded on the New York and Midwest Stock Exchanges under the trading symbol of OKE. ONEOK has outstanding 26.6 million shares of common stock, which reflects a 2-for-1 stock split that was effective this fiscal year. All applicable 1989 per share amounts have been restated to reflect the split.

CLEVELAND (OCT. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - Eaton Corp. (NYSE:ETN) Thursday announced that for the third quarter of 1990, net income was $35.8 million, or $1.01 per share, on sales of $869 million. This compares with 1989 third quarter earnings of $40.0 million, or $1.04 per share, on sales of $864 million.

For the first nine months of 1990, net income was $143.1 million, or $3.99 per share, on sales of $2.764 billion. This compares with 1989 nine month earnings of $170.6 million, or $4.54 per share, on sales of $2.791 billion.

James R. Stover, Eaton Chairman and Chief Executive Officer, said, ''With weaker markets, our respectable performance during the quarter resulted directly from steadfast control of costs and inventories at every Eaton facility.

Continuing an effort to improve plant productivity and to bring productive capacity in line with requirements, Eaton provided $24 million, before income tax credits of $9 million, for the estimated costs of closing several manufacturing plants. The provision, before income taxes, reduced operating profit of the Vehicle Components segment by $10 million and reduced operating profit of the Electrical and Electronic Controls segment by $14 million. The company estimates that by 1992, the plant closings will result in cost savings of approximately $15 million annually.

Also during the quarter, Eaton's pension fund purchased annuities from New York Life Insurance for several groups of retirees from facilities which are no longer in operation, thus settling the pension obligations for those retirees.

This settlement allowed Eaton to recognize a gain of $26 million, before income taxes of $9 million. The gain represents a portion of the appreciation in asset value experienced by Eaton's pension funds. No cash was recovered by Eaton from the pension fund. The gain nonetheless increased operating profit of the Vehicle Components segment by $11 million, the Electrical and Electronic Controls segment by $10 million, and decreased general corporate expenses by $5 million.

The company purchased approximately a million common shares in the open market during the third quarter as part of a $500 million share repurchase program begun in 1987. As of the end of the quarter, the company had 34.7 million shares outstanding.

With 42,000 employees in 20 countries, Eaton Corporation is a manufacturer of highly engineered products serving automotive, industrial, commercial and defense markets. Principal products include truck transmissions and axles, engine components, electrical equipment and controls.

Darragh provided an update on management actions announced in two separate previous press releases:

According to Darragh, to date the company has purchased, in the open market, 586,500 common shares of the company.

In a separate news release of Sept. 17, Darragh announced several actions to be taken in response to continued weakness in demand and pricing in Standard Register markets. Kelly, Public Service Co. senior vice president of finance and chief financial officer.

New orders booked were up 42 percent to $53.5 million, and backlog was $129.4

million, compared with the record $131.8 million reported at the end of last year's first quarter. Approximately 95 percent of the company's current backlog is expected to be delivered within the next 12 months, up from 90 percent at this time last year.

Orders for satellite communications earth stations and equipment accounted for approximately three-fourths of the company's total first-quarter bookings amount. A majority of the orders in the satellite area were for export.

Significant orders reported during the quarter included a $12.6 million satellite communications network for Thailand; a $4.4 million satellite earth station for Spain for television coverage of the 1992 World's Fair; and a $2.9 million satellite earth station for Romania, one of the first Eastern Bloc countries to be admitted to the European regional satellite consortium, EUTELSAT.

A $17.8 million Army contract awarded to Califoria Microwave in August 1990 for the Grisly Hunter system is not included in California Microwave's bookings and backlog amounts. CHICAGO (OCT. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - Amoco Corp. (AN) Thursday reported estimated consolidated earnings of $381 million for the third quarter of 1990, excluding a gain of $149 million from the sale of refining and marketing operations in the United Kingdom.

In the third quarter of 1989, Amoco earned $436 million before special charges of $100 million for environmental and work force reduction programs.

When special factors are included, 1990 third quarter earnings were $530 million or $1.04 per share, compared with $336 million or $.65 per share for the 1989 period. Revenues for this period were $7.9 billion, an increase of 20 percent over the $6.6 billion reported for the comparable 1989 period.

For the first nine months of 1990, earnings were $1,375 million, up 7 percent compared with $1,291 million for the first nine months of 1989. Year-to-year comparisons are affected by various special factors including the U.K. sale, and the previously reported Iran settlement and environmental accruals. Without special factors, year-to-date earnings were 17 percent below the 1989 level.

On a per share basis, earnings amounted to $2.70 in 1990 versus $2.50 for the first nine months of 1989. Year-to-date revenues were $22.4 billion, 13 percent higher than the 1989 level of $19.9 billion.

For the 12 months ended Sept. 30, 1990, return on average shareholders' equity was 12.2 percent while return on average capital employed was 10.3 percent. For the 12 months ended Sept. 30, 1989, return on average shareholders' equity was 12.4 percent and return on average capital employed was 10.5 percent.

Worldwide capital and exploration expenditures in the first nine months of 1990 totaled approximately $2.4 billion. For the first nine months of 1989, spending totaled $2.2 billion.

Worldwide refining, marketing, and transportation activities earned $113 million for the third quarter of 1990, excluding a gain of $133 million from the sale of refining and marketing operations in the United Kingdom. In the third quarter of 1989, refining, marketing, and transportation activities earned $214 million before a special charge of $80 million for environmental programs. The decline reflected lower refined product margins, resulting from underrecovery of higher crude oil costs.

Chemical operations reported third quarter net income of $33 million, down from last year's level of $120 million. The decline reflected lower margins for commodity chemicals, due to both lower prices and higher feedstock costs.

Domestic exploration and production operations earned $194 million in the third quarter of 1990, up from the $104 million earned in the corresponding 1989 period. The increase primarily reflected higher crude oil prices and lower exploration expenses. Partly offsetting were reduced natural gas prices and lower crude oil production.

Foreign exploration and production earnings in the current quarter amounted to $76 million, compared with the $12 million earned in the third quarter of 1989. Higher crude oil prices and a $16 million gain associated with the sale of operations in the United Kingdom more than offset higher exploration expenses and unfavorable currency effects. Also, 1989 results included a special charge for work force reduction programs.

HOUSTON (OCT. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - Santa Fe Energy Resources Inc. (SFR) reported a third quarter net income of $5 million, or 8 cents per share, compared with net income of $8.7 million, or 16 cents per share, in the third quarter of 1989.

While operating income for the quarter was $17.1 million, $3.7 million higher than the period last year, pre-tax and net income were both adversely impacted by a $7.6 million increase in interest expense.

The third quarter of 1990 included the widest swing in oil prices of any calendar quarter in recent times. Actual prices received by SFR for its crude oil mix ranged from an average of $11.55 per barrel in July to $26.06 in September.

To guard against the adverse economics associated with prices like those received in July, SFR took steps in August to ensure minimum acceptable cash flows by initiating a hedging program. As a result, the average price realized by SFR for its crude oil during the quarter, after the effect of hedging, was $17.46 per barrel, compared with $14.14 per barrel in the third quarter of last year.

Natural gas prices, however, decreased during the period, averaging $1.42 per thousand cubic feet, compared with $1.61 in the third quarter of 1989.

Total revenues for the quarter (net of $3.2 million in hedging costs) were $98.3 million, $20 million higher than during the same period last year.

Third quarter oil and gas production were both higher in 1990 averaging 51,800 barrels of oil and 102.1 million cubic feet of gas per day, compared with 51,100 barrels of oil and 71.1 million cubic feet of gas per day last year.

Operating expenses during the quarter were $81.2 million, compared with $64.9 million in the third quarter of 1989, due to higher costs associated with increased production, higher fuel costs, increased exploration activities and the higher DD&A costs associated with greater gas production. A $7.6 million increase in interest expense for the quarter is attributable to financing under the senior notes which were placed in April 1990.

Cash provided by operating activities during the quarter was $37.5 million compared with $52.6 in the 1989 period which included $17 million of favorable working capital changes attributable to the timing of receipts and payments. A cash dividend of 4 cents per share was paid on July 16, 1990.

PHOENIX (OCT. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - Pinnacle West Capital Corp. (NASDAQ:PNW) income from continuing operations for the quarter ended Sept. 30, 1990, was $55.5 million, or 64 cents per share of common stock, compared to $67.3 million, or 78 cents per share, for the same period in 1989, Chairman Richard Snell said Thursday.

Snell said net income for the quarter declined because of a $26 million increase in interest on long-term debt between 1989 and 1990. Approximately half of the interest expense stems from the $450 million capital infusion into MeraBank last March while most of the balance is for interest on real estate construction projects which had been capitalized in 1989, but charged to operating expenses in 1990.

APS earnings for the quarter were approximately $76 million compared with $86.3 million during the same period in 1989. SunCor Development Co. recorded a loss in the quarter of approximately $2.5 million and El Dorado lost approximately $300,000. During he third quarter of 1989, SunCor lost $13.8 million and El Dorado lost $6.8 million.

Snell said APS third quarter earnings were impacted by a $13 million pre-tax expense for severance benefits and other costs resulting from the company's cost-containment and workforce reduction program.

Higher property taxes as well as the loss of revenues from the expired sales agreement between APS and Southern California Edison also affected earnings, but were offset by the performance of the Palo Verde Nuclear Generating Station, he said.

''Although our interest expenses have increased, our operating income has remained stable,'' Snell said. ''Our third quarter 1990 operating income was nearly identical to the third quarter in 1989 and that's a positive sign.''

He said that because of the cost of APS reorganization, its contribution to 1990 operating income was $12 million less than in 1989. However, that was offset by an improvement in the results at SunCor, Pinnacle West's real estate subsidiary.

''Our goal is to improve operating results and other indicators of financial health over time, with a view to increasing shareholder value,'' Snell said. ''As we continue making progress with the seven steps of my recovery plan, we expect to see improvement in our bottom-line numbers.''

For the nine months ended Sept. 30, Pinnacle West income from continuing operations was approximately $70.7 million, or 81 cents per share, compared to $146.4 million, or $1.69 per share in 1989. Snell said that income for the nine-month period was impacted because Palo Verde was not in full operation until July.

For the 12-month period ended Sept. 30, Pinnacle West income from continuing operations was $48.8 million, or 56 cents per share, compared to $145.3 million, or $1.68 per share for the same period in 1989.

(NASDAQ:CRUS) Thursday announced that net revenues for the second quarter of fiscal 1991, ended Sept. 30, 1990, were $34.6 million, up from $18 million for the corresponding quarter a year ago and up from the last quarter's revenues of $31 million.

Income before income taxes for the quarter was $7 million as compared to $3.9 million for the like quarter last year and $6.5 million for the previous quarter this year.

Income after income taxes for the quarter was $4.4 million, or 28 cents per share, as compared to $3.4 million, or 22 cents per share, for the like quarter last year, and $4.2 million, or 27 cents per share, for the previous quarter this year.

The provision for income taxes was 37 percent of pretax income for the quarter as compared to 15 percent for the like quarter last year because of the complete use of operating loss carryforwards in the previous fiscal year.

''Revenues in both mass storage and graphics products were at record levels,'' stated Michael L. Hackworth, president and chief executive officer. ''Graphics revenue growth was driven by volume shipments of our liquid crystal display (LCD) VGA controller to suppliers of laptop and notebook computers.

''Mass storage revenue growth was a result of strength in our PC AT products and increased demand for our SCSI products. I'm particularly pleased with the increase in sales of our graphics products and the continued strength in our balance sheet.

''We continue to invest in our R&D efforts to develop next-generation products. During the quarter, we introduced the CL-CD24O1, a multi-protocol controller with modem control lines specifically intended for the international market.''

SEATTLE (OCT. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - Westmark International Inc. reported Thursday net income of $4.2 million or 42 cents per share for the third quarter of 1990, compared with $5.9 million or 56 cents per share for the third quarter of 1989.

The results for the third quarter benefitted from a 6 percent increase in revenues and a lower effective tax rate due to the realization of a $1.1 million benefit from tax loss carryforwards in the company's foreign operations, but were adversely affected by higher R&D spending of $3.8 million and higher operating expenses.

The company's patient monitoring and ultrasound revenues in the third quarter rose by 12 percent and 1 percent, respectively. Third quarter revenues continue to be affected by lower domestic bookings than anticipated which have been restrained by a lengthening order cycle reflecting a variety of factors, including recessionary economic forces.

For the first nine months, Westmark's net income was $15.0 million, or $1.44 per share, compared with $13.4 million, or $1.30 per share in the prior year. Revenues for the first nine months totaled $362.9 million or 12 percent higher than the prior year. Patient monitoring and ultrasound revenues for the first nine months each grew by 12 percent.

In the third quarter, bookings grew at a rate greater than revenues. For the first nine months, however, bookings, while growing at a greater rate than in 1989, did not grow at the same rate as revenues, with a subsequent decline in backlog compared to a year ago. Manufacturing efficiencies enable the company to operate on a more flexible basis than in previous years, offsetting to some extent such a decline. Year to date bookings in our international businesses and for our two major product lines -- SpaceLabs' PCMS system and ATL's Ultramark 9 system -- are well ahead of 1989 levels.

Earnings for the fourth quarter are estimated in the range of 40 cents to 50 cents per share.

Westmark, with headquarters in Seattle, is a worldwide developer, manufacturer and distributor of diagnostic ultrasound systems and electronic patient monitoring and clinical information systems through its subsidiaries: Advanced Technology Laboratories Inc., in Bothell, Wash., and SpaceLabs Inc., in Redmond, Wash.

Westmark's common stock is quoted on the NASDAQ National Market System under the symbol WMRK.

READING, Mass. (OCT 18) BUSINESS WIRE - MASSBANK Corp., the holding company for MASSBANK for Savings, Thursday reported consolidated net income of $65,000 or 4 cents per share for the third quarter ended Sept. 30, 1990, as compared to consolidated net income of $362,000, or 13 cents per share for the like period in 1989.

For the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1990, the company reported consolidated net income of $1,246,000, or 55 cents per share compared to consolidated net income of $2,393,000, or 87 cents per share for the comparable period in 1989.

The third quarter results were adversely affected by a further write-down in the valuation of the First Woburn Bancorp stock owned by the bank. The stock was written down to its book value of $4.21 per share for a total write-off of $685,000 in the third quarter. In addition the bank wrote down the valuation of a major property included in the ''Real estate acquired through foreclosure'' category by $270,000.

During the three month period ended Sept. 30, 1990 the company continued the repurchase of its common stock by acquiring an additional 25,000 shares, thereby increasing its Treasury stock to 1,333,449 shares. This program has helped to improve the book value of the remaining shares outstanding from $29.76 on Sept. 30, 1989 to $32.45 at Sept. 30, 1990.

As previously announced, MASSBANK Corp.,s wholly owned subsidiary, MASSBANK for Savings, extended its retail franchise during the third quarter by acquiring a branch located in Medford, which is contiguous to its market area, and approximately $23.8 million in deposits from First Mutual of Boston.

This addition has helped to increase MASSBANK for Savings' total deposits to $262.5 million as of Sept. 30, 1990, up $36.5 million from the $226 million of a year ago.

On Sept. 30, 1990 MASSBANK Corp. had total assets of $333.8 million compared to $307.5 million a year earlier.

FORT WORTH, TX (OCT. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - Burlington Northern Inc. (NYSE:BNI) has reported third-quarter 1990 net income of $58 million, or 75 cents per share, on 76.9 million shares.

For the like quarter in 1989, the company reported net income of $73 million, or 95 cents per share, on 76.1 million shares.

BNI operating income for the quarter was $156 million on revenues of $1.155 billion compared with $184 million on revenues of $1.15 billion in the like quarter in 1989. The ICC now requires that fees for transportation services paid to short-line railroads be offset against related revenues beginning in 1990.

Thus, third-quarter 1990 revenues have been reduced by $37 million. Revenues for 1989 have not been restated. Operating and net income are not affected by this change. Traffic volume, as measured in revenue ton miles, increased 5 percent over the prior year.

Average coal yields were lower, reflecting disproportionate volumes shipped to the company's largest customers and over longer distances. Higher fuel prices as well as additional accruals for personal injury claims increased expenses in the third quarter of 1990. Last year's third-quarter results included the benefit of a $14 million adjustment to depreciation.

For the first nine months of 1990, BNI reported net income of $192 million, or $2.49 per share, including the effect of a first- quarter extraordinary item, relating to an extinguishment of debt, with an after-tax benefit of $8 million or 10 cents per share. 1989 net income for the like period was $162 million, or $2.13 per share.

Operating income for the first nine months of 1990 was $489 million on revenues of $3.51 billion compared with $453 million on $3.43 billion for the like period in 1989. The effect of the ICC decision to offset short-line railroad payments against freight revenue was to reduce current year reported revenue by $106 million, with no impact on income.

WHITEVILLE, NC (OCT. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - United Carolina Bancshares Corp. (NASDAQ/NMS:UCAR) Thursday reported that net income for the three months ended Sept. 30, 1990 amounted to $2,001,000 compared to $6,133,000 for the third quarter of 1989.

On a per share basis, net income amounted to 14 cents during the third quarter of 1990, compared to 44 cents in 1989, a decrease of 68.2 percent.

For the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1990, net income totaled $13,931,000, compared to $18,337,000 in 1989. On a per share basis, net income amounted to $1 in 1990 compared to $1.32 in 1989, a decrease of 24.2 percent.

The primary cause of the decline in earnings was a large increase in the provision for credit losses, which amounted to $10.2 million for the three months ended Sept. 30, 1990 and $14.4 million for the nine months then ended.

This compares to credit loss provisions of $1.5 million recorded in the third quarter of 1989 and $5.15 million for the nine-month period. Net loans and lease receivables charged-off totaled $11.77 million for the third quarter of 1990 compared to $.81 million in 1989.

For the nine months period, net charge-offs amounted to $13.40 million in 1990 vs. $2.27 million in 1989.

At Sept. 30, 1990, non-accrual loans and foreclosed assets amounted to 1.30 percent of loans and lease receivables, practically unchanged from the 1.28 percent at Sept. 30, 1989, but down from the 1.55 percent at the end of the second quarter of 1990.

UCB's reserve for possible credit losses amounted to $22.94 million, or 1.36 percent of loans and lease receivables outstanding at Sept. 30, 1990, vs. $21.35 million, or 1.38 percent of loans and lease receivables outstanding at Sept. 30, 1989.

Rhone Sasser, chief executive officer, emphasized that a majority of the loan losses recognized by UCB during the third quarter were attributable to previously reported non-performing loans to a real estate developer who has been engaged in a non-judicial reorganization for more than a year.

Sasser said that until very recently it appeared that a scheduled sale of several of that borrower's properties would be consummated at prices that would have resulted in losses to UCB well within the amount of specific reserves previously set aside for that purpose.

''However,'' Sasser said, ''the continuing negative trends in the real estate market and certain other factors have resulted in the borrower being unable to complete the sale.'' Sasser said UCB has significantly reduced its assessment of the realizable value of the collateral securing loans to the borrower considering current conditions, and has written the loans down to the amount it expects to collect.

HONOLULU (OCT. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - R.J. Pfeiffer, chairman, president and chief executive officer of Alexander & Baldwin Inc. (''A&B'') (NASDAQ:ALEX) announced Thursday that A&B's net income for the third quarter of 1990 was $22,195,000, or 48 cents a share.

These results compare with $29,045,000, or 64 cents a share, for the same period a year ago. This year's third-quarter results declined because of lower property sales, higher interest expense and a higher effective tax rate.

Revenue for the quarter totaled $192,194,000, up from $185,811,000 a year ago.

For the first nine months of 1990, net income was $91,766,000, or $1.99 a share, on revenue of $566,353,000. These results compare with net income of $185,884,000, or $4.01 a share, on revenue of $675,024,000 during the same period last year. The 1989 nine-month results included the sale of assets of the Wailea Development Company Inc. and the sale of A&B's equity holdings in Pacific Resources Inc.

Pfeiffer said: ''The 1990 results will follow five years of consecutive earnings records and eight years of consecutive annual increases in net income. We view the interruption in our long period of sustained earnings growth as the result of non-recurring transactions. We believe that the basic strengths in our core businesses, plus benefits from current capital investments, will return us to growth in earnings.''

SAN JOSE, CA (OCT. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - NetLabs Inc. Wednesday announced the availability of DualManager, a SNMP/CMIP open platform software package that operates in various operating system environments. AT&T Computer Systems adopts platform

AT&T Computer Systems has adopted DualManager for its Systems Manager product operating on AT&T hardware running AT&T UNIX System V. Net labs will market DualManager on SUN, PS/2, IBM AIX, and other operating systems. DualManager supports industry standards

DualManager supports industry standards such as SNMP, CMOT and CMIP, enabling it to be used effectively in a multi-vendor network. Several vendors including AT&T have announced support for this integrated platform and have agreed to develop device-specific applications. NetLabs recently announced an agrement with NKK Corp. to resell DualManager in Japan.

NetLabs and AT&T are members of the OSI/NM Forum, an industry consortium that is facilitating the adoption of OSI standards for network management.

''This implementation offers customers considerable flexibility,'' said Carl Cirillo, director, Systems Management and Services, AT&T Computer Systems. ''The customer can manage the imbedded base of SNMP devices while evolving toward an OSI implementation with CMIP.'' Operates in various UNIX environments

The DualManager operates under several popular versions of UNIX, including UNIX System V, SunOS, and Santa Cruz Operations UNIX in its Open Desktop, and IBM's AIX. It has a graphical interface based on X Windows and supports both OPEN Look and Motif. Users can click on a network icon and then point and click on any device in the network to review its status.

From a menu on the screen, a user can retrieve or change parameters such as routing table entries on a bridge.

While standards-based network management works well for new devices that incorporate a SNMP, CMOT or CMIP agent, older devices may not be able to support an agent. NetLabs offers generic SNMP and CMOT agents that can be tailored to specific devices, or can be used as ''proxy'' agents to manage these devices. Pricing and Availability Single copies of the DualManager are priced at $10,000 and are available in 30 days.

NetLabs Inc., which specializes in network management, supports numerous networking industry standards including SNMP, CMOT and CMIP. Its products run under several popular versions of UNIX, including UNIX System V, SunOS, and Santa Cruz Operations UNIX in its open desktop, and IBM's AIX.

VENTURA, CA (OCT. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - Benton Oil & Gas Co. (OTC:BNTN) Thursday announced that it has signed a letter of intent with a major institutional lender for a $16 million credit facility in the form of senior secured notes.

The proceeds will be used to acquire producing properties and to fund capital expenditures on certain of the company's existing properties. The notes will be secured in part by a portion of the company's existing oil and gas reserves and in part by reserves acquired with funding from the facility.

Terms of the financing agreement, which are expected to be finalized within the next 30 days, generally call for the notes to be repaid over a five-year period and for interest to begin at prime plus 2.5 percent and increase over the life of the notes.

''This agreement will enable Benton to more aggressively develop its oil and gas reserves at the West Cote Blanche Bay and Pershing fields. It is our objective to bring more reserves into production quickly and take advantage of the recent price increases,'' said Alex Benton, president and chairman of the board.

''In addition, the company will be able to negotiate certain producing property acquisitions which have been under consideration. Benton has grown significantly during 1990 by means of property acquisitions, and this credit facility will permit us to continue that momentum into 1991.''

Benton also stated that: ''With the financing arrangement, Benton's current capital requirements are somewhat satisfied. With respect to funding future acquisition and development growth, the company intends to continue to evaluate and pursue all financing options open to it, including equity, debt or internally generated capital, as appropriate.

''Under current market conditions, however, the company does not consider equity financing to be an attractive alternative.''

Benton Oil and Gas, based in Ventura, is an independent oil and gas exploration and production company with operations in California, Colorado, Oklahoma, Texas, Mississippi and Louisiana. Its common stock is traded OTC.

BELLEVUE, WASH. (OCT. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - Summit Savings Association (NASDAQ:SMMT), Thursday reported that increased market penetration and strong mortgage banking operations helped push earnings higher in the first fiscal quarter ended Sept. 30, 1990.

Net income in the first quarter increased to $262,000, or $.13 per share, compared to $60,000, or $.09 per share, for the like quarter a year ago. Per share comparisons, which are reported on a weighted average basis, are affected by the association's offering of an additional 1,380,000 shares of stock, which was completed in January 1990.

''Earnings for the quarter were positively influenced by our continuing successful mortgage banking operation as well as a higher net interest margin and resultant higher net interest income,'' said James F. Grabicki, president. Summit's net interest margin was 2.3% for the quarter compared to 1.5% one year earlier. Net interest income was $659,000 in the first quarter compared to $383,000 in the first quarter a year ago.

''We are capturing a larger share of the market for residential mortgage loans. This larger market share, together with the expected production from our recently opened Bellingham loan production office, should enable us to continue to exceed our objectives despite the anticipated moderation in the housing market," Grabicki added. Summit's loan production in the first quarter of fiscal 1991 nearly doubled to $32.1 million compared to $18.7 million in the like quarter a year ago.

Real estate owned as a result of foreclosure totaled only $191,000 at Sept. 30 1990, compared to $1,605,267 one year earlier. Total assets at Sept. 30, 1990 were $121.2 million compared to $106.8 million at Sept. 30, 1989.

The association's net worth was $9.1 million and book value was $4.54 per share at Sept. 30, 1990.

Summit Savings Association is a Bellevue-based thrift institution emphasizing residential lending of all types and offering a wide range of financial services including money market accounts and certificates, annuities, and other investment products.

The association serves the greater Seattle metropolitan area, through its full service Bellevue office and also Whatcom County with its Bellingham loan production office.

COSTA MESA, CA (OCT. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - Emulex Corp. (NASDAQ:EMLX), a leading supplier of system- and network-enhancement products for the computer industry, announced Thursday that net earnings for its first quarter of fiscal 1991, ended Sept. 30, were $1.4 million, or 14 cents per share, a sevenfold increase from the $0.2 million, or 2 cents per share, in the first quarter of fiscal 1990.

The earnings were based on net revenues of $34.1 million, a 19 percent improvement over net revenues of $28.8 million in the previous year's first quarter.

Emulex Chairman Richard B. Cox said: ''We were pleased with the increase over last year's results. Both net revenues and net earnings were dramatically better than those of the first quarter of last fiscal year and were also significantly higher than those posted in the previous quarter. The areas of our business that were particularly strong were custom contracts and micro devices.

''The higher net earnings compared with last year's first quarter were possible because of increased revenues, lower operating expenses as a percentage of sales and a lower effective tax rate.

''The cost of goods as a percentage of net revenues was relatively flat compared with last year. Higher production volume improved overhead absorption and reduced manufacturing variances by greater utilization of manufacturing capacity; however, margin gains from increased volume were offset by a less favorable product mix and more competitive pricing in several of our markets.

''The lower operating expenses as a percentage of net revenues resulted from the cost-containment measures instituted in the previous quarter. We continue to invest aggressively in new-product development, but overall are watching expenditures carefully.''

Cox discussed the outlook for the second quarter and the balance of the fiscal year. ''We do have some concern about the general business outlook for our industry, and it is hard to determine to what extent Emulex may be affected by the weak economy and what many analysts believe is a recession for the computer industry.

''On the positive side, our new products have gained market acceptance, and we will be introducing other major new products as the year progresses. In addition, total backlog, particularly in the custom and micro-devices businesses, is much higher than last year, and we have reason for some optimism that results will continue to show improvement throughout the fiscal year.

''However, in this business climate, we think it prudent to be cautious in our outlook, and that is the way we are running the business. Emulex remains in a strong financial position, and we have no concerns over being able to ride out a weak economy if that is to be the situation.

''Earlier in the week we announced that Robert N. Stephens, recently senior vice president of Western Digital Corp., has agreed to join Emulex. I am pleased to now report that before the end of this month he will assume his new duties as president and chief executive officer. We believe that Emulex will benefit from Bob's broad industry experience and leadership capabilities.''

Emulex designs, manufactures and markets high-performance storage and networking products for the digital equipment, IBM personal computer, small computer system interface and UNIX markets. Emulex's worldwide operations in nearly 100 countries serve end-user customers, dealers, distributors, OEMs, systems integrators and value-added resellers.

WAYNESBORO, VA (OCT. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - GENICOM Corp. (NASDAQ:GECM) Thursday reported revenues for the third quarter ended Sept. 30 of $58.9 million and net income of $0.8 million, or 8 cents per share.

This compares with revenues of $60.7 million and a net loss of $2.7 million, or 25 cents per share, for the year-ago quarter.

For the nine months ended Sept. 30, revenues were $193.6 million and net income was $1.1 million, or 10 cents per share, compared to revenues of $197.7 million and a net loss of $3.6 million, or 34 cents per share, reported for the same period in 1989.

The $1.8 million decline in revenues in the current quarter, compared to the same period a year ago, was due to lower domestic revenues partially offset by higher revenues in the company's international markets where GENICOM continues to experience strong demand for its products.

As anticipated, 1990 third quarter revenues were down $8.9 million from the $67.8 million recorded in the second quarter of the year due to the financial impact of summer holidays in Europe and the annual closing of the company's Waynesboro operations for a two-week vacation period in July. These factors traditionally cause third quarter revenues to be the lowest of the year.

GENICOM's order backlog was $51.7 million at Sept. 30, compared to $52.9 million at July 1, and $64.4 million a year ago. This reduction reflects continuing improvement in meeting customer demand on a more timely basis, as well as a decline in the incoming order rate from prior year levels. Orders in the 1990 third quarter, however, were up approximately four percent from those received in the prior quarter ended July 1.

In September, the company entered into a new financing arrangement for credit facilities to replace its former revolving credit agreement. The new financing will provide funds for working capital needs on a long-term basis, flexibility to pursue growth and, as cash flow and strategic opportunities exist, periodic repurchase of the company's outstanding $76 million Senior Subordinated Notes.

In addition, the company received $1.7 million plus accrued interest, pursuant to an agreement with Ekco Group Inc. (formerly Centronics) and a customer, relating to the successful resolution of litigation brought by GENICOM to collect certain disputed receivables.

GENICOM, through its worldwide operations, designs, manufactures, markets and services a wide range of computer printers for general purpose applications as well as a line of hermetically sealed relays.

SAN FRANCISCO (OCT. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - BankAmerica Corporation Thursday reported third-quarter 1990 earnings of $283 million, an 11 percent increase from $254 million for the same period in 1989. Earnings per common share were $1.26 in the third quarter of 1990, up 9 percent from earnings per common share of $1.16 reported in the same period a year ago.

The recently announced acquisitions related to Merabank Federal Savings Bank in Arizona and The Benj. Franklin Federal Savings and Loan Association in Oregon, together with earlier acquisitions in Arizona, Nevada, and Washington, give BankAmerica a significant market presence in the western states.

BankAmerica, through its subsidiaries, now operates more than 1,200 branches in seven states. ''This expansion of the franchise is consistent with BankAmerica's strategic objective of becoming the dominant provider of financial services in the western United States,'' Rosenberg added.

The results for the quarter brought year-to-date earnings to $828 million, compared with $833 million for the first nine months of 1989. During the first nine months of 1989, the corporation received $105 million of Brazilian cash interest payments on medium- and long-term obligations on nonaccrual status, which contributed $85 million to net income last year. No such payments were received on these obligations in 1990.

Earnings per common share were $3.66 in the first nine months of 1990, compared with earnings per common share of $4.07 reported in the same period last year. Earnings per common share in the first nine months of 1990 were affected by a 9 percent increase in average common shares outstanding from the first nine months of 1989. Brazilian cash interest payments contributed $0.44 to the earnings per common share for the first nine months of 1989.

Taxable-equivalent net interest income was $1,055 million in the third quarter of 1990, up from $1,001 million for the same period in 1989. This increase in net interest income from the corresponding period in 1989 was primarily the result of an increase in average earning assets, partially offset by a decrease in the net interest margin. The net interest margin was 4.28 percent for the third quarter of 1990, compared with 4.52 percent for the same period a year ago.

The provision for credit losses was $260 million for the third quarter of 1990 compared with $170 million for the same period a year ago. The increase in the provision primarily related to assets attributable to restructuring countries.

Noninterest income in the third quarter of 1990 was $504 million, up $42 million from the same period in 1989, primarily due to higher foreign exchange trading profits. Fees and commissions also increased during this period, with increased revenues from both service charges on deposit accounts and credit card fee revenue, partially offset by lower financial management fees.

Noninterest expense, which consists of personnel, occupancy, equipment, and other expense, was $963 million in the third quarter of 1990, compared with $921 million in the same period a year ago. Noninterest expense in the third quarter of 1990 included approximately $24 million related to the corporation's acquisitions during the past year.

For the quarter, revenues of the multinational personal computer company were $92,701,000, up about 11 percent from sales and other income of $83,829,000 a year ago.

Europe continued as the company's principal market, accounting for about 94 percent of quarterly revenues. S.L. Marking its fifth consecutive quarter of sustained profitability, the company reported a 50 percent increase in quarterly net income to $3,308,000, or 5 cents per share, from $2,210,000, or 4 cents per share, last year.

''During the quarter, despite start-up costs associated with our new marketing and sales program to achieve a better position in the $30 billion United States and Canadian PC markets, profits were up from a year ago,'' Tandon said. ''And in addition, cash and cash equivalents remained a healthy $42 million.''

Gross margins improved to approximately 32 percent of sales vs. 23 percent last year. Tandon attributed the improvement in margins to a combination of reduced materials costs and increased sales of the company's higher-end computers based on the Intel 80386 and 80486 microprocessors.

HOUSTON (OCT. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - Tuboscope Corp. (NASDAQ:TUBO) Thursday announced financial results for the three months ended Sept. 30.

The company reported net income of approximately $1.8 million, or 15 cents a share, for the third quarter of 1990, compared to a net loss of approximately $1.3 million, or 34 cents a share (after preferred stock dividends), for the third quarter of 1989. The increase in net income was primarily due to an approximate $9 million, or 36 percent, increase in revenue and a decrease in interest expense of approximately $1.3 million.

In addition, the third quarter of 1989 included preferred stock dividends of $530,000, while there were no such dividends in the third quarter of 1990.

During the third quarter of 1990, revenue increased to approximately $34.1 million, up from approximately $25.1 million in 1989. This increase in revenue was significant in each of the company's main product lines: Oilfield Services, Pipeline, and Mill Sales and Services. Oilfield Services revenue increased approximately $6.2 million, or 32 percent, due to an increase in domestic oil and gas drilling and workover activity, as the company's inspection and coating services both reflected strong increases.

Pipeline Service revenue was up approximately $1 million, or 23 percent, due primarily to an increase in foreign pipeline inspection work. Mill Sales and Services increased $1.7 million due mainly to the sale of a mill inspection unit in September.

The decrease in interest expense was a result of the retirement of the company's bank debt on March 20, with proceeds from its initial public offering. Simultaneous with this offering, all outstanding preferred stock was exchanged for common stock.

Headquartered in Houston, Tuboscope provides specialized services and products to the oil and gas industry worldwide. The company provides inspection and coating services for oil country tubular goods (drill pipe, casing, and tubing), sells tubular connections, provides in-place inspection of oil and gas pipelines, and sells and leases inspection equipment to manufacturers of tubulars. The company designs and manufactures its proprietary inspection and coating equipment and formulates and manufactures its own internal coatings.

NEW YORK (OCT. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - Siemens has been awarded a contract to install three new steam generators at the Doel Unit 3 nuclear power plant near Antwerp, Belgium, the company announced Thursday.

The Erlangen, Germany-based power generation group of Siemens AG in December 1989 had secured the order to supply the new stream generators. The value of the supply and installation contracts is more than DM 100 million, according to a Siemens spokesman.

Siemens expects the replacement operation to take about 56 days, beginning in mid-1993. Siemens will install the units in cooperation with Tractabel Energy Engineering S.A. and Fabricom, S.A., both of Brussels, Belgium.

The 900-megawatt power plant, owned by the Belgian utility Electrabel S.A., began operating in 1982. Corrosion of the tubing in the original steam generators prompted the utility to order new units. The new units will boost the plant's rating by nearly 10 percent.

Nuclear energy is a major source of power for Belgium, supplying nearly 61 percent of its electricity needs.

Siemens KWU is a world leader in nuclear and fossil-fueled power plant maintenance and upgrading. It is part of Siemens AG, a global electrical/electronics firm with sales of nearly $40 billion and approximately 360,000 employees.

Siemens KWU supplies power generation equipment and services through its U.S. units Siemens Power Corp., Bradenton, Fla. and Advanced Nuclear Fuels, Bellevue, Wash.

TOLEDO, OH (OCT. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - Dana Corp. reported that sales for the three months ending Sept. 30, 1990, were $1.2 billion, which is a 7 percent increase over the $1.1 billion reported for the same period in 1989.

Year-to-date sales of $3.8 billion outpaced the $3.7 billion for the same nine-month period in 1989.

Third quarter 1990 earnings were improved after adjusting for non-recurring items. Net income for the three months ending Sept. 30, 1990, was $16.8 million (after being reduced by $10 million, or $.24 per share, due to an increase in reserves at Diamond Financial Holdings), compared to $29.6 million in 1989 (which included a $5.6 million gain from debt restructuring at an affiliate that increased earnings by $.14 per share).

Earnings per share for the third quarter of 1990 were $.41 compared to $.72 in 1989. During the third quarter, gross margins once again increased.

Dana's strong international sales, especially in the company's distribution markets, caused all target markets, except highway vehicle component sales, to exceed year-ago levels. Dana's highway vehicle sales through nine months were 5 percent below year-ago levels.

Distribution sales to the domestic mobile off-highway/industrial market for nine months were strong, while domestic sales to original equipment manufacturers were down 6 percent in mobile off-highway and 10 percent in industrial compared to the same period in 1989.

However, international sales to these same markets were up 24 and 36 percent year to date, respectively, making for positive consolidated sales gains.

AUSTIN, TX (OCT. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - The Continuum Co. Inc. (AMEX:CNU) announced that for the quarter ended Sept. 30 net income was $1,966,000 or 22 cents per share compared to net income of $634,000 or 7 cents per share for the same quarter last year.

Per share amounts reflect the 2-for-1 stock split which was declared on May 17.

For the six months ended Sept. 30 revenues were $45,021,000 compared to $36,648,000 for the comparable period last year. Net income for the six months was $3,451,000 or 39 cents per share compared to $337,000 or 4 cents per share.

Revenues for the most recent quarter increased 21 percent from $19,339,000 to $23,447,000 compared to last year, due to increased service revenues of $3,314,000 and increased license revenues of $794,000 which included license revenues from three parties to a law suit which has now been settled.

While service revenues grew compared to last year, service expenses other than marketing and administration grew approximately $2,509,000 resulting in an increased contribution of $805,000 or 24 percent of the revenue increase.

Marketing and administration expense decreased approximately $775,000 primarily due to the absence of legal expenses which were significant during the first half of last year.

For the most recent quarter compared with the quarter ended June 30 net income increased approximately $500,000 resulting from increased license revenues. Service revenues increased approximately $700,000, which was offset by increased expenses.

Continuum increased its computer capacity with an upgrade to an IBM 3090-500J in late May 1990. Compensation expense increased with total personnel increasing from 836 to 861 during the quarter.

On Oct. 17 Continuum acquired Computations Holdings Ltd. of Sydney, Australia, for approximately 1,750,000 common shares of Continuum. The acquisition has been accounted for as a purchase, and accordingly, the operating results of Computations will be reflected in the consolidated financial statements from the date of acquisition.

ANAHEIM, CA (OCT. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - American Speedy Printing Centers (ASPC) has announced the introduction of Design Express, an automated desktop publishing system, according to William J. Culp, president of Anaheim-based Kaiser International, master franchisor for ASPC.

Developed by Image Express of Orange, Design Express includes one of the largest electronic illustration libraries in the world. The illustrations serve as templates for customers' layouts, which are then altered to fit their design criteria.

''This is an intelligent, interactive, computerized design system which drastically changes the way American Speedy Printing Center customers design printed materials,'' said Glen Cruzen of Image Express. ''With this system, we generate finished artwork for stationery, business forms, flyers, brochures and newsletters in a matter of minutes,'' he said.

With Design Express, customers select designs and layouts from a catalog, then modify those designs to their individual specifications. Photos, text, illustrations and borders can be positioned, added or moved according to the customers' needs and the camera-ready artwork is then printed out on a laser printer or electronic typesetter.

In designing business cards, newsletters, brochures and other promotional materials, graphic designers use fairly consistent layouts. About 20 percent of the work involves customizing basic layouts to meet the individual needs of each customer. This is known as the 80/20 rule in graphic design.

However, much of the expense in design work is in re-creating the 80 percent of the layout as original artwork for each customer.

With Image Express, the 80 percent of the design work is already in the computer and the 20 percent is created by the graphic artist with the customers' input. In a relatively short period of time, the customer receives a printout of the finished artwork for approval.

Under terms of an agreement signed with Image Express, American Speedy Printing Centers throughout the United States have begun introducing this service in centers which are equipped with desktop publishing systems.

The agreement also gives Kaiser International exclusive distribution rights for Design Express in the Pacific Rim countries, where Kaiser has begun establishing American Speedy Printing Centers in Japan, Korea, Taiwan, India, Hong Kong and Singapore.

LAWRENCEVILLE, NJ (OCT. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - First Fidelity Bancorporation (NYSE:FFB) Thursday reported third quarter 1990 earnings of $70.1 million, or $1.11 per share, on a fully diluted basis, its best quarterly earnings in two years.

For the third quarter of 1989, earnings were $54.4 million, or 86 cents per share.

First Fidelity's 1990 third quarter was characterized by strong core earnings, resulting from stable net interest income and significantly reduced operating expenses, as well as special gains, including the settlement of pension obligations. These special gains were offset in part by the level of the credit loss provision.

The third quarter results take into account the substantial completion of the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency's asset quality examination. In addition and at its discretion, First Fidelity decided to add approximately $60 million of exposure to the performing non-performing category. Non-performing loans totaled $724.2 million in the quarter, essentially flat compared to the second quarter's total of $731.9 million. Non-performing assets rose $64.9 million in the quarter to $904.7 million.

Tony Terracciano, chairman and chief executive officer, said, ''We believe third quarter earnings represent the anticipated start of a return by First Fidelity to a more normal level of profitability. We remain very concerned about the weakening economy and what its impact could be on asset quality, but the quarter's performance clearly indicates that our productivity programs, initiated in the first quarter, are working. Our quarterly operating expenses declined year over year by $30.2 million or 12.7 percent.''

In the third quarter, First Fidelity completed a series of important transactions.

First Fidelity entered into an agreement with EDS, a leading information technology company, to integrate and manage First Fidelity's data center operations. Under the agreement, EDS, within the next 18 months, will convert First Fidelity's numerous applications systems into a unified company-wide platform that will support common products across the bank.

The banking company purchased from the Resolution Trust Corp. nine branch offices of City Savings Bank, FSB, formerly City Federal Savings Bank, in Camden, Burlington and Gloucester counties with $468 million in deposits. The offices strategically enhance First Fidelity's market presence in Philadelphia's South Jersey suburbs, particularly in heavily-populated Camden County.

First Fidelity completed the sale of Latimer & Buck Inc., a commercial mortgage banking subsidiary. Negotiations are continuing for the sale of Fidelcor Business Credit Corp., an asset-based lending subsidiary headquartered in New York. Net Interest Income

In the third quarter, tax equivalent net interest income increased $4 million to $264.3 million over last year's third quarter. Higher levels of earning assets and wider spreads between the prime rate and the average cost of deposits were partially offset by higher levels of non-performing assets and a runoff in municipal bonds.

Average earning assets in the third quarter were $27.3 billion, up $1.6 billion from the prior year's third quarter. Increases in the securities portfolio and steady growth in consumer loans were partially offset by a decline in the level of commercial lending, reflecting a pattern of continuing soft commercial loan demand.

Core deposits (i.e. demand and consumer deposits) grew approximately 11.4 percent, in part because of a successful systemwide promotion campaign and the recent purchase of the City Savings Bank branches and deposits. For the quarter, core deposits represented more than 111.2 percent of average loans and more than 76.6 percent of average earning assets, compared to 100.7 percent and 73.1 percent respectively, in the third quarter of 1989.

Non-Interest Income

Non-interest income in the third quarter was $118.7 million, up from $113.9 million earned in the third quarter of 1989. Included in both quarters were gains from the settlement of certain pension obligations of $28.9 million in 1990 and $29.8 million in 1989.

Higher revenue from the personal trust business resulted in a 16.4 percent increase in trust income to $21.6 million. Service charges, commissions and fees were flat. Other income totaled $13.3 million and included gains from the sales of lease residuals and of Latimer & Buck Inc. The trading account recorded a small loss.

Non-Interest Expense

For the third quarter, non-interest expense declined $30.2 million or 12.7 percent to $207.9 million from the 1989 period, despite an increase in other real estate owned (OREO) related expenses of $5.6 million.

All other expense categories reflected significant declines except occupancy expense which was slightly higher. Salaries and benefits expense dropped 18.7 percent to $100 million. Equipment expense was $13.5 million, down 17 percent. Other expenses, excluding OREO expenses, declined 14.9 percent.

Third quarter core non-interest expenses, excluding OREO expenses, of $201 million compared to the fourth quarter 1989 core expense rate of $236.5 million, which indicates the company remains slightly ahead of its schedule to reduce core operating expenses in 1990 by $95 million, or approximately $115 million on an annualized basis. Asset Quality Non-performing loans totaled $724.2 million at the end of the quarter, compared to $731.9 million at June 30, 1990. Additions to non-performing status during the quarter included one credit in which the borrower filed for bankruptcy in September and approximately $60 million of exposure which was fully performing on Sept. 30, 1990, but was reclassified by management.

These were offset by approximately $50 million in commercial charge-offs, the improvement and return of several performing non-performing loans to full accrual status, and the transfer of one large credit to the OREO account after its reclassification as an ''in-substance foreclosure.'' The provision to the reserve for possible credit losses was $70 million for the quarter raising the reserve to $548.5 million on Sept. 30, 1990. As a result, the ratio of reserves to non-performing loans rose from 73.1 percent at June 30, 1990 to 75.7 percent at Sept. 30, 1990.

Other real estate owned (OREO) totaled $195.5 million at Sept. 30, 1990 compared to $123 million at June 30, 1990, primarily due to the transfer of the one loan from non-performing to OREO status. The $195.5 million OREO total consisted of $50.9 million in actually foreclosed properties and $144.6 million in in-substance foreclosures. After a $2.2 million provision to the OREO reserve, its level stood at $15 million at Sept. 30, 1990, unchanged from the end of the second quarter. Capital

At Sept. 30, First Fidelity's primary and total capital ratios were 7.4 percent and 8.9 percent respectively, substantially exceeding the current regulatory minimums of 5.5 percent and 6 percent. The company's risk-adjusted capital ratios also were well above the current and prospective 1992 regulatory guidelines. Calculated on the 1992 basis, the estimated Tier I ratio was 5.6 percent and the estimated Total Risk-Adjusted Capital ratio was 9.5 percent. The Tier I Leverage ratio was 4.2 percent. Balance Sheet Highlights

At Sept. 30, 1990, First Fidelity had total assets of $29.3 billion compared with $29.5 billion a year earlier; total deposits of $23 billion, compared with $21.8 billion a year earlier, and loans of $18.6 billion compared with $19 billion a year earlier.

SPARTANBURG, SC (OCT. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - Synalloy Corp (ASE:SYO), a producer of specialty chemicals, dyestuffs, stainless steel pipe, vessels and process equipment, announced that sales in the third quarter increased 15 percent to $25,377,000 while net income of $1,467,000 or 41 cents per share improved 24 percent on a per share basis.

This is the first quarter that fully reflects the purchase from the shareholders of 525,000 shares at $9.50 per share under a self-tender offer completed in May.

Sales of $75,289,000 for the nine months were up 12 percent, but net income per share was down 16 percent because of special factors affecting first quarter profits which were fully described in the report for that quarter.

In the Metals Division, the third quarter produced record sales of $17,652,000 up 11 percent from last year. This increase was accomplished in spite of a decline in selling prices triggered by a 14 percent decline in the price of stainless steel, the principal raw material.

Operating income in the third quarter increased 10 percent to $2,248,000. The excellent profit margins are the result of the company's strategic focus on being the low cost domestic producer of stainless steel pipe.

Third quarter sales of $7,725,000 in the Chemical Division were up 23 percent over last year and operating profit of $682,000 showed a 51 percent improvement. The specialty chemical product group produced an even better sales increase of 57 percent.

This is significant since these products are targeted by the strategic plan to provide the principal future growth. Based on current conditions, the company expects a good fourth quarter and the third consecutive year of outstanding results. Like everyone else, Management is concerned about the unstable conditions in the Persian Gulf and their possible effect on the world economy.

However, the balance sheet is strong and Management is confident that Synalloy is well positioned to compete effectively and continue producing an above average return on equity.

WHITE PLAINS, NY (OCT. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - NYNEX Corporation Thursday reported a 2.8 percent increase in net income for the third quarter of 1990 to $296.7 million, or $1.50 per share, compared with $288.7 million, or $1.47 per share, for the same period in 1989.

Total operating revenues for the third quarter were $3.40 billion, compared with $3.31 billion in the third quarter last year.

''The downturn in the Northeast economy is reflected in this quarter's flat revenues in the Telecommunications Sector,'' said NYNEX Chairman William C. Ferguson. ''However, we are pleased with our continued progress in controlling operating costs.''

Results for 1989's third quarter included the impact of the work stoppages at the NYNEX telephone companies which began in August 1989 and ended in December 1989.

Reflecting continued internal growth as well as acquisitions, revenues from non-telephone business segments rose for the quarter to $628.9 million, an increase of 18.0 percent. The number of mobile communications customers rose to 250,000, an increase of approximately 67,000 since last year's third quarter.

Expenses for the telephone sector, including New England Telephone and New York Telephone, rose 0.1 percent for the quarter. Total expenses for the corporation rose 3.5 percent over last year's third quarter.

Access lines served increased to 15.3 million during the quarter, or 2.0 percent, from 15.0 million in the prior year.

Net income for the first nine months of 1990 was $888.7 million, equal to $4.47 per share, compared with net income of $851.3 million, or $4.32 per share, for the same period in 1989. Total operating revenues for the first nine months were $10.16 billion, compared with $9.84 billion for the first nine months of last year.

Return on equity for the third quarter was 12.87 percent and for the first nine months was 12.78 percent. Assets grew 3.0 percent over last year's third quarter to $26.35 billion.

Third quarter results reflect a Consent Decree reached with the Federal Communications Commission (FCC), terminating a proceeding into alleged violations of affiliate transaction rules and policies by the NYNEX telephone companies from 1984 to 1988.

As part of the decree, the NYNEX telephone companies paid $1.4 million to the U.S Treasury and made a one-time reduction in interstate rates by $35.5 million. The telephone companies also agreed to reduce their capital accounts by $32.6 million, a write-down taken last December, to remove alleged excess profits on plant and equipment purchased from NYNEX Materiel Enterprises Company.

Under the agreement, the FCC closed its proceeding without any finding of violation or liability, and without any finding that forfeitures are necessary.

In New York, there is an important rate case pending. New York Telephone is asking for $831.7 million in new rates to take effect Jan. 1, 1991. Earlier this week, the administrative law judges presiding over the case recommended a rate increase of $23.6 million. NYNEX believes this proposal does not fairly or accurately reflect the record in the rate case proceeding. We hope that these factors will receive full consideration by the New York Public Service Commission when it makes its final decision in December.

NYNEX is a world leader in helping people communicate using information networks and services. It provides mobile and network communications to the Northeastern United States, and also offers these services globally, in addition to computers, software, directory publishing and other applied information solutions.

BOSTON (OCT. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - AT&T said Thursday it will reduce by more than $18 million the prices its Massachusetts customers pay for a wide range of in-state, long distance communications services.

The rate reduction, proposed on October 9 and approved today by the Massachusetts Department of Public Utilities, will go into effect at 12:01 a.m. Friday, October 19. The action reduces AT&T residential and business long-distance service rates an average of 26 percent.

''This is another in our continuing efforts to pass savings on to AT&T customers in Massachusetts and throughout the country,'' said Marc Rosen, AT&T government affairs vice president. ''Recent reductions in our costs of connecting to customers through the local telephone company -- as well as improvements and increased efficiencies in our network -- have made this price cut possible.''

Under the new rates, a 10-minute call from Boston to Springfield placed at 11 a.m. now costs $2.20, compared to the old charges of $3.37. A similar call between those two cities at 9 p.m. now costs $1.71, compared to $2.26.

The reductions apply only to in-state Massachusetts calls and do not affect interstate rates.

This is the third time in 1990 that AT&T has reduced prices for its Bay State customers, saving them a total of more than $22 million.

LONDON (OCT. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - Oct. 18, British Gas (NYSE:BRG) announced Thursday that in the face of much higher than expected inflation and major increases in oil prices it was introducing only modest prices increases.

Tariff gas prices will still be more than 10 percent cheaper, when adjustment is made for inflation, than they were in 1986 when the company was privatized. They are also substantially lower than in most other European countries.

''We regret it has been necessary to announce an increase at that start of the winter period,'' said a British Gas spokesman, ''but gas will still remain the best value-for-money fuel in the energy market.''

The tariff price increases are not related to the current Middle Eastern situation which has led to major increases in oil prices.

Tariff prices - for domestic customers, and for industrial and commercial customers using less than 25,000 therms a year - will go up by between 3.3 percent and 3.7 percent from November 1, 1990.

The increase will add less than 4 pence a day to the cost of running gas central heating in an average three bedroom semi- detached house. Standing charges remain unchanged.

The last price increase took effect on March 1, 1990. The November increase is introduced because rates of inflation have exceeded those forecast at that time. The higher rate of inflation has led to higher costs for the gas business but the combined increases in March and November amount to less than the rate of inflation over the year and are within the limits required under the regulatory tariff formula.

British Gas points out that pensioners now have to spend a smaller proportion of their pensions on gas cooking and heating than they have in the past. Twenty years ago some 14 percent of an average single pension went on buying gas for a cooker and living room fire. Today the same amount of gas can be bought for a little over 7 percent of the pension.

British Gas, headquartered in London, is the largest integrated gas company in the Western world and is primarily involved in the purchase, transmission, and sale of natural gas to domestic, industrial and commercial customers in Great Britain. Important support activities to its marketing efforts include appliance trading and customer service to domestic gas customers.

CANTON, MA (OCT. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - Corporate Software Inc. (NASDAQ:CSOF), the value-added marketer of microcomputer software and hardware add-ins, Thursday announced net sales of $47,398,000 for the quarter ended Sept. 30, 1990.

This represents a 50 percent increase over net sales of $31,658,000 for the same period in 1989. Net income for the quarter rose 46 percent to $495,000, or 10 cents per share, over net income of $339,000, or 7 cents per share, for the same period one year ago.

For the nine month period ended Sept. 30, 1990, net sales rose 52 percent to $142,698,000, compared to $93,690,000 in the same period in 1989. Net income for the first nine months increased 22 percent to $2,805,000, or 54 cents per share, compared to $2,298,000, or 45 cents per share, for the same period one year ago.

The company stated that earnings for the quarter were hampered by lower than expected revenues worldwide as a result of the current economic environment. In North America, after a strong start in July, sales slowed, especially in the Northeast, and revenues came in short of the company's expectations for the quarter.

Revenues in Europe, which represent 37 percent of the total, were also shy of expectations in local currency. Due to the weak dollar, the value of European revenues, when translated into dollars, was inflated.

Corporate Software sells and supports more than 1,500 software products and hardware add-ins for IBM, IBM compatible and Apple Macintosh personal computers, and is the leading reseller of upgrades from the major applications vendors. The company provides a comprehensive array of service to assist large organizations in the evaluation, acquisition, support and maintenance of personal computer products and in the management of end user computing resources.

BOSTON, MASSACHUSETTS (OCT. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - The Pioneer Group, Inc. (NASDAQ:PIOG), advisor to the Pioneer Mutual Funds and other accounts, reported earnings for the third quarter of 1990 of 38 cents per share, 22 cents per share below third quarter 1989 earnings of 60 cents. Earnings per share of $1.72 for the nine months ended September 30, 1990, were 1 cent higher than earnings of $1.71 for the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1989.

On October 17, 1990, the Company's Board of Directors declared a quarterly dividend of 20 cents per share, payable on December 14, 1990, to stockholders of record on December 3, 1990. This is the 47th consecutive quarter that the Company will have paid a dividend. Dividends will total 80 cents for 1990 as compared to 77 cents for 1989.

Revenues of $14.7 million for the third quarter were $0.7 million (5%) lower than the third quarter of 1989, primarily reflecting decreased investment management fees. The lower revenues reduced the Company's earnings per share by 7 cents in the third quarter. Revenues of $46 million for the nine months ended September 30, 1990, were $0.8 million higher (2%) than the comparable 1989 period, primarily reflecting increased shareholder services fees.

Expenses of $10.4 million and $30.5 million for the third quarter and nine months ended September 30, 1990, were $1.4 million (15%) and $3.3 million (12%) higher than the comparable 1989 periods primarily reflecting: significant increases in personnel costs for both periods resulting from continued expansion of the Company's marketing and investment research departments, higher distribution costs related to the Company's intensified marketing efforts, and costs associated with the introduction of new mutual funds by the Company in 1990. The higher expenses reduced the Company's earnings by 14 cents per share in the third quarter.

Net income was $2.4 million for the third quarter and $10.6 million for the nine months ended September 30, 1990, versus $3.7 million and $10.4 million, respectively, for the comparable 1989 periods.

Realized gains and an increase in the valuation of the Company's venture capital investment portfolio contributed 25 cents per share to the Company's earnings for the nine months ended September 30, 1990, all occurring in the first two quarters. For the first nine months of 1989, the change in the Company's venture capital investment portfolio valuation resulted in reduced earnings of 5 cents per share, 3 cents per share occurring in the third quarter.

ALBANY, NY (OCT. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - Albany International Corp. (NYSE/PSE:AIN) announced third quarter net income of $1.3 million, down from $10.0 million in the third quarter of 1989.

Earnings per share were 5 cents in 1990 as compared to 40 cents in the corresponding quarter last year. Net sales increased 12.5% to $136.2 million from $121.0 million.

Net sales for the nine months increased 8.6% to $401.2 million from $369.5 million. Net income decreased 76.8% to $7.5 million from $32.3 million. Earnings per share declined to 30 cents from $1.29. Nine months results in 1989 included a non-recurring gain of 10 cents per share.

J. Spencer Standish, chairman, commented that more than half of the third quarter sales gain resulted from the strengthening of non-U.S. currencies against the dollar. Operating costs rose faster than sales due principally to inefficiencies caused by plant start-ups, additional depreciation, and personnel previously added to support anticipated sales increases.

After-tax earnings were further reduced by an increase in the effective tax rate reflecting current earnings mix and the anticipated tax rate for the year. Interest costs declined over the prior period due to capitalization of interest related to facilities under construction.

With the decrease in profits, management is taking steps to reduce costs, including layoffs and an early retirement window which combined will reduce salaried personnel by about 10 percent resulting in a one-time fourth quarter charge of approximately $8 million before taxes and is likely to result in a small fourth quarter loss.

During the third quarter, new plants in Holland, Sweden, and Finland began production. This nearly completes a three-year, $250 million capital expenditure program, which has resulted in new or modernized plants and expanded capacity around the world. Compared to 1990 capital expenditures of $110 million, expenditures in 1991, which include the completion of the press fabric plant in Sweden, will be about $45 million. Depreciation in 1991 should approximate $42 million.

Our new plants and equipment, combined with an agressive cost reduction program and accelerated product development, should result in improved profitability next year.

MEMPHIS, TN (OCT. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - Union Planters Corp. (NYSE:UPC) Thursday reported third quarter net earnings of $5.1 million, or 26 cents per common share.

This compares with net earnings of $5.7 million, or 30 cents per common share in the first quarter of 1990 and $6 million, or 31 cents per common share in the second quarter of 1990.

In the third quarter of 1989, the corporation reported a net loss of $14.8 million, or 79 cents per common share. For the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1990, net earnings were $16.9 million, or 87 cents per common share, compared to a net loss of $4.3 million, or 23 cents per common share for the same period in 1989.

During the quarter, the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency (OCC) and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. (FDIC) completed a joint examination of the corporation's largest subsidiary, Union Planters National Bank (UPNB). In conjunction with the examination of UPNB, the Federal Reserve completed its annual examination of the corporation.

Results for the third quarter were down from the first two quarters of 1990 primarily due to an additional provision for losses on loans of $2.5 million as a result of the regulatory examinations.

Non performing assets (including loans 90 days or more past due) increased $1.2 million to $39.4 million at Sept. 30, 1990, from $38.2 million at June 30 1990. The allowance for losses on loans was $49.5 million, or 196 percent of nonperforming loans as of Sept. 30, compared to $48.7 million, or 161 percent of nonperforming loans as of June 30, 1990.

Net interest income for the third quarter of 1990 was $35.3 million, compared to $29.7 million for the same period in 1989 and $32.4 million for the second quarter of 1990. The improvement over the third quarter of 1989 is primarily the result of the purchase of two banks and a bank holding company while the improvement over the second quarter of 1990 was due to growth in net interest income and the purchase of a bank holding company in June 1990.

Noninterest income excluding broker/dealer profits and commissions, for the third quarter of 1990 increased 26 percent, compared to the same periods in 1989 and increased 17 percent, compared to the second quarter of 1990.

Noninterest expenses, excluding broker/dealer commissions paid and noninterest expenses of purchased banks, for the third quarter of 1990 decreased 22 percent, compared to the same period in 1989 and decreased 1 percent, compared to the second quarter of 1990.

Results for the third quarter of 1989 included a charge of $2.2 million in anticipation of future legal costs and expenses associated with litigation and a $7.5 million write-off of certain intangible assets (primarily goodwill).

Noninterest expenses of purchased banks were $3.7 million and $115,000, respectively, for the third quarter of 1990 and 1989 and $1.8 million for the second quarter of 1990. The broker/dealer operations reported an after-tax loss of $399,000 for the third quarter of 1990, compared to an after-tax loss of $6.9 million in 1989.

The corporation's capital ratios remain strong. At Sept. 30, 1990, the primary and total capital ratios were 7.6 percent and 9.2 percent, respectively. On a pro forma basis after the purchase of 2 million UPC common shares from Santa Cruz Resources Inc., these ratios were 7.2 percent and 8.8 percent, respectively.

The corporation ended the quarter with $3.9 billion in assets, $2.2 billion in loans, $3.3 billion in deposits and total shareholders' equity of $251 million.

Deposit Guaranty's total assets were $4.758 billion at Sept. 30, 1990, up from $3.598 billion at Sept. 30, 1989. Stockholders' equity was $261 million at Sept. 30, 1990, compared to $250 million at Sept. 30, 1989.

The decline in earnings for the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1990, was a result of the special $10 million addition to the reserve for possible loan losses made in the seocnd quarter of 1990 prior to the scheduled examination. This provision strengthened Deposit Guaranty National Bank's reserve for possible loan losses primarily to cover credit risk in the real estate lending portfolio.

Commercial National Corp. in Shreveport, La., a subsidiary of Deposit Guaranty Corp., continued to show net income well ahead of expectations. The Shreveport economy showed favorable signs of stabilization as reflected by a 4 percent increase in retail deposits since January 1990.

#90291b0960 10/18/1990 ~Business Wire
BOSTON (OCT. 18) BUSINESS WIRE - Affiliated Publications Inc. Thursday announced that revenues for the third quarter of 1990 were $130,404,000 compared to $126,964,000 for the same period a year ago.

Income from continuing operations and net income were both $4,036,000 or 6 cents per share vs. $8,481,000 or 12 cents per share in 1989.

For the first nine months, revenues were $396,196,000 compared to $396,313,000 for the same period in 1989. Income from continuing operations for the nine months was $17,910,000 or 26 cents per share vs.
$29,763,000 or 43 cents per share in 1989.

Net income for the for the first nine months of 1990 was $17,910,000 compared to $2,879,000 in the preceding year. In 1989, net income included charges related to Affiliated's share of losses from its former investment in McCaw Cellular Communications Inc. of Kirkland, Wash., as well as costs relating to the restructuring of that investment. There was no such charge in the third quarter of 1989.

Lower advertising volume at The Boston Globe resulting from the sluggish economy continued to affect Affiliated's earinings adversely in the third quarter. In addition, the operating income of its subsidiary, BPI Communications Inc. (BPI), was negatively impacted, as expected, by start-up losses of its broadcast monitoring service, together with additional amortization costs related to the acquisition in July of A/S/M Communications Inc.

Affiliated Publications Inc. is the parent company of Globe Newspaper Co. (publisher of The Boston Globe) and BPI, a leading publisher of specialty magazines, books and electronic data bases for the entertainment, arts and design markets.

By MICHAEL STRAUSS - Comtex Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (OCT. 18) COMTEX - Congress was told today the U.S. can expect continued trade friction with Japan in the 1990s but it should still continue to pressure Asia's economic giant to open its markets.

"By and large, there is no alternative but to continue to try to get the Japanese to change and move in a direction that makes Japan more open to the rest of the world," said Edward Lincoln, a foreign policy expert at the Brookings Institution.

"With respect to the Japanese economy, there's no good alternative than to keep pressure on getting them to open their economy," added Alan Wolff, a former general counsel to the U.S. trade representative.

The comments were made in testimony before the congressional Joint Economic Committee, which held a hearing examining the outlook for economic relations between the U.S. and Japan.

In May, 1989, the U.S. initiated the Structural Impediments Initiative (SII) with Japan in an effort to address some of the root causes of the bilateral trade deficit, which stood at $49 billion at the end of the year.

In the SII, the U.S. identified a number of Japanese structural barriers, including the government's tolerance of anticompetitive business and pricing practices, the high Japanese savings rate, and land-use policies which have led to high land prices in Japan. Japan, in turn, cited the low U.S. savings rate, inadequate business investment and short-term corporate strategies which have contributed to the trade imbalance. In June, 1990, the two nations issued a report on the SII in which they outlined measures they would undertake to address the structural impediments in their respective economies.

Asked if trade negotiations will continue to cause friction between the two nations in the 1990s, Lincoln said, "It could get worse. I'd be surprised if it got better."

"SII is a usefull contribution but it's not enough," added Wolff. "I'm afraid the lessons we've learned from Japan has to be based on reciprocity."

Wolff cautioned a reduction of the bilateral trade deficit may be misleading if it results from Japan buying from its Japanese subsidiaries in the U.S. rather than from U.S. producers.

"Trade balance is becoming less and less of a good indicator of the integration of Japan into world markets," he said.

Rep. James Scheur (D-N.Y.) suggested the U.S. should act unilaterally to improve its competitiveness instead of waiting for Japan to open its markets.

"Maybe the fault lies with ourselves," Scheur said. "Should we concentrate on getting Japan to be more like us or look at its success -- the ability to save to invest in research and development, the emphasis on quality? We should have the U.S. learn how management can take a long-term view on capital and quality education."

BUDAPEST (OCT 18) - Following Mercedes by two days, Porsche is starting a trading company in Hungary.

Porsche Hungaria, which is to open Friday, will be a subsidiary of Porsche Austria and plans to market not only the luxurious sportscar, but Volkswagen, Audi and SEAT models as well, the daily Vilaggazdasag reported on Thursday.

Mercedes Benz Auto Hungary Ltd. was introduced Wednesday by Formula-1 driver Niki Lauda, testing his own Mercedes 500 SL at the Hungaroring, the site of the Hungarian Formula-1 Grand Prix.

Porsche Hungaria hopes to sell 2,500 cars next year in Hungary, and Mercedes expects in the near future to reach the level of 1,000 cars sold annually.

The Hungarian car market is facing rapid changes with the switch-over in 1991 from ruble to hard currency accounting for trade with East European countries, from where 80 per cent of Hungarian car imports come.

The "traditional" partners are still unable to offer prices valid for next year, but they will no doubt be drastically raised, narrowing the gap between the prices of eastern and western cars.

FREETOWN (OCT 18) - The United Nations World Food Program (WFP) on Thursday signed an agreement to give nearly 30 million dollars in emergency food aid to Liberian refugees in four West African countries, official sources said.

Under the accord, the WFP is to supply 40,500 tons of rice, 3,600 tons of corn soya blend, 2,970 tons of oil, 1,350 tons of canned fish and 360 tons of sugar for the more than 700,000 displaced people, refugees and returning nationals in Liberia, Sierra Leone, Guinea and Ivory Coast.

In August, the WFP signed a similar letter of understanding with Sierra Leone for emergency food assistance worth some 16.4 million dollars for Liberian refugees in the country.

The agreement was signed by Sierra Leone's acting Foreign Minister Bu-Juakei Jabbi, chairman of the National Refugee Committee and local WFP representative, Bai Bojang.

At least 10,000 people have died in Liberia's civil war launched last December in northeast Liberia by Charles Taylor's National Patriotic Front (NPFL) rebels.

TUNIS (OCT 18) - A deeply divided Arab League managed to issue a unanimous call here Thursday for sanctions against Israel for the Temple Mount killings in Jerusalem.

The final vote was unanimous, despite bitter debate which at one point saw the delegates from Iraq, the Palestine Liberation Organization and Yemen walk out of deliberations.

Afterward, interim Secretary General Assaad Lasaad said the unanimous vote said ''that the Palestinian cause is a matter for the entire Arab nation.''

The walkout was staged in protest against reluctance by other delegates to support a clause attacking the United States for supporting ''Israeli policies of terrorism and suppression.''

The full text of the resolution was not immediately made public.

WASHINGTON (OCT 18) - The U.S. Congress grilled Secretary of State James Baker for a second day Thursday on whether he would consult the body before an attack on Iraq, and on why he sponsored a U.N. resolution against Israel.

Baker refused to be pinned down to a commitment to consult with Congress prior to taking up arms, and repeated numerous times that Washington had sponsored the U.N. resolution because Israeli soldiers had used ''excessive force''.

Members of the House of Representatives Foreign Affairs Committee questioned the secretary of State for over two hours, urging him to show more ''sensitivity'' to constitutional obligations.

The U.S. constitution stipulates that only Congress has the power to declare war, a law that some lawmakers feel was violated by former president Ronald Reagan when Grenada was invaded in 1983.

Baker said the U.N. resolution condemning Israel for the October 8 killings of 21 Palestinians was something that was not done to maintain cohesion within the anti-Iraq alliance in the Gulf.

''I want you to know that we would have voted for that resolution even if there hadn't been an Iraq-Kuwait crisis,'' he said. ''We simply had to condemn that violence.''

Asked whether the administration was softening its stance on Syria, Baker said Syrian leaders had told him for the first time in Damascus last month that they would take action against terrorism if Baker could provide evidence of Syrian-linked activities.

LONDON (OCT. 18) - Britain's VSEL shipbuilding consortium is putting its Cammell Laird military shipyard at Birkenhead in the north of England up for sale, and will close the facility in 1992 if no buyer is found, the company said on Wednesday.

Cammell Laird, which built 97 surface warships and 57 submarines between 1914 and 1945, was founded in 1824 and has specialized since 1985 in military ships.

The shipyard will close in 1992 when three conventional submarines are completed if no one wants to buy it.

Closure of the Merseyside yard would put 2,100 people out of work in a region which is already suffering heavy unemployment.

Britain's Trade and Industry Department has refused to give subsidies to the yard, saying such funds are reserved for builders of civilian vessels.

Among Cammell Laird's past glories was the Ark Royal, Britain's first aircraft carrier.

LONDON (OCT. 18) - A Brition, five Irish nationals and two Scandanavians who were allowed out of Iraq flew into London's Heathrow airport late Wednesday.

The eight men had all been working in Baghdad at a hospital run by PARC, a subsidiary of the Irish airlines Aer Lingus.

The Briton, Doctor John Barker, said their contracts had expired and Iraqi authorities allowed them to leave.

Three other Britons, including two who worked for the same hospital, fled to Saudi Arabia Monday after secretly leaving Iraq without exit visas.

Aer Lingus had criticized their flight as "very dangerous and irresponsible", saying it hoped their action would not jeopardize the "special status" of the other employees at the hosptal, which includes some 200 Irish nationals and 42 Britons.

An Aer Lingus spokesman said the three had escaped "against the strong advice of both the British and Irish ambassadors in Iraq".

The three who escaped on Monday were the second group of Westerners to flee

Iraq for Saudi Arabia this month.

Three Britons and two Frenchmen held by Iraq arrived in Saudi Arabia on October 4 after fleeing the southern Iraqi town of Basra by boat.

ROTTERDAM, The Netherlands (OCT. 18) - Oil may be expensive these days, but there is no shortage of it here in the world's biggest oil port.

"1990 will beat all the records," said Hendrik-Jan Greeven, director general of Maasvlakte Olie Terminal, the biggest storage company in Western Europe with a capacity of four million square metres.

The flow of oil arriving here is such that Rotterdam's storage capacity is full. "We have seen no shortage in production, in quantity or in quality," he said.

His company stored 33 million tons of oil in 1989, 35 percent of it from Iraq and Kuwait - and the figure is expected to reach a record 36 million tons this year, he said.

A spokesman for Matex, another storage company with a capacity of two million square metres in Rotterdam, said that if anything, the Gulf crisis had increased demand for oil storage.

"Investors are storing as much as possible while they wait to see what happens " the spokesman, Leidus Fokma, said.

"Our tanks were already full" when Iraq invaded Kuwait, "and demand has grown since then," he said.

But Mr. Fokma said the current speculative buying would fall once oil reached a certain price, which he put at 60 dollars a barrel, when investors would begin unloading their stocks.

"The price increases we've seen since the invasion had no real cause," he said. "If investors have already panicked, one wonders what they will do if there's a war."

Meanwhile, storage firms have increased their prices by a third.

"In fact, we've gone back to the price levels of 10 years ago," said Mr. Fokma. "Overcapacity in Europe had pushed the prices down to unacceptable levels."

The Dutch Economy Minister, Koos Andriessen, told the lower house of parliament a few days ago that he had found "no trace of penury in crude or petroleum products".

He said stocks of the industrialised nations were virtually at the same level as those of July 1.

But the minister warned that an early winter, a fall in production or refining capacity could soon bring a shortfall.

TOKYO, Oct 18 (AFP) - Nichimen Corp., a leading Japanese trading company, said Thursday it has set up a lumber joint venture with the Soviet Far Eastern Forestry Corp. in the Soviet Siberian region.

The joint venture, named Somon after a small river in the region, is capitalized at 240 million yen (1.9 million dollars), 20 percent owned by Nichimen and the rest by the Soviet partner, Nichimen officials said.

A lumber plant to be built near the port of DeKastri for completion in 1991 will produce 27,000 cubic meters (945,000 cubic feet) of lumber annually to be exported to Japan.

It will double production in three years, bringing six million dollars in foreign currency to the Soviet Union, the officials said.

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (OCT. 18) - New Zealand's biggest public company, Fletcher Challenge Ltd. (FCL) announced here Thursday it had acquired the gas and condensate interests held by British Petroleum (BP) in the off-shore Maui field

It had also purchased BP's interests in the onshore Kapuni gascondensate field which it will sell to Shell New Zealand and Todd Petroleum Mining Company Ltd.

Both fields are in Taranaki, 400 kilometres (248 miles) south of here.

In a statement FCL chief executive Hugh Fletcher said the move extended FCL's interests in Maui to 68.75 percent. BP (Oil Exploration) owned 18.75 per cent of Maui and 37.5 percent of Kapuni.

The Maui acquisition will add 26 percent, or around 93 million barrels of oil equivalent, to FCL's total reserves of 45 million barrels of oil equivalent.

HONIARA (OCT. 18) - The Solomon Islands' besieged Prime Minister Solomon Mamaloni Thursday rejected calls for his resignation because he said he had overwhelming support in parliament to rule the country.

In a speech broadcast on radio Mr. Mamaloni dismissed the crisis triggered last Friday when he defected from the ruling People's Alliance Party (PAP) and formed a government with five opposition members as "a small political hiccup."

He rejected a petition signed by 19 PAP members including eight current ministers, saying he would stay prime minister because the post had been bestowed on him by the constitution, "and there has been no reason to disqualify me."

Mr. Mamaloni's decision to quit as PAP leader came a week before a party convention was tipped to pass a no-confidence motion in him.

The motion arose from the reported involvement of Mr. Mamaloni and others in efforts to obtain a 250 million U.S. dollar loan from a little known Italian company called ESCA.

Mr. Mamaloni said he was surprised to see that eight ministers had signed the petition, but added, "this will be sorted out when the new cabinet holds its first meeting next Tuesday."

He claimed he had the support of 15 cabinet ministers and 12 backbenchers which gave him 27 backers in the 38 member parliament.

Three of five opposition members who joined Mr. Mamaloni last Friday have been sworn in and the last two would be sworn in next week, he said.

"I did not sack five of my ministers as claimed by the media but they were laid off because they could not be accommodated under the new formula used to form my new government," he said.

Mr. Mamaloni became prime minister of the Solomon Islands -- a former British colony of about 300,000 people in the South Pacific -- for the second time last year. He previously served from 1981 to 1984.

CHITTAGONG, Bangladesh (OCT. 18) - Bangladesh is expected to cut its oil imports by 30 per cent during the current fiscal year because of price rises in the international market triggered by the Gulf crisis, official sources said here Thursday.

A Bangladesh Petroleum Corporation (BPC) source said the Gulf crisis could cost Bangladesh about 400 million dollars in excess to procure its targetted 1.5 million metric tons of petroleum products annually.

"If the oil price further jumps in the world market the cost may go up and force us to cut imports," the source added.

Golam Mohammad Quader, a top BPC official, said it would be very difficult to meet the overcost in purchasing oil due to fund constraints, and the cut maybe necessary even with the current prices.

He said 325 million dollars were budgeted for oil imports this year but because of price rises the bill could exceed 700 million dollars, which was beyond what the company could handle.

The last consignment procured included 100,000 tonnes of crude from Saudi Arabia at 36 dollars per barrel instead of the previous 15 dollars and 20,000 tonnes of finished products from Singapore for 50 dollars per barrel instead of the earlier price of 22 dollars.

Bangladesh obtains most of its requirements from the United Arab Emirates, Saudi Arabia, Iran, Singapore and, before Iraq's August 2 invasion of the emirate, Kuwait.

BPC sources said they were looking for alternatives if war broke out in the Gulf and have received positive responses from Malaysia and Australia.

Meanwhile, a senior BPC official said the authorities here have undertaken steps to ensure a large scale switch-over to the use of indigenous natural gas in a bid to reduce fuel consumption in the country.

The official, Mr. Satipati (eds: one name) said indigenous natural gas meets 60 percent of Bangladesh's total energy requirement.

Engineering workers went on strike on October 5. Subsequently negotiations between unions and employers were resumed, but these have since broken down.

NICOSIA (OCT. 18) - Iraq on Thursday offered to sell its crude oil at 21 dollars per barrel and said prospective clients could pay after a settlement to the Gulf crisis was found.

Iraqi Oil Minister Issam al-Shalabi, in a statement carried by the official Iraqi News Agency (INA) received in Nicosia, said his country was also willing to sell crude oil to the United States.

"Iraq is willing to sell its oil to all firms and buyers, including the United States, at the 21-dollar-mark set by OPEC," Mr. Shalabi said in reference to the price endorsed by the Organisation of Petroleum Exporting Countries at its July conference.

Baghdad, he added, "would accept that money from the sales be paid ... after a settlement to the (Gulf) crisis."

Iraq and Kuwait have been facing a U.N.-imposed trade embargo since Iraq's August 2 invasion of Kuwait and its subsequent annexation.

The Gulf crisis has forced up the price of oil, with crude selling for more than 40-dollars-a-barrel last week, or more than double its cost before the invasion.

Production increases by Saudi Arabia, the United Arab Emirates and other OPEC countries are currently compensating for the loss of around 4.5 million barrels of oil a day from Iraq and Kuwait.

PRETORIA (OCT. 18) - The first trade fair in South Africa involving an Eastern Bloc country is to be held here next month when a 100-strong Polish trade delegation arrives to display their wares, the Polish Chamber of Commerce said Thursday.

Chamber spokesman Tadeusz Kaminski said in a statement that the fair "emphasises the commitment of our country to open trade with South Africa, which was not possible previously."

He said Poland had realised the "tremendous two-way trade potential between Poland and South Africa ... which is playing a vital part in the economy of other countries in southern Africa".

The trade fair, to be held between November 3 and 18, is being organised in conjunction with the Northern Transvaal Chamber of Industries (NTCI), Mr. Kaminski said.

In a separate statement, NTCI executive director John Toerien said President Frederik de Klerk's political reforms had "facilitated a more relaxed international trade environment" and had made the trade fair possible.

He said more than 45 of the largest import and export organisations in Poland, with combined trade turnover of about 15 billion dollars, will be participating in the fair.

Thursday's announcement follows a 15-day tour of South Africa by two senior Polish officials, including an advisor to Solidarity leader Lech Walesa, which ended on Monday.

Tour organiser Stefan Mathews, director of the independent South African-Polish Chamber of Commerce here, hailed the success of the visit by Wojciech Tomaszweski of the ministry of trade, and Maciej Zalewski, an economic advisor to Mr. Walesa and deputy editor of Solidarity's newspaper.

Not only had he given them the names of 45 chamber members interested in trade but also a firm order for motors for petrol pumps which could be worth three million dollars a year to Poland.

MOSCOW (OCT. 18) - A spacewalk by two Soviet cosmonauts planned for Friday has been postponed until October 30 because one of them has a snuffle, the Soviet news agency Tass reported Thursday.

Gennady Strekalov, flight engineer of the orbiting space station Mir, caught cold from the air coming out of the ventilating system while running on an exerciser, Tass said. He was getting no special treatment but was taking Vitamin C.

As soon as he was well, he and fellow crew member Gennady Makarov would carry out repair work on the escape hatch of the Quant-2 module, whose failure led to dramatic events during the flight of the previous Mir crew.

Because of the damage, those cosmonauts were forced to spend seven hours working outside their spacecraft, an hour longer than normally permitted.

The increase was far lower than had been expected by analaysts who had forecast 25,000.

BERLIN (OCT. 18) - Retail turnover in East Berlin and the five former states of East Germany slumped an average of 46 percent in September compared with September 1989, the Berlin statistical office reported Thursday.

It blamed the change on price increases caused by German monetary union on July 1 and the freedom of East Germans, after November 9 1989, to shop in the West, where there was a greater variety of goods, more price competition and a better presentation.

SYDNEY (OCT. 18) - After sending three warships to the Gulf, the Australian government has advised sailors to wear civilian clothes in Sydney for security reasons, Defence Minister Robert Ray said Thursday.

Mr. Ray told parliament in Canberra the decision was not based on domestic considerations but on other "information that I and the navy have available that would be of concern."

Defence officials said the order was based on fears that naval personnel on the Gulf force or their families could be threatened.

When the three Australian ships left for the Gulf in August following Iraq's invasion of Kuwait the navy adopted a policy of not identifying those on board because threats -- unspecified -- existed.

SYDNEY (OCT. 18) - Australia's Commonwealth Bank announced Thursday a five per cent fall in net annual profit to 528.8 million Australian dollars (409 million U.S.) for the year to June 30 after a sharp rise in bad and doubtful debts.

These debts jumped 55 percent to 461.7 million dollars (357 million U.S.) - including write-offs of 363.2 million dollars (281 million U.S.) - as Australia's economic growth slowed.

Gross profit fell 13 percent to 818.3 billion dollars (633 million U.S) in the period.

This is expected to the Commonwealth Bank's last report as a fully-government owned bank, as Canberra intends to float 30 percent of it.

Despite the net profit slide from 555.4 million dollars (429 million U.S.) previously, analysts said the bank held up strongly against the country's economic woes.

But return on average equity, a key indicator of profitability, fell below expectations to 13.2 percent from 14.6 percent.

Managing Director Don Sanders said that bank had also been hampered by a decline in interest margins.

"I suppose we can say we fell short of aspirations but we believe we achieved a reasonably good result in a difficult year," he said.

Mr. Sanders said there was no timetable for the partial privatisation of the bank, but he hoped the current market weakness would not hamper the proposal.

Group net income increased 11.9 percent in to 3.3 billion dollars (2.6 billion U.S.) as assets expanded by 10.5 percent to 67.03 billion dollars (52 billion U.S.).

The bank's overall provisions for bad and doubtful debts totalled 674.6 million dollars (521 million U.S.) at June 30, compared with 575.8 million dollars (445 million U.S.) a year earlier.

Due to a large extraordinary loss large year, net profit after abnormals rose 11 percent to 531.4 million dollars (411 million U.S.).

PRETORIA (OCT. 18) - President Frederik de Klerk Thursday announced the lifting of the state of emergency in the province of Natal with immediate effect.

Addressing a press conference here, he said that "conditions in Natal had become stabilised to such an extent that the ordinary laws of the land are again sufficient to ... maintain public order, despite continuing sporadic public violence."

The state of emergency, which was imposed on June 12, 1986, was lifted in South Africa's other three provinces in June.

KUALA LUMPUR (OCT. 18) - Malaysia, riding an economic boom spearheaded by its manufacturing sector, is unlikely to drastically change its economic policies no matter who wins this weekend's election, analysts said.

The robust economy is underpinning the bid by Prime Minister Mahathir Mohamad's 10-party National Front coalition for a third term in office, with the Front pledging to continue current policies.

Tengku Razaleigh Hamzah, the former trade and finance minister who is heading the five-party Gagasan Rakyat (People's Might) opposition alliance, has not promised any major changes either.

The campaign has featured little debate on the economy of this multiracial country. Projected double-digit growth and a surge of investment could push Malaysia into the ranks of newly industrialised countries.

"There are not going to be drastic changes," said Chandra Muzzafar, chairman of Aliran, a social reform movement.

"The Gagasan Rakyat has a stronger orientation towards social justice and greater concern with distribution of wealth than the National Front, but both are committed to a free market economy."

Neither side's election platform presents voters with stark choices on economic issues, which include the New Economic Policy (NEP) aimed at giving indigenous Malaysians a 30 per cent share of corporate wealth.

The National Front manifesto pledges to "continue its liberal growth policy into the next decade."

This had included relaxing equity requirments on foreign investors in the mid-1980s when the country was in a recession.

Foreign investors had been required to limit their equity holdings to 30 per-cent under the NEP, framed after the 1969 racial riots in which hundreds of people died.

If Malaysia's political stability has often been cited as a major asset for investors, the NEP has been seen as a discouraging factor. The policy expires this year.

JAKARTA (OCT. 18) - The mysterious disappearance of nearly half a billion dollars from the coffers of a private bank here has led foreign financiers to greater caution in their dealings in Indonesia despite the country's fine economic performance, overseas investors said.

The scandal involving Bank Duta means that Indonesia is now considered a country where operations are seen to be riskier than previously believed, foreign bankers said in interviews over the past week.

"There is no doubt that this incident will lead Indonesia to raise capital at higher rates and that credits to private banks will be fewer and farther between," said the chief executive here of a major European bank.

His comment came less than two weeks after Duta, Indonesia's second biggest private bank, officially announced surprise losses of some 420 million dollars.

The official explanation from Duta, which is known for its close links to the government, is that 18 months of speculation on the currency market resulted in losses of nearly three times its capital, of which 73 per cent is held by non-profit associations led by President Suharto.

The remaining 27 percent are publicly owned.

Foreign bankers are skeptical, but believe the declared losses to be close to the truth and say they are stupefied that Duta can continue to exist.

Indonesian newspapers have reported that three anonymous donors have been beefing up the coffers of Bank Duta, which has been run since October 4 by a temporary executive board headed by Radius Prawiro, coordinating minister for economic, financial and industrial affairs.

All members of the previous board - including Cooperatives Minister Bustanil Arifin, a close confidant of Mr. Suharto - have been forced to resign and Duta's number two, Dicky Iskandar Di Nata, has been arrested.

Many shareholders are threatening legal action and the country's leadership has ordered judicial proceedings into the bank's activities.

"Exchange rates alone cannot account for such a loss," said one European banker. "It is far too huge."

JAKARTA (OCT. 18) - The dynamic economic development now under way in some Asian countries will further expose the region's heavy dependence on imported energy, oil experts here have warned.

Asian energy demand, in particular for petroleum, would grow fastest in the world in the 1990s, but the region's own oil resources would not be able to keep pace and may in fact decline, oil officials and traders said at a three-day international seminar on energy that ended here Thursday.

The rapid growth in energy demand would not only come from Japan, but from the four newly industrialised countries (NIC) - South Korea, Taiwan, Hong Kong and Singapore - and the three aspiring "Asian Tigers" in Southeast Asia: Thailand, Malaysia and Indonesia, the experts said.

Asia's dependence on Gulf oil production, which fell to its lowest in 1985, has started to rise and could reach over 60 percent of consumption by the turn of the century, exposing the region to the volatility of the Middle East political situation, the officials and traders said.

"The latest development in the Middle East has convinced many in the region that it may be in the best interest of the region to reduce this dependency," Indonesian Mines and Energy Ginanjar Kartasasmita said.

Mr. Ginanjar told the seminar on the Asia-Pacific energy outlook that the answer could come from the vast non-oil resources available in the region, citing coal and natural gas as the two alternatives with the best potential.

He also suggested cooperation among countries in the region on energy matters, particularly on conservation and on exploiting indigenous resources.

A recent study by the Hawaii-based East-West Center showed that about 60 percent of the increase in oil demand between 1990 and 1995 would be absorbed by Asia-Pacific.

"In other words, Asian demand will support rising world oil prices," Fereidun Fesharaki, a member of the centre, told the seminar.

STOCKHOLM (OCT. 18) - The Bank of Sweden Riksbanken on Thursday increased its discount rate by three points to 17 percent, taking the increase since Friday to five points.

Riksbanken director Bengt Dennis said that "there is great uncertainty on the currency markets" and that he had decided to increase rates to attract foreign currency.

On Friday the bank increased the rate from 12 percent to 14 percent to "brake" the flight of currency abroad.

MUENSTER, GERMANY (OCT. 18) - The grave of the Egyptian pharaoh Tutankhamen was not originally intended for his burial, a scientist of Muenster university said Thursday.

Egyptologist Marianne Eaton-Krauss made her discovery when she studied inscriptions on the king's sarcophagus in the Valley of the Kings.

On discovering traces of earlier inscriptions that had seemingly been removed to make space for the ones referring to Tutankhamen, she concluded that the sarcophagus had originally been intended for his predecessor and half-brother Semenkhare.

The scientist reckons that Tutankhamen's death at the age of 18 came so unexpectedly that there was not enough time to prepare a royal burial in keeping with tradition.

Instead, it was decided to lay Tutankhamen to rest in a readily available sarcophagus, unused because it had not been finished in time for the burial of Semenkhare. Only the inscriptions needed to be altered in a hurry - but not meticulously enough, it seems.

It was not clear if the grant was part of an 810 billion yen (6.5 billion dollar) aid program to China.

BANGKOK (OCT. 18) - Police flew the body of a student activist to his family home in southern Thailand only hours after he died here Thursday to avert possible unrest, police officials said.

The student, 20-year-old Thanawut Klingchua, died in Bangkok's police hospital where he had been rushed Sunday after immolating himself during a rally organized to press demands for the resignation of Prime Minister Chatichai's government.

Police officials had earlier said they had reports that other radical students from Mr. Thanawut's Ramkhamhaeng University, on the outskirts of Bangkok, intended to display his body to stir up further unrest against the government which has been shaken over the past few months by infighting among ministers.

To avoid trouble, the officials said, the remains of the business administration major were flown in a police aircraft to his family home in Nakhon Si Thammarat province, 770 kilometers (460 miles) south of here.

As this happened, students held what police officials described as a "small rally" at Ramkhamhaeng University, which has been since early this month a hotbed of unrest with repeated demonstrations calling for Mr. Chatichai's resignation and the introduction of "true democracy" in Thailand.

No violence was reported during Thursday's demonstration.

The student protest movement reached a climax with demonstrations Sunday, first at the university and later at Government House, which houses the prime minister's offices.

It was during the demonstration at the university that Mr. Thanawut doused himself with petrol and set himself ablaze.

Shortly after Mr. Thanawut's self-immolation, police broke up another demonstration at Government House during which another student had also threatened to burn himself to death.

The protestors were calling for the resignation of Mr. Chatichai and his seven-party coalition government after months of infighting between members of the cabinet, which has also been tarnished with allegations of corruption and negligence.

Mr. Chatichai said on Monday before departing for a visit to Britain and Switzerland that he did not anticipate trouble for his slightly more than two-year-old administration following the student unrest.

He has repeatedly said that he would neither dissolve Parliament nor resign from his post as leader of Thailand's first democratically elected government in 12 years.

But six Ramkhamhaeng University students, who had been forcibly taken to the Police Hospital on Sunday for psychiatric examination after the demonstration at Government House, have pledged to continue their protests until "genuine democracy" was achieved.

According to police, the student group has been instigated by a shadowy organization identified as the Revolutionary Council.

The Revolutionary Council, headed by Prasert Supsunthorn, former leader of the outlawed Communist Party of Thailand's pro-Beijing wing, made its first appearance on the Thai political scene in 1987.

It wants to turn Thailand into a one-party socialist state.

The powerful Students Federation of Thailand's secretary general Saowanee Jitruen, earlier this week condemned Mr. Thanawut's suicide, describing it as "pathetic".

She also called for prompt police action against those behind the demonstrations.

BANGKOK (OCT. 18) - A Burmese pro-democracy student group has denied involvement in the Burmese embassy bombing here Wednesday.

The attack prompted a senior Burmese diplomat to urge the Thai government to expel all Burmese dissidents.

The All Burma Students' Democratic Front (ABSDF), based here, said Thursday that the bombing had nothing to do with it.

"The ABSDF respects international laws and the existing law of Thailand, and it is against any kind of terrorist acts," said a spokesman.

The bomb was thrown into the embassy grounds early on Wednesday morning, causing light damage and no injuries. It was the second bomb attack this year on the embassy.

Following the incident, the embassy's First Secretary Tin Htoon called on Thailand to get rid of all Burmese illegal immigrants here, some of whom belong to pro-democracy groups.

The ABSDF claimed the Burmese military government could have been behind the bombing as part of a plot to stop support for dissident groups.

Thousands of Burmese students fled to Thailand after the September 1988 coup in Burma for fear of persecution.

Some have taken refuge in areas along the border which were controlled by minority insurgents fighting Rangoon government forces, but others have come to Bangkok where they have staged a number of demonstrations outside the embassy.

KABUL (OCT. 18) - Afghan guerrillas kept up heavy attacks on security posts in a strategic provincial capital Thursday, forcing the air force to rush reinforcements to defend the city, officials said here.

Troops backed by helicopter gunships and jet fighters were resisting the mujahedeen guerrilla advance in Kalat, the capital of the southeastern province of Zabul bordering Pakistan, a foreign ministry spokesman said.

He said air force helicopters Thursday completed ferrying troop reinforcements arms, ammunition and food to the besieged garrison in Balahissar fort on a mountain peak in Kalat.

"The armed opposition is firing heavy and medium machine guns at security posts around Kalat, but our brave soldiers are resisting," the foreign ministry spokesman said, adding that the fighting continued throughout Thursday.

He did not disclose the strength of the reinforcements or the number of aircraft involved in the operations. It was also not known if any helicopter had been attacked by the guerrillas known to possess anti-aircraft missiles.

Diplomatic sources here said helicopters were operating out of a sprawling U.S.-built airbase in Kanadahar city, about one hour's journey to the battle zone in Kalat.

Residents here in the capital saw intensified helicopter activity. Dozens of Soviet-built MI-8 transport helicopters escorted by MI-35 attack helicopters were seen flying over the city, but it was not immediately clear if they were involved in the operations.

"It is likely that the government sent some aircraft from here, but they would first head for Kandahar and operate under the local command," a military expert here said.

He said aircraft being hit by mujahedeen guerrillas could not be ruled out. The government had to resort to a massive supply by air because convoys sent by road had been ambushed.

The mujahedeen guerrillas had claimed in Pakistan that they attacked and captured three tanks and seven trucks loaded with weapons and food on their way to Kalat from Kandahar, about 140 kilometres (88 miles) by road.

The foreign ministry spokesman could neither confirm nor deny the guerrilla claim.

Afghanistan's main highway linking at least eight provinces in the west and southwestern part of the country runs throughy Kalat and a fall of the city into mujahedeenh hands could cut off the main supply line to those provinces.

"The government cannot afford to lose Kalat. They will have to defend it at any cost. Otherwise they will have a bigger problem keeping the entire southern region supplied," a diplomat here said.

The foreign ministry spokesman said the troops had inflicted heavy losses on the rebels, but could not give figures

In four days of fighting up to Wednesday, the government had claimed killing at least 120 guerrillas and seriously wounding over 100. The government has not mentioned any of its losses while the guerrillas admit losing only eight men.

The guerrilla onslaught on Kalat, 370 kilometres (230 miles) from Kabul, came after their October 3 success in capturing Tarin Kot, the capital of neighbouring Oruzgan province.

Tarin Kot, which is regarded here as a small town with little strategic importance, fell when the governor there defected to the mujahedeen after three weeks of secret negotiations.

The Kabul regime has blamed the current upsurge of guerrilla activity on the Pakistan military intelligence.

Foreign Minister Abdul Wakil has complained against Pakistan to the United Nations security council and asked for its intervention to stop Pakistan's alleged interference in Afghanistan's internal affairs.

JERUSALEM (OCT. 18) - Underground Palestinian leaders Thursday urged Arabs in east Jerusalem to refuse gas masks unless residents of the occupied territories also received them free of charge.

Israel started earlier this month to distribute gas masks and launched the operation Wednesday in Arab east Jerusalem ahead of supplying the occupied territories, as part of moves to prepare for a possible Iraqi chemical attack.

The safety kits are to be given free of charge except in the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip, where residents have to pay 40 shekels (20 dollars).

"According to the 4th Geneva Convention, Israel owes protection to all residents of the occupied territories," said the Unified Leadership of the almost three-year-old Palestinian uprising in the territories.

Israeli authorities have said residents of annexed east Jerusalem would receive the masks without charge because they paid taxes like Israeli citizens.

The underground leadership also urged residents of the territories to begin compiling "proof and information" of Israel's repressive measures against Palestinians ahead of the possible arrival of a U.N. fact-finding mission.

The United Nations Security Council last week urged Secretary General Javier Perez de Cuellar to dispatch a team to the territories to investigate the killings of 21 Palestinians in east Jerusalem on October 8.

Israel has refused to meet the mission.

JOHANNESBURG (OCT. 18) - The world's largest gold mine, Freegold, returned a substantial increase in profit of 80.2 million rands (31.7 million dollars) in the third quarter from a massive second quarter profit loss of nearly six million dollars, the Anglo American Corporation (AAC) said Thursday.

The increase was largely the result of a 16.7percent rise in revenue from gold sales to 967.8 million rands (382.52 million dollars) which arose from higher gold production and a slightly higher randgold price, AAC Director Lionel Hewitt told a media conference here on Thursday.

Gold production increased by 12.5percent to 29,616 kilogrammes and the rand gold price increased by 3.9percent per to 32,717 rands (12,931 dollars) per kilogram, for the quarter ended September 30 1990.

Working costs were up by 6.6percent in the third quarter to 828.6 million rands (327.5 million dollars) from 777.1 million rands (296.3 million dollars) in the second quarter.

Unit costs decreased by 5.3percent to 27,976 rands (11,057 dollars) per kilogram. This reflected only an 11percent increase over the same period in 1989, the AAC said in a statement.

OSLO (OCT. 18) - Norske Skog, Norway's biggest wood-processing company, on Thursday reported a 731-million-crown (124-million-dollar) profit for the first eight months of 1990, down from 799 million crowns for the same period last year.

Norske Skog director Arnfinn Hofstad said paper production for newspapers is the backbone of the company, accounting for most of the profit. Norske Skog is building a paper plant in France to be operational by the end of 1991.

By far Norway's biggest company in the wood-processing industry, Norske Skog employs 6,600 people. Turnover for the eight months was 6.6 billion crowns (1.1 billion dollars).

Presenting the figures, Hofstad said prospects for paper production are promising and that demand would increase more than production capacity over the next few years.

BUCHAREST (OCT. 18) - Prime Minister Petre Roman announced "exceptional emergency measures" Thursday to deal with what he called the "disastrous" state of the economy.

The measures include devaluation and convertibility of the currency, privatisation and removal of price controls, he said in a speech to senators, deputies and ministers.

Mr. Roman asked members of parliament to give the government "increased powers" to apply the reforms, and said that the six coming winter months would amount to "an hour of truth".

The leu would be devalued against the dollar on November 1 and prices would be liberalised "in the short term", he said. Conditions would be appropriate to make lei convertible from January 1.

But the government planned to maintain the prices of energy, fuel and rents at current levels until 1992, the prime minister said.

The state would bear the cost of the difference between the price and cost, which he estimated at 25 billion lei (about 714 million dollars).

He also announced a "slight increase" in the price of basic foodstuffs, but said that the new levels would be maintained for a year.

During this period each Romanian would receive from the state "a fixed, non-taxable compensation". Pay and pensions would be indexed on the rise in prices.

Mr. Roman stressed that there had been a fall off in productivity and said that the government would take legislative steps to motivate workers.

It was planned to remove controls from pay "with a minimum level depending on function, sector and profession".

In Romania unemployment was disguised but there were "officially" 120,000 people unemployed. In 1991 300,000 people with higher education would be unemployed, he said.

To cope with this, the government planned to re-orientate the workforce towards agriculture, contruction and re-training.

LONDON (OCT. 18) - Foreign oprations of Kuwait Petroleum Company (KPC) continue to operate as normally as possible desipte the invasion of Kuwait by Iraq, Kuwaiti Oil Minister Ahida Al-Ameeri said here on Thursday.

He told the annual Oil and Money conference that the KPC was supplying 450,000 barrels per day of oil products refined in European refineries, and obtained from Saudi Arabia and from other Gulf countries.

At the time of the invasion, Kuwait the equivalent of three months' supplies of crude oil in stock or aboard tankers which had allowed time to re-organise supplies, he said.

The minister said that KPC had re-established contact with all of its customers. Most of the Kuwaiti oil fleet of 60 tankers, with the exception of two tankers, was outside Kuwait at the time of the attack.

The day after the invasion, on the evening of August 3, the London bureau of the KPC had re-established radio contact with all of these vessels.

The fleet was now carrying most of the oil coming from the Gulf and destined for KPC installations.

Regarding the freezing of Kuwaiti assets abroad, he said that "we are still working to un-freeze the last few small accounts and obtain the final licences needed".

Once Kuwait had re-gained its sovereignty "we may face widespread damage and destruction to our Kuwaiti facilities", he said.

"We intend fully to restore all of our crude production refining facilities and crude exporting facilities to at least the level of efficiency and capacity that had been achieved prior to the invasion."

Questioned about excess Kuwaiti output before the invasion, he said that Kuwait had done its best to respect its quota and that "if over-production was a good excuse for invasion, then Iraq would have had to invade 10 more (OPEC) member countries".

Recalling that Kuwait had always favoured a policy of moderate prices and output, the minister said that "the Organisation of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) was an essential mechanism for the attainment of a consensus with other countries."

WASHINGTON (OCT 18) - China has offered to sell Pakistan a nuclear reactor, despite Islamabad's refusal to open its nuclear programme to international safeguards, officials said Thursday.

Dr. Hans Blix, Director General of the International Atomic Energy Agency (Iaea), said Pakistan had been seeking nuclear technology from a number of sources, but only China had offered to provide it.

Countries that do not sign the Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty (Npt), he said are restricted from purchasing nuclear technology that could contribute to the development of nuclear weapons.

The Iaea's U.S. envoy said Washington was aware of China's offer but was unaware of any transaction coming out of the offer.

He said the United States had told Pakistan that it would provide it with a U.S. nuclear reactor if it would agree to sign the Npt, which would require regular Iaea inspections of its facilities.

Islamabad apparently refused. The country has said for years that it would not sign the Npt until neighboring India, which exploded a nuclear device in 1974, signs it as well.

Kennedy declined to say how Washington reacted to the news of the Chinese offer, except to say it has consistently urged all nations to try and halt the spread of nuclear arms to the Third World.

WINDHOEK (OCT. 18) - The Japanese government has provided over 3 million rand (1.14 million dollars) to alleviate food shortages in Namibia, the South African news agency SAPA said Thursday.

The money, according to SAPA, will be used to buy maize from Zimbabwe.

This first bilateral agreement between the two countries was signed here Thursday by Japan's charge d'affaires, Yukio Rokujo, and the director-general of Namibia's National Planning Commission, Zed Ngavirue.

Mr. Tokujo said Namibia's independence six months ago had stimulated in the international community "a growing hope for and belief in the future of the whole southern African region".

"The government and the people of Japan share this optimism," he said.

Namibia will "become an integral and positive factor in the new era of peace and understanding, economic progress and social development that is dawning for the region," Mr. Rokujo said.

CAIRO (OCT 18) - Kuwait Airways took to the skies again Thursday with its first regular flight since the Iraqi invasion of the emirate, the company said at its provisional headquarters in the Egyptian capital.

A Boeing 727 in the company's blue-and-white colours took off with 35 passengers on board bound for Jeddah in Saudi Arabia, from where it was to fly on to Bahrain and finally Dubai in the United Arab Emirates.

Another Kuwaiti plane was to leave Cairo later Friday for Bahrain.

Iraq seized 15 of the company's 23 aircraft in the August 2 invasion and has since incorporated them into its own national carrier, Iraqi Airways.

Company officials have said Kuwait Airways aims to restore its network of regular flights gradually and is seeking 692 million dollars from insurers for the loss of the bulk of its fleet.

WASHINGTON (OCT 18) - North Korea is refusing to open its nuclear facilities to International Atomic Energy Agency (Iaea) safeguards because of a dispute with the United States, senior officials disclosed Thursday.

The agency's chief official, Dr. Hans Blix, said Pyongyang had been unable to reach a consensus over Iaea safeguards because of ''technical'' disagreements with Washington.

Blix said the North Korean government, which signed the Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty in 1985, has insisted that it be provided with ''guarantees'' that it could not become the target of a U.S. nuclear attack.

South Korea, a close U.S. ally which has hosted thousands of American troops since the close of the Korean War, has one of the largest nuclear power programmes in the developing world.

Ambassador Richard Kennedy, the State Department's special adviser on nuclear affairs, said Washington has made it clear to Pyongyang that it will neither confirm nor deny the presence of U.S. nuclear weapons in South Korea.

Last April, Pentagon official Henry Rowen told reporters that Washington had reason to believe North Korea was working on a facility to enrich plutonium in preparation for the production of nuclear arms.

He said the development was troubling as it could fuel a nuclear arms race on the Korean peninsula.

According to official U.S. sources, North Korea has had a nuclear reactor since 1984 in Yongbyong, north of the capital of Pyongyong, but has so far refused to allow Iaea inspections there.

NEW YORK (OCT. 18) - A united Nations expert said Thursday that Jordan needs the help of other nations to survive economically the Gulf crisis, ignited by the August 2 Iraqi invasion of Kuwait.

Jean Ripert, who was in Jordan to assess the situation there, said the Hashemite kingdom was suffering the most from the U.N.-imposed blockade of Iraq.

The government in Amman was doing everything possible to abide by U.N. embargo and other nations must see that Jordan receives financial aid, he added. Promises were made but nothing has reached Jordan yet.

Ripert said the country would lose one billion dollars by the end of this year because of the Gulf crisis and four billion dollars in 1991. As an example, the U.N. expert pointed out to the tourism sector which had almost come to a standstill since August 2.

MOSCOW (OCT 18) - The compromise economic reform worked out by Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev was approved by the committees of the Supreme Soviet on Thursday.

Then plan, which maps out the country's transformation from a state-run to a market economy, is thus virtually assured of adoption by the Soviet parliament on Friday despite massive criticism by radical reformers.

Abel Aganbegyan, Gorbachev's economic advisor, defended the programme, saying it would allow the country's constituent republics individual paths toward a market economy.

The four-stage plan, called ''Main Guidelines for the Stabilisation of the National Economy and for the Transition to a Market Economy, is a compromise between a radical ''500-day'' programme authored by economist Stanislav Shatalin and a more moderate plan backed by Soviet Prime Minister Nikolai Ryzhkov.

Boris Yelzin, president of the Russian Republic, has rejected the programme. Russia has already approved the more radical plan.

BAGDAD (OCT 18) - Iraq decided Thursday to impose restrictions on access to medicines because of the international trade embargo imposed after the invasion of Kuwait.

The health ministry said 15 "vital" medicines would now be available only at state-run hospitals and pharmacies on presentation of a card certified by medical authorities.

The ministry said the medicines would no longer be available at private pharmacies, but he did not name the products in question.

Health Minister Abdessalem Mohammad Saeed, in a recent interview with U.S. television, said he held the United States responsible for what he called the shortage of medicine in Iraq.

Iraq started in early September to ration nine basic foodstuffs.

PRETORIA (OCT 18) - South Africa's white supremacist Conservative Party (CP), which can partake fully in democracy, was now "grabbing the weapons of anarchy", President Frederik de Klerk said here Thursday.

Opening the Transvaal congress of the ruling National Party (NP), where a small group of rightwingers were escorted out by police, Mr. De Klerk described the radicalising of "certain elements" in white politics as a problem that needed immediate attention.

"It is almost tragic that while the ANC is busy to slowly move away from radicalism the CP and other rightwing splinter groups are becoming more radical," he said.

"Boycotts, civil disobedience, disruption and even violence at meetings" was until recently been the political weapons of radical black organisations and movements, Mr. De Klerk said, but "now we find the leader of the CP is becoming a planner of such actions".

"I want to say that the complicity of the CP leadership in the planning of unlawful strategies is absolutely unacceptable."

Support from the CP, the official opposition, for boycotts, civil disobedience and disruption of order at public meetings, "militates against all the values which all reasonable people would like to preserve in the new South Africa," Mr. De Klerk said.

While accusing CP supporters of creating bitterness, he commended the white liberal Democratic Party for standing down in a forthcoming by-election in the Randburg constituency near Johannesburg, and making an "important contribution towards future discussions on the subject of closer co-operation". He said that in little more than a year "great strides" had been taken towards the NP's goal of a new and just South Africa.

"All reasonable observers are now convinced of our party's sincerity and dedication of the irreversibility of our commitment... and the irreversibility of a process towards fundamental change," he said.

"We stand on the threshold of real negotiations. Support for reconciliation through negotiation is growing by the day and the violent ones are standing naked before the eyes of the public and the international community."

There was still, however, "much too much war talk" from certain extra-parliamentary movements, he said, and a still unacceptably high level of violence, intimidation, boycotts and unnecessary demonstrations which "bedevil the atmosphere for peaceful negotiations".

CHICAGO (OCT. 18) UPI - Wheat futures were higher but prices on the rest of the floor were mostly lower at the close Thursday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

China was in the market for another 450,000 tons of wheat after buying 300,000 tons late Wednesday. Commercials and professionals were featured buyers of wheat, although the volume was relatively light.

Corn and soybean prices were at or near session lows at the final bell, pressured by profit-taking and liquidation. The early rally in corn and soybeans was based on weather-related harvest delays, but the market turned lower as buying interest faded.

A storm system that moved across the Midwest interrupted the corn and soybean harvest, but farmers were expected to resume the corn harvest by Friday or at least the weekend.

Forecasters predicted warmer weather during the weekend with the chance of more rain Saturday night and Sunday.

In addition to the export sales to China, the Soviet Union bought 350,000 tons of corn and Taiwan bought small amounts of corn and soybeans.

At the close, corn was off 3/4 to 1 3/4, soybeans down 1 to 4 1/4, wheat unchanged to up 1 1/2 and oats unchanged to off 1/4.

NEW DELHI (OCT. 18) XINHUA - INDIA EXPECTS TO REACH A NEW HIGH IN EXPORTING RAW COTTON DURING THE CURRENT YEAR, WITH EARNINGS FROM THE EXPORT PROJECTED TO NET ABOUT 10 BILLION RUPEES (588 MILLION U.S. DOLLARS) AS AGAINST 7 BILLION RUPEES (411 MILLION U.S. DOLLARS) EARNED LAST YEAR.

THIS IS POSSIBLE BECAUSE OF THE BETTER COTTON CROP. ACCORDING TO SOURCES FROM THE NORTHERN INDIA COTTON GROWERS' ASSOCIATION, THE TOTAL PRODUCTION OF COTTON

THIS YEAR IS LIKELY TO BE BETWEEN 15 AND 15.3 MILLION BALES. THE DOMESTIC REQUIREMENT IS NOT GOING TO BE HIGHER THAN 11.2 MILLION BALES.

IN FACT, THE THREE STATES OF PUNJAB, HARYANA AND RAJASTHAN ALONE ARE IN A POSITION TO CONTRIBUTE 5.5 MILLION BALES TO THE NATIONAL POOL FOR DOMESTIC USE AND EXPORT. AMONG THEM PUNJAB IS LIKELY TO PRODUCE AROUND 2.8 MILLION BALES.

NEARLY 96 PERCENT OF THE TOTAL COTTON PRODUCED BY PUNJAB AND HARYANA COVERED BY THE WORLD BANK-AIDED INTENSIVE COTTON DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM IS LONG AND MEDIUM STAPLE, POPULARLY KNOWN AS AMERICAN COTTON. THIS COTTON IS LIKELY TO FIND BETTER ACCEPTABILITY ON THE INTERNATIONAL MARKET, ESPECIALLY IN EAST EUROPE.

MOREOVER, THE INDIAN GOVERNMENT'S DECISION TO START EXPORT OF COTTON FROM OCTOBER HAS GONE DOWN WITH THE FARMERS. THE DECISION REGARDING COTTON EXPORTS USED TO BE TAKEN TOWARDS THE CLOSE OF THE PICKING SEASON. BY THEN, ALMOST THE ENTIRE COTTON WOULD BE PURCHASED FROM THE FARMERS AND STOCKED BY THE TRADERS FOR RESALE AT HIGHER RATES.

THE NEW DECISION OF ORDERING THE EXPORT OF COTTON IN THE BEGINNING OF THE PICKING SEASON SO THAT THE BENEFIT OF HIGHER PRICES GOES DIRECTLY TO THE GROWERS WILL ENSURE THE PRICES OF COTTON MORE COMPETITIVE IN THE WORLD MARKET.

Also on a positive note, Mr. Canelo says "bond yields are coming down" which implies that investors will be less likely to move money out of stocks and into bonds. (NYT, 10/18)

FROM THE BEARS:

"Stocks are still in a bear market," says JOSEPH GRANVILLE, editor of "The Granville Market Letter." "I don't expect a tradeable bottom until the Dow gets to 2100." Granville says this is "a serious bear market, and we are about halfway through it." ("Investor's Daily", 10/18)

ROBERT RITTER, technical analyst at LADENBURG THALMANN, says the stock market isn't likely to mount a strong advance without lower interest rates. "The market needs the Fed and the Fed simply can't come in here." Noting that the stock market virtually ignored the plunge of more than $2 in the price of a barrel of oil, Mr. Ritter warns against entertaining false hopes of a recovery soon. "Things seem to be getting more complicated." (WSJ, 10/18)

With the transports and industrials falling, "the Dow theory is currently in a sell mode," according to ROBERT STOVALL of STOVALL/TWENTY-FIRST ADVISERS. (CNN "Moneyline", 10/17)

STOCK MARKET:

"There is a fire sale going on in the U.S. equity market," says GLENN CUTLER at "Market Mania." Despite the most negative atmosphere since 1973-74, stocks remain in a massive liquidation which should take the Dow down to at least 2250, according to Cutler. "All indications are that we must be nearing the end." But Cutler says stocks will still require a lengthy base building process. (CNBC "World Business", 10/17)

"We're seeing extreme volatility because of a lack of depth to the stock market," says BARRY SCHRAGER, a money manager with WHETHER PARTNERS in Eaton, N.J. "The rallies we've seen recently are more the result of sellers stepping back. It's not buyers going in." (WSJ, 10/18)

"I think people still want to see a resolution on the budget. They still need to see some kind of long term stability in terms of the price and availability of oil," says RONALD HILL of BROWN BROTHERS HARRIMAN. "Until you have that, people will have these little rallies, but it remains a difficult environment for extending stock market gains." (CNBC "Market Wrap-Up", 10/17)

RICKY HARRINGTON, investment policy director at MARION BASS SECURITIES in Charlotte, N.C. says the rally attempt in stocks "wasn't any different from any other since July 16 and 17 when we hit the top." "It's in the handful of blue chip stocks that a handful of institutions continue to buy. The broad market continues to remain under pressure." (WSJ, 10/18)

"What we had was a rally in a handful of Dow stocks," says HILDEGARD ZAGORSKI of PRUDENTIAL-BACHE SECURITIES INC. Despite a decline in oil prices, "the market was unable to make any headway because of the budget problem, weakness in financial stocks and some poor earnings." ("Investor's Daily", 10/18)

"The market took some notice [of lower oil prices], but not as much as you might expect," says BRIAN FABBRI of MIDLAND MONTAGU. If no budget agreement is reached and PRESIDENT BUSH shuts down the government, "it will probably boost yields and reduce stock prices again, and indeed, drop the value of the dollar." (FNN "Marketwrap", 10/17)

"All you see and hear is bickering at the top, and the media talking about lack of leadership," says TRUDE LATIMER, market strategist at JESUP JOSEPHTHAL. Ms. Latimer says she has seen improvement in investor psychology that could turn into buying if the market starts moving higher. "Any good news might be greeted very enthusiastically." (WSJ, 10/18)

STOCK TIPS:

WARREN SHAW, managing director in charge of $5.2 billion in stock investments at CHANCELLOR CAPITAL MANAGEMENT INC., says that investors should look for companies that are less dependent on the financial system as a source of credit and capital. He suggests investors examine stocks such as GENERAL MILLS, PROCTER & GAMBLE, RALSTON PURINA, COCA-COLA, PEPSICO, PHILIP MORRIS and UST. (WSJ, 10/18)

Surges in overseas sales boosted earnings at PHILIP MORRIS and COCA- COLA. "This is not a curve. This is a straight line going up and we're right at the bottom," says KIDDER PEABODY's ROY BURRY about overseas demand for U.S. consumer products. Burry also says consumer products companies are in a good position to weather tough economic times. "These are economically sensitive items -- a bottle of catsup, cigarettes, a soft drink -- people do not give these things up because they're concerned about economic conditions," says Burry. (FNN "World Market Update". 10/18)

JOSEPH McALINDEN, director of research at DILLON, READ & CO., is predicting a "reflation rally" in the stock market as the Federal Reserve pumps up money growth to get the economy growing again. He recommends that investors take a look at shares of some cyclical companies whose fortunes rise and fall with the economy, such as AMAX, an aluminum and gold producer; FLUOR, a heavy construction concern; and MOTOROLA, a diversified technology company. (WSJ, 10/18)

"Airline stocks, in general, have gotten killed," says PAUL KAROS of FIRST BOSTON. "It's been not only oil, but a softening in earnings." (CNN "Moneyline", 10/17)

"Most stocks have been hit very, very hard and it's going to take a long, long time to repair that damage," says technical analyst WALTER MURPHY of MERRILL LYNCH. "So I think what [investors should] start to look at is either stocks that deal with yields, such as utilities, or stocks that have good relative strength ... or go into the shorter to intermediate-term bond situation. ERIE, PA (OCT. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - Zurn Industries Inc. (NYSE: ZRN), a leading designer and manufacturer of waste-to-energy and water control products and systems, today announced second quarter net income of $6,413,000 ($.51 per share) compared to $7,098,000 ($.57 per share) last year while sales for the quarter rose to $174,647,000 from $164,139,000.

As the company had previously indicated, a strike in the waste-to-energy business impacted the quarter's results (approximately $.08 per share). Also, consistent with the company's practice of recognizing costs, but not revenues, until contested construction contract change orders have been accepted by its customers, $.15 per share was expensed in the quarter for incurred and anticipated amounts to address disputed performance and fuel specification issues at a waste-to-energy plant.

For the first six months, net income was $13,138,000 ($1.05 per share) compared to $13,110,000 ($1.06 per share) a year ago. Sales increased 17 percent to $344,955,000 from $294,766,000 for last year's first half.

Orders backlog on Sept. 30 stood at $444,000,000, up 10 percent from one year ago.

OGDEN, UTAH (OCT. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - Thiokol Corp. (NYSE: TKC) today reported a 29 percent increase in net income for the first quarter ended Sept. 30. Net income totaled $11.5 million compared to $8.9 million for the like period last year. Earnings per share for the quarter were 60 cents versus 46 cents for the prior year.

Net sales for the three month period were $292.5 million, a 9 percent increase over $267.8 million last year.

"Thiokol's strong first quarter results were paced by a greater level of activity on the Space Shuttle program and better performance on our major Strategic program's," commented U. Edwin Garrison, president and chief executive officer.

"We continue to be confident about the future and expect positive earnings growth for the fiscal year 1991," Garrison said.

Space sales of $143 million increased 25 percent for the quarter while operating income of $12 million reflects a 62 percent rise over last year. The increases resulted primarily from continuing growth in Space Shuttle activity at higher profit margins. These increases offset lower Castor IV motor deliveries and profits for the quarter.

Strategic sales increased 25 percent to $62 million while operating income was up 53 percent to $5.8 million. Peacekeeper sales and profits increased while higher incentive fees and better cost performance increased profitability on the Trident program.

Tactical sales of $40.1 million declined 23 percent and operating income fell 34 percent to $4.2 million. Standard Missile sales and profits declined substantially due to decreased motor deliveries at lower unit prices. This was partially offset by higher sales and profits on HARM and several smaller tactical programs.

Ordnance sales declined 9 percent to $47.4 million and operating income decreased 37 percent to $1.3 million for the quarer. Lower operating levels at the government-owned, contractor-operated ammunition plants and a reduced mix of higher margin third-party shipments accounted for the decreased sales and income.

Thiokol manufactures and markets high technology solid propulsion systems, ordnance and composite products for space and defense.

CONCORD, CALIF. (OCT. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - Fibreboard Corp. (AMEX: FBD) today reported a net loss of $522,000, or 13 cents per share, for the quarter ended Sept. 30, 1990, on sales of $62.3 million. This compares with earnings of $3.2 million, or 82 cents per share, on sales of $57.9 million in the third quarter of 1989. The third quarter of 1989 included several unusual items, the net effect of which was to increase after tax income by approximately $3.5 million or 91 cents per share. Comparing the third quarter of 1990 to the same period in 1989, a decline in wood products operating income contrasted a sharp improvement in insulation products performance.

Fibreboard Chairman and President Lawrence C. Hart said, "The disappointing results of the wood products group, while showing a marked improvement from the second quarter, directly reflect the continuing residential housing recession. During the second and third quarters, prices of our lumber and millwork products have declined 20-30 percent. Some prices have stabilized over the last few weeks, while others have continued to fall. We cannot predict when wood products markets will show higher demand and resultant price increases."

The first nine months of 1990 resulted in a loss from continuing operations of $329,000 or 8 cents per share, on sales of $191.5 million. This compares with earnings from continuing operations of $6.8 million or $1.74 per share, on sales of $170.1 million in the first nine months of 1989.

In asbestos related developments, juries in the second phase of a previously announced asbestos personal injury trial in Beaumont, Texas, have rendered compensatory damage verdicts in 148 cases which the court intends to treat as "representative" of approximately 2,400 cases in the consolidated action. Compensatory damage awards in the 148 cases approximate $123 million. Under Texas law, settlements by other defendants will substantially reduce Fibreboard's share of these awards. Final determination of pre-judgment interest and punitive damages has not been made and it remains to be seen how the court intends to extrapolate the results of the 148 cases to the remaining cases in the consolidated action. Further proceedings addressing these issues are expected to begin during the fourth quarter.

Fibreboard Corp., headquartered in Concord, manufactures lumber, hardwood plywood, molding and millwork, agricultural container components, composite structural lumber, precision molded industrial insulation and fireproofing materials. It also owns and operates Northstar-at-Tahoe, a ski resort and year-round vacation and conference center in California.

BOISE, IDAHO (OCT. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - West One Bancorp (NASDAQ-NMS: WEST) reported earnings of $12.1 million or 95 cents per share for third quarter 1990. This represents a 40 percent increase over third quarter 1989 earnings of $8.6 million or 68 cents per share. Net income for the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1990 was $31.3 million, a 24 percent increase over the $25.2 million reported for the first nine months of 1989. On a per share basis, net income for the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1990 was $2.46 compared to $1.99 a year ago.

"The continuing favorable economic conditions in our four-state market area have resulted in increased loan and deposit volumes and a higher net interest margin," said Dan Nelson, chairman and chief executive officer.

Total assets at Sept. 30, 1990, were $4.5 billion, a 10 percent increase over $4.1 billion one year ago. Loans grew 17 percent to $2.9 billion over the same period. Deposits increased 10 percent to $3.5 billion at Sept. 30, 1990. Shareholders' equity was $301 million at Sept. 30, 1990, an 11 percent increase over $270 million at Sept. 30, 1989.

Net interest income and margin (adjusted to a tax-equivalent basis) increased in third quarter 1990 compared to third quarter 1989 due to the volume and composition of earning assets. Net interest income increased $5.7 million or 15 percent to $44.7 million in third quarter 1990. Net interest margin increased to 4.50 percent, an increase of 32 basis points from 4.18 percent for the same quarter last year. Average earning assets increased $242.2 million or 7 percent during this period due to loan growth. Loans, the highest yielding component, represented 73 percent of earning assets in the current quarter compared to 66 percent in third quarter 1989.

The provision for credit losses was $2.3 million in third quarter 1990 compared to $2.1 million in third quarter 1989. Nonperforming assets at the end of third quarter 1990 decreased to $35 million, a 17 percent improvement from $42.1 million at Sept. 30, 1989.

Noninterest income increased $1.8 million or 13 percent from third quarter 1989 to 1990 due to service charges from account growth, incentive-based sales programs and pricing adjustments. Noninterest income for the first nine months of 1990 increased $6.1 million or 17 percent from the same period in 1989.

Noninterest expense increased $1.2 million or 3 percent from third quarter 1989 to third quarter 1990 due to higher deposit insurance assessments and expenses associated with a successful loan promotion. Noninterest expense for the first nine months of 1990 exceeded the prior year by $6.8 million or 6 percent.

SAN FRANCISCO (OCT. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - SFFed Corp. (NASDAQ: SFFD), holding company for San Francisco Federal Savings and Loan Association, today announced net income for the quarter ended Sept. 30, 1990, of $1.6 million, or 21 cents per share, compared with a net loss of $15.7 million, or $2.03 per share, for the comparable year-earlier quarter.

For the first nine months of 1990, net income totaled $10.9 million, or $1.41 per share, versus a net loss of $12.6 million, or $1.63 per share, for the year-earlier period.

The quarter's net interest income of $21 million was 21 percent higher than the $17.3 million in the 1989 third quarter. For the first nine months of 1990, net interest income was $63.1 million, an increase of 26 percent over the $50 million in the year-earlier period.

Roger L. Gordon, president and chief executive officer, said, "I am pleased with the continuing improvement in the quality of the company's earnings compared with the previous year, as reflected in higher net interest income and substantial improvement in the company's net interest margin." The company's net interest margin (spread) for the third quarter and first nine months of 1990 was 2.51 percent and 2.46 percent, respectively, compared with 1.79 percent and 1.51 percent for the year-earlier periods.

During the third quarter of 1990 the Association charged $3.1 million to operations for provisions for losses on loans, foreclosed properties and real estate compared with $0.5 million in the year-earlier period. "With the California real estate market sluggish, although performing better than the rest of the country, and in view of general economic conditions, we believe it prudent to increase the provisions for losses at this time," Gordon said. The Association's general loss reserves increased to $5.5 million (0.16 percent of total assets) at Sept. 30, 1990, from $3.8 million (0.11 percent) one year earlier.

At Sept. 30, 1990, stockholders' equity of $172.8 million ($22.33 per share) represented 5.01 percent of total assets, compared with $157.8 million ($20.43 per share) and 4.50 percent of total assets at Sept. 30, 1989. The Association exceeds all current regulatory capital requirements.

SFFed Corp., with total assets of $3.4 billion at Sept. 30, 1990, is the holding company for San Francisco Federal Savings and Loan Association, which operates 44 branch offices and 13 loan centers throughout Northern and Central California.

For the first nine months of 1990, net income totaled $10.9 million, or $1.41 per share, versus a net loss of $12.6 million, or $1.63 per share, for the year-earlier period.

LOS ANGELES (OCT. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - CalFed Inc. (NYSE: CAL) today reported a net loss for the third quarter of 1990 of $92.3 million, or $3.65 per fully diluted share, compared to net earnings for the third quarter of 1989 of $22.2 million, or $.83 per fully diluted share.

The loss for the third quarter of 1990 is due to a $96.0 million addition to the company's allowance for losses on real estate held for investment in its real estate development subsidiaries and a $42.8 million loss on the previously announced sale of Beneficial Standard Life Insurance Co., CalFed's annuity and life insurance subsidiary. The increased reserve for losses on real estate held for investment reflects both a decline in value of the residential and commercial properties owned by CalFed's real estate development subsidiaries and management's decision to accelerate the sale of those assets in order to conclude CalFed's real estate development activities more rapidly.

The company reported a net loss of $126.4 million, or $5.01 per fully diluted share, for the first nine months of 1990, compared to net earnings of $58.8 million, or $2.23 per fully diluted share, for the same period in 1989.

"While we do not minimize the impact of the company's third quarter loss, it is important to note that the losses resulted from businesses from which CalFed is withdrawing as part of the restructuring we began in mid-1989," said Jerry St. Dennis, chairman and chief executive officer of CalFed Inc. "CalFed's continuing operations have performed well throughout 1990, demonstrating significantly improved cost efficiencies and consistent core profitability."

The company also announced that its board of directors reduced the quarterly dividend to $.03 per share from the $.35 per share paid on Sept. 14, 1990. The dividend will be paid on Dec. 14, 1990, to stockholders of record at the close of business on Nov. 15, 1990.

"The board's decision to reduce the dividend reflects the increased importance of retaining capital during this period of economic uncertainty and in light of new and potentially more stringent regulatory requirements ahead," said St. Dennis. "California Federal Bank meets the current federal capital requirements, but the dividend reduction will enable the company to accumulate additional capital more quickly, providing greater flexibility to address overall capital needs for various corporate purposes."

CalFed also announced that it intends to repurchase from time to time some of its 6 1/2 percent convertible subordinated debentures due 2001 on the open market and in privately negotiated transactions. The debentures were issued in Europe in February 1986 and are convertible into CalFed Inc. common stock at $35.25.

CalFed Inc. is a financial services holding company whose principal subsidiary California Federal Bank, FSB, operates more than 200 offices in California, Florida, Nevada, Georgia and Arizona.

MILPITAS, CALIF. (OCT. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - Komag Inc. (NASDAQ: KMAG),the leading independent supplier of sputtered thin-film metallic disks for data storage applications, today announced 1990 third quarter financial results.

For the third quarter ended Sept. 30, 1990, net sales totaled a record $40.4 million, a 66 percent increase over the $24.3 million for the comparable quarter of 1989. Net sales in the quarter just ended were 14 percent higher than the $35.5 million recorded in the second quarter of 1990.

Income before extraordinary credits for the third quarter of 1990 was $4.2 million, or 27 cents per share. In comparison, income before extraordinary credits in the third quarter of 1989 was $0.9 million, or 7 cents a share. The 1990 third quarter results include $0.6 million, or 4 cents a share, derived from Asahi Komag Co. Ltd., the company's Japanese joint venture. The current quarter's income before extraordinary credits was 48 percent higher than the $2.8 million, or 18 cents a share, reported in the second quarter of 1990.

"Improvements in manufacturing productivity, strong customer demand, stable pricing, and the recognition of profits from our Japanese joint venture contributed to Komag's strong third quarter performance," stated Stephen C. Johnson, Komag Inc.'s president. "The third quarter results reflect the ongoing efforts to improve the productivity of our manufacturing processes. During the quarter just ended, the company attained greater factory throughput due to more efficient use of its process equipment, especially the eighth sputtering line which became operational late in the second quarter. As a result, our gross margin expanded to 26.8 percent from 23.7 percent in the prior quarter," explained Johnson.

Komag Inc. develops, manufacturers and markets sputtered thin-film metallic disks for use in high-capacity, high-performance Winchester disk drives. Komag is the largest independent supplier of these disks to independent disk drive manufacturers and computer system manufacturers which build their own disk drives. Komag applies a recording layer only microinches thin onto a polished aluminum substrate using a sputtered or vacuum deposition technique similar to the way the semiconductor industry coats wafers with thin metallic films. Founded in 1983, the company maintains 360,000 square feet of manufacturing and administrative space in California. The company also manufactures and sells products through a joint venture, Asahi Komag Co. Ltd., which is among the top three media producers in Japan. Komag employs nearly 1,500 people. ENGLEWOOD, CO (OCT. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - Jones Intercable Inc., the general partner of Jones Intercable Investors L.P. (AMEX: JTV), a publicly-traded master limited partnership, today announced it is evaluating a number of potential courses of action regarding future distributions. The general partner is aware of concern about the level of future cash distributions and increased activity in Class A units of the partnership on the American Stock Exchange, following the issue of an analyst's report yesterday. Jones Intercable Inc. believes that the partnership will have sufficient sources of capital to meet its anticipated operating needs. Furthermore, the general partner believes that long-term investors can realize capital appreciation upon the ultimate sale of the partnership systems.

To address the current level of cash distributions, Jones Intercable is investigating a number of potential courses of action for the partnership, including: 1) raising additional equity, 2) reducing distributions, 3) selling one or both of the two cable television systems owned by the partnership which serve Alexandria, Va. and Independence, Mo. At this time, management is actively investigating these options, and no decision has been made. The decision awaits the outcome of the general partner's review of expected cash flow, potential capital expenditures in 1991, and the new, independent appraisal of the partnership. The new appraisal figure, which may affect the available levels of borrowing by the partnership, will be available with the third quarter results during the week of Nov. 19, 1990.

Jones Intercable Investors L.P., was formed for the purpose of acquiring, owning and operating cable television systems in the United States. One of the principle investment objectives of this limited partnership is to generate long-term capital appreciation through the operation and ultimate sale of the cable television systems. Upon sale of the systems, the economics of liquidation are: 1) payment of outstanding debt, 2) payment to Class A unitholders a preferred return of $1.60 per year, cumulative and non-compounded, less all prior distributions from cash flow, 3) payment to Class A unitholders $16.00 per unit, 4) distribution of the remaining proceeds, 60 percent to Class A unitholders and 40 percent to the general partner. Jones Intercable Inc. currently owns 20 percent of the units.

Jones Intercable is one of the largest cable television operators in the United States, serving over 1 million subscribers. It is also the world's largest cable television management company with cable operations in 20 states.

ATLANTA (OCT. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - Georgia Gulf Corp. (NYSE: GGC) today reported that third quarter revenues and operating income were comparable to the second quarter indicating a continued healthy demand for most of its chemical products.

On a 1990 to 1989 third quarter comparison, revenues were $232.7 million with earnings of $23.2 million vs. $251.2 million and $46.1 million for the prior period. Earnings per share for the same periods were $.69 and $1.85, respectively.

On a third quarter to second quarter comparison, revenues were up to $232.7 million from $218.7 million, operating income declined slightly to $59.9 million from $61.2 million and net income was $23.2 million compared to $15.7 million. For the net income comparison, the company noted that the second quarter was negatively impacted by the various items related to the recapitalization.

PRINCETON, NJ (OCT. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - UJB Financial Corp. (NYSE: UJB) today announced a quarterly loss of $19.8 million for the three months ended Sept. 30, 1990. The loss is attributable to a significant increase in the quarterly loan loss provision to $124.0 million, up from $40.0 million in the second quarter, and $11.0 million a year ago. For the first nine months of 1990, net income was $11.3 million.

For the third quarter of 1990, the net loss was $19.8 million or $.46 per share, compared with net income of $31.4 million, or $.69 per share, for the same period a year ago. Net income for the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1990, was $11.3 million, or $.22 per share, compared to $94.1 million, or $2.08 per share, the prior year.

At the end of the third quarter, non-performing assets amounted to $460.5 million or 5.30 percent of total loans and other real estate. This compares to $154.5 million or 1.91 percent a year ago, and $288.7 million or 3.34 percent at the end of the second quarter this year. The increase in non-performing loans during the quarter was $171.8 million, with $139.4 million real estate and real estate related, and $32.4 million in commercial loans.

The provision for loan losses for the quarter ended Sept. 30, 1990, was $124.0 million compared to $11.0 million for the third quarter of 1989. For the first nine months of 1990 the provision was $184.0 million, up from $32.6 million for the same period of 1989. At Sept. 30, 1990, the allowance for loan losses was $233.8 million, or 2.71 percent of total loans.

Total loans at Sept. 30, 1990, were $8.6 billion, up 6.8 percent from $8.1 billion the prior year. Total commercial loans at the end of the third quarter were $4.9 billion, up 8.2 percent over Sept. 30, 1989. Total deposits were $10.4 billion, up 14.8 percent at Sept. 30, 1990. Total assets increased 16.9 percent to $13.6 billion at the end of the third quarter, compared to $11.6 billion at the end of the third quarter of 1989. Current year assets and deposits include the acquisition of Horizon Financial, F.A., in May 1990.

Net interest income was $123.1 million for the quarter ending Sept. 30, 1990, up 6.6 percent over the $115.5 million for the same period last year. Net interest margin was 4.22 percent compared with 4.68 percent in the same quarter a year ago. Both net interest income and margin continue to be negatively impacted by the increase in non- performing assets and a more expensive deposit mix.

As was announced in September, UJB Financial's third quarter earnings includes nonrecurring pretax income of $50.0 million generated from the sale of its credit card portfolio. This sale was part of a long-range strategic plan to concentrate business efforts within the markets served by UJB Financial's banking offices.

UJB Financial Corp. has more than 270 offices in New Jersey and eastern Pennsylvania. The company now has nine member banks and 11 active non-bank subsidiaries providing financial services to individuals, businesses, not-for-profit organizations, government, and other financial institutions.

MEMPHIS (OCT. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - The Promus Companies Incorporated (NYSE: PRI) today reported record third quarter operating income before property transactions.

Record third quarter operating income at Harrah's Laughlin and the Holiday Casino/Holiday Inn in Las Vegas and a tripling of operating income to $7 million in the company's hotel division offset declines in Atlantic City. Operating income before property transactions rose to $67.2 million, 3.3 percent higher than the $65.0 million in 1989, despite no July 4th weekend this year.

Revenues for the quarter rose 6.0 percent to $278.0 million. Operating income after property transactions for the quarter was $66.8 million compared to $78.7 million for the same period last year. 1989 results included a $12.9 million gain from the sale of a wholly-owned Embassy Suites hotel.

The company adjusted its 1990 tax accrual to reflect a greater proportion of its earnings being generated in states with higher income tax rates. The cumulative impact of the increase is approximately 6 cents per share during the quarter. Net income for the quarter was $15.7 million, or 61 cents per share. Revenues from the company's gaming business rose 1.5 percent to $241.4 million, with operating income of $60.8 million, essentially even with last year's record amount.

All of the gaming properties were negatively affected by the important 4th of July holiday which fell in the middle of the week this year. In addition, results were lowered by a four weekend July in 1990 compared to five weekends during the month last year.

Corporate expense for the quarter declined 16 percent. Interest expense for the quarter was $32.3 million compared to $4.6 million last year. The increase is the result of borrowings to pay a $30 special dividend in February of this year. Interest expense in the prior year does not reflect any of Promus' current corporate-level borrowings. The 1989 results also do not include a provision for income taxes since Holiday Corporation (from which Promus was spun off on February 7, 1990) had no formal intercompany tax sharing policy or agreement. Therefore, there is no reported comparison of net income or earnings per share.

Promus is the parent company of these leading hospitality brands: Harrah's casino/hotels, and Embassy Suites, Hampton Inn and Homewood Suites hotels.

NEW YORK (OCT. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - AT&T (NYSE: T) today reported third-quarter profits of $712 million, or 65 cents per share, compared with the $699 million or 65 cents a share, reported in the same period a year ago. Revenues were $9.355 billion compared with $8.896 billion in the year-ago quarter. Net income and revenues were records.

For the nine months ending Sept. 30, net income was $2.037 billion, or $1.87 per share, on $27.272 billion in revenue. In the year-ago period, profits were $1.992 billion, or $1.85 per share, on revenues of $26.811 billion.

Operating income was $1.253 billion, a 10.9 percent increase, and rose 7.9 percent to $3.595 billion for the nine months.

Quarterly results reflected continued strength in AT&T's long distance business and higher product sales, particularly in international markets.

Earnings would have been higher, the company noted, if not for startup costs to meet the strong demand for the AT&T Universal Card, a combination credit and calling card, as well as higher income taxes resulting from reduced tax credits.

Overall service revenues (which include those from long distance, installation maintenance, and financial services) increased 3.0 percent this quarter to a record $5.724 billion.

The long distance portion of the service revenues grew 1.5 percent to $4.987 billion on calling volume growth of 7 percent for the quarter. For the nine months, long distance revenues increased to $14.707 billion.

Long distance volume growth for the quarter was led by business and international services, while residential services posted a modest increase. Revenues grew at a lower rate than calling volumes because customers are choosing new, lower-priced services made possible by AT&T's network modernization program and other cost reductions.

Product sales of $3.083 billion increased 12.7 percent over the year-ago quarter. For the nine months, product sales were $8.713 billion, a 3.8 percent increase. Rental revenues were down 8.7 percent to $548 million, a slower rate of decline than in previous periods.

Third quarter product gains were due to increased sales of network telecommunications products, computer systems, microelectronic components, consumer products and special design products for the federal government. International sales of computer systems and microelectronic components rose.

NEW YORK (OCT. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - BHC Communications, Inc. (AMEX: BHC) today reported third quarter net income of $32,586,000, or $1.12 per share. Last year's third quarter net income, which included a net gain of approximately $787 million on the sale of 63 percent of BHC's former interest in Warner Communications Inc., totaled $800,305,000, or $26.68 per share. Excluding the Warner gain from last year's results, this year's net income rose 141 percent from last year's $13,548,000, or $.45 per share, reflecting income earned on BHC's cash and marketable securities, as well as significantly increased television station earnings.

Interest and other income increased to $38,299,000 from last year's $18,310,000, reflecting interest earned on BHC cash and dividends recorded on Time Warner Inc. convertible preferred stock held by BHC. BHC's cash balances were substantially augmented in August 1989, upon the sale of 63 percent of its interest in Warner. In January 1990, BHC exchanged its remaining Warner shares, primarily for Time Warner convertible preferred stock, pursuant to the Time/Warner merger.

Net income for the first nine months of 1990 totaled $451,564,000, or $15.42 per share, compared to net income of $799,431,000, or $26.65 per share, in last year's corresponding period. Approximately $358 million of 1990 net income reflects BHC's gain, after income taxes and minority interest, on the exchange of BHC's remaining Warner interest, and approximately $787 million of 1989 income reflects a similar gain on BHC's August 1989, sale of Warner shares.

Excluding Warner gain amounts, nine month net income increased to $93,307,000, or $3.19 per share, from last year's $12,674,000, or $.42 per share. A 13 percent increase in operating revenues more than offset a 9 percent increase in programming expenses, increasing television station earnings by 51 percent. Accordingly, operating income rose to $18,764,000 from last year's $863,000, after the 1989 charge of $10,000,000 for a retroactive management fee payment. Interest and other income increased to $114,720,000 from last year's $19,207,000, reflecting larger average cash balances and dividends recorded on Time Warner convertible preferred stock.

BHC operates seven television stations, two wholly owned and five owned by its 50.8 percent owned subsidiary, United Television, Inc. With four stations in the nation's top 20 markets and all but two in the top 30, BHC's broadcast signals reach over 10 percent of the country's population.

Chris-Craft Industries, Inc. owns all of BHC's Class B common shares, which at Sept. 30, 1990, represented 62.4 percent of BHC's outstanding equity and 94.4 percent of BHC's voting power. BHC's Class A common shares, which represent the balance of BHC's outstanding equity and voting power, trade on the American Stock Exchange.

Last year's third quarter net income, which included a net gain of approximately $454 million on the sale of 63 percent of Chris-Craft's former interest in Warner Communications Inc., totaled $462,877,000, or $17.85 per share. Excluding the Warner gain from last year's results, this year's net income rose 109 percent from last year's $8,603,000, or $.33 per share, reflecting income earned on cash and marketable securities held by Chris-Craft's television broadcasting subsidiary, BHC Communications, Inc., as well as significantly increased television station earnings.

Herbert J. Siegel, Chris-Craft chairman and president, stated, "While demand for television advertising continued to vary significantly among our markets, the surprisingly strong revenue growth achieved during the first half of 1990 continued through the third quarter. The resulting 13 percent increase in television division operating revenues, coupled with flat programming costs, produced a 173 percent increase in the division's operating income, and raised consolidated third quarter operating income to $7,440,000 from last year's $2,332,000."

Interest and other income increased to $37,283,000 from $19,869,000 in last year's third quarter, reflecting interest earned on BHC cash and dividends recorded on Time Warner Inc. convertible preferred stock held by BHC. BHC's cash balances were substantially augmented in August 1989, upon the sale of 63 percent of its interest in Warner. In January 1990, BHC exchanged its remaining Warner shares, primarily for Time Warner convertible preferred stock pursuant to the Time/Warner merger.

Interest expense declined substantially from last year's third quarter, reflecting payment in 1989 of all but $19 million of long-term debt.

Net income for the first nine months of 1990 totaled $273,990,000, or $10.63 per share, compared to net income of $467,599,000, or $18.16 per share, in last year's corresponding period. Approximately $220 million of 1990 net income reflects Chris-Craft's gain, after income taxes and minority interest, on the exchange of BHC's remaining Warner interest, and approximately $454 million of 1989 net income reflects a similar gain on BHC's August 1989, sale of Warner shares.

Operating income nearly doubled, to $14,990,000 from last year's $7,500,000, primarily reflecting a 58 percent increase in television division operating income. Interest and other income increased to $116,234,000 from last year's $23,374,000, reflecting larger average cash balances and dividends recorded on Time Warner convertible preferred stock.

PORTLAND, ORE. (OCT. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - Oregon Steel Mills Inc. (NYSE: OS) reported net income of $7.1 million (44 cents per share on 16 million common shares) for the third quarter of 1990 on record sales and shipments of $89.7 million and 148,700 tons, respectively.

This compares to net income of $5 million (32 cents per share on 15.8 million common shares), on sales of $55.2 million from shipments of 90,900 tons in the third quarter of 1989.

Common shares outstanding and per-share amounts reflect the two for one stock split that was paid on Oct. 11.

Third-quarter operating income increased 55 percent to $11.7 million in 1990 from $7.6 million in 1989 as sales increased 62.6 percent to $89.7 million from $55.2 million on the 63.6 percent increase in tonnage shipped.

The operating profit margin for the third quarter of 1990 was 13.1 percent as compared to 13.7 percent in the third quarter of 1989 and 16.3 percent in the second quarter of 1990. Margins in the third quarter of 1990 were negatively impacted by lower price realizations in the company's steel plate business. This weakness was partially offset by record sales of steel plate and continued demand for the company's large diameter line pipe products.

For the first nine months of 1990, net income increased 42.6 percent to $22.2 million ($1.39 per share on 16 million common shares) from $15.6 million (99 cents per share on 15.7 million common shares) for the similar period in 1989. Sales for the nine month period increased 40.1 percent to $242.8 million from $173.2 million in 1989 as shipments of the company's steel products increased to 394,700 tons from 299,900 tons. Net income, sales and shipments for the first nine months of 1990 were the highest in the company's history.

Increased shipments for the first nine months of 1990 were the result of the company's start up in December 1989 of the newly acquired Fontana plate mill. Prior to the Fontana plate mill start up, the company's steel plate finishing capacity was limited to the output from the company's Portland steel mill.

Oregon Steel Mills Inc. owns and operates a steel minimill in Portland, Ore., and a steel plate rolling mill in Fontana, Calif., which produce hot-rolled carbon, high-strength low alloy, heat treated and alloy steel plate, and a steel pipe mill in Napa, Calif., that produces large diameter oil and natural gas transmission line pipe.

ST. PAUL, MINN. (OCT. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - Ecolab Inc. (NYSE: ECL) announced record earnings of $0.91 per share for the third quarter ended Sept. 30, 1990, a 36 percent increase over earnings of $0.67 per share for the same period one year ago.

Earnings for the nine months ended Sept. 30 were $1.30 per share, a 59 percent increase over earnings of $0.82 per share last year. Ecolab's earnings for the first nine months of 1990 on a pro forma basis, excluding the preferred stock issuance and stock repurchase program, would have been $1.33 per share. The preferred stock issuance and stock repurchase program are expected to have a neutral effect on earnings per share for the full year.

Third quarter revenues increased 5 percent to $388 million from $370 million last year. For the nine-month period, revenues increased 7 percent to $1.03 billion from $965 million last year.

Ecolab Services Group revenues of $175 million for the quarter increased 12 percent from $156 million last year. For the nine-month period, revenues increased 11 percent to $499 million from $448 million last year. All divisions contributed to the strong quarter and year-to-date revenue growth. Third-quarter operating income of $30 million was up 24 percent from $24 million for the same period last year. Year-to-date operating income of $79 million also increased 24 percent from $64 million last year. The increases were due primarily to revenue growth, favorable changes in the product mix, improved profitability of the Pest Elimination and Textile Care businesses, and improved margins. Henkel's North American cleaning and sanitizing business, acquired in April this year, has been successfully integrated into the Group's Klenzade operations and is exceeding expectations.

ChemLawn third-quarter revenues were $129 million compared with $139 million in 1989. ChemLawn's higher 1989 third-quarter revenues resulted in part from a larger residential customer base and the impact of bringing production back on schedule after significant delays that spring. For the nine-month period, revenues were $288 million compared with $295 million last year. The lower revenues reflected a reduced residential customer base, offset partially by commercial account growth. Third-quarter operating income of $13 million was approximately $1 million less than third quarter 1989 operating income. ChemLawn's operating loss for the nine-month period of $(7) million is an improvement over 1989's $(10) million operating loss. ChemLawn's improved performance in 1990 is due to cost reductions, increased productivity and strong commercial sales growth, partially offset by the reduced residential customer base.

Ecolab is a leading worldwide developer and marketer of premium cleaning, sanitizing and maintenance services for the hospitality, institutional and residential markets. For the year ended Dec. 31, 1989, Ecolab reported sales of $1.3 billion and earnings of $34.2 million, after preferred dividends, or $1.25 per share, excluding a one-time charge of $(31.5) million, or $(1.15) per share. Ecolab shares are traded on the New York Stock Exchange and the Pacific Stock Exchange under the symbol ECL.

MINNEAPOLIS (OCT. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - Network Systems Corporation (NASDAQ: NSCO) today announced unaudited results for the three months ended Sept. 30, 1990. Revenues for the period were $40,034,000, up 18 percent from revenues of $33,856,000 for the 1989 third quarter. Net income for the period was $5,322,000, or $.18 per share, up 21 percent from $4,392,000, or $.15 per share, earned in the comparable 1989 period.

Revenues for the nine months were $116,172,000, up 17 percent from $99,019,000 for the equivalent 1989 period. Net income for the period was $14,561,000, or $.49 per share, a 51 percent increase over the $9,669,000, or $.33 per share, earned for the 1989 nine-month period.

Product sales for the third quarter were $28.2 million, up 18 percent from $23.8 million last year, and included approximately $17 million of HYPERchannel-DX units. Product gross margin was 67 percent, compared with 66 percent last year. Service revenues for the quarter, principally maintenance contracts on installed equipment, were $11.8 million, an 18 percent increase over $10.0 million for the 1989 quarter. The gross margin on service revenues increased about one percentage point to 28 percent.

Lyle D. Altman, president and chairman, said that international sales of products and services accounted for 53 percent of the quarter's revenues. Significant revenue gains over last year's quarter were achieved in Europe, Canada, and Japan, excluding a revenue increase realized from the translation of strong foreign currencies into U.S. dollars. U.S. business, however, was lower than year-ago levels.

Commenting further, Altman said that quarter's results included revenue of approximately $272,000 from a development contract that resulted from a competitive selection by Carnegie Mellon University for the development of high-performance networks. This work is expected to continue for about two years and is part of Nectar, a project partially funded by the Defense Advanced Research Projects Agency (DARPA). This federal agency has engaged Carnegie Mellon to research parallel computing, network-based multicomputers and very large scale operating systems.

DETROIT (OCT. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - FirstFed Michigan Corporation (NASDAQ-NMS: FFOM), the holding company of First Federal of Michigan, today reported net earnings of $10.3 million for the quarter ended Sept. 30, 1990, double its $5.1 million in earnings for the comparable period last year. On a per share basis, net earnings this quarter were $.93 ($.87 fully diluted), versus $.46 ($.44 fully diluted) in 1989.

Net earnings for the year to date totaled $22.5 million, up 51 percent from $14.9 million for the first nine months of 1989. Net earnings per share were $2.02 ($1.91 fully diluted) for the first three quarters of 1990, compared with $1.34 ($1.29 fully diluted) for the corresponding period a year ago.

Year-to-date net earnings brought FirstFed's stockholders' equity to a new high of $455.1 million, up from $437.4 million at the end of 1989. Book value per share increased $1.41 in the period to $40.95.

"We continue to feel very positive about our operating performance so far this year," FirstFed Chairman C. Gene Harling said. "Our third- quarter earnings were the best we've achieved since mid-1988. The continued improvement in net yield and tight control of operating costs have resulted in increased core earnings."

He also stated that First Federal of Michigan, the company's thrift subsidiary meets the regulatory capital requirements in effect at Sept. 30, with a tangible ratio of 3.19 percent, a leverage ratio of 3.72 percent, and a risk-based ratio of 10.83 percent.

Net yield on FirstFed's interest-earning assets increased to 1.12 percent at Sept. 30, 1990, from .75 percent at the end of 1989. Interest-earning assets exceeded interest-bearing liabilities by $516 million at Sept. 30, up from $438 million at Dec. 31, 1989.

Net interest income for the third quarter of 1990 was $26.2 million, up 174 percent over the same period in 1989. General and administrative expenses were $22.6 million, giving the company a coverage ratio of 116 percent. FirstFed's third-quarter expenses, annualized, were only .80 percent of average assets for the third quarter.

FirstFed recognized $6.0 million on standby mortgage-backed security commitments in the third quarter of 1990 and $15.4 million in the year to date versus $3.0 million and $9.0 million in 1989. Other operating income for the current quarter included a $2.9 million final installment from the sale of mortgage servicing rights earlier this year. Gains on the sale of assets for the third quarter of 1990 declined to $1.9 million from $13.6 million for the year-ago period.

Extraordinary items in this year's third quarter consisted of an after-tax charge of $260,000 from the early retirement of debt. In the comparable 1989 quarter, FirstFed had an extraordinary charge of $934,000 from redemption of its subordinated capital note issue.

Nonperforming assets at the end of the third quarter were only $30.6 million, or .27 percent of total assets. The loan loss reserve was $23.2 million, primarily in general reserves.

The company originated mortgage loans totaling $158 million during the third quarter of 1990, compared with $191 million in the same period last year. FirstFed's portfolio of loans and mortgage-backed securities totaled $8.3 billion at Sept. 30, versus $9.0 billion at the end of 1989. The overall portfolio remains primarily single-family residential, with 90 percent in one-to-four family lending. Commercial real estate represents $635 million, or 8 percent of the portfolio. Other loans, primarily on mobile homes, are 2 percent of the portfolio.

FirstFed Michigan Corporation will pay a third-quarter dividend of $.15 per share on Nov. 15 to common stockholders of record on Oct. 10. It has paid consecutive quarterly dividends since the first quarter of 1986.

HARTFORD, CT (OCT. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - Northeast Federal Corp. (NYSE: NSB), the holding company for Northeast Savings, F.A., today reported net income of $2.7 million for the second fiscal quarter ended Sept. 30, 1990, resulting in primary and fully diluted net income of ten cents per common share after preferred stock dividend requirements.

This is the first time since the quarter ended June 30, 1988 that Northeast has generated net income per common share. The significantly improved second quarter results compare with net income of $311,000 or a primary and fully diluted net loss per common share of 32 cents after preferred stock dividend requirements reported for the same quarter last year by Northeast Savings.

At the same time, Northeast announced that with risk-based capital at 7.76 percent of risk weighted assets at Sept. 30, 1990, it is in compliance not only with the current risk-based capital requirement of 6.4 percent, but also with the more stringent risk-based capital ratio of 7.2 percent required effective Dec. 31, 1990.

In addition, at Sept. 30, 1990 Northeast is also in compliance with all other capital requirements, with tangible capital of 1.77 percent and core capital at 3.27 percent compared with regulatory requirements of 1.50 percent and 3.00 percent, respectively.

George P. Rutland, Chairman, stated, "In the fall of 1988, shortly after I joined Northeast as its Chief Executive Officer, we implemented a strategy designed to return Northeast to the basic strengths of a traditional thrift, namely retail deposit gathering and residential mortgage lending.

"This strategy is now paying off for us, resulting in the compliance in July with current capital requirements mandated by the Financial Institutions Reform, Recovery, and Enforcement Act of 1989 (FIRREA), the early compliance with the Dec. 31, 1990 risk-based capital standard established by the Office of Thrift Supervision (OTS), and finally in our generating net income per common share this quarter for the first time in over two years."

Total assets at Sept. 30, 1990 were $5.0 billion, unchanged from March 31, 1990 and down from $6.3 billion at Sept. 30, 1989. Current asset size is consistent with the company's plan to comply with the thrift capital requirements mandated by FIRREA, and was primarily achieved through reductions in the company's portfolios of high-yield corporate bonds, mortgage-backed securities, and consumer loans.

Northeast's divestiture of high yield corporate bonds has resulted in a decrease in this portfolio from $77.7 million at Sept. 30, 1989 to $4.8 million at Sept. 30, 1990.

ROCKAWAY, NJ (OCT. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - Two internationally prominent companies - Kvaerner A/S Group and Asea Brown Boveri (ABB) - have agreed to participate in the financing and managing of the Mt. Hope Waterpower Project.

Kvaerner, through its Stamford, Connecticut-based Kvaerner Hydro Power Inc., and ABB, through its Delaware subsidiary, ABB Rockaway Inc., bring to the development of the planned pumped storage hydroelectric facility what Mt. Hope Hydro Inc. (MHHI) Chairman Paul Rodzianko termed "an additional infusion of financing and world-class Scandinavian know-how."

The companies have entered into an agreement with MHHI, the license applicant's subsidiary that manages the project on behalf of the Halecrest Company of Edison, N.J. Halecrest has applied to the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC) for a license to build and operate the project. The Mt. Hope Waterpower Project will have the capacity to supply 2,000 megawatts of electric power to meet peak demand for the Northeast.

MHHI has been named the project's general partner under the terms of the new agreement. In return for a commitment to finance project activities, Kvaerner and ABB have become limited partners, along with others, including Hydropower Development HPD KB of Sweden.

In connection with the agreement, Frank S. Fisher has been elected president and project manager of MHHI. He previously served as managing director of Boving Newton Chambers Limited, one of Kvaerner's British companies, which manufactures large hydraulic valves and water control gates for hydroelectric and other applications.

"Kvaerner and ABB are delighted to be participating in this project," said Fisher. "It presents an opportunity to develop a world- class hydroelectric facility in a part of the United States that has a tremendous need for additional peak power." He also stated that the project will increase the efficiency of already-existing resources, while reducing American dependence on foreign oil.

Kvaerner A/S Group is one of Norway's largest engineering and manufacturing concerns, with about 16,000 employees worldwide and annual sales of approximately $2 billion in 1989. Its subsidiary, Kvaerner Hydro Power, is one of the world's leading water turbine suppliers with more than 80,000 megawatts of installed capacity in operation.

Its U.S. affiliate, Kvaerner Hydro Power, Inc., provides engineering, supplies project management, and other services for the U.S. market from its West Coast facility in San Francisco, California.

BOCA RATON, FL (OCT. 18) PR NEWSWIRE - Computer Products, Inc. (NASDAQ-NMS: CPRD) an electronics manufacturer based in Boca Raton, Fla., today reported third quarter net income of $1.5 million, or seven cents per share, on sales of $26.1 million. For the same period in 1989, the company reported $1.9 million, or nine cents per share, on sales of $29.7 million.

For the nine-month period ending Sept. 28, 1990 the company reported net income of $4.4 million, or 22 cents per share, on sales of $83.1 million, compared to net income of $4.9 million, or 24 cents per share, on sales of $91.2 million reported during the same period last year.

Despite a fall-off in revenues, the company reported third quarter gross margins of 38.2 percent, identical to the second quarter of 1990 and only one-half percentage point lower than the figure reported during the third quarter of 1989.

Expenses declined by $1 million compared to the same period last year, but increased slightly as a percentage of sales, primarily the result of continued product and sales development programs.

Orders during the third quarter decreased to $17.8 million due both to seasonal factors and further softening in the company's power supply business. As a result, the company expects a fourth quarter revenue decline but also expects to remain profitable. Based on scheduled backlog, first quarter 1991 revenues are expected to show improvement over fourth quarter 1990 revenues.

The company reported an increase in cash and short-term investments to $36.7 million. Inventories and receivables also improved, compared to the previous quarter and the third quarter of 1989. Overall, the balance sheet continues to improve, with current ratio now at 3.8.

"We are combating the economic downturn in our industries through adjustments in our workforce and other effective cost-control measures aimed at sustaining profitability.

"At the same time, we are committing resources to research and development and sales development programs that will improve our competitiveness and long-term revenue growth," said John N. Lemasters, chairman, president, and chief executive officer of Computer Products, Inc. "We believe we are gaining market share in most of our product lines, despite a decline in revenues," he added.

Lemasters also said Computer Products' excellent cash structure puts the company in a position to expand its R & D programs and look for acquisitions or other alliances that will improve the value of the company. "Our organizational structure, management team and cash position are now stronger than ever. We believe these strengths will become apparent as economic conditions improve," he said.
